The Good News According to

MATTHEW*Chapter 1The Genealogy of Jesus*

and Isaac begot Jacob,
and Jacob begot Judah and his brothers, <sup>3</sup>and Judah begot Perez and Zerah, by Tamar,
and Perez begot Hezron,
and Hezron begot Ram,

NOTE about the manuscripts and other witnesses cited in this footnote apparatus: people have criticized this and other TC apparatuses for "cherry-picking" which manuscripts they cite. There is some truth to that, so to remedy that situation, I have decided to use only one criterion and it is an objective one, and that is, I now cite ALL witnesses 8th century and earlier, (ones I have access to) and I cite NO witnesses later than the 8th century. That is fair, and indisputable. This saves space, and document size and download time as well. There certainly are enough witnesses to Matthew before the 9th century such that we can get an accurate picture of the text. A table of these witnesses may be found after the gospel.

Asa. Is it not written in the annals of the kings of Israel and Judah? This variant is not a big deal, since Asaph appears to be just a variant spelling of Asa; probably as a result of passing through different languages. The New Testament has many examples of this phenomenon. A Hebrew word cannot end in a vowel, so I suspect that the glottal stop consonant which ends the Hebrew name was substituted with some other consonant in other languages. In Hebrew, the name Asa begins and ends with the letter א (Aleph), which is a consonant, a glottal stop. Other languages, (including Greek) which do not have a letter for the glottal stop, substituted other consonants for it. The confusion of terminal glottal stops with other unvoiced consonants happens often in English as well, since English has no letter for the glottal stop. (Though in transliteration schemes, the single straight apostrophe is used to represent the glottal stop.) In very ancient Greek, the letter φ was pronounced like our letter p, it was not an "f." In English today, words ending in p often sound like they end in a glottal stop. That is, we do not aspirate the p as we would if the p was in the middle of a word, but simply shut off the exhaled air by closing our lips.

the one called the Christ.

The Birth of Jesus

<sup>18</sup>This is how the birth<sup>8</sup> of Jesus Christ came about. His mother Mary was pledged to be married to Joseph, but before they consummated, she was found to be pregnant, from the Holy Spirit. <sup>19</sup>But her husband Joseph, being a righteous man, did not want to make an example of her, and planned to divorce her secretly.

<sup>20</sup>But while he was mulling these things over, an angel of the Lord appeared to him by means of a dream, and said, "Joseph son of David, do not be afraid to take Mary home as your wife, for what is conceived in her is by the Holy Spirit. <sup>21</sup>She will give birth to a son, and you are to call his name Jesus, because he will save his people from their sins."<sup>9</sup>

<sup>22</sup>All this took place in order that what was said by the Lord through the prophet would be fulfilled, which says: <sup>23</sup>"Behold, the virgin shall be pregnant, and shall bear a son, and they shall call his name Immanuel,"<sup>10</sup> which when translated is, "God with us."

But the original wording can be properly understood as meaning born of Mary.

<sup>7</sup> 1:17 Matthew skips after Josiah, Jehoiakim and Jehoiachin (2 Kings 23:34 - 24:6). And his last set of generations are only 13, not 14. So this arrangement must be a teaching or memorization aid. Another interesting thing is that fourteen plus fourteen plus fourteen equals six groups of seven generations, 42 in all (6 sevens). In Hebrew, in the Old Testament, a group of seven of something is called a week of something. There were six weeks of generations prior to the Messiah, and the Messiah ushered in the seventh week, the Sabbath week of generations. The Messiah brought in another rest from creation. As God took six days to create the First Adam, and then he ceased, so God also took six weeks of generations to create the Second Adam, and then he ceased.

Chapter 2

The Visit of the Magi

<sup>3</sup>Upon hearing this, King Herod was disturbed, and all Jerusalem with him. <sup>4</sup>And having assembled all the chief priests and Torah scholars of the people, he inquired of them as to where the Messiah was to be born.

of Judah, are by no means least among the rulers of Judah;
for out of you will come a ruler who will be the shepherd of my people Israel.<sup>15</sup>"

<sup>7</sup>Then Herod called the Magi secretly and ascertained from them what time the star had appeared. <sup>8</sup>And he sent them to Bethlehem and said, "Go and search diligently for the child. And when you have found him, bring word back to me, so I may come and worship him also."

"firstborn son" still does not make it clear that she had not already had a daughter. It is much easier to explain why the words "her firstborn son" might have been added, than to explain why they might have been deleted. The story, regardless, still makes clear that Jesus was her firstborn, and that Mary was a virgin prior to the time of Jesus being born.

<sup>14</sup> 2:2 Or in the rising. Also in verse 9. The same Greek word, is used for both "east" and "rising," since because of the direction of the rotation of the earth, heavenly bodies "rise" in the east. The word star does not necessarily mean a far off sun. It could have meant any heavenly body or sign. This star or sign was something only the trained astrologers saw, and not the king of Israel or the general public. In near-eastern astrology of that era, a conjunction was very significant, and the constellation Aries represented Herod's kingdom in palestine. Furthermore, signs involving the planet Jupiter (Zeus) represented royalty and kings. So if there was a sign or conjunction involving Jupiter, the Magi would take note. Jupiter was in retrograde motion in April of the year 6 B.C. Thus, that star would "stand still." We know from the gospel of Luke that the shepherds were "keeping watch over their flocks by night." They only did that during birthing time, to protect the ewes and newborn lambs. In other words, they did that during Spring time. Furthermore, Luke says in Luke 2:42 that Jesus turned 12 years old around Passover time. Astronomer Michael Molnar (<http://www.eclipse.net/~molnar/>) has found that there was a conjunction of Jupiter (while retrograde and "standing still") with the moon, in Aries, on April 17, 6 B.C. This would harmonize with Luke's spring timing, and also with the fact that both Matthew and Luke say Jesus was born during the reign of Herod, who died in 4 B.C. Thus I say it is practically certain that Jesus was born in spring time, and that April 17, 6 B.C. is the best theory put forth yet as to his exact day of birth. One thing we know for certain is that his birthday was not December 25th, or any time in the winter, when the sheep in Judea would be in pens, and not in the field in the cold.

<sup>9</sup>After they had heard the king, they went on their way, and lo, the star, the one they had seen in the east, kept moving on in front of them, until it arrived and stopped over where the child was. <sup>10</sup>When they saw the star, they rejoiced with a surpassingly great joy. <sup>11</sup>And upon coming to the house, they saw the child with his mother Mary, and they fell prostrate and worshipped him. Then they opened their treasures, and presented him with gifts of gold, and of incense and of myrrh. <sup>12</sup>And having been warned in a dream not to return to Herod, they went back to their country by another route.

The Escape to Egypt

<sup>13</sup>And when they had gone, behold, an angel of the Lord appears in a dream to Joseph, saying, "Get up, take the child and his mother, and flee into Egypt, and be there until I tell you, for Herod intends to search for the child to destroy him."

<sup>14</sup>So he got up, took the child and his mother during the night, and escaped into Egypt, <sup>15</sup>and was there until the death of Herod, in order that the thing spoken by the Lord through the prophet would be fulfilled, which says: "Out of Egypt I called my son."<sup>16</sup>

<sup>16</sup>When Herod realized that he had been fooled by the Magi, he was extremely enraged, and sent orders and did away with all the male children<sup>17</sup> in Bethlehem and all its environs who were two years old or under, in accordance with the time he had ascertained from the Magi. <sup>17</sup>Then what was said through the prophet Jeremiah was fulfilled, which says:

a weeping and loud wailing,
Rachel weeping for her children and refusing to be comforted, because they are no more."<sup>18</sup>

The Return to Nazareth

<sup>19</sup>And after Herod died, behold, an angel of the Lord appears by a dream to Joseph in Egypt, <sup>20</sup>saying, "Get up, take the child and his mother and go into the land of Israel, for those who were seeking the child's life are dead."

<sup>21</sup>So he got up, took the child and his mother and entered the land of Israel. <sup>22</sup>But when he heard that Archelaus was reigning in Judea in place of his father Herod, he was afraid to go there. And having been warned in a dream, he withdrew to the district of

John the Baptizer Prepares the Way

<sup>1</sup>In those days John the Baptizer appears, preaching in the desert, <sup>2</sup>saying, "Repent, for the kingdom of heaven has drawn near." <sup>3</sup>This is the one spoken of through Isaiah the prophet:

"A voice calling in the wilderness,
'Prepare the way for the Lord,
make the paths straight for him.'<sup>20</sup>

<sup>7</sup>But when he saw many of the Pharisees and Sadducees coming to the baptism, he said to them, "You spawn of snakes! Who warned you to flee from the coming wrath? <sup>8</sup>Then produce fruit characteristic of repentance. <sup>9</sup>And do not think you can say to yourselves, 'We have Abraham as our father.' For I tell you that out of these stones God can raise up children for Abraham. <sup>10</sup>And the ax is already set to the root of the trees. Every tree therefore not producing good fruit is cut down and thrown into the fire.

<sup>11</sup>"I baptize you in water for repentance, but after me will come one who is more powerful than I, whose sandals I am not worthy to remove. He will baptize you in the Holy Spirit and in fire:<sup>22</sup> <sup>12</sup>his winnowing fork is in his hand, and he will clear out his threshing floor, gathering the wheat into the barn, but the chaff he will burn up with fire unquenchable."

<sup>19</sup> 2:23 Greek: Ναζωραῖος - Nazōraios A Nazarene is someone from the town of Nazareth, just as a Houstonian is someone from the city of Houston. A Nazarene is not to be confused with a Nazirite, which is someone who took a time-limited vow not to cut his hair or to eat grapes or drink wine. We know Jesus was not a Nazirite, because he drank wine. But what Old Testament prophecies was Matthew referring to? See the endnote at the end of this document, which addresses this question at length.

The Baptism of Jesus

<sup>13</sup>At that time Jesus arrives at the Jordan, out of Galilee, to John, to be baptized by him. <sup>14</sup>But John tried to deter him, saying, "I need to be baptized by you, and you are coming to me?"

<sup>15</sup>In reply, Jesus said to him, "Permit it now; it is proper for us to complete all righteousness this way." Then John consented.

<sup>16</sup>As soon as he was baptized, Jesus came up out of the water, and behold, the heavens were opened, and he saw the Holy Spirit of God coming down like a dove, coming onto him. <sup>17</sup>And behold, a voice from the heavens, saying, "This is my Son, whom I love; with whom I am well pleased."

Chapter 4

The Temptation of Jesus

<sup>1</sup>Then Jesus was led up into the desert by the Spirit, to be tempted by the devil. <sup>2</sup>And he fasted forty days and forty nights, and afterward he was hungry. <sup>3</sup>The tempter came to him and said, "If you are the Son of God, command that these stones become loaves of bread."

<sup>4</sup>But he in answer said, "It is written, 'Man shall not live on bread alone, but on every word<sup>23</sup> coming out of the mouth of God.'<sup>24</sup>"

<sup>5</sup>Then the devil takes him into the holy city and had him stand on the gable of the temple, <sup>6</sup>and he says to him, "If you are the Son of God, throw yourself down. For it is written:

'He will command his angels concerning you;
and they will lift you up on their hands, so you will not strike your foot against a stone.'<sup>25</sup>"

<sup>7</sup>Jesus said to him, "It is also written: 'You shall not put Yahweh your God to a test.'<sup>26</sup>"

<sup>23</sup> 4:4a Upon every ῥήμα - hreema that proceeds from the mouth of God. In Hebraistic Greek, ῥήμα was used not only for words or statements, but when combined with the Greek word πᾶν "pan" it means "every matter" or "every thing." See for example how some translations rendered Deuteronomy 8:3 as "everything that comes from the mouth of God."

<sup>8</sup>Again, the devil led him to a very high mountain, and showed him all the kingdoms of the world and their splendor, <sup>9</sup>and said to Jesus, "These I will give to you, if you will fall down and worship me."

<sup>10</sup>Then Jesus said to him, "Go away, Satan!<sup>27</sup> For it is written: 'You shall worship Yahweh your God, and him only shall you serve.'<sup>28</sup>"

<sup>11</sup>Then the devil left him alone, and lo, angels had come and were attending him.

Jesus Begins to Preach

<sup>12</sup>And when he heard that John had been arrested, he went away to Galilee. <sup>13</sup>And forsaking Nazareth, he went and lived in Capernaum, beside the sea, in the territory of Zebulun and Naphtali, <sup>14</sup>so that the thing spoken through Isaiah the prophet might be fulfilled, which says:

the road by the sea,

on the other end of the Jordan,

<sup>16</sup>the people sitting in darkness have seen a great light;

and on those sitting in the land of the shadow of death<sup>29</sup>

a light has dawned."<sup>30</sup>

<sup>17</sup>From that time on Jesus began to preach and to say, "Repent, for the kingdom of heaven is near."

The Calling of Simon, Andrew, James, and John

<sup>18</sup>And walking beside the Sea of Galilee, he saw two brothers, Simon called Peter, and his brother Andrew, casting a net into the sea, for they were fishers.

<sup>19</sup>And he says to them, "Come you two, follow me, and I will make you fishers of people." <sup>20</sup>And they followed him immediately, leaving the nets.

<sup>27</sup> 4:10a The Textus Receptus has here after the word Ὑπαγε, "go away," the words ὀπίσω μου - "behind me." Those are the words Jesus said to Peter in Matthew 16:23 and Mark 8:33. The UBS editorial committee gives the reading here without the words "behind me" an A rating of certainty.

<sup>21</sup>And going on from there, he saw another set of two brothers, James the son of Zebedee and his brother John, in the boat with their father Zebedee, mending their nets, and he called them. <sup>22</sup>And they immediately followed him, leaving the boat and their father.

Jesus Heals the Sick

<sup>23</sup>And he went around through all of Galilee, teaching in their synagogues, and proclaiming the good news of the kingdom, and healing every disease and sickness among the people. <sup>24</sup>And news about him spread all over Syria, and they brought to him all who were ill with various diseases and severe pain, the demon-possessed, and epileptics and the paralyzed, and he healed them. <sup>25</sup>And many crowds followed him, from Galilee and the Ten Cities, and from Jerusalem and Judea, and beyond the Jordan.

Chapter 5

The Beatitudes

<sup>1</sup>And seeing the crowds, he went up to the mountainside. And when he sat down his disciples came to him, <sup>2</sup>and opening his mouth, he began to teach them, saying:

for they will be comforted.

for they will inherit the earth.

<sup>6</sup>Blessed are they who hunger and thirst for righteousness, for they will be satisfied.

for they will be shown mercy.

<sup>8</sup>Blessed are the pure in heart,
for they will see God.

<sup>9</sup>Blessed are the peacemakers, for they will be called offspring of God.<sup>32</sup>

<sup>31</sup> 5:3 The meaning of the expression poor in spirit is difficult to determine with certainty. Bauer says the sense is probably those who are poor in their inner life, not having a Pharisaic confidence in their own spiritual adequacy. But I think the meaning is that we should, even if we are materially rich, live as though we were poor. As the apostle Paul says also in I Cor. 7:30-31: "those who buy, should live as though they did not possess, and those who use this world, as though they did not make full use of it."

because of righteousness,
for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.

<sup>32</sup> 5:9 The Greek word here is υἱοὶ, "sons." The word children can sound like it emphasizes the immaturity of the subjects. I also considered the word "offspring," because that would convey part of what is emphasized here. What is emphasized by this passage is two-fold: the fact that offspring of a father bear resemblance in personality, values, and quality of the "faith of their fathers," and two, that these sons are heirs of their father, heirs of a future kingdom. The word "sons" is said to have been a legal term, and was gender inclusive. It included daughters. Today, the word "son" legally means, according to Black's Law Dictionary, 6th Ed., "Male offspring. An immediate male descendant. The word may be applied also to a distant male descendant. In a broad use, term may be employed as designating any young male person, as a pupil, a ward, an adopted male child or dependent." This current legal definition greatly limits the acceptability of this word. "Children" is defined as: Progeny, offspring of parentage. Unborn or recently born human being. At common law one who had not attained the age of fourteen years, though the meaning now varies in different statutes." This definition, which includes the idea of being offspring, and is gender-inclusive as well, makes the word "children" perhaps the best choice. This is also the word that Tyndale used, and the King James Version as well. Black's Law Dictionary, Copyright © 1990, West Publishing Co., St. Paul, Minnesota, All Rights Reserved.

<sup>33</sup> 5:18a The Greek says ἰῶτα (iōta), which is the spelling out of the name of the ninth letter of the Greek alphabet. It is the smallest letter of that alphabet, and even smaller when it is "subscript." When the iota is subscript, it is placed under another vowel and in even smaller size, and the difference it makes is the part of speech of the word, or the "case." But now, an objection may arise: "But the Law was given in Hebrew, not Greek." The spoken names of the Greek letters "iota" and the Hebrew letter "yodh" sounded more similar then than they do now. They even look similar in written form. And both are the smallest letters of their respective alphabets. Now there was a very important Greek translation of the Hebrew Old Testament, called the Septuagint, which was widely used by Jesus' time, whereas the Hebrew language was in danger of dying as a spoken language.

Adversaries

<sup>21</sup>"You have heard that it was said to the people of long ago, 'Do not murder,'<sup>35</sup> and anyone who murders will be subject to judgment.'<sup>36</sup> <sup>22</sup>But I tell you that anyone who is angry with his brother<sup>37</sup> will be subject to judgment. And anyone who says to his brother, 'Raca,'<sup>38</sup> is answerable to the council.<sup>39</sup> But anyone who says, 'You fool!' will be in danger of the fire of Gehenna.<sup>40</sup>

<sup>35</sup> 5:21a Exodus 20:13. This word φονεύω - phoneuw did not mean just murder, but homicide in general, including by carelessness or negligence, and manslaughter. See for example Deuteronomy 19:6; Joshua 21:13. And the word phoneuw did NOT include in its meaning the killing of non-human life. It was not used for the killing of animals. Perhaps this verse would be better rendered, "Do not murder a human."

<sup>36</sup> 5:21b This is because the judgment, a trial, was necessary for the purpose of deciding whether the homicide was justifiable or not. Not all homicide was punishable. The Law of Moses was full of discussion as to which killings of a human being were punishable, and which were not. In the same way, later in verse 22, if you are angry with your brother, you are subject to judgment. This is because not all anger is punishable; some anger is righteous. Note that Jesus does not forbid anger here. He says that if you are angry, you are subject to a trial. Quite a difference. The trial may find that your anger was justified. Paul said, "In your anger do not sin..." (Ephesians 4:26, Psalm 4:4)

Note, Papyrus 64 is also called Papyrus 67, and it definitely does not include "without a cause." This papyrus is one of the oldest New Testament papyri we have, dated between the years 60 to 200. Jerome states that in the majority of ancient manuscripts, 'without a cause' is not added. The fact that a majority of Greek mss in Jerome's time did not contain it, is far more significant than whether a majority of manuscripts today contain it. Opponents of the UBS Greek text object to this omission, because they say that it forbids all anger, even righteous anger. Not so; it only says that if you are angry, you are in danger of judgment. On the other hand, if the text reads "Do not be angry with your brother without a cause," that is so easy to get around. Practically everyone who is angry with his brother believes he has cause to be angry. The end result of adding "without a cause" is that there is no meaningful prohibition, no truly solemn warning here. Plus, it misses the whole point of the phrase "will be subject to judgment". The whole point of the judgment is to decide if there is a cause. It makes no sense to say that if you are angry with your brother without a cause, you will be tried, to see if there is a cause. Often the argument is made, that the UBS reading, the one without the phrase, "without a cause," makes Jesus look like a sinner, since he was angry sometimes. Then what do the people who argue this, do with the phrase later in this same verse, where the Majority Text says that someone who says "You fool," is in danger of the fire of Gehenna? For Jesus did say to someone "You fool" in the Majority Text, in Matthew 23:17. There is much more reason to be found for the word meaning "without a cause" to be added later, than for it to have been deleted later. I consider the text of the NA27 here to be certain.

<sup>39</sup> 5:22c The council of elders at the town gate was a common scene in the life of an ancient Israelite. By the time of Jesus, there were three sizes of council, or religious court, in Judea. A local religious court (Bet Din) was composed of three judges, at least one a Rabbi. This council would hear disputes and accusations and try cases like a court. For higher cases, however, such as involving offenses punishable by death, as in Deuteronomy 21:18-21 and 22:13-21, a court of twenty-three or more judges was required. Finally, the supreme Sanhedrin in Jerusalem was composed of seventy men, plus the High Priest who presided over it. The seventy was made up of three kinds of members: (1) high priests- the current high priest and former high priests; (2) the Elders: tribal and family representatives of the lay aristocracy; and (3) and the Scribes, the experts in the law from the Torah. The Sanhedrin's authority in civil matters was subject to the Romans' limits, but in Jewish religious matters, it had complete authority, including a body of police and guards under its command, by which to enforce its rulings. The Sanhedrin was abolished with the destruction of Jerusalem in A.D. 70. The scribes later codified its accumulated conclusions, however, in the form of the written Mishnah.

For it is expedient for you that one of your parts be destroyed and not your whole body go away into Gehenna.

<sup>40</sup> 5:29 Γέεννα From Gey-Hinnom, the name of a ravine south of Jerusalem, The Valley of the Son of Hinnom, which was the trash heap or landfill for the city. The garbage was perpetually on fire; the fire never went out. See II Chron. 28:3; II Kings 23:10; Jeremiah 7:31-32; Joshua 15:8, 18:16. According to Jewish popular belief, the Last Judgment was to take place there. Thus in the New Testament Gehenna means a place of perpetual fire, further described as a lake of burning sulfur, whose fire can never be put out, and in which a person never loses his being, but forever loses his well-being—that is, is forever separated from God and thus anything good. At the present time, anyone who dies while out of God's favor goes to Hades (see chapter 21:27-33), which is a temporary storage hell. But later, at the end of Christ's kingdom on earth, Hades and everyone in it will be thrown permanently into Gehenna (Revelation 20:5,10-15). This is called the Second Death. There is no remedy for the Second Death. Jesus mentions Gehenna eleven times (nine times in my harmony / Diatessaron). James uses the word once, in 3:6.

This word ἀποστάσιον - apostásion, "release of interest form," was used to signify the relinquishment of property. A quit-claim, if you will. In the culture of ancient Israel there was never any provision for a wife to quit her property claim in her husband, since the wife was considered property of her husband, and never the other way around. The apostle Paul in the New Testament, however, states in I Corinthians 7:4, "The wife has not authority over her own body, but rather the husband; and likewise also the husband has not authority over his own body, but rather the wife." This is a consequence of being "one flesh."

particular: μοιχεΐα - moicheía, and Jesus did not use it here. We know by the disciples' reaction in verse 26 that Jesus was saying something more narrow and strict than what they had heard before. Some say that perhaps Jesus was limiting divorce to that situation described in Deuteronomy 22:13-21, the situation Jesus' stepfather Joseph found himself in when he realized (or so it appeared to him) that Mary was not a virgin, but had "fornicated while still under her father's authority." Or, others suggest that Jesus didn't say this clause "if it is not on the basis of fornication" at all. This exception phrase is not found in Mark and Luke, or any of Paul's rules for the church (cf I Cor. 7:10,11); but only in Matthew, the last of the three gospels written (I now quote Bruce Metzger) "thus representing Jesus as siding with the view of Shammai. The addition of this 'excepting clause,' as it is called, reflects an attempt in the early church [of which Matthew was a part] to adjust the high ideal of Jesus' interpretation of the indissolubility of marriage to suit the exigencies of those whose hearts, like men's hearts in the days of Moses, were still hard! Such an adjustment of Jesus' teaching fell within the power to bind and loose given to the apostles (of which Matthew was one)— that is, power to adapt laws and make exceptions (Matt. 16:19 and 18:18; Diatess. 14:45, 22:36) Two reasons, among others, why the Matthean form of Jesus' saying on divorce must be regarded as a modification of this teaching are: (1) If it is original, then the report without the excepting clause in Mark and Luke represents an advance made by the early church upon the standards set by Jesus— and this is not likely to have happened; and (2) the excepting clause does not harmonize with the context in Matthew. If Jesus sided with the Shammaites, why should the disciples be amazed at the strictness of his teaching and exclaim, "If this is the situation...it is not advisable to marry" [Matt. 19:10]? And in the context of Matt. 5:32 Jesus is replacing the standard recognized by the Jews of his day with the perfect standard of God [Matt. 5:17-48; Diatess. 9:10-20]; but if the exceptive clause is retained, his teaching is no higher than Shammai's." ### Giving to the Needy

<sup>2</sup>"So when you do your charitable giving, do not sound a trumpet before you as the hypocrites do in the synagogues and in the lanes, so they may be esteemed by people. Because of the doubling of the t consonant, which is incorrect for Greek, we know this is a word imported or adapted in hybrid form from some other language(s), most likely Semitic. According to Fredrich Blass, it is a combination of a Semitic word, בִּטְלָה, Beth-Teth-Lamedh, for 'empty, inane, idle,' with λογεῖν appended. According to Delling, it is a remodeling of βατταρίζειν - 'stammer,' in connection with - λογεῖν. Also, it looks similar to the Latin bat(t)ulus = μωγιᾶλος, that is, speaking with difficulty or having an impediment in one's speech. And see also Corp. Gloss. Lat. II 32.17, garrulus- βαττολόλος - fond of talking endlessly, prattling, given to prosy, rambling, or tedious loquacity. In the only use of βαττολογεῖν in non-Christian literature, it had the idea of prattling foolishly. So I say that in the context here, it means speaking mindlessly with the goal of quantity of words in mind, rather than thoughtful or heartfelt speech. Therefore we should avoid possibly even short

<sup>60</sup> 6:24 A common Aramaic word for wealth and property, which meant literally, a fortress to rely on. The sin of serving Mammon involves thinking that there is security in wealth and property, and with that mentality to store up wealth for the future, as the Rich Fool did in Luke chapter 12. Jesus taught us not to worry even about food or clothes. He also said to pray: "Give us this day our DAILY bread." That means that to work so that you have more than enough stores for just one day at a time, that is serving mammon. The apostle Paul said that with food and clothes we should be content. Worldly wealth is very insecure, especially the theoretical kinds such as stocks, bonds, Federal Reserve Notes, negotiable instruments. And stored up food reserves are perishable and subject to vermin. But if we store up treasure in heaven, where there are no thieves, rust, or moths, or taxes, that is real security, real estate. There is a secure inheritance that is non-negotiable. If you do not think this is what Mammon means, then look at the context before and after: it is all against storing up more food and clothes than you need for one day. Your retirement is in heaven. You cannot serve both God and Financial Security.

Chapter 7

Correcting Others

<sup>1</sup>"Do not judge, so that you will not be judged. <sup>2</sup>For with what judgment you are judging, you will be judged, and with what measure you are measuring out, it will be measured to you.

Ask, Seek, Knock

<sup>7</sup>"Keep asking, and it will be given to you; keep seeking, and you will find; keep knocking, and it will be opened to you. <sup>8</sup>For everyone who keeps asking receives, and the one who keeps seeking finds, and to the one who keeps knocking, it will be opened.

<sup>9</sup>"Or is there a man among you whose child will ask him for a loaf, who will give him a rock? <sup>10</sup>Or again, if he asks for a fish, will give him a snake? <sup>11</sup>If you therefore,

<sup>61</sup> 6:27 Literally, one cubit. There was an expression in classical Greek, πῆχυον ἐπὶ χρόνον = "only one cubit of time." It is legitimate therefore to translate this as "a single hour to his life."

<sup>62</sup> 6:34 There is no verb in the Greek text of this last sentence. Therefore, we cannot declare with certainty whether this sentence is a command (imperative mood), or a statement (indicative mood). But from my experience, it is usually the simple copula that is omitted, that is, the word "is."

though you are evil, know how to give good gifts to your children, how much more will your Father in heaven give good things to those who ask him?

<sup>12</sup>"In all things, then, whatever you would want people to do to you, this you also should do to them, for this is the meaning of the Law and the Prophets.

False Prophets

<sup>13</sup>"Enter through the narrow gate. How wide the gate and broad the road that leads to destruction, and how many are the ones going through it!

The Wise and Foolish Builders

<sup>21</sup>"Not everyone saying to me, 'Lord, Lord,' will enter the kingdom of heaven, but only the one doing the will of my Father who is in heaven. <sup>22</sup>Many will say to me on that day, 'Lord, Lord, did we not prophesy in your name, and in your name drive out demons and in your name perform many miracles?' <sup>23</sup>And then I will declare to them on record: 'I have never known you. Away from me, you workers of lawlessness!'

<sup>24</sup>"Everyone therefore who hears these words of mine and practices them shall be likened to a prudent man who built his house on the bedrock. <sup>25</sup>And the rain came down, and the rivers came up, and the winds blew and beat against that house, and it did not fall, for it had been founded on the rock.

<sup>26</sup>"And everyone who hears these words of mine and does not practice them shall be likened to a foolish man who built his house on the sand. <sup>27</sup>And the rain came down and the rivers came up and the winds blew and beat against that house, and it fell, and great was its fall."

<sup>28</sup>And it came about that when Jesus had finished saying these things, the crowds were amazed at his teaching, <sup>29</sup>for he was teaching them as one who had authority, and not like their Torah scholars.

Chapter 8

A Man With Leprosy

<sup>1</sup>And when he came down from the mountainside, large crowds followed him. <sup>2</sup>And behold, a leper approached and worshipped him, saying, "Lord, if you are willing, you are able to cleanse me."

<sup>3</sup>And stretching out his hand, he touched him, saying, "I am willing. Be cleansed." And immediately his leprosy<sup>63</sup> was cleansed. <sup>4</sup>And Jesus says to him, "See that you tell no one. But go instead and show yourself to the priest and offer the gift Moses commanded, as a testimony to them."

The Faith of the Centurion

<sup>8</sup>But the centurion answered and said, "Lord, I am not worthy that you enter under my roof. But just say a word, and my servant will be healed. <sup>9</sup>For I too am a man under authority, having soldiers under myself. And I say to this one, 'Go,' and he goes, and to another, 'Come,' and he comes, and to my slave, 'Do this,' and he does."

<sup>10</sup>And Jesus was astonished hearing this, and he said to those following him, "Truly I tell you, I have not found faith like this from anyone in Israel. <sup>11</sup>And I tell you, many will come from east and west, and will recline with Abraham and Isaac and Jacob in the kingdom of heaven. <sup>12</sup>But natural heirs of the kingdom will be cast into the outer darkness. Out there will be weeping, and gnashing of teeth."

<sup>13</sup>Then Jesus said to the centurion, "Go. As you believed let it be for you." And in that hour the servant was healed.

Jesus Heals Many

<sup>14</sup>And coming into Peter's house, Jesus saw Peter's mother-in-law bedridden and fever-stricken. <sup>15</sup>And he touched her hand, and the fever left her; and she got up and began to wait on him.

<sup>16</sup>And when evening came, they brought to him many who were demon-possessed, and he drove out the spirits with a word. And all those who had an illness he healed, <sup>17</sup>so that the thing spoken through the prophet Isaiah might be fulfilled, which says:

<sup>64</sup> 8:5 A Roman military officer commanding from 50 to 100 men, 100 if the cohort was a complete one. A full cohort— 1,000 men, would have ten centurions, each commanding 100 of the men.

"Our infirmities he picked up, and our diseases he carried."<sup>65</sup>

The Cost of Following Jesus

<sup>18</sup>But when Jesus saw a crowd around him, he gave the order to leave to the other side of the lake.

<sup>19</sup>And one Torah scholar approached him and said, "Teacher, I will follow you wherever you go."

<sup>20</sup>And Jesus says to him, "The foxes have holes, and the birds of the sky have nests, but the Son of Man has nowhere he can lay his head."

<sup>22</sup>But Jesus says to him, "You follow me, and leave the dead to bury their own dead."

Jesus Calms the Storm

Then, once he was up, he rebuked the wind and the sea, and there came a complete calm.

<sup>27</sup>And the men marvelled, saying, "What kind of man is this, that even the winds and the sea obey him?"

The Legion of Demons Near Gadara

<sup>28</sup>And when he came to the other side to the region of the Gadarenes, two men coming out of the tombs met him, demon-possessed, extremely dangerous, such that no one was able to pass that way.

<sup>29</sup>And behold they cried out saying, "What business do you have with us, O Jesus,<sup>67</sup> you Son of God? Have you come here to torture us before the time?"

<sup>30</sup>Now some distance from them there was a herd of many pigs feeding. <sup>31</sup>And the demons begged him saying, "If you drive us out, send us into the herd of pigs."

<sup>32</sup>And he said to them, "Go!" So coming out they went into the pigs; and behold, the whole herd rushed down the steep bank into the sea, and died in the waters.

<sup>33</sup>And the herders fled. And when they had gone into the town they reported all things, including the things about the demon-possessed men. <sup>34</sup>And behold all the town came out to have a meeting with Jesus. And when they saw him they begged him that he would move out of their borders.

Chapter 9

Jesus Heals a Paralytic

<sup>1</sup>And embarking in a boat, he crossed over and came into his own town. <sup>2</sup>And behold they brought to him a paralytic placed on a mat. And when Jesus saw their faith, he said to the paralytic, "Take heart, son; your sins are forgiven."

<sup>4</sup>And knowing their thoughts, Jesus said, "Why do you think evil things in your hearts? <sup>5</sup>For which is easier: to say 'Your sins are forgiven,' or to say: 'Get up and walk'? <sup>6</sup>But so that you may know that the Son of Man has authority on earth to forgive sins..." Then he says to the paralytic, "Get up, take your mat and go to your house." <sup>7</sup>And he stood up and went away to his house. <sup>8</sup>After seeing this, the crowd feared and praised the God who had given such authority to humans.

The Calling of Matthew

<sup>9</sup>And moving on from there, Jesus saw a man named Matthew sitting at the taxes post, and he says to him, "Follow me." And he got up and followed him.

<sup>10</sup>And it came about that Jesus and his disciples were reclining at table in the house of Matthew, and behold a large crowd of revenue agents<sup>68</sup> and sinners came and were eating with them. <sup>11</sup>And seeing this the Pharisees said to his disciples, "Why does your rabbi eat with revenue agents and sinners?"

<sup>68</sup> 9:10 Greek telonai; The telones were not the holders of the 'tax farming' contracts themselves, (the actual holders were called publicani), but were subordinates (Latin, portitores) hired by the publicani. The higher officials, the publicans, were usually foreigners, but their underlings were taken, as a rule, from the native population, from the subjugated people. The prevailing system of tax collection afforded the collector many opportunities to exercise his greed and unfairness. Moreover, since the "tax" was a tribute forced upon the conquered by the conqueror, the collectors of the tribute were personal reminders to the populace that they, the givers of the tribute, were conquered serfs. Hence the collectors of the tribute were particularly hated and despised as a class. They were pre-judged to be both embezzlers, and traitors or collaborators with the occupying foreign power.

<sup>12</sup>But he heard, and said, "The healthy have no need of a doctor, but only those who have something bad do. <sup>13</sup>But go learn what this means: 'I desire mercy and not sacrifice.'<sup>69</sup> For I have not come to call the righteous, but sinners, to repentance."

Jesus Questioned About Fasting

<sup>14</sup>Then the disciples of John came to him, saying, "Why is it we and the Pharisees are fasting, but your disciples are not fasting?"

<sup>15</sup>And Jesus said to them, "Are the members of the bridegroom's party able to mourn while the bridegroom is with them? But days will come when the bridegroom is taken away from them; and then they will fast.

A Dead Damsel and a Sick Woman

<sup>18</sup>While he was speaking these things to them, behold a certain ruler came, prostrating himself to him, saying, "My daughter has just now died. But come and put your hand on her and she will revive." <sup>19</sup>And getting up Jesus followed him, including his disciples.

<sup>22</sup>And Jesus turning and seeing her said, "Take heart, daughter, your faith has healed you." And the woman was healed from that time on.

<sup>23</sup>And Jesus came into the ruler's house, and when he saw the flute players and the crowd in commotion, <sup>24</sup>he said, "Go your ways. For the maiden has not died but sleeps." And they laughed at him with scorn.

<sup>70</sup> 9:20 See Numbers 15:38, Deut. 22:12; Malachi 4:2. The "tassels" or "corners" were also Jesus' "wings," because the Hebrew word is the same. So, the prophecy of Malachi 4:2: "But to you that fear my name the sun of righteousness shall arise with healing in his wings;"<sup>70</sup> and ye shall go forth, and gambol as calves from the stall."

Jesus Heals the Blind and Mute

<sup>27</sup>And as Jesus went on from there, two blind men followed him, crying out and saying, "Have mercy on us, O Son of David!"

<sup>28</sup>And when he had come into the house, the blind men came to him, and Jesus says to them, "Do you believe that I am able to do this?"

They say to him, "Yes, Lord."

<sup>29</sup>Then he touched their eyes, saying, "According to your faith let it be done for you." <sup>30</sup>And their eyes were opened. And Jesus warned them sternly, saying, "See that no one knows about this." <sup>31</sup>But they went out and spread the news about him throughout that whole region.

<sup>32</sup>And as they were going out, behold a mute who was demon-possessed was brought to him. <sup>33</sup>And when the demon was expelled, the mute spoke. The crowd was amazed, and said, "Nothing like this has ever been seen in Israel!"

The Workers Are Few

<sup>35</sup>And Jesus went through all the towns and villages, teaching in their synagogues and proclaiming the good news of the kingdom, and healing every disease and every sickness. <sup>36</sup>And when he saw the crowds, he was moved with compassion for them, because they were like sheep without a shepherd: harried and laid down in resignation. <sup>37</sup>Then he says to his disciples, "The harvest is truly plentiful, but the workers are few. <sup>38</sup>Ask the Lord of the harvest, therefore, that he send out workers into his harvest."

Jesus Sends Out the Twelve

sheep of Israel, and in 10:5 right here one verse later, he tells the twelve to only go to the lost sheep of Israel, so very unlikely Jesus would have a Gentile as one of the 12, whose name is on one of the twelve foundations of the New Jerusalem. The Zealots were a political faction of the Jews, so very unlikely Simon was a Gentile. Strong's Concordance says Κανανίτης (G2581) is derived from כָּנָן kan-naw', "Jealous." Canaan in Greek consistently starts with the letter X. Canaan (ie., Genesis 13:12) Χανααν; Canaanite: Χανααίων (Genesis 10:18) Χαναναίους (Genesis 15:21). And in the NT, for the Canaanite woman, Matt 15:22, Χαναναία. The KJV is incorrect rendering the word κανανίτης here as "Canaanite." The bottom line is that both the Greek textual variants above mean "from Cana," although the first listed variant, καναναιος, is said by some scholars to be from the Aramaic for "zealot."

<sup>73</sup> 10:4b This man's name is usually written Judas Iscariot. "Iscariot" is probably from the Hebrew words יִשְׁכַּרְיֹת ish qariyyōt, ish Qerioth, which mean a man from Kerioth. Kerioth was a town in southern Judea, which would make this Judas the only one in the circle of thirteen (Jesus and the twelve disciples) that was not from Galilee.

The spelling Beelzeboúl - בְּעַלְזְבוּל - ba'al zəbūl would mean "lord of filth." 'Ba'al' means Lord or Prince. Baal was a Canaanite god, the son of Dagon, the god of grain. Baal was the bull prince, the bull being a symbol of fertility. Later the name Baalzebub became associated with the Aramaic Beeldebaba, 'enemy.' The conflation of Ba'alzebub and Beeldebaba, as 'Beelzebub,' came to be a name for Satan.

This saying is used in a scoffing manner, and in American English, we say, "I sold it for peanuts." We don't say exactly how many peanuts, like "I sold it for three peanuts." That is not the point. A farthing is one quarter of a penny. A hay-penny is a half of a penny, a very small, light coin. In America we do not have any coins representing a fraction of a penny, but the word penny itself would do, since a penny by itself will currently buy absolutely nothing. The American penny is, in fact, only a fragment of copper, since it appears to be made mostly of aluminum, with a copper gilding!

Chapter 11

Jesus and John the Baptizer

<sup>1</sup>And it came about that when Jesus had finished giving orders to his twelve disciples, he removed himself from there to teach and preach in their towns.

<sup>2</sup>And when John was hearing in prison about the works of Christ, he, sending word through his disciples, <sup>3</sup>said to him, "Are you the one who was to come, or should we expect another?"

<sup>4</sup>And in answer, Jesus said to them, "Go and report back to John what things you are hearing and seeing: <sup>5</sup>The blind see again and the lame walk, lepers are cleansed and the deaf hear, and the dead are raised and the good news is preached to the poor. <sup>6</sup>And tell him, 'Blessed be whoever is not offended on account of me.' "<sup>79</sup>

<sup>7</sup>And as they were leaving, Jesus began to speak to the crowd about John: "What did you go out into the desert to see? A reed being swayed to and fro by the wind? <sup>8</sup>On the contrary, what did you go out to see? Someone dressed in delicate finery? Behold, those wearing delicate finery are in kings' houses. <sup>9</sup>On the contrary, what did you go out to see?

<sup>79</sup> 11:6 Why did Jesus tell John this? Would John be offended by all the good works here recently listed? Not likely. It is more likely that what John would be offended by was Jesus' non-abstentious lifestyle, or even what in John the ascetic's view might be "shady" practices. John had already testified earlier, emphatically and with certainty, that Jesus was the Expected One. But now it appears, John was having his doubts about him. Jesus was a contrast to John in the following: He did not worry too much about ceremonial washing (Diatess 5:45, 14:1-10; 5:25; Matt. 15:1-20; Mark 7:1-23; John 3:25,26, John 2:6). He de-emphasized the concept of clean v. unclean foods (Diatess 14:9; Matt. 15:11,17; Mark 7:15-19). He did not frequently fast, or at least did not teach his disciples to frequently fast (Diatess. 7:24; Matt. 9:14; Mark 2:18; Luke 5:33). He drank alcohol, enabling Pharisees to dare call him a "drunkard," (Diatess. 10:30; Matt. 11:18-19; Luke 7:33, 34). He associated with "shady" characters (Diatess 7:22, 10:30, 10:35-36, 21:1, 24:19; Matt. 9:11; Mark 2:16; Luke 5:30; Matt. 11:19; Luke 7:34, 7:39, 15:1-2, 19:7). He violated the Sabbath by allowing his disciples to husk grain (Mark 2:23-28; Matt. 12:1-8; Lk 6:1-5). He did not pay the two-drachma tax, except for only the two people who were discovered, out of the total of 13 in his party (Diatess. 17:22-26; Matt. 17:24-27). On this tax, which was voluntary at best, and illegal at worst, see the endnote at the end of this document.) It remains today, that some who consider themselves righteous are offended by these truths about Jesus' lifestyle. But "Blessed be whoever is not offended on account of me." "For the kingdom of God is not a matter of eating and drinking, but of righteousness, peace, and joy in the Holy Spirit." Romans 14:17

A prophet? Yes indeed I tell you, and more than a prophet. <sup>10</sup>This is the one about whom it is written:

'Behold, I am sending my messenger
before your face,
who will prepare your way
before you.'<sup>80</sup>

<sup>11</sup>Truly I tell you: Among those born of women there has not risen anyone greater than John the Baptizer. But the one who is least in the kingdom of heaven is greater than he. <sup>12</sup>And from the days of John the Baptizer until now, the kingdom of heaven has been aggressively advancing, and the aggressive are seizing it.<sup>81</sup> <sup>13</sup>For all the Prophets and the Law prophesied until John. <sup>14</sup>And if you are willing to receive it, he is the Elijah who was to come. <sup>15</sup>Let the one who has ears, hear."

<sup>17</sup> " 'We played the flute for you,
and you didn't dance;
we sang a dirge,
and you didn't mourn.'

Woe on Unrepentant Cities

<sup>20</sup>Then he began to denounce the cities in which most of his miracles had occurred, because they had not repented: <sup>21</sup>"Woe to you, Korazin! Woe to you, Bethsaida! For if the miracles that happened in you had taken place in Tyre and Sidon, they would have repented long ago in sackcloth and ashes. <sup>22</sup>Regardless, I tell you, it will be more bearable for Tyre and Sidon on the day of judgment than for you. <sup>23</sup>And you, Capernaum, will you be exalted to the skies? No, you will sink as far as Hades. Because if the miracles that happened in you had taken place in Sodom, it would have remained until this day. <sup>24</sup>Regardless, I tell you, it will be more bearable for Sodom on the day of judgment than for you."

Rest for the Weary

<sup>25</sup>At that time Jesus continued, and said, "I praise you, Father, Lord of heaven and earth, because you have hidden these things from the sophisticated and learned, and revealed them to little children. <sup>26</sup>Yes, Father, for it was pleasing this way in your sight.

<sup>27</sup>"All things have been handed over to me by my Father. No one knows the Son except the Father, and no one knows the Father except the Son and those to whom the Son chooses to reveal him.

<sup>28</sup>"Come to me, all you who are weary and burdened, and I will give you rest. <sup>29</sup>Take my yoke upon you and learn from me, for I am gentle and humble in heart, and you will find rest for your souls. <sup>30</sup>For my yoke is easy and my burden is light."

Lord of the Sabbath

<sup>1</sup>At that time Jesus on a Sabbath was going through the grain fields. And his disciples were hungry, and began to pluck and eat some heads of grain.<sup>83</sup> <sup>2</sup>And when the Pharisees saw this, they said to him, "Look! Your disciples are doing what on a Sabbath is not permissible<sup>84</sup> to do!"

<sup>3</sup>And he said to them, "Have you not read what David did, when he and those with him were hungry? <sup>4</sup>How he entered the house of God, and the loaves of offering he ate, which for him was not permissible to eat, neither for those with him, but only for the priests? <sup>5</sup>Or haven't you read in the Torah that on the Sabbath the priests can, in the temple, desecrate the Sabbath, and yet are innocent? <sup>6</sup>And I tell you, something greater than the temple is here.<sup>85</sup> <sup>7</sup>But if you had known what this means: 'I desire mercy, not sacrifice,'<sup>86</sup> you would not have condemned the innocent. <sup>8</sup>For the Son of Man is lord of the Sabbath."

<sup>9</sup>And going on from that place, he went into their synagogue, <sup>10</sup>and behold, a man with a shriveled hand. And they questioned him, in order that they might accuse him, saying, "Is it permissible to heal on the Sabbath?"

<sup>11</sup>Then he said to them, "Is there anyone among you who, if he has one sheep, and it falls into a pit on the Sabbath, will not take hold of it and lift? <sup>12</sup>And how much more valuable is a human being than a sheep! Therefore, it is permissible to do good on the Sabbath."

<sup>13</sup>Then he says to the man, "Stretch out your hand." So he stretched it out, and it was restored, just as sound as the other. <sup>14</sup>And the Pharisees went out and began to plot against him, as to how they might kill him.

Crowds Follow Jesus

<sup>15</sup>But being aware of this, Jesus departed from there, and many crowds followed him, and he healed them all, <sup>16</sup>and ordered them not to make him manifest, <sup>17</sup>so that the thing spoken through the prophet Isaiah might be fulfilled, which says:

<sup>18</sup>"Behold, my servant whom I

neighbor's grain field, you may pluck the heads with your hands, but you must not put a sickle to your neighbor's standing grain."

<sup>84</sup> 12:2 The Greek word translated "permissible" is the impersonal participle ἔξεστιν, which is derived from the same root as ἐξουσία, the word for authority. If an activity was ἔξεστιν, that means it was "loosed," or ruled by the rabbis to be something "allowed" by the Torah. If something was not ἔξεστιν, as is the case here, that means it was "bound," that is, the rabbis had adjudged that it was forbidden by the Torah.

<sup>85</sup> 12:6 God said, "Remember the Sabbath day, to keep it holy." The goal of the commandment was holiness. In the temple, it was always holy. It was holy in the temple every day, not just on the seventh day. When you are in the holy of holies in the temple, there are no holy days. The temple, its configuration and materials and form, were a pattern of the body of Christ. When we are in Christ, we are in the Holy of Holies. There, there are no days holier than others, for everything is holy. In this passage, Jesus said, "Something greater than the temple is here." That something is the body of Christ.

Jesus and Baalzibbul

<sup>22</sup>Then a demon-possessed man who was blind and mute was brought to him, and he healed him so that the mute man spoke and saw. <sup>23</sup>And all the multitudes were astonished and said, "Could this be the Son of David?"

<sup>25</sup>But knowing their thoughts, he said to them, "Every kingdom divided against itself will be desolated, and every city or house divided against itself will not stand. <sup>26</sup>And if Satan is driving out Satan, he is divided against himself, so how will his kingdom stand?

<sup>27</sup>"And if I am driving out the demons by Baal-zibbul, by whom are your disciples driving them out? Therefore, they will be your judges. <sup>28</sup>But if I am driving out the demons by the Spirit of God, then the kingdom of God has come upon you.

<sup>29</sup>"Or how can anyone enter the house of the strong man and carry away his things, unless he first binds the strong man? And then he will plunder his house.

The spelling βεεζεβοὺς would represent the Hebrew בַּעַל זְבוּב - ba'al zəḇūb as found in II Kings 1:2, and means "Baal (Lord) of flies." The spelling Beelzeboúl - בַּעַל זְבוּל - ba'al zəḇûl would mean "lord of filth." "Ba'al." means Lord or Prince. Baal was a Canaanite god, the son of Dagon, the god of grain. Baal was the bull prince, the bull being a symbol of fertility. Baalzebub, as in the Hebrew text of II Kings 1:2, is a derisive alteration of Baalzibbul meaning "Prince of flies." In this way the followers of Yahweh made fun of Baal. Later the name Baalzebub became associated with the Aramaic Beeldebaba, "enemy." Thus the conflation of Baalzebub and Beeldebaba, "Beelzebub," came to be a name for Satan. To avoid confusion in all the names, this author thought it best to revert to the original form of the name.

The Sign of Jonah

<sup>38</sup>Then some of the Torah scholars and Pharisees responded to him saying, "Teacher, we want to see a miraculous sign from you."

<sup>39</sup>But he answered and said to them, "An evil and adulterous generation asks for a miraculous sign. And no sign will be given to it except the sign of the prophet Jonah. <sup>40</sup>For as Jonah was three days and three nights in the belly of the huge sea creature, so the Son of Man will be three days and three nights in the heart of the earth.

<sup>43</sup>"Now when an unclean spirit comes out from a human being, it goes through waterless places, seeking rest, and does not find it. <sup>44</sup>Then it says, 'I will return to my house from which I came.' And when it arrives, it finds the house standing empty, swept clean and put in order. <sup>45</sup>Then it goes and brings with it seven other spirits more evil than itself, and they enter inside and live there. And the final condition of that human is worse than the first. That is also how it will be with this evil generation."

<sup>89</sup> 12:33 Compare Gospel of Thomas, saying 43: "His disciples said to him, 'Who are You, that You should say these things to us?' [Jesus said to them,] 'You do not realize who I am from what I say to you, but you have become like the Jews; for they (either) love the tree and hate its fruit or love the fruit and hate the tree.'" Jesus likened himself to a tree, and his sayings and his deeds were the fruit of that tree. Some people liked his deeds, but not him. Some liked him, but not his sayings, etc. But if a tree's fruit is good, it is a good tree.

Jesus' Mother and Brothers

<sup>46</sup>While he was still speaking to the crowd, behold, his mother and brothers had been standing outside, wanting to talk to him. <sup>47</sup>And someone said to him, "Behold, your mother and your brothers have been standing outside, wanting to talk to you."

<sup>48</sup>And he replied to the one who informed him, and said, "Who is my mother, and who are my brothers?" <sup>49</sup>And extending his hand toward his disciples, he said, "Behold, my mother and my brothers. <sup>50</sup>For whoever does the will of my Father in heaven, that person is my brother and sister and mother."

Chapter 13

The Parable of the Sower

<sup>1</sup>That same day Jesus went out of the house and sat down by the lake. <sup>2</sup>And such large crowds gathered around him, he got into a boat to sit in it, and all the people stood on the shore.

<sup>3</sup>And he spoke many things to them in parables, and said: "Behold, the sower went out to sow. <sup>4</sup>And as he sowed, some seed fell beside the way,<sup>90</sup> and the birds came and ate them up. <sup>5</sup>And other seed fell on the rocky spots, where it did not have much soil, and it sprang up quickly, because it did not have depth of soil. <sup>6</sup>And when the sun came up, it was scorched, and because it had no root, it dried up. <sup>7</sup>And others fell on the thorns, and the thorns grew up and choked them. <sup>8</sup>And others fell on the good soil, and yielded fruit, one a hundredfold, the other sixty, and another thirty. <sup>9</sup>Let the one who has ears, hear."

The Parable of the Sower Explained

<sup>10</sup>And the disciples came to him and said to him, "Why do you speak to them in parables?"

<sup>11</sup>And he answered and said, "To you it has been granted to know the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven, but to them it has not been granted. <sup>12</sup>For to the one who has, it will be given, and he will have an abundance. As for the one who does not have, even what he has will be taken away from him. <sup>13</sup>For this reason I speak to them in parables, that

"Though looking they do not see, and though listening
they neither hear nor understand."

'With an ear you will hear and never understand;
and looking, you will see,
and not at all perceive.
<sup>15</sup>For this people's heart has become impervious;
they hardly hear with the ears,
and they have shut up their eyes, lest they see with the eyes and hear with the ears and understand with the heart, and turn,
and I would heal them.'<sup>91</sup>

<sup>16</sup>"But blessed are your eyes because they see, and your ears, because they hear.
<sup>17</sup>For truly I tell you, many prophets and righteous ones longed to see what you are seeing, but did not see it, and to hear what you are hearing, but did not hear it.

<sup>18</sup> "Hear then the parable of the sower: <sup>19</sup>When anyone hears the word of the kingdom and does not understand, the evil one comes and snatches away what was sown in his heart. This is the seed sown beside the way. <sup>20</sup>And what was sown on the rocky spots, this is someone who hears the word and immediately with joy receives it. <sup>21</sup>But having no root in himself, he is alive only a short time. For when tribulation comes, or persecution because of the word, he quickly falls away. <sup>22</sup>And what was sown in the thorns, this is someone who hears the word, and the worry of the world, and the seductiveness of wealth<sup>92</sup> choke the word, and it becomes unfruitful. <sup>23</sup>And what was sown on the good soil, this is someone who hears the word and understands, who does bear fruit and produces; one a hundredfold, the other sixty, and another thirty."

<sup>91</sup> 13:15 Isaiah 6:9,10; This and other quotes of the Old Testament may differ from what your English Old Testament says, because your Old Testament was translated mainly from the Masoretic Text. When the gospels writers were recalling the words of Jesus, the differences between how they say Jesus quoted the O.T. and what our Old Testament says could be because they were quoting from the Septuagint, which is the Greek translation of the Hebrew Old Testament, done a couple hundred years before Christ.

<sup>92</sup> 13:22 Or "deceitfulness of wealth." I see two possible interpretations of this. One, that wealth is seductive, and draws the poor toward it and away from the kingdom. Two, is that it is talking about those who obtain wealth in this world, and they are deceived into thinking that they are wealthy.

The Parable of the Look-alike Weeds

<sup>27</sup>"So the owner's servants came to him and said to him, 'Sir, you sowed good seed in your field, did you not? How then does it have zizania?'

<sup>28</sup>"And he said to them, 'A hateful person did this.'

"And the servants say to him, 'Do you want us to go out, then, and collect them?'

<sup>29</sup>"But he says, 'No, in case while collecting the zizania you uproot the wheat along with them. <sup>30</sup>Leave both to grow together until the harvest, and at the time of harvest I will tell the reapers: Collect the zizania first and tie them in bundles to be burned, but gather the wheat into my barn.' "

The Parables of the Mustard Seed and the Yeast

<sup>93</sup> 13:25 Greek: ζιζάνιον - zizania, a grass plant in Palestine that looked like wheat in every way, except until the head of seed appeared, because the zizania seed heads were different from the wheat heads. The zizania grain was not good for anything. The King James Version rendered ζιζάνιον as the English word "tare," a word probably descended from the Arabic tarhah, (noun) or tarahah, (verb), the basic meaning of which is transferred to the English word "tare." To "tare" goods is to ascertain the difference between the gross quantity and the net, to ascertain the quantity of the useful, and throw away the damaged goods, along with the packaging, the pallets, and whatever other deleterious material may be found with it. This word "tare" was first chosen as an English translation of ζιζάνιον for revisions of John Wycliffe's New Testament, and the word was made the standard by Mr. John Purvey, in his 1388 revision of the Wycliffe New Testament, and subsequently was adopted for use in Tyndale's and all English Bible translations of the 1500's and 1600's. Purvey chose the word tare because the tare vetch was a common weed problem among the plants of the England of his day. The seeds of the tare vetch had to be removed from the seed corn after harvest. But the tare vetch did not resemble the corn plant at all. The Greek word translated in this parable as "wheat" could mean either corn or wheat, but the plant zizanium resembled wheat, not corn. I concluded that the word "tare" is not appropriate here for three reasons; One, its meaning does not include the look-alike trait of the plant; Two, the word now refers to a vetch that is cultivated with oats for use as fodder, unlike the useless zizanium; and Three, it is a word too seldom used for most people to understand.

<sup>34</sup>Jesus spoke all these things to the crowds in parables; indeed he said nothing to them without a parable, <sup>35</sup>so that the thing spoken through the prophet might be fulfilled, which says:

"I will open my mouth in parables,
I will utter things hidden since the creation of the world."<sup>96</sup>

The Parable of the Look-alike Weeds Explained

<sup>36</sup>Then, leaving the crowds, he went into the house. And his disciples came to him and said, "Explain to us the parable of zizania in the field."

<sup>37</sup>And he answered and said, "The one sowing the good seed is the Son of Man, <sup>38</sup>and the field is the world, and the good seed, these are the children of the kingdom. The zizania are the children of the evil one, <sup>39</sup>and the enemy who sows them is the devil. The harvest is the end of the age, and the reapers are angels.

<sup>40</sup>"And as the zizania are collected and consumed by fire, so it will be at the end of the age. <sup>41</sup>The Son of Man will send out his angels, and they will collect out of his kingdom all the things that lead to sin and those who practice lawlessness; <sup>42</sup>and they will throw them into the furnace of fire. There will be weeping there, and gnashing of teeth. <sup>43</sup>At that time, the righteous will shine forth like the sun in the kingdom of their Father. Let the one who has ears, hear.

The Parables of the Hidden Treasure and the Pearl

<sup>44</sup>"The kingdom of heaven is like treasure hidden in a field, which when a man found it, he hid it again. Then out of his joy he goes and sells what things he has, and buys that field.

<sup>45</sup>"Again, the kingdom of heaven is like a merchant who was looking for fine pearls. <sup>46</sup>And when he found a single valuable pearl, he went away and sold every thing that he had and bought it.

The Parable of the Net

<sup>51</sup>Jesus said to them, "Have you understood all these things?"

They are saying to him, "Yes, Lord."

<sup>52</sup>And he said to them, "Therefore every Torah scholar disciplined into the kingdom of heaven is like a person who owns a house, who puts forward out of his treasure room items both new and old."

A Prophet Without Honor

<sup>53</sup>And it came about that when Jesus had finished these parables, he moved on from there. <sup>54</sup>And coming into his home town, he taught them in their synagogue, such that they were astounded, and said, "Where did this man get this wisdom and these miraculous powers? <sup>55</sup>Isn't this the son of the carpenter? Isn't his mother named Mary, and his brothers Jacob and Joseph<sup>97</sup> and Simon and Judah? <sup>56</sup>And aren't all his sisters here with us? Where then did this man get all these things?" <sup>57</sup>And they were offended by him.

And Jesus said to them, "A prophet is not without honor except in his home town, and among his relatives."

<sup>58</sup>And he did not do many miracles there, because of their unbelief.

John the Baptizer Beheaded

<sup>1</sup>At that time, Herod the tetrarch heard the report about Jesus, <sup>2</sup>and said to his attendants, "This is John the Baptizer! He is risen from the dead, and that is why miraculous powers are at work in him!"

<sup>98</sup> 14:6 It is difficult to follow Herod's family tree. But this is little wonder, the way they fornicated, adulterated, and married relatives. For example, who was Herodias' first husband? But the following is what can be distilled from all accounts. Herodias' first husband, named Philip in the Bible and Herod in Josephus, was also known as Herod Philip. That's all. They were the same man. Herodias then divorced Herod Philip and married Herod Antipas, who was Herod Philip's half brother (the father of both was Herod I, king of Judea, 4 B.C., who had eight wives in his lifetime. Herod

Jesus Feeds the Five Thousand

<sup>13</sup>And hearing this, Jesus went away from there, in a boat, to a remote place by himself. And the crowds heard, and followed him on foot from the towns.

<sup>14</sup>And when he got out, he saw the large crowd, and was moved with compassion for them, and healed their sick.

<sup>15</sup>Now as evening came on, the disciples came to him, saying, "The place is remote, and the hour is already late. Therefore, dismiss the crowds, so they can go away into the villages and buy food for themselves."

<sup>16</sup>But Jesus said to them, "They do not need to go away. You give them something to eat."

<sup>18</sup>And he said, "Bring them here to me." <sup>19</sup>And having directed the crowds to recline on the grass, he takes the five loaves and the two fish, and looking up to heaven, he blessed God. And after he broke the loaves, he gave them to the disciples, and the disciples to the crowds.

Philip's mother was Mariamne II, the third wife, and Herod Antipas' mother was Malthake, the fourth wife). Josephus says that Herodias already had a daughter named Salome before she married Herod Antipas (p 485 of The Works of Josephus, trans. William Whiston, Hendrickson, 1988; or Antiquities book 18, chapter 5, secs. 136,137). I am confident that the dancer in question was Salome, the daughter of Herod's wife Herodias. (FYI: Salome later married another Philip, who was yet another half-brother of Herod Antipas, this time by Herod I's fifth wife, Cleopatra. So Salome lived with her father for a while, then lived with her half-uncle, then married a different half-uncle.)

<sup>99</sup> 14:9 The Greek for oath is in the plural, an idiomatic pluralization of abstract topics that frequently serves as a designation of concrete phenomena. 'Deaths,' for example, would mean "ways of dying," or "cases of death." Here it would mean something like "words of oath." Other examples are Matthew 14:9 and Luke 5:21.

<sup>100</sup> 14:20 κόφινος (kóphinos) a large, heavy basket for carrying things. Interestingly, the baskets used in the feeding of the 4,000 later on were a smaller basket. In the accounts of the feeding of the 5,000, all four gospels use the Greek word kóphinos, but in the account of the feeding of the 4,000 all two of the gospels that contain the event used the Greek word σπυρίς. A kophinos was used for many things, including carrying manure, while a spuris was a smaller basket used for carrying edibles.

Jesus Walks on the Water

<sup>22</sup>And he immediately ordered his disciples to get into the boat and go on ahead of him to the other side, while he would dismiss the crowds. <sup>23</sup>And after he had dismissed the crowds, he went up into the mountain by himself to pray. And as evening came on he was alone there.

<sup>28</sup>And Peter answered him and said, "Lord, if it's you, order me to come to you on the water."

<sup>29</sup>And he said, "Come."

And Peter got down out of the boat and walked on the water, and went toward Jesus. <sup>30</sup>But when he saw the violent wind, he became afraid, and beginning to sink, he cried out, saying, "Lord, save me!"

<sup>31</sup>And immediately Jesus reached out his hand and grabbed him, and says to him, "O you of little faith, why did you doubt?"

<sup>32</sup>And when they climbed into the boat, the wind died down. <sup>33</sup>And those in the boat worshipped him, saying, "You truly are the Son of God."

<sup>34</sup>And once they had crossed over, they came ashore at Gennesaret. <sup>35</sup>And when the men of that place recognized him, they sent word into that whole area, and they brought to him all those who were sick. <sup>36</sup>And they were entreating him that they could just touch the tassel of his cloak; and as many as touched were completely healed.

Clean and Unclean

<sup>3</sup>And in response he said to them, "And you, why do you break the command of God for the sake of your tradition? <sup>4</sup>For God said, 'Honor father and mother' and 'The one

<sup>101</sup> 14:21 The Greek word for "without" in Matthew 14:21 is χωρίς (chōrís), which generally means "without, apart from." Here it could mean "besides, in addition to, not counting." But it is also possible that there were no women and children present at all. See the endnote about this, which discusses the possibilities in greater detail.

<sup>10</sup>And calling the crowd forward, he said to them, "Listen, and understand: <sup>11</sup>The thing entering into the mouth does not make a human being unclean, but rather the thing coming forth out of the mouth, that is what makes the human being unclean."

<sup>12</sup>Then the disciples are coming to him and saying to him, "Do you know that the Pharisees were offended when they heard this statement?"

<sup>13</sup>And he in answer said, "Every plant that my heavenly Father has not planted will be uprooted. <sup>14</sup>Leave them; they are blind leaders of the blind. And if a blind person leads a blind person, both will fall into a pit."

<sup>16</sup>And he said, "Are you also this unintelligent? <sup>17</sup>Do you not understand that everything entering the mouth goes into the stomach, and then is ejected into the sewer? <sup>18</sup>But the things coming forth out of the mouth come from the heart, and those things make the human being unclean. <sup>19</sup>For out of the heart, come forth evil reasoning, murder, adultery, fornication, theft, false testimony, slander. <sup>20</sup>Those are the things making the human being unclean; but the eating with unwashed hands, that does not make the human being unclean."

The Faith of the Canaanite Dog

<sup>21</sup>And leaving there, Jesus departed to the areas of Tyre and Sidon. <sup>22</sup>And behold a Canaanite woman from those borders, after coming forward cried out, saying, "Have mercy on me, Lord, Son of David! My daughter is suffering terribly from a demon."

<sup>29</sup>And when he departed from there, Jesus came near the Sea of Galilee; and having gone up into the mountain, he was sitting there. <sup>30</sup>And many large crowds came to him, having with them the lame, the cheiroplegic,<sup>106</sup> the blind, the mute, and many others, and they laid them down at his feet, and he healed them, <sup>31</sup>causing the crowd to marvel, seeing the mute speaking, the impaired of hand whole, and the lame walking and the blind seeing, and they glorified the God of Israel.

<sup>32</sup>And calling forward his disciples, Jesus said, "I feel for the crowd, because they have been staying with me three days now and do not have anything to eat. And to dismiss them without eating, I am not willing, lest they collapse on the journey."

<sup>33</sup>And the disciples say to him, "Where in the desert could we obtain so many loaves of bread, enough to satisfy so large a crowd?"

And they said, "Seven, and a few fish."

<sup>35</sup>And having ordered the crowd to recline on the ground, <sup>36</sup>he took the seven loaves of bread and the fish, and when he had given thanks, he broke and gave to the disciples, and the disciples to the crowds. <sup>37</sup>And all ate and were satisfied, and they picked up the fragments that were left over, seven full baskets. <sup>38</sup>Now the ones eating were four thousand men, apart from women and children. <sup>39</sup>And after he dismissed the crowd, he embarked in the boat, and went into the territory of Magadan.

The Yeast of the Pharisees, Sadducees, and Herod

<sup>1</sup>And the Pharisees and Sadducees approach him, and testing him, they asked him to show them a sign from heaven.

<sup>2</sup>But he in answer said to them, [When evening comes, you say, 'Fair weather, the sky is red.' <sup>3</sup>And in the morning, 'Today, stormy weather, for the sky is red and threatening.' An impressive group of manuscripts and versions lacks these words. And Jerome says most of the manuscripts known to him did not contain it. Many scholars consider it a later harmonization to Luke 12:54-56, with some adjustment for weather. Bauer points out that the word used in this pericope for "is red," πυρράζω - purrázō, is found only in literature by Byzantine writers. (The Septuagint has πυρρίζω - purrízō) There is some chance that Scrivener and Lagrange are right in their argument that the pericope was omitted by copyists in Egypt and other places where red sky in the morning does not announce rain.

<sup>108</sup> 11:29 Matthew 12:40 (DRP) says, "For as Jonah was three days and three nights in the belly of the huge sea creature, so the Son of Man will be three days and three nights in the heart of the earth." And further, according to II Kings 14:25, the prophet Jonah was from Gath Hopher, in Galilee, in the territory of the tribe of Zebulun (Joshua 19:13), only one hill over from Nazareth, if not the same hill. Jonah volunteered to be killed in order to save the rest of the souls on the boat, would be dead for 3 days, and then would come back to life. Jonah said about himself that he was in Sheol / Hades (Jonah 2:2). This is yet another way in which Jonah was a sign of Christ.

<sup>5</sup>And when the disciples were going to the other side, they forgot to take bread loaves. <sup>6</sup>And Jesus said to them, "Watch out. Be on your guard against the yeast of the Pharisees and Sadducees."

<sup>8</sup>And Jesus knowing, said, "You of little faith, why are you reasoning among yourselves, 'We have no bread loaves'? <sup>9</sup>Do you still not understand nor remember the five loaves for the five thousand, and how many basketfuls you picked up? <sup>10</sup>Nor the seven loaves for the four thousand, and how many basketfuls you picked up? <sup>11</sup>How do you not understand that it was not about bread that I was speaking to you? But be on your guard against the yeast of the Pharisees and Sadducees." <sup>12</sup>Then they understood, that he had not meant they should be on their guard against yeast,<sup>109</sup> but against the teaching of the Pharisees and Sadducees.

Peter's Confession of Messiah

<sup>13</sup>And upon entering into the area of the Caesarea that was in Philip's jurisdiction, Jesus queried his disciples, saying, "Who are the people saying the Son of Man is?"

<sup>16</sup>And Simon Peter answered, and said to him, "You are the Christ, the son of the living God."

<sup>17</sup>And Jesus in response said to him, "Blessed are you, Simon son of John,<sup>110</sup> because it was not flesh and blood that revealed this to you, but my Father, who is in heaven. <sup>18</sup>And I also say to you, that you are Peter, and upon this rock<sup>111</sup> I will build my church, and the gates of Hades will not prevail against it. <sup>19</sup>And to you I will give the keys of the kingdom of heaven, and whatever you declare to be forbidden on earth shall have been forbidden in heaven, and whatever you permit on earth shall have been permitted in

<sup>109</sup> 16:12 Many witnesses add various words after "yeast," in five varieties. It appears that the shorter reading is original, and the additions are various attempts to explain the seeming contradiction, where Matthew says Jesus said yeast, then here he says he did not say yeast. But, the phrase "said" can also mean "mean" as I have it translated above. This seems more likely than copyists taking away the explanations. But, it is possible that copyists considered the presence of τῶν ἄρτων or τοῦ ἄρτου to be unnecessary for the sense and therefore omitted the words as superfluous. The UBS4 edition includes τῶν ἄρτων and rates it {C} in certainty, UBS3 gave it a {D}, and the NA26 edition includes the words τῶν ἄρτων.

<sup>111</sup> 16:18 Peter's name means "rock" in Greek. Yes, Jesus did build his church upon Peter, and also upon the other eleven apostles. See Revelation 22:14 "with the wall of the city having twelve foundations, and on them twelve names, of the twelve apostles of the Lamb." Rev. 21:9 says this is talking about "the bride, the wife of the Lamb." So we see that the church is built on Peter indeed, but Peter's foundation is no wider or higher than the other eleven foundations. And was he the only apostle allowed to bind and loose? No, we see that all the apostles practised that.

heaven."<sup>112</sup> <sup>20</sup>Then he admonished the disciples, that they not tell anyone that he was the Christ.

Jesus Predicts His Death

<sup>21</sup>From that point on, Jesus began to reveal to his disciples that he had to leave for Jerusalem, and suffer many things at the hands of the elders and chief priests and Torah scholars, and be killed, and on the third day rise again. <sup>22</sup>And after pulling Jesus aside, Peter began correcting him, saying, "God forbid, Lord! This will never happen to you."

<sup>23</sup>But he turned and said to Peter, "Get behind me, Satan! A hindrance you are to me, because you are not considering the concerns of God, but the concerns of mortals."

<sup>24</sup>Then, Jesus said to his disciples, "If someone wants to follow me, he must deny himself, and take up his cross and follow me. <sup>25</sup>For whoever tries to keep his life will lose it. But whoever loses his life for my sake, will find it. <sup>26</sup>For what will it gain a human being, if he acquires the whole world, but is penalized his soul? In other words, what will a human being pay, in trade for his soul? <sup>27</sup>For the Son of Man will soon come in the glory of his Father with his angels, and then, he will pay back to each one, according to the way of life of each. <sup>28</sup>Truly I tell you, There are some of those present here, who will certainly not taste death before they see the Son of Man coming in his kingship."

The Transfiguration

<sup>4</sup>And in response, Peter said to Jesus, "Master, it is good for us to be here. If you want, I will make three shelters here, one for you, one for Moses, and one for Elijah."

<sup>5</sup>While he was still speaking, behold a bright cloud overshadowed them, and behold, a voice from the cloud, saying as follows: "This is my beloved Son, with whom I am well pleased. Listen to him." <sup>6</sup>And when they heard this, the disciples fell on their faces, and were extremely frightened.

<sup>112</sup> 16:19 Or, "Whatever you forbid on earth is as good as forbidden by heaven, and whatever you permit on earth is as good as permitted by heaven." This "binding and loosing" teaching appears also in Matthew 18:18. It should be noted that here in 16:19, the verbs are in the 2nd person singular, Jesus saying it to and about Peter only, whereas in chapter 18 v. 18, the verbs are in the second person plural, Jesus saying it to, and giving this authority to, all of the apostles.

<sup>7</sup>And Jesus approached them, and after touching them reassuringly, he said, "Stand up, and do not be afraid." <sup>8</sup>And when they opened their eyes, they saw no one, except Jesus himself alone.

<sup>9</sup>And as they were coming down from the mountain, Jesus was admonishing them, as follows: "Do not tell anyone about the vision, until such time the Son of Man is raised from the dead."

<sup>10</sup>And the disciples queried him, as follows, "So why do the Torah scholars say that Elijah has to come first?"

<sup>11</sup>In answer, he said, "Elijah does indeed come first, and will restore all things. <sup>12</sup>But I am telling you, that Elijah has already come, and they did not recognize him, but did with him whatever they wished." <sup>13</sup>Then the disciples understood that he had spoken to them about John the Baptizer.

The Healing of a Boy Who Had an Evil Spirit

<sup>14</sup>And when they had returned to the crowd, a man came up to him, falling to his knees, <sup>15</sup>and saying, "Lord, have mercy on my son, because he is lunatic and suffering horribly. For example, he often falls into fire, and often into water. <sup>16</sup>And I brought him to your disciples, and they were not able to heal him."

<sup>17</sup>And in answer, Jesus said, "O unbelieving and perverted generation! How long shall I stay with you? How long shall I put up with you? Bring him here to me." <sup>18</sup>And Jesus rebuked him, and the demon departed from him, and the child was healed from that time on.

<sup>19</sup>At that time, the disciples came to him in private, and said, "Why were we not able to drive it out?"

<sup>20</sup>And he says to them, "Because of your lack of faith. For truly I tell you, if you have faith as small as a mustard seed, you will say to this mountain, 'Move from here to there,' and it will move. In fact, nothing will be impossible to you." <sup>21</sup>[[But this kind does not come out except with prayer and fasting.]]<sup>113</sup>

<sup>22</sup>And when they were gathering back together in Galilee, Jesus said to them, "The Son of Man is about to be betrayed into the hands of human beings, <sup>23</sup>and they will kill him, and during the third day he will rise again." And they were very sad.

The fact that 3 different Greek verbs are used in the manuscripts that do contain the verse, is an indication that the verse is not original. I think this is an "ascetic" corruption to the gospel of Matthew.

The Two Drachma Tax

<sup>24</sup>And when they arrived in Capernaum, the collectors of the two drachmas<sup>114</sup> approached Peter, and they said, "Does your rabbi not pay the two drachmas?"

And when Peter had come into the house, Jesus spoke to him first, saying, "What do you think, Simon: the kings of the earth, from whom do they collect toll and tribute— from their sons,<sup>115</sup> or from others?"

<sup>26</sup>And when he answered, "From others," Jesus said to him, "Alright then, the sons are free.<sup>116</sup> <sup>27</sup>But, so that we not scandalize them,<sup>117</sup> go to the lake, cast a hook, and the first fish that comes up, take, and when you have opened its mouth, you will find a four-drachma coin.<sup>118</sup> Take that, and give it to them, as mine and yours."<sup>119</sup>

<sup>114</sup> 17:24 A drachma was worth about a day's wage. The two drachma collection, 6 grams of silver, was the so-called temple tax in Exodus 30:11-16. But this payment was not intended to be a tax at all. Quoting Exodus 30:12, "When you take a census of the Israelites to number them, at the time he is numbered each man shall give a ransom for his life to Yahweh, so that no plague may come upon him for being numbered." The money was primarily an offering as atonement for the evil act of a man being numbered. Then it was merely incidental that as long as the temple personnel had this money anyway, "You shall take the atonement money from the Israelites and shall designate it for the service of the tent of meeting; before Yahweh it will be a reminder of the ransom given for his life." Ex. 30:16. It was an offering or ransom money to atone for the repugnant stench to God caused by the act of numbering the people. There are other scriptures indicating God's displeasure with the idea of his people being numbered. See for example, I Chronicles chapter 21, and 27:23,24. It is clear that the payment was a ransom for a man's life. How many times must a man be ransomed? Ransom, even to terrorists, is not paid more than once. The ransom was to be paid only when a man "crosses over to join those who are numbered," Exodus 30:13,14. God had never commanded that the ransom be paid annually, as the tradition came to be. For it was only to be collected "when you number the people," v. 12. This was in anticipation of the only census ever ordered by God, the one that took place in Numbers chapter 1. God was against the numbering of the people as a practice. This was allowed just one time only, with a way to escape his wrath built in. The only additional census permissible was of aliens, as in II Chron. 2:17. Jesus apparently was not in the habit of paying the two drachmas. In this instance he only paid for himself and for Peter, and did nothing about the other eleven apostles, since they were not brought up. Jesus did not "obey every law of man." He did not just automatically do what every bureaucrat told him to do. Jesus was not a chump, and neither should his disciples be. We are supposed to be wise as serpents. For a reading of all the scriptures showing how the tradition of the annual tax came about, see the endnote entitled, "How did a once-only atonement offering become an annual tax?"

<sup>117</sup> 17:27a Some surmise that Jesus did this in order to appear to be compliant with an illegitimate tax, so as not to scandalize any believers who thought that he surely must "obey every law of man." That is possible. But also possible, is that Jesus wanted to honor the oral contract Peter had already made with the tax collectors: the collectors had previously asked if Jesus pays the tax, and Peter had answered in the affirmative. Thus, only those two individuals involved in the oral contract, were obligated to pay it this instance.

<sup>119</sup> 17:27c Note that Jesus did not tell the other eleven disciples to pay. The payment at issue in this passage was a Jewish religious matter, and originally not even a tax (see previous footnote on "the two drachmas." Jesus and the disciples were Sons or Citizens of the Kingdom of Heaven, so were not subject to this "tax." Remember, the Levites did not pay the census atonement fee tax. (Numbers 1:48, 49) All those who become Citizens of the kingdom of God have the same status in regard to this tax as the Levites had. "God has made us kings and priests, and we will reign on the earth." Rev. 5:10 Kings don't pay the tax. And kings is what Jesus and the twelve apostles were.

Chapter 18

Who Is the Greatest?

<sup>1</sup>In that same hour, the disciples approached Jesus, saying, "So who is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven?"

<sup>2</sup>And calling a child over, he stood him in the midst of them, <sup>3</sup>and he said, "I tell you truly: unless you change and become like little children, there is no way you will enter into the kingdom of heaven. <sup>4</sup>Whoever therefore humbles himself like this child, that is the one who is greatest in the kingdom of heaven. <sup>5</sup>And whoever receives one little child such as this on the basis of my name, is receiving me.

More About Little Ones

<sup>6</sup>As for that person through whom one of these little ones who believe in me might ever be scandalized, it would be better for that person that a mill stone be hung around his neck and be sunk in the bottom of the sea. <sup>7</sup>Woe to the world, because of those scandalizings. Certainly, the scandalizings are bound to come. Nevertheless, woe to the person through whom the scandalizing comes.

<sup>8</sup>And if your hand or your foot scandalizes you, cut it off, and throw it away from you. It is better for you to enter into life maimed and crippled, than to be thrown into everlasting fire, having both hands or both feet.

<sup>9</sup>And if your eye scandalizes you, tear it out, and throw it away from you. It is better for you to enter into life one-eyed, than be thrown into fiery Gehenna with two eyes.

<sup>10</sup>See that you not despise or overlook even one of these little ones; for I tell you, in heaven their angels through it all are seeing the face of my Father who is in heaven.

<sup>12</sup>What do you think? Suppose a man has a hundred sheep, and one of them is lost. Will he not leave the ninety-nine on the mountain, and go look for the one that is wandering? <sup>13</sup>And if he happens to find it, truly I tell you, he rejoices over it more than the ninety-nine that were not lost.

The UBS Editorial Committee says that there can be little doubt that the words ἦλθεν γὰρ ὁ υἱὸς τοῦ θεοῦ (ζητήσαι) καὶ σῶσαι τὸ ἀπολωλός are spurious here, being absent in the earliest witnesses representing several textual types (Alexandrian, pre-Caesarean, Egyptian, Antiochian), and manifestly borrowed by copyists from Lk 19:10 [or Matthew 9:13]. The reason for the interpolation was apparently to provide a connection between ver. 10 and verses 12-14. On the other hand there appears no reason why it might have gotten deleted or removed if original.

A Brother Who Sins

<sup>15</sup>Now if your brother sins [against you],<sup>122</sup> go show him his fault, just between you and him. If he listens to you, you have won back your brother. <sup>16</sup>But if he does not listen, take with you one or two others, so that 'upon the mouths of two or three witnesses every matter be established.' <sup>17</sup>And if he refuses to listen to them, tell it to the assembly. And if he refuses to listen to the assembly, he should be considered by you as no different than a gentile or a revenue agent.

<sup>18</sup>Truly I tell you, what things you apostles on earth declare to be forbidden, shall have been forbidden in heaven; and what things you on earth declare to be permitted, shall have been permitted in heaven.<sup>123</sup> <sup>19</sup>Again I say to you, if two of you on earth agree with one voice concerning any and all matters about which you make request, it will be brought about for you by my Father who is in heaven. <sup>20</sup>For where two or three are gathered together in my name, there am I in the midst of them.

The Parable of the Unmerciful Servant

<sup>21</sup>At that time Peter approached and said to him, "Lord, how many times shall my brother sin against me and I forgive him? Up to seven times?"

<sup>22</sup>Jesus says to him, "I tell you, not up to seven times, but up to seventy [times] seven times."<sup>124</sup>

There might have been a dictation error, that when reading ῃσῃ εἰς σέ the listener thought that there had been a repetition by accident (because the last two syllables sound similar in later Greek to the first two syllables), or that the reader changed his pronunciation or stumbled over the pronunciation, and so the scribe listening wrote only the first set of sounds. On the other hand the phrase "against you" might have been added, according to the UBS textual commentary, to harmonize this verse with the "against me" of v. 21 shortly hereafter where Peter asks, "How many times shall my brother sin against me and I forgive him?" The reading without "against you" is the earliest, but this could have been changed very early on, according to the UBS commentary. In the UBS 4th Edition Greek New Testament, the words "against you" are in single square brackets, and this result is given a C rating of certainty. Regarding single square brackets, the explanation is "that the enclosed word, words, or parts of words may be regarded as part of the text, but that in the present state of New Testament textual scholarship this cannot be taken as completely certain."

<sup>123</sup> 18:18 Or, "Whatever you forbid on earth is as good as forbidden by heaven, and whatever you permit on earth is as good as permitted by heaven." This "binding and loosing" teaching appears also in Matthew 16:19. It should be noted that here in 18:18, the verbs are in the second person plural, Jesus saying it to, and giving this authority to, all of the apostles, whereas in 16:19, the verbs are in the 2nd person singular, Jesus saying it to and about Peter only.

<sup>124</sup> 18:22 cf. Genesis 4:24: "If Cain is avenged seven times, then Lamech seventy-seven times." It is equally beyond human nature to forgive the same person 77 times in one day, as it is to forgive the same person 490 times in one day.

<sup>26</sup>"The servant therefore fell down, and was entreating him, saying, 'Be patient with me, and I will pay you back everything.' <sup>27</sup>And moved with compassion, the master of that servant released him, and forgave his debt.

<sup>28</sup>"But then after he went out, that servant found one of his fellow servants who owed him a hundred denarii, and he seized him, and was choking him, saying, 'Pay me back everything you owe.'

<sup>29</sup>"The fellow servant therefore fell down, and was begging him, saying, 'Be patient with me, and I will pay you back.' <sup>30</sup>But he was not willing, and went and threw him into the debtors' prison, until such time he could pay back the debt.

<sup>31</sup>"When therefore his fellow servants witnessed these events, they were extremely upset, and went and reported to their master everything that had happened. <sup>32</sup>Then summoning him, his master is saying to him, 'You wicked servant! All that debt of yours I forgave you, because you begged me. <sup>33</sup>Aren't you then also obligated to forgive your fellow servant, as I have forgiven you?'

<sup>34</sup>"And in anger, his master handed him over to the jailers, until such time he could pay back everything he owed. <sup>35</sup>This is how my Father in heaven will act toward you also, unless you each forgive your brother from your heart."

Chapter 19

Jesus Tested on Divorce

<sup>1</sup>And it came about that when Jesus had finished these discourses he departed from Galilee, and went into the region of Judea on the other side of the Jordan. <sup>2</sup>And large crowds followed him, and he healed them there. <sup>3</sup>And some Pharisees came to him, testing him, and saying, "Is it permitted for someone to release<sup>125</sup> his wife for any cause at all?"

<sup>4</sup>But in answer he said, "Have you never read, that from the beginning the creator made them male and female, <sup>5</sup>and said, 'For this reason a man shall leave father and mother, and be joined to his woman, and the two shall become one flesh'? <sup>6</sup>As a result,

But Gentiles do not need to know this reference in order to understand that Matthew means to indicate a number that is large beyond human nature. In a story taken from older accounts, Plutarch, Mor. 245d uses the number 7,777 for the same purpose (cf. Polyaeus 8, 33).

<sup>125</sup> 19:3 "Releasing" is the opposite of the cleaving or joining commanded in the Genesis passage.

they are no longer two, but one flesh. What therefore God has joined together, no human being is allowed to separate."

<sup>7</sup>They are saying to him, "Why then did Moses command to give a release of interest form<sup>126</sup> in order to release?" <sup>127</sup>

<sup>8</sup>He says to them, "Moses, in view of the hardness of your hearts, permitted you to release your wives, though it is not originally designed this way. <sup>9</sup>But I tell you that whoever releases his wife, except upon grounds of fornication, and marries another, commits adultery."<sup>128</sup>

<sup>10</sup>The disciples are saying to him, "If this is the situation of a man with a wife, it is not advisable to marry!"

<sup>11</sup>And he said to them, "Not everyone can receive this word, but only those to whom it has been given. <sup>12</sup>For there are some who are eunuchs, who were born that way from their mother's womb. And there are some who are eunuchs who were made to be eunuchs by human beings. And there are some who are eunuchs who have made themselves eunuchs for the sake of the kingdom of heaven. The person who is able to receive this, should receive it."

The Little Children and Jesus

<sup>13</sup>At that time, little children were brought to him, so that he might lay his hands on them and pray for them. But the disciples scolded them. <sup>14</sup>But Jesus said, "Let the little

<sup>126</sup> 19:7a This word ἀποστάσιον - apostásion, "release of interest form," was used to signify the relinquishment of property. A quit-claim, if you will. In the culture of ancient Israel there was never any provision for a wife to quit her property claim in her husband, since the wife was considered property of her husband, and never the other way around. The apostle Paul in the New Testament, however, states in I Corinthians 7:4, "The wife has not authority over her own body, but rather the husband; and likewise also the husband has not authority over his own body, but rather the wife." This is a consequence of being "one flesh."

The UBS textual commentary says, "After μοιχᾶται several witnesses add καὶ ὁ ἀπολελυμένην γαμῶν (or γαμήσας) μοιχᾶται ('and he who marries a divorced woman commits adultery'). Although it might be argued that homoeoteleuton (μοιχᾶται ... μοιχᾶται) accounts for its accidental omission from & D L 1241 al, the fact that B C* f<sup>1</sup> al read μοιχᾶται only once (at the conclusion of the combined clauses) makes it more probable that the text was expanded by copyists who accommodated the saying to the prevailing text of 5:32."

The Majority Text reads, "Why are you calling me good? No one is good but one: God." The UBS and Nestle / Aland text read Τί με ἐρωτᾷς περὶ τοῦ ἀγαθοῦ; εἷς ἐστὶν ὁ ἀγαθός.: "Why are you asking me about what is good? There is only One who is Good." In addition, that text does not contain the word ἀγαθέ -"good" modifying Teacher when the man first addresses Jesus in verse 16. The UBS editorial committee says that the passage clearly was changed by copyists to harmonize Matthew's account with Mark 10:18 and Luke 18:19. And they say about the majority reading, as shown in my translation above, that if it "were original in Matthew, it is hard to imagine why copyists would have altered it to a more obscure one, whereas scribal assimilation to Synoptic parallels occurs frequently." Well, I for one can easily imagine why someone would not like the reading "Why are you asking me about what is good?" It seems preposterous that a Rabbi would object to being asked about what is good, since declaring what was good or what was not good, that was his job. And even more preposterous, is that the Son of God, who was made into flesh in order to declare the attributes of the Father to men, would object to being asked about what is good.

The Parable of the Workers in the Vineyard

He says to them, "You also go out into my vineyard. And whatever is right, that you will receive."

<sup>8</sup>And when evening had come, the owner of the vineyard says to his foreman, "Call the workers and pay them their wages, starting from the last ones, to the first ones." <sup>9</sup>And those who had arrived at about the eleventh hour, each received a denarius. <sup>10</sup>And the

<sup>133</sup> 19:24 Just as it is impossible, humanly speaking, for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, Jesus says in v. 27 that it is "impossible" for a rich man to enter the kingdom of God. Some people teach that Jesus really instead said "rope to go through the eye of a needle," because he was speaking in the Aramaic language, and the Aramaic word for camel was also the word for a kind of rope. Regardless, Jesus would want to invent a simile that was in line with his main point: "something impossible." His illustration must demonstrate something that is impossible, naturally speaking. "Camel" is more impossible than "rope," so at worst, camel works just fine, and at best, camel is the best rendering because it is more impossible.

<sup>134</sup> 20:3 That is, about 9 a.m. Then again at 3 p.m. and 5 p.m. The Jewish clock began at sunrise and sunset; thus the third hour was about 3 hours after sunrise, hence 9 a.m. The 11th hour was only one hour before dark.

ones who had arrived first expected to receive more, yet they received a denarius each themselves. <sup>11</sup>So they got together and were complaining to the landowner, <sup>12</sup>saying, "These last ones worked one hour, and you have treated them the same as us who have borne the burden of the whole day, and the scorching heat."

<sup>13</sup>And he in answer to one of them said, 'Friend, I am not doing you wrong. Did you not agree to a denarius with me? <sup>14</sup>Take what is yours and go your way. So this is what I want to give to the last ones, as I also gave to you. <sup>15</sup>Is it not permissible for me to do what I want with things that are mine? Or is your eye evil<sup>135</sup> because I am generous?'

<sup>16</sup>Thus, the last will be first, and the first will be last.<sup>136</sup>"

Jesus Again Predicts His Death

<sup>17</sup>And as he was going up to Jerusalem, Jesus took the Twelve aside in private, and said to them on the way, <sup>18</sup>"Behold we are going up to Jerusalem, and the Son of Man is going to be betrayed to the chief priests and the Torah scholars, and they will condemn him to death. <sup>19</sup>And he will be handed over to the Gentiles, to be ridiculed and crucified, and during the third day he will rise again."

A Mother's Request

<sup>20</sup>At that time, the mother of the sons of Zebedee approached him, along with her sons. She is worshiping him and asking a favor from him. <sup>21</sup>And he said to her, "What do you want?" She says to him, "Decree that these two sons of mine sit one on the right and one on the left of you in your kingdom."

<sup>22</sup>But in answer Jesus said, "You do not know what you are asking.<sup>137</sup> Are you able to drink the cup which I am about to drink?"

They say to him, "We are able."

<sup>23</sup>He says to them, "My cup you will indeed drink, but to sit on my right or on my left is not mine to grant, but is only for those for whom it has been prepared by my Father."

<sup>135</sup> 20:15 ὀφθαλμός πονηρός, "evil eye," is a Semitic concept, in which the attitude of the heart or the force of a person's thoughts, are focused out through, and cause the narrowing of the person's eye, out of envy, resentment, scheming, or even voodoo, toward one's neighbor. This concept merits a long explanation, which is to be found in an end note at the end of this document.

<sup>137</sup> 20:22 In this phrase, "you are asking" is plural. Whereas, when the mother was worshiping and asking, it was singular. Whether or not it was the mother's idea, or the sons', or both, Jesus addresses them in the plural. In the next sentence when he asks, 'Are you able...', plural, he is surely addressing the sons, not the mother.

<sup>24</sup>And when the other ten heard, they were upset about the two brothers. <sup>25</sup>And Jesus, calling them to him, said, "You know that the rulers among the nations lord it over them, and the great ones exercise authority over them. <sup>26</sup>It shall not be so among you. Instead, whoever wants to be great among you shall be your servant, <sup>27</sup>and whoever wants to be first among you must be your slave. <sup>28</sup>Just as the Son of Man did not come to be served, but to serve, and to give his life a ransom for many."

Two Blind Beggars Receive Their Sight

<sup>29</sup>And as they were leaving Jericho, very large crowds were following them. <sup>30</sup>And behold, two blind men sitting alongside the road, when they hear that Jesus is passing by, they cry out, saying, "Have mercy on us, Lord, Son of David!"

<sup>31</sup>But the crowd scolded them, that they should be quiet. But they cried out the more, saying, "Have mercy on us, Lord, Son of David!"

<sup>32</sup>And Jesus stopped, and called out to them and said, "What do you want me to do for you?"

<sup>33</sup>They are saying to him, "Lord, that our eyes be opened." <sup>34</sup>And feeling sorry for them, Jesus touched their eyes, and immediately they saw, and they followed him.

Chapter 21

The Triumphal Entry

<sup>4</sup>Now this happened so that what was spoken through the prophet would be fulfilled, which says,

'Behold, your king is coming to you meek,
and riding on a donkey,

<sup>138</sup> 21:5a It appears to me that Matthew (or a later editor of Matthew) mistook this exegetical "and" in the Greek of the Septuagint Zechariah 9:9 as meaning both a donkey and its colt. An exegetical "and" would make the verse read, "and mounted on a donkey, specifically a colt, the foal of a donkey." Perhaps as a result of misunderstanding this, Matthew's account of Jesus' donkey ride has Jesus sitting on both the donkey and its foal, whereas the other gospel writers say only the foal. See Mark 11:1-7; Luke 19:30-35; John 12:14, 15. And the Zechariah passage itself says he rides only one animal.

<sup>6</sup>And those disciples went, and did just as they were instructed by Jesus. <sup>7</sup>They brought the donkey and the colt, and placed their cloaks on them, and he sat on them. <sup>8</sup>And the large crowd of people spread their garments out on the road; and some were cutting branches off the trees and spreading those on the road. <sup>9</sup>And the crowd proceeding ahead of him, and those following after, were shouting out as follows:

"Hosha na<sup>140</sup> to the Son of David!"

"Blessed is he who comes in the name of the Lord!"<sup>141</sup>

"Hosha na in the highest!"

Jesus Clears the Temple

<sup>12</sup>And Jesus went into the temple, and he threw out all the ones who were selling or buying in the temple. And the tables of the moneychangers<sup>142</sup> he overturned, and the seats of the ones selling doves. <sup>13</sup>And he says to them, "It is written:

'My house shall be called a house of prayer',<sup>143</sup> but you are making it
'a den of thieves.'<sup>144</sup>

<sup>14</sup>And the blind and the lame came to him in the temple, and he healed them. <sup>15</sup>But when the chief priests and the Torah scholars saw the wonders that he performed, and the children crying out in the temple and saying, "Hosha na to the Son of David," they were indignant, <sup>16</sup>and they said to him, "Do you hear what they are saying?!"

<sup>142</sup> 21:12 The Greek word here, κολλυβιστής - kollubistēs, is traditionally translated "moneychangers," but bankers is what they were. They are called moneychangers here because the main purpose of their "tables" when in the temple area was to break up larger currency into smaller change, and also perhaps to exchange foreign currency, if there was such a thing in the Roman empire. But the fact is, what the "tables" were is little in-temple, mini-branches of banks. We know they were tables of bankers offering other banking services such as savings accounts paying interest, because of Luke 19:23, where the "tables" were places to put money on deposit to earn interest.

And Jesus says to them, "Yes. Have you never read,

'Out of the mouths of children and those still nursing you have arranged for yourself praise'<sup>145</sup>?"

The Withered Fig Tree

<sup>18</sup>And early in the morning, as he was on his way back to the city, he was hungry.

<sup>19</sup>And when he saw a lone fig tree by the road, he went up to it. And he found nothing on it but only leaves. And he says to it, "May there never be fruit from you again." And immediately the fig tree withered.

<sup>20</sup>And when the disciples saw this they marvelled, saying, "How did the fig tree immediately wither?"

<sup>21</sup>And in answer Jesus said to them, "Truly I say to you, if you have faith, and do not second guess, not only will you do something like the fig tree, but also should you say to this mountain, 'Be lifted up and thrown into the sea,' it would happen. <sup>22</sup>In fact anything whatsoever that you ask for in prayer believing, you will receive."

The Authority of Jesus Questioned

<sup>23</sup>And after he had come into the temple, as he was teaching, the high priests and the elders of the people approached, saying, "By what authority are you doing these things? And who gave you the authority for these things?"

<sup>24</sup>And in answer Jesus said to them, "I will also ask you one question, which if you answer me, I will then tell you by what authority I do these things. <sup>25</sup>The baptism of John, where was it from, from heaven, or from human beings?"

So they discussed it among themselves, saying, "If we say, 'From heaven,' he will say to us, 'Then why didn't you believe in him?' <sup>26</sup>And if we say, 'From human beings,' we fear the people, for they all hold John as a prophet."

<sup>27</sup>And they in answer said to Jesus, "We do not know."

So he also told them, "Neither am I telling you by what authority I am doing these things."

<sup>145</sup> 21:16 Psalm 8:2 Note also that in that culture, it was normal for children of speaking age to still be breast feeding.

The Parable of the Two Sons

<sup>28</sup>"So what do you think? A man had two sons. And he went to the first son and said, 'Son, go work in the vineyard today.' <sup>29</sup>And he in answer said, 'I will not,' but with a subsequent change of heart, he went. <sup>30</sup>And he went to the other son and said the same thing. And he in answer said, 'I will, sir,' and did not go.

They are saying, "The first one."

Jesus says to them, "Truly I say to you: the revenue agents and prostitutes are going into the kingdom of God before you.<sup>146</sup> <sup>32</sup>For John came to you with the way of righteousness, and you did not believe in him. The revenue agents and prostitutes, however, did believe in him. And you when you saw that, neither did you subsequently have a change of heart and believe in him."

The Parable of the Tenants

<sup>33</sup>"Listen to another parable. There was a landowner who planted a vineyard, and he put a hedge around it, and dug a winepress in it, and built a watchtower, and leased it out to tenant farmers, and journeyed away. <sup>34</sup>And when the time of harvest had drawn near, he sent servants of his to the farmers, to take his fruit.

<sup>35</sup>And this is the reception the farmers gave his servants: one they flogged, another they killed, another they stoned. <sup>36</sup>Again he sent other servants, more than before, and they treated them the same way. <sup>37</sup>So finally he sent his own son to them, thinking, 'They will respect my son.'

<sup>38</sup>But the farmers when they saw the son said to each other, 'This is the heir. Hey, let's kill him, and his inheritance will be ours.' <sup>39</sup>And they took him and cast him outside the vineyard and killed him.

<sup>40</sup>When therefore the owner of the vineyard comes, what will he do to those farmers?"

<sup>41</sup>They are saying to him, "He will kill those creeps catastrophically,<sup>147</sup> and give the vineyard to other farmers, who will pay him back the fruits in their seasons."

<sup>147</sup> 21:41 There may be an alliteration here, κακοὺς κακῶς – kakoûs kakōs (bad guys badly), where the word for bad guys starts with the same sound as the word for badly. He will kill those bad guys badly. Thus, many translations render it "bring those wretches to a wretched end." The reason they chose those words is that they start with the same sound, not necessarily because those words are the best translation for the Greek words. The reason I chose three words starting with the K sound is that that sound is generally considered an unpleasant sound. (Although Kappa was a softer K than was Xi, Kappa being the unaspirated and Xi being the aspirated K sound.) Thus we get the word "cacophonous." And the Spanish word "caca."

<sup>42</sup>Jesus says to them, "Have you never read in the scriptures,

" 'A stone which the builders rejected, this one has become the chief cornerstone.
 From the Lord this came about, and it is marvelous
     in our eyes'<sup>148</sup>?"

<sup>43</sup>Therefore I say to you, that the kingdom of God will be taken away from you, and given to a nation producing its fruit. <sup>44</sup>And the person who trips over that stone will be broken into pieces, and upon whomever the stone falls, it will turn him into powder."<sup>149</sup>

<sup>45</sup>And when the chief priests and the Pharisees heard this parable of his, they knew that it was about them that he was speaking. <sup>46</sup>And though seeking to arrest him, they feared the crowds, since they held him to be a prophet.

Chapter 22

The Parable of the Wedding Banquet

<sup>1</sup>And once again Jesus in response to them spoke by means of a parable, saying,

<sup>4</sup>Once more, he sent other servants, telling them, 'Say to those invited, "Look, my noon meal has been prepared, my bulls and fattened animals are slaughtered, and everything is ready. Come now to my wedding feast." <sup>5</sup>But they disregarded this and went off, one to his own field, another on his trade route, <sup>6</sup>and others of them captured his servants, and insulted and killed them.

<sup>7</sup>And the king became angry, and sending his soldiers, he slew those murderers, and burned their city. <sup>8</sup>Then, he says to his servants, 'Seeing as how my wedding feast is ready, and the ones invited were not worthy, <sup>9</sup>go out therefore onto the crossings of the roads, and whoever you find, invite them to the wedding feast." <sup>10</sup>So going out into the roads, those servants gathered everyone that they could find, both the evil and the good. And so the wedding hall was filled with guests reclining.

Also, the committee says, the more appropriate place for copyists to have inserted it, if it was an interpolation, would have been after verse 42.

<sup>11</sup>Now when the king went in to observe the ones reclining, he saw there a man who was not dressed in wedding clothes. <sup>12</sup>And he says to him, 'Friend, how is it you have come in here without having wedding clothes?' And he was speechless.

<sup>13</sup>Then the king said to his servants, 'Bind his feet and hands, and throw him outside, into the outer darkness; there, there will be weeping, and gnashing of teeth.' <sup>14</sup>For many are invited, but few are chosen."

Paying the Tribute Tax to Caesar

<sup>15</sup>Then the Pharisees left, and plotted how<sup>150</sup> they might entrap him in a saying. <sup>16</sup>And they send disciples of theirs to him, along with Herodians, saying as follows, "Teacher, we know that you are honest, and that you teach the way of God with integrity,<sup>151</sup> and it makes no difference to you about anyone, for you pay no attention to the personage of people.<sup>152</sup> <sup>17</sup>Tell us then, what do you think? Is it permissible to pay the tribute to Caesar, or not?"

<sup>18</sup>But aware of their evil, Jesus said, "Why are you testing me, you hypocrites? <sup>19</sup>Show me the coinage used for the tribute." And they brought him a denarius. <sup>20</sup>And he says to them, "Whose image is this, and whose inscription?"

Then he says to them, "So Caesar's things you give back to Caesar, and God's things to God." <sup>22</sup>And when they heard this, they were amazed, and they left him, and went away.

Marriage at the Resurrection

<sup>28</sup>In the resurrection, then, of which of the seven will she be wife? For all of them had her."

<sup>29</sup>And in answer Jesus said to them, "You are mistaken, from not knowing either the scriptures or the power of God. <sup>30</sup>For in the resurrection, they neither marry nor are given in marriage, but are like the angels in heaven.

<sup>31</sup>Now about the resurrection of the dead, have you never read the declaration to you from God, where he says, <sup>32</sup>I am the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob<sup>153</sup>? He is not the God of the dead, but of the living."

The Weightiest Commandment

Whose Son is the Messiah?

<sup>41</sup>And as long as the Pharisees were collected together, Jesus questioned them, <sup>42</sup>saying: "What do you all think about the Christ— whose son is he?"

They are saying, "David's."

<sup>43</sup>He says, "How is it then that David, by the Spirit, calls him Lord, saying, <sup>44</sup>'Yahweh said to my Lord,<sup>157</sup> 'Sit at my right hand until such time I put your enemies under your feet.'<sup>158</sup> <sup>45</sup>So, since David calls him Lord, how is he his son?"

In this verse, both the Tetragrammaton יְהוָה (YHVH) and Adonai are found, together. But one could hardly say, "Adonai said to Adonai." In an attempt to avoid this, the Masoretes inserted a paseq in between, one of these: |, to make them be in separate phrases, and thus the Masoretic text reads: נָאֻם יְהוָה | לַאֲדֹנָי .

Jesus Denounces the Rabbis

<sup>8</sup>But you, you should not be called Rabbi, because there is only one teacher for you, and you are all brothers. <sup>9</sup>And call no one on earth your father, because there is only one father for you, the heavenly one. <sup>10</sup>Neither should you be called Teacher, because your teacher is the Messiah. <sup>11</sup>But the greatest among you shall be your servant. <sup>12</sup>And whoever promotes himself will be lowered, and whoever lowers himself will be promoted.

<sup>13</sup>Woe to you, Torah scholars and Pharisees, you hypocrites! For you close the kingdom of heaven in people's faces; you yourselves do not enter, and neither do you allow those who are entering to enter.<sup>162</sup>

<sup>15</sup>Woe to you, Torah scholars and Pharisees, you hypocrites! Because you traverse sea and land to make one convert, and when it happens, you make him twice the son of Gehenna that you are.

<sup>159</sup> 23:2 The Greek says ἐκάθισαν ἐπὶ καθέδρας τῆς Μωϋσέως, which when translated literally is "they sat upon the seat of Moses." This is probably a "gnomic" aorist, somewhat like the perfect aspect. Jesus appears to be saying that they legitimately took the place of Moses, and still at the time, were sitting there. Note also that the arrangement of furniture in synagogues in that time included a literal raised seat in the front, symbolically reserved for Moses.

<sup>160</sup> 23:4a There are a variety of readings here in the Greek. Many manuscripts add the words "and oppressive to bear," but that is probably an interpolation from Luke 11:46.

<sup>161</sup> 23:4b The word "finger" is in the plural, but it is a collective, talking about the group's acts as individuals. For example, when someone says to a group of people, "Turn your hearts to God," that does not mean that each person has more than one heart, but means rather, each of you all, turn your own heart, singular, to God.

<sup>16</sup>Woe to you, you blind guides, that say, 'Whoever swears by the temple, that is nothing; but whoever swears by the gold of the temple, he is obligated.' <sup>17</sup>O you blind fools! For which is greater— the gold, or the temple that makes the gold something holy?

<sup>18</sup>Or that say, 'Whoever swears by the altar, that is nothing; but whoever swears by the gift that lies upon it, he is obligated.' <sup>19</sup>O you blind men! For which is greater— the gift, or the altar that makes the gift something holy?

<sup>22</sup>And when you swear by heaven, you are swearing by the throne of God AND by him who sits upon it.

<sup>23</sup>Woe to you, Torah scholars and Pharisees, you hypocrites! For you tithe the mint and dill and cumin, and have passed over more important matters of the law— justice, mercy and faith. But these latter you ought to practice, without leaving the former undone. <sup>24</sup>You blind guides, straining out a gnat, but swallowing a camel!

<sup>26</sup>O blind Pharisee! First clean the inside of the cup, such that the outside will be clean as well.

<sup>27</sup>Woe to you, Torah scholars and Pharisees, you hypocrites! For you are like whitewashed tombs, that sparkle beautifully on the outside, but inside are full of bones of the dead and all sorts of unclean things.

There are in fact a couple examples of the same form being plural, in the Doric dialect, a contracted form of the present indicative. But since the article here is singular, the whole phrase is singular.

<sup>164</sup> 23:25a Picture a grabbiness, continuously acquiring things, always wanting more things. There may be a play on words here with the "cup and dish," when it comes to grabbiness for food and drink, and the other word in this sentence, intemperance.

The Greek word here, ἀκρασία - akrasía, means to have no or to exercise no power over one's self, in restraining the pursuit of pleasure, the pursuit of one's appetites. (The Majority text, which the KJV did not follow in this instance, reads ἀδικίαν here—"unrighteousness"—instead of ἀκρασίας) But it is hard to say, "the inside is full of an absence of something." I was tempted to say here, "full of addictions," because that is the ultimate result of lack of restraint, and the decline in usefulness to society spoken of by Socrates and Aristotle on the subject of this word ἀκρασία. It is not solely a Bible-belt fundamentalist concept, that unrestraint in the pursuit of pleasure brings the downfall of civilization, but it is also the belief and teaching of the great Greek philosophers. See the end note on this verse and the word ἀκρασία, with excerpts of the classic philosophers, showing how they used the word.

<sup>28</sup>So you also, outside you appear to people as righteous, but inside you are loaded up with hypocrisy and lawlessness.

<sup>29</sup>Woe to you, Torah scholars and Pharisees, you hypocrites! For you build the tombs of the prophets, and decorate the graves of the righteous, <sup>30</sup>and you say, 'If we had lived in the days of our forefathers we would not have been parties to the blood of the prophets.'

<sup>34</sup>Therefore behold, I am sending to you prophets, and wise men, and Torah scholars; some of them you will kill and crucify, and some of them you will flog in your synagogues and pursue from town to town, <sup>35</sup>so that on you will come all of the blood of the righteous ever spilled upon the earth, from the blood of righteous Abel to the blood of Zechariah son of Barachiah, whom you slaughtered between the sanctuary and the altar.

<sup>39</sup>For I tell you, from now on, me you will not see, until such time you say, 'Blessed is he who comes in the name of the Lord.'"<sup>168</sup>

Chapter 24

Signs of the Times

<sup>166</sup> 23:32 This is traditionally translated as an imperative: "Fill up then, the measure of your forefathers." But the imperative inflection of verbs was usually identical to the indicative. Therefore, it is possible that this could be an indicative, and be rendered, "You fill indeed the measure of your forefathers." This rendering would be in accord with Luke's parallel in Luke 11:48, which states that their forefathers did the killing, and they did the building. That is a filling or completion of the measure of their forefathers. This could be something like our expression, "You fill your father's shoes." My main reason for rendering this as an indicative is the διὰ τοῦτο - dia touto (for this reason) that Jesus begins verse 34 with. "You will pursue and kill my prophets just like your forefathers did." He is saying that they do indeed fill the shoes of their forefathers (and foremothers— Jezebel).

<sup>167</sup> 23:38 It was once thought that texts of Matthew included the word ἐρημος - ērēmos to harmonize with Luke 13:35, but now a new analysis of Papyrus 77 (late II century) for Matthew 23:38 has been made, which shows the absence of the word "desolate."

"Do you see all these things?<sup>169</sup> Truly I tell you, by no means will there be a stone left upon a stone that will not be thrown down."

<sup>3</sup>Then as he was sitting on the Mount of Olives, his disciples came to him privately, saying, "Tell us, when will these things happen, and what will be the sign of your coming, and of the end of the age?"

<sup>4</sup>And in answer Jesus said to them, "See that no one misleads you. <sup>5</sup>For many will come in my name, saying, 'I am the Christ,' and they will deceive many. <sup>6</sup>And you will hear about wars and rumors of wars. Do not be alarmed. For such are bound to happen, but the end is still not yet.

<sup>7</sup>For nation will rise up against nation, and king against king, and there will be famines and earthquakes in various places. <sup>8</sup>But all these are just the beginning of birth pains.

<sup>9</sup>At that time they will deliver you over to trial, and you will be hated by all nations because of my name. <sup>10</sup>And then many will be scandalized, and others will betray and hate each other; <sup>11</sup>and many false prophets shall arise, and lead many astray. <sup>12</sup>And because of the increase of lawlessness, the love of many will grow cold. <sup>13</sup>But the person who remains to the end, that one will be rescued. <sup>14</sup>And this gospel of the kingdom will be preached in the whole inhabited earth, for a witness to all nations, and then the end will come.

<sup>19</sup>And alas for those who are pregnant, and the ones giving milk during those days! <sup>20</sup>And pray that your flight not happen during winter or on a sabbath. <sup>21</sup>For there will be great distress then, of a sort that has not happened from the beginning of the world till now, nor ever will again.<sup>171</sup> <sup>22</sup>And if those days had not been made short, no flesh would survive; but for the sake of the elect, those days will be short.<sup>172</sup>

<sup>169</sup> 24:2 This at first looks like it is saying, "Do not look at all these things." But BDF §427(2) says, "Both οὐ and μή are still used in questions as in classical." BDF §440 further explains, "Οὐ is employed to suggest an affirmative answer, μή (μήτι) a negative reply; in the latter, μή with the indicative is an external indication that it is a question, since independent μή can be used in no other way than interrogatively." So in this case of Matt. 24:2, the word οὐ suggests a "yes" answer to Jesus' question. It is not necessary to translate the Greek word into a corresponding English word. It is obvious that the disciples did see them.

<sup>172</sup> 24:22 This word in the Greek for "made short" is κολοβόω - kolobōō. It has traditionally been translated here as "those days will be shortened." But that raises more questions than are answered. Questions such as, will those days start out as regular 24-hour days, but then be shortened to days of less than 24 hours each? No, it means that "that period of time" will be shortened. So then, does it mean God changed his mind, that is, that he had originally planned for that period of time to last X amount of days, but at some point decides to shorten that period of time? No, that

<sup>23</sup>At that time, if anyone says to you, 'Behold, here is the Messiah,' or 'There is the Messiah,' do not believe it. <sup>24</sup>For there shall arise many false prophets, and they will perform great signs and miracles, so as to deceive if possible, even the elect. <sup>25</sup>See, I have told you ahead of time.

<sup>26</sup>If therefore they say to you, 'Behold, he is in the desert,' do not go out. Or, 'Behold, he is in a private room,' do not believe it. <sup>27</sup>For just as lightning comes out of the east and shines as far as the west, so shall the appearing of the Son of Man be.<sup>173</sup> <sup>28</sup>Wherever the carcass is, there the vultures<sup>174</sup> will be gathered.<sup>175</sup>

<sup>29</sup>And immediately after the tribulation of those days, the sun will be darkened and the moon will not give its glow, and the stars will fall from heaven, and the forces of the heavens will be shaken.<sup>176</sup>

<sup>30</sup>And then the sign of the Son of Man will appear in the sky, and at that time, all the tribes of the earth will wail, and they will see the Son of Man coming on the clouds of the sky, with great power and great glory. <sup>31</sup>And he will send his angels with a loud trumpet, and they will gather his elect from the four winds, from one end of sky to the other.

would not be consistent with what is written in either the prophets, or in the New Testament. This verse is more clearly put by Mark, in 13:20, because Mark puts it in the past tense, and says who did it also: "He (the Lord) has made those days short." It has already been decided by the Lord how long that period of time will be. Their duration will not be changed. They will not be shortened. The point of this verse is that, if that period of time went on longer, no flesh would survive.

<sup>173</sup> 24:27 Or, so shall be the coming of the Son of Man. Both 'appearing' and 'coming' are true and appropriate, and included in the meaning of the Greek word παρουσία - parousía here. When someone comes to you, they also "show." Coming is also an appearing, in English.

<sup>174</sup> 24:28a Greek: ὁ ἀετός - ho aetós, a word used for both eagles and vultures. Yet this is apparently a quote by Jesus of the parable in Job 39:30, where the parallel in the Septuagint to ho aetós is ἰέραξ - hiérax, a hawk, v. 26. Both Aristotle and Pliny in their Histories class the vulture among the eagles. Both eagles and vultures are classified as unclean in the law of Moses, Lev. 11:13, Deut. 14:12, in that they both eat carrion (in Job 39:30 ho aetós is eating carrion). Yet generally speaking, where ho aetós is eating carrion, vultures may be assumed to be meant. Now T.W. Manson, in "Sayings of Jesus," says the eagle would emphasize the swiftness of the coming of the Day of the Son of man. It is true that the eagle in passages such as Job 9:26, and Rev. 12:14, is a symbol of swiftness. I also get some amount of meaning in this verse that the eagles are acting as a form of messenger, which again, the eagle sometimes symbolizes, but not vultures as much. But the main emphasis here about the bird is not that of messenger, but that of a clear sign in the sky. Still, either 'eagles' or 'vultures' would be an acceptable rendering here.

<sup>175</sup> 24:28b The point seems to be that the return of Christ will not be a hidden thing, or something only a select few will be aware of. It will be as obvious, in the same way that it is obvious where the carcass is.

The Day and Hour Unknown

<sup>43</sup>But this you know: that if the home owner had known at what watch of the night the thief was coming, he would have watched and not allowed his house to be broken into.

<sup>47</sup>Truly I tell you, he will place him over all his possessions.

<sup>48</sup>But if that servant says in his heart, 'My lord is taking a long time,' <sup>49</sup>and his fellow servants he begins to slap around, but eats and drinks with the drunkards, <sup>50</sup>the lord of that servant will come at an hour he is not expecting, and at a time he does not know, <sup>51</sup>and will cut him in two, and appoint him his inheritance with the hypocrites. There, there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

The Parable of the Ten Virgins

<sup>1</sup>"At that time, the kingdom of heaven will be like ten virgins who after grabbing their torches, went out for the meeting up with the bridegroom.<sup>180</sup> <sup>2</sup>Now five of them were

<sup>178</sup> 24:36 Thanks be to God, Jesus is clear and specific throughout this chapter concerning time periods. We will know the season, he says, but not the day or the hour. These words therefore must be taken at their ordinary face value: a season is about three months, a day is 24 hours, and an hour is 60 minutes. That is, when the season comes upon us, which we will recognize by all the signs given in this chapter, then at that time we will know that his coming will be at most a few couple months after all these signs have taken place. We will never know the day or hour however.

<sup>180</sup> 25:1 The meeting "up with," or joining up with, is from the Greek word ὑπάντησις - hupanteesis (See also how I translated this word in John 12:13. This word, by New Testament times, was used somewhat interchangeably with ἀπάντησις (apanteesis) as well, as in verse 6 later in this chapter, and in the passages about meeting the Lord in the air, in I Thessalonians). Here it is referring to the Palestinian wedding custom that the bridesmaids join up with the bridegroom party after he has gone to the bride's father's house and gotten his bride. The official ceremony had already started with the groom and his companions' procession to the bride's father's house. And now, the bridesmaids go out foolish, and five of them were wise. <sup>3</sup>For the foolish ones when they brought their torches, had not brought some oil along with them.<sup>181</sup> <sup>4</sup>The wise, however, brought along with their torches, some oil in a container.

<sup>5</sup>Now after the bridegroom was taking a long time, they all became drowsy, and fell asleep. <sup>6</sup>And in the middle of the night, there came a loud cry, 'Look, the bridegroom! Come out to join him.'

<sup>9</sup>But the wise ones answered saying, 'There may not be enough for both us and you. Go to the vendors and buy more for yourselves.'

<sup>10</sup>And while they were gone away to buy some, the bridegroom came, and the ones who were ready went in with him to the wedding, and then the door was locked.

<sup>11</sup>And later on, the other virgins also arrive, and they are saying, 'Sir! Sir! Open the door for us.'

<sup>13</sup>You all should keep watch therefore; because you do not know the day or the hour."

The Parable of the Talants

<sup>14</sup>"For it is like a man going away on a journey. He summoned his own servants, and handed his possessions over to them. <sup>15</sup>And to one he gave five talants,<sup>183</sup> and to another two talants, and to another, one talant, each according to his own ability, and then he went abroad. Immediately, <sup>16</sup>the one who received the five talants went out and worked with them and gained<sup>184</sup> five more. <sup>17</sup>Similarly, the one with the two, gained and join the procession to the groom's house. Professional musicians were hired for this procession, and there was much dancing and music. The torches were necessary if darkness had fallen, or in case darkness might fall during the procession and ceremony. It would be prudent to take them, along with extra oil, since the torches burned up the oil rapidly. In this parable, the virgins are at the point where they are waiting for the bridegroom and his party to come with the bride, meet up with them, and then go to the groom's house. And the groom takes a long time to come.

<sup>181</sup> 25:3 The plural genitive form of ἑαυτοῦ - heautou, as found here, ἑαυτῶν - heautōn, is the same form for all genders. Therefore, "along with them" could be referring either to the virgins, or to the torches. But we see, from verse 4, that it is referring to the torches.

<sup>183</sup> 25:15 A talant was a measurement of weight for gold, silver, or copper, from 58 to 80 pounds (26 to 36 kg.). There came to be a coin called a talant, whose worth varied depending on the metal, time, and place used. The silver coin here was probably worth about two thousand dollars.

another two. <sup>18</sup>But the one who had received the one talant went out and dug a hole in the ground, and he hid his master's silver.

<sup>19</sup>And after a long time, the lord of those servants returns, and he is settling accounts with them. <sup>20</sup>And when the one who had received the five talants came forward, he presented another five talants to him,<sup>185</sup> saying, 'Lord, you entrusted<sup>186</sup> to me five talants. Look, I have gained another five talants.'

<sup>22</sup>And when the one who had received the two talants came forward, he said, 'Lord, you entrusted to me two talants. Look, I have gained another two talants.'

<sup>23</sup>His lord said to him, 'Well done, good and faithful servant. You have been faithful over a little; over much I will appoint you. Enter into the joy of your lord.'

<sup>24</sup>But then when the one who had received<sup>187</sup> the one talant came forward, he said, 'Lord, I knew you, that you are a hard man, who reaps where he has not sown, and gathers what he has not winnowed.<sup>188</sup> <sup>25</sup>And because I was afraid, I went out and hid your talant in the ground. See here, you still have what is yours.'

<sup>26</sup>But in response, his master said to him, 'You wicked and idle servant! You knew that I reap where I have not sown and gather what I have not winnowed? <sup>27</sup>Then you should have deposited my silver with the bankers,<sup>189</sup> and when I returned I would recover what is mine with interest.

<sup>28</sup>Now then, take the talant away from him, and give it to the one who has the ten talants. <sup>29</sup>For to everyone who has, more will be given, and he will have himself an abundance. But the person who does not have, even such that he has will be taken away from him. <sup>30</sup>And as for that worthless servant, cast him into the outer darkness. There, there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth."

The variant word being discussed is on line 33 of the first column, in the middle of the line. Thanks to the Center for the Study of New Testament Manuscripts for free use of the manuscript image. www.csntm.org There is disagreement here between the NA27 apparatus and that of Swanson, in that NA27 lists A* and f<sup>13</sup> for ἐκέρδησεν, while Swanson lists those as supporting ἐποίησεν.

<sup>185</sup> 25:20a There are not exactly words corresponding to "to him" in the Greek, but the verb used here, προσφέρω - prosphérō, means "bring to engift, pay or present to somebody." In this case, it is to the master.

<sup>189</sup> 25:27 The word for bankers is interesting, in that it is a form of the word for table. In the Parable of the Ten Minas in Luke 19:23, the words are "Why did you not put my money on the table?" That is, the table of the money changers, or the counter of the bankers.

The Sheep and the Goats

<sup>31</sup>"And when the Son of Man returns in his glory, and all the angels with him, then he will sit on his glorious throne, <sup>32</sup>and all the nations will be brought together before him, and he will separate them one from the other, just as a shepherd separates the sheep from the goats, <sup>33</sup>and he will put the sheep on his right and the goats on his left.

<sup>34</sup>Then, the king will say to the ones on his right, 'Come, you blessed by my Father, receive as your inheritance the kingdom that has been prepared for you since the foundation of the world. <sup>35</sup>For I was hungry, and you gave me something to eat. I was thirsty, and you gave me a drink. I was traveling through, and you invited me in. <sup>36</sup>Naked, and you put clothes on me. Sick, and you came to look over me. I was in prison, and you came to visit with me.'

<sup>37</sup>Then the righteous will answer him saying, 'Lord, when did we see you hungry and feed you, or thirsty and give you a drink? <sup>38</sup>And when did we see you a traveler and invite you in, or naked and put clothes on you? <sup>39</sup>And when did we see you sick or in prison and come to visit with you?'

<sup>40</sup>"And in answer, the king will say, 'Truly I say to you, as many times as<sup>190</sup> you have done those things to the least of these of my brethren, you have done them to me.'

<sup>41</sup>Then, he will say also to the ones on his left, 'Depart from me, accursed ones, into the everlasting fire prepared for the devil and his angels. <sup>42</sup>For I was hungry, and you did not give me anything to eat. I was thirsty, and you did not give me a drink. <sup>43</sup>I was traveling through, and you did not invite me in. Naked, and you did not put clothes on me. Sick, or in prison, and you did not come and look over me.'

<sup>44</sup>Then those also will answer, saying, 'Lord, when did we see you hungry or thirsty or traveling through or naked or sick or in prison and not minister to you?'

<sup>45</sup>Then he will answer them saying, 'Truly I say to you, as many times as you did not do those things to one of the least of these, you did not do them to me.' <sup>46</sup>And those he will send off into everlasting punishment, but the righteous into everlasting life."

<sup>190</sup> 25:40 The Greek formula here, ἐφ' ὅσον ἐποιήσατε is rather hard to render. The most common lexical glosses of the words are as follows: epi = (upon); hosos = (as much or as often); and epoiesate = (you have done). Bauer says that the preposition epi is sometimes used with indications of number and measure, and as an example, "epi tris" means "three times." So here, the formula could be rendered, "as many times as you have done it to these...you have done it to me,..." Bauer says that here specifically, the formula epi hosos means to the degree that, in so far as. The only other time that this is used in the New Testament is in Romans 11:13. I notice that the rendering "Whatever you have done to these...you have done to me" is popular lately. The traditional rendering "Inasmuch as you have done it to them..." could imply a causative agency- because you have done it to them, you have done it to me.

The Plot Against Jesus

<sup>1</sup>And it came about that when Jesus had finished all these discourses, he said to his disciples, <sup>2</sup>"As you know, two days from now the Passover takes place, and the Son of Man will be handed over to be crucified." <sup>3</sup>Then the chief priests gathered together, along with the elders of the people, in the courtyard of the high priest, whose name was Kaiapha; <sup>4</sup>and they came to the decision that they would capture Jesus by trickery and kill him. <sup>5</sup>"But," they were saying, "not in the festival, or there might be an uproar among the people."

Jesus Anointed at Bethany

<sup>10</sup>But aware of this, Jesus said to them, "Why are you causing trouble for this woman? For she has performed a good work in me. <sup>11</sup>For the poor you always have with you, but me you do not always have. <sup>12</sup>For she did the pouring of this myrrh on my body to prepare me for burial. <sup>13</sup>Truly I tell you, wherever in the whole world this good news is preached, what this woman has done will also be spoken, in honorable remembrance of her."

<sup>14</sup>At that time one of the twelve went to the high priests, the one called Judas of Kerioth, <sup>15</sup>and he said, "What will you give me to betray him to you?" And they placed out for him thirty pieces of silver.<sup>192</sup> <sup>16</sup>And from then on, he was looking for a suitable time to betray him.

The Passover Supper

<sup>17</sup>And on the first day of Unleavened Bread, the disciples came to Jesus, saying, "Where do you want us getting the Passover meal ready for you to eat?"

<sup>18</sup>And he said, "Go into the city to a certain person and say to him, 'The Teacher says, 'My time is near. I am doing Passover with you, along with my disciples.''" <sup>19</sup>And those disciples did as Jesus told them, and prepared the Passover.

<sup>192</sup> 26:15 Bauer says under ἀργύριον 2.(c) that this means 30 silver coins called shekels, each worth about 4 drachmas.

<sup>20</sup>And as evening was coming on, he was reclining with the Twelve. <sup>21</sup>And while he was eating with them he said, "Truly I say to you, one of you will betray me."

<sup>23</sup>And in answer he said, "The one who dips his hand with mine in the bowl, he is the one who will betray me. <sup>24</sup>The Son of Man is going just indeed like it is written about him, but nevertheless woe to that man through whom the Son of Man is being betrayed. It would have been better for that man if he had not been born."

<sup>26</sup>And as they ate, Jesus took bread, and when he had given thanks, he broke it, and gave it to the disciples, and said, "Take and eat. This is my body." <sup>27</sup>And when he had taken the cup and given thanks, he gave it to them, saying,<sup>194</sup> "Drink from it everyone. <sup>28</sup>For this is my blood of the covenant, <sup>195</sup> being shed on behalf of many for the forgiveness of sins.<sup>196</sup> <sup>29</sup>And I say to you, I will certainly not drink from this fruit of the vine from now on, until that day when I drink it with you new in the kingdom of my Father." <sup>30</sup>And when they had sung a hymn, they went out toward the Mount of Olives.

<sup>31</sup>Then Jesus is saying to them, "You will all be scandalized because of me this very night, for it is written:

" I will strike down the shepherd, and the sheep of the flock will be scattered.'<sup>197</sup>

<sup>194</sup> 26:27 Because of the way there are two aorist participles in a row at the beginning of this verse, there is ambiguity as to how to interpret the "kai" (and) between the two participles. The "kai" could be just a coupler stringing the verbs together in sequence, as follows: "And when he had taken the cup and given thanks, he gave it to them, saying,..." Or, the "kai" could mean "also," as meaning to point out that he gave a little ceremony twice— both when he distributed the bread, and now the wine as well, as follows: "And when he had taken the cup he also gave thanks, and gave it to them, saying..." Luke seems to have something similar to the second interpretation, because in Luke 22:20, he says, "And the cup after the meal in the same way, saying,..."

<sup>32</sup>But after I am resurrected, I will go ahead of you into Galilee."

<sup>33</sup>But in response Peter said to him, "Though everyone else will be scandalized because of you, I will never be scandalized."

<sup>34</sup>Jesus said to him, "Truly I tell you, This very night before the rooster crows, you will disown me three times."

<sup>35</sup>Peter says to him, "Even if I have to die with you, I will never disown you." And all the other disciples said the same.

Gethsemane

<sup>36</sup>Then Jesus goes with them to a park named Gethsemane, and he says to the disciples, "Sit here during such time I am gone over there to pray." <sup>37</sup>And he took Peter along, and the two sons of Zebedee, and he began to be sorrowful and deeply depressed.

<sup>38</sup>Then he says to them, "My soul is too sad, to the point of death.<sup>198</sup> Remain here and stay awake with me." <sup>39</sup>And then after he had moved forward a little, he fell on his face, praying and saying, "My Father, if it is possible, remove this cup from me. Nevertheless, not as I will, but as you will."

<sup>42</sup>Again for the second time he went away and was praying, saying, "My Father, if it is not possible for this cup to go away unless I drink it, may your will be done." <sup>43</sup>And when he returned again, he found them sleeping, because their eyelids were weighed down heavily.

<sup>44</sup>And again he left them and went away, praying for the third time, saying the same thing again. <sup>45</sup>Then at that time he comes to the disciples and says to them, "Still sleeping away and resting? Behold, the hour has drawn near, and the Son of Man is being betrayed into the hands of sinners. <sup>46</sup>Get up, let's go. Look, the one betraying me is approaching."

<sup>198</sup> 26:38 ἕως θανάτου; heōs indicating the upper limit of possibility. In other words, he could not be more sad, because if he was any sadder, he would die.

<sup>199</sup> 26:40 There is no Greek word corresponding to the word "guys," but I added it to show that the words here are plural inflection, and that Jesus is addressing not just Peter but all three of them.

<sup>200</sup> 26:41 The Greek is ambiguous as to whether it means that the activity of praying would prevent them from going into temptation, or that their prayer request should be that they not go into temptation. Both could in fact be true simultaneously.

Jesus Arrested

<sup>49</sup>And he came straight up to Jesus and said, "Good morning, Rabbi."<sup>201</sup> Then he kissed him.

<sup>50</sup>And Jesus said to him, "Friend, why are you here?" Then at that time they came up and laid their hands on Jesus, and arrested him.

<sup>51</sup>And behold, one of those in the company of Jesus raised his hand and drew his sword, and he struck the servant of the high priest and cut off his ear.

<sup>52</sup>Jesus then says to him, "Return your sword to its place. For all who take up the sword will perish by the sword. <sup>53</sup>Or do you think I am not able to call on my Father, and he make available to me right now twelve legions of angels? <sup>54</sup>But then how would the scriptures be fulfilled which indicate that all this needs to happen?"

<sup>55</sup>At that time, Jesus said to the crowd, "As though after a bandit you have come out with swords and clubs to capture me? Every day I was sitting in the temple teaching and you didn't arrest me. <sup>56</sup>But, this has all come about so the writings of the prophets would be fulfilled." Then the disciples all abandoned him and fled.

Before the Sanhedrin

<sup>57</sup>And the ones arresting Jesus led him away to Kaiapha the high priest, where the Torah scholars and the elders had gathered. <sup>58</sup>Now Peter had been following him from a distance, up to the courtyard of the high priest, and once he got inside, he was sitting with the servants, to see the outcome. <sup>59</sup>And the high priest and the entire Sanhedrin were looking for false testimony against Jesus by which they could put him to death, <sup>60</sup>and they had not found it from the many false witnesses who had come forward. But then later, two came forward <sup>61</sup>and said, "This man said, 'I am able to destroy the temple of God, and in three days to build it again.'"

<sup>62</sup>And the high priest rose and said to him, "Aren't you answering anything? What about this they are testifying against you?" <sup>63</sup>But Jesus was keeping silent. And the high priest said to him, "I adjure you by the living God that you declare under oath whether you are the Messiah, the Son of God."

<sup>201</sup> 26:49 The Greek word used as greeting here means literally something like "Joy" or "Rejoice." But insert any cheerful greeting here used in your culture or language.

<sup>64</sup>Jesus says to him, "You said that. Nevertheless I say to you: after now you shall all see the Son of Man sitting at the right hand of the Power, and coming on the clouds of heaven."

<sup>65</sup>Then the high priest tore his robe, saying, "He has blasphemed! What more need to we have for witnesses? Behold, now you have heard the blasphemy. <sup>66</sup>How does it look to you?"

And they said in answer, "He is guilty enough for death." <sup>67</sup>Then they spit on his face and pummeled him; they slapped him <sup>68</sup>while saying, "Prophecy to us, you Messiah—who is the one who hit you?"

Peter Disowns Jesus

<sup>69</sup>And Peter was sitting outside in the courtyard, and one maidservant approached him, saying, "You also were with Jesus the Galilean."

<sup>70</sup>But he was denying it before all of them, saying, "I do not know what you are saying."

<sup>71</sup>And after he had moved off into the entrance way, another maidservant saw him and is saying to the ones there, "This man was with Jesus the Nazarene."

<sup>73</sup>And after a little while those standing there said to Peter, "You definitely are also one of them, because your speech also gives you away."

<sup>74</sup>Then he began to curse and swear, saying, "I do not know the man." And immediately a rooster crowed. <sup>75</sup>And Peter was reminded of the statement Jesus had said, that "Before the rooster crows, you will deny me three times." And he went off outside, and wept bitterly.

Judas Hangs Himself

<sup>1</sup>And very early in the morning, they all, the chief priests and elders of the people, reached the decision against Jesus that they would put him to death. <sup>2</sup>And they bound him, and led him away, and handed him over to Pilate the governor.

<sup>3</sup>Then, when Judas the one who betrayed him saw that he was condemned, he with remorse returned the thirty pieces of silver to the chief priests and elders, <sup>4</sup>saying, "I have sinned; I have betrayed innocent blood."

But they said, "What is that to us? You deal with that."

<sup>5</sup>And after throwing the silver into the temple, he departed, and went off and hung himself. <sup>6</sup>And the chief priests when they picked up the pieces of silver, said, "It is not permissible to put them in the temple treasury, since it is blood price money."

<sup>7</sup>And after conferring on a course of action, they bought with the coins the potter's field, as a burial place for foreigners. <sup>8</sup>For which reason that field has been called "the Field of Blood" to this day. <sup>9</sup>Then was fulfilled what was spoken through Jeremiah the prophet, which says,

"And they took the thirty pieces of silver, the price of him on whom a price had been set, as priced by the sons of Israel,<sup>202</sup> <sup>10</sup>and they traded them for the potter's field, just as the Lord directed me."<sup>203</sup>

Jesus Before Pilate

<sup>11</sup>And Jesus was stood before the governor; and the governor examined him, saying, "YOU are the king of the Jews?"

And he said, "You are saying that, not I."<sup>204</sup> <sup>12</sup>And during the whole time he was being accused by the chief priests and elders, he was not responding at all.

<sup>13</sup>Then Pilate says to him, "Don't you hear all the things they are charging you with?" <sup>14</sup>And he gave him no answer, not to even a single charge, causing the governor to be greatly astonished.

<sup>204</sup> 27:11 The BDF grammar in §277(1) says that this use of the nominative of a pronoun was used for contrast or other emphasis. In this case, "you" is emphasized, as in "YOU are the king of the Jews?" Blass says Pilate is expressing surprise as follows: "A man like you, is king of the Jews?!" And in response also, Jesus' answer starts out with an emphatic you: "You are saying that, not I." In the gospel of John, it is more clear: "You are saying that I am a king; I am saying that I have come to testify to the truth." But see the endnote in my translation of the gospel of Mark, for discussion of other possibilities.

It is possible that the original gospel of Matthew said "Jesus Barabbas." And possible that, according to the Editorial Committee of the United Bible Societies Greek New Testament, the word "Jesus" in connection to Barabbas was "deliberately suppressed in most witnesses for reverential considerations." For example, acc. to the UBS textual commentary, Origen stated, it cannot be right, because, "In the whole range of the scriptures we know that no one who is a sinner [is called] Jesus." Origen, though admitting that Barabbas was called Jesus, nevertheless suppressed this in his work. In many even later witnesses, the copyists state in the margin that the earlier copies call Barabbas Jesus as well. But, they suppressed it, and the subsequent copies did not say Jesus Barabbas.

gathered together, Pilate said to them, "Which do you want me to release to you, Barabbas,<sup>206</sup> or Jesus who is called Christ?" <sup>18</sup>(For he knew that it was out of envy that they had handed him over.)

<sup>19</sup>And while he was sitting on the judgment seat, his wife sent word to him as follows: "Have nothing to do with that righteous man, for I have suffered much today because of a dream about him."<sup>207</sup> <sup>20</sup>And the chief priests and the elders manipulated the crowd so that they would ask to have Barabbas, but Jesus they would put to death.

<sup>21</sup>But when the governor answered, he said to them, "Which of the two do you want me to release to you?"

And they said, "Barabbas."

<sup>22</sup>Pilate is saying to them, "What then should I do with Jesus who is called Christ?"

They are saying, "Let him be crucified!"

<sup>23</sup>But Pilate was saying, "Why? What crime has he committed?"

But they kept shouting that much more, saying, "Let him be crucified!"

<sup>24</sup>And when Pilate saw that he was accomplishing nothing, but that instead an uproar was starting, he took some water and washed his hands in front of the crowd, saying, "I am innocent of this man's blood.<sup>208</sup> You see to that yourselves."

<sup>25</sup>And in response the whole crowd said, "Let his blood be on us and on our children." <sup>26</sup>At that time, he released Barabbas to them, but Jesus, after scourging him, he handed over to be crucified.

Westcott and Hort however, state that the reading "Jesus Barabbas" was probably due to a scribe's error in transcription. Some say it is still easier to explain why "Jesus" might have been deleted than why it might have gotten added. In addition, having two men named Jesus fits better with the phrase of Pilate, found in all manuscripts, "or the Jesus called Christ," where he seems to be setting them off in a needed contradistinction. The fact is, according to Josephus, Jesus was not an uncommon name among Jews. After all, Joshua was a big hero in Judaism, and Jesus is simply a form of the name Joshua.

<sup>207</sup> 27:19 It is not certain whether Pilate's wife was saying, "Suffered much because of a dream about him," or "suffered much in a dream because of him," or "suffered much in a dream about him."

placed around him a scarlet robe, <sup>29</sup>and after weaving together a crown of thorns they set that<sup>209</sup> on his head, and a rod<sup>210</sup> in his right hand, and then they dropped to their knees before him and mocked him, saying, "Hail, King of the Jews!" <sup>30</sup>And after they spit on him, they took the rod, and repeatedly beat on his head. <sup>31</sup>And when they had mocked him, they stripped him of the scarlet robe and put his own clothes on him, and led him away to crucify him.

The Crucifixion

<sup>32</sup>And as they were leading him out, they encountered a Cyrenian man by the name of Simon. This man they conscripted to carry his cross. <sup>33</sup>And when they came to the place called Golgotha, which is called the "skull" place, <sup>34</sup>they offered him wine to drink, mixed with a bitter drug;<sup>211</sup> and after tasting it, he refused to drink it. <sup>35</sup>And once they had crucified him, they divided up his garments by casting lots. <sup>36</sup>And sitting down, they kept watch over him there. <sup>37</sup>And they fastened above his head his specific charge, written as follows: "THIS IS JESUS, THE KING OF THE JEWS." <sup>38</sup>There were being crucified along with him at that time two bandits, one on his right and one on his left. <sup>39</sup>And those passing by defamed him, wagging their heads <sup>40</sup>and saying, "Hey, you who destroys<sup>212</sup> the temple and builds another one in three days, save yourself, if you are the son of God, and come down from the cross." <sup>41</sup>In the same way also the chief priests, making fun along with the Torah scholars and the elders, were saying, <sup>42</sup>"Others he saved; himself he cannot save. He is the King of Israel? Let him come down now from the cross, and we will believe in him. <sup>43</sup>He put his trust in God; let Him now rescue him, if he wants him. Because he did say, 'I am God's son.'" <sup>44</sup>In the same way the bandits who were crucified with him were also taunting him.

<sup>209</sup> 27:29a There is no demonstrative pronoun here meaning "that" specifically, but this word serves to indicate in English that they set both the crown of thorns AND the sceptre. Otherwise, the sceptre has no verb.

<sup>210</sup> 27:29b The Greek word means a wooden stalk, reed or staff. The obvious purpose was to be a mock sceptre, for the King of the Jews.

<sup>211</sup> 27:34 The Greek word is χόλη - chólē, the exact meaning of which is uncertain. It is related to the word for gall bladder, χόλος - chólos. Another reason it is most often associated with the gall bladder, was because it was yellow in color like bile, which is the secretion of the gall bladder. But the word was also used for many other things, such as the ink secretion of a certain fish, the poison of hemlock, a serpent's venom, and of bitterness in general, including, according to the Liddell & Scott lexicon along with other lexical authorities, that in the New Testament, this word means a bitter, yellow ingredient of a drink. One thing certain about this word is that it referred to a substance that tasted very bad, and probably more specifically, tasted bitter. In conclusion, it was probably some kind of drug meant to ease the distress of his coming trauma.

<sup>212</sup> 27:40 The nominative article used as vocative, that is, the case or lexical form for addressing someone.

Jesus' Death

<sup>45</sup>And starting from the sixth hour, darkness came over the whole land until the ninth hour.<sup>213</sup> <sup>46</sup>And at about the ninth hour, Jesus cried out in a very loud voice, saying, "Eli, Eli, lema shebaqtani?" Which means, "My God, my God, why have you forsaken me?"

<sup>54</sup>And the centurion and the ones with him who were guarding Jesus, when they saw the earthquake and the other things that happened, they were severely frightened, saying, "This man really was the Son of God."

<sup>55</sup>And there were present many women off at a distance observing, who had followed Jesus from Galilee providing for him; <sup>56</sup>among whom were Mary the Magdalene, and Mary the mother of James and Joseph, and the mother of Zebedee's sons as well.

<sup>213</sup> 27:45 That is, from noon until 3:00 p.m. In the Jewish system of that time, the first hour was the first hour of daylight, or 6:00 a.m. Thus, the sixth hour would be 12:00, six hours later, and the ninth hour was 9 hours after 6, which is 3:00 o'clock.

<sup>214</sup> 27:47 This shows that the bystanders did not know Hebrew or Aramaic. The sign above Jesus' head was written in three languages for good reason. Most Jews of that day could not read the scriptures in Hebrew, and so it is no surprise that they did not recognize this spoken form of the Hebrew name for God.

<sup>215</sup> 27:49 The verb for save here is in the form of a future participle, which is a rare but allowable use thereof in place of the infinitive of purpose. BDF §351(1), but see also §418(4).

<sup>217</sup> 27:50 The Greek says ἀφῆκεν τὸ πνεῦμα; literally, "he gave up the spirit." This is an expression from the Hebrew scriptures, or Old Testament, where the word for breath and spirit are the same. It says in Genesis that God breathed into man and animals the breath of life. When you give up the breath, it means to die. Same as if you give up the soul or spirit. This same saying is found in the Greek translation of the Hebrew scriptures, called the Septuagint, in Genesis 35:18, where it says, ἐγένετο δὲ ἐν τῷ ἀφιέναι αὐτὴν τὴν ψυχὴν, ἀπέθνησκειν γάρ, ἐκάλεσεν τὸ ὄνομα αὐτοῦ..., "Now it came about that when she have up her soul (for she was dying), she called his name..." It is interesting that the need was felt to clarify that she was dying. In the gospel of Luke, in 23:46, Jesus himself says, Πάτερ, εἰς χεῖράς σου παρατίθεμαι τὸ πνεῦμά μου - "Father, into your hands I commit my spirit." And in John 19:30 it says that Jesus παρέδωκεν τὸ πνεῦμα, "gave up his spirit."

Jesus' Burial

<sup>57</sup>And when evening had come, a certain rich man of Arimathea by the name of Joseph came, who himself had also become a disciple of Jesus. <sup>58</sup>This man went to Pilate and asked for the body of Jesus. Pilate thereupon ordered that it be handed over to him. <sup>59</sup>And after taking the body, Joseph wrapped it in clean linen cloth, <sup>60</sup>and placed it in his own new tomb that he had hewn out of the rock. And after rolling a large stone up against the entrance of the tomb, he departed.

The Guard at the Tomb

<sup>62</sup>The next day, that is, the one which is after Preparation Day, the chief priests and the Pharisees gathered together before Pilate, <sup>63</sup>saying, "Sir, we remember how that deceiver, when he was still living, said, 'After three days I will rise again.' <sup>64</sup>Give orders therefore to secure the grave site through the third day, or his disciples might go steal him and then tell the people, 'He has risen from the dead,' and this last deception will be worse than the first."

The Empty Tomb

<sup>221</sup> 27:66 The Greek preposition μετὰ - metà here, according to Bauer, "makes the stationing of the guard an accompaniment to the sealing of the stone." But he also says in parentheses that this could be an instrumental use of μετὰ, meaning that the placing of the guard was the means of sealing the stone. But also, under the entry for σφραγίζω - sphragízō, to seal, he says that there could also have been a literal means of fastening the stone securely to the tomb so that it could not be moved.

his face<sup>223</sup> was like lightning, and his garments a gleaming white like snow. <sup>4</sup>And for fear of him, the guards trembled, and became<sup>224</sup> as dead men.

<sup>5</sup>But in response, the angel said to the women, "You should not be afraid, for I know that you are looking for Jesus the crucified man. <sup>6</sup>He is not here. For he has risen just as he said. Come, see the place where he was lying. <sup>7</sup>And quick, go tell his disciples as follows, 'He has risen from the dead. And behold, he is going ahead of you into Galilee; there you will see him.' There, I have told you."

<sup>8</sup>And they departed quickly from the tomb, and with fear and great joy they ran to report this to his disciples. <sup>9</sup>And behold, Jesus met up with them, saying, "Good morning." And after approaching him, they grasped onto his feet, and worshiped him.

<sup>10</sup>Then Jesus is telling them, "Do not be afraid. Go report to my brothers that I am leaving for Galilee, and they will see me there."

The Official Cover-Up

<sup>11</sup>And while those were on their way, behold, some of the guard went into the city and reported to the chief priests everything that had happened. <sup>12</sup>And after coming together with the elders, they came up with a plan, and took the sufficient amount of silver coins and gave them to the soldiers, <sup>13</sup>telling them, "Say that his disciples came by night and stole him while you were sleeping. <sup>14</sup>And if this should ever reach the ears of the governor, we will satisfy him<sup>225</sup> and make you have no worries." <sup>15</sup>And they accepted the silver coins and did as they were told. And this story has been propagated by the Jews to this day.

The Assembly on the Mountain in Galilee

<sup>16</sup>And the eleven disciples went to Galilee, to the mountain where Jesus had directed them. <sup>17</sup>And when they saw him, they worshiped him, though some hesitated. <sup>18</sup>And Jesus approached them and spoke to them, saying, "All authority in heaven and on earth has been given to me. <sup>19</sup>Go therefore and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit, <sup>20</sup>teaching them to

Matthew ENDNOTES

Matt. Endnote #1 – Names of God

How To Pronounce the Names of God in the Original Languages

There has been a surge of interest recently in how to pronounce God's and Jesus' real names exactly. Also, in how we got the name "Jesus." If you want to say "Jesus Christ" in Hebrew, following is how you do it, and then an explanation of how it became "Jesus Christ" in English. This is provided to the body of Christ as a ministry of David Robert Palmer, a servant of Jesus.

Joshua in places such as Deuteronomy 3:21 and Judges 2:7, was spelled the longer way:

י	שׁוּ	הוּ	וּ	שׁ	עַ
yodh	shwa	he	holam vav	shin	ayin patah

י = yə ,    ה = h ,    ו = ō    ש = sh,    וּ = oo,    ע = 'a

"yə-hō-shu-'a"

The letter shwa, ם, transliterated as ə, is a half-vowel, a barely-pronounced short "e."

The letter named holam vav, ם, transliterated as ō, is pronounced like the "o" in "roll." Sometimes the holam vav is transliterated as "ōw," to distinguish it from the kamats hatuf, ם, which is a shorter "o" sound. But putting the "w" in there is confusing, and does more harm than good. The "w" just means that you round your lips more when you say a holam, than when you say a kamats hatuf. The kamats hatuf, ם, is more like the "o" in "hot," or the "aw" sound in "lawn." (Unfortunately, the plain kamats, ם, or "a" as in father, looks just the same.)

The letter named ayin, ם, transliterated as ' , is a pharyngeal consonant, a sound for which we have no equivalent in English. It is accomplished by tightening the pharynx slightly, right as you begin saying the "a." It is something like when you gargle, how you tighten your throat to keep the stuff from going down no farther than the top of your throat.

The letter named shuruk, ם, transliterated as û or oo, is a "u" sound like in "moon."

So the original name of Joshua was pronounced (according to the vowels inserted much later into the Masoretic text):

"yə-hō-shu-'a"    (with the emphasis on the "ho" syllable)

But, according to Numbers 13:16, Moses changed Yehoshua's name to Yeshua, as follows:

The later shorter version of "Joshua:"

Yeshu'a, pronounced Yay-shoo-a, with the "a" in the first syllable "yay" being long, like in "rake."

Hebrew for the word "Anointed," from which we get the English words "Messiah," and "Christ."
(See ; 2 Sam 23:1; 2 Chron. 6:42, Psalm 2:2)

מָשִׁיחַ Māšîaḥ Moshiach Pronounced "maw-shee-ach," the "ch" as in Bach

The Hebrew article, i.e., the word for "the," is the word "ha." So if you wanted to say Jesus the Christ, that is, Jesus the Anointed One, in Hebrew, it would be Yeshua Ha-Moshiach."

Jesus' name in Greek is Ἰησοῦς (Iēsoûs), "Yaysoos," which was a common enough name for Jews in the time of Greek language ascendancy and Hebrew language descendancy. This is the form of the name into which the Jewish scholars of Alexandria, Egypt, translated the name Joshua from the Hebrew into Greek for their translation of the Jewish Bible into Greek a couple centuries before Christ. Thus the title page of the book of Joshua in the Greek translation of the Jewish Bible (the Septuagint or LXX) reads ΙΗΣΟΥΣ ΝΑΥΗ (Iēsoûs Nauē), "Jesus son of Nun." So Iēsoûs (Yaysoos) was the transliteration of the Hebrew יְשׁוּעַ yēšû'a "Yayshua," which was a later form of the Hebrew name of Joshua, יְהוֹשֻׁעַ yəhōshu'a "Y'hoshua." (Numbers 13:16 says Moses changed it.) The "sh" sound of the Hebrew letter ש shin, became the "s" sound of the Greek letter σ, "sigma," because the Greek language did not have the sound "sh." And the "s" was added on to the end of the name for Greek, because that is simply the ending that the Greek language added on to the end of masculine names. The endings of Semitic names were Hellenized (Grecized) in different ways, depending sometimes, for example, on whether they ended in a consonant or a vowel. Names ending with a consonant like Jacob and Eleazar received in their nominative case form a final 'os,' and thus Yacov (Jacob) became Yacobos and Eleazar became Lazaros (Lazarus). Names ending in a vowel, like Levi and Yeshu, received in their nominative form a final 's,' and thus Levi became Lewis (Greek had no v sound) Yeshu became Yesus. The 'Yesus' was in turn transliterated into English, after first passing through Latin, and some initial 'Y's became J's. The route by which the Y of Y'huda (Judah) became the J of 'Jew,' or the Y of Yacov became the J of Jacob, is the same route by which the Y of Yeshua and Yesous became the J of Jesus. In other languages also, Y's become J's. For example in Spanish, the pronoun meaning "I," "yo," is often pronounced "jo."

As for the Z sound, one myth is that the second syllable of the name Jesus came from the Greek god Zeus. In fact, the final 's' as said before was the Hellenization of the name. And the 'z' sound of the middle 's' is simply the common phenomenon of "phonological assimilation." In this case, the normally unvoiced letter 's' experiences a peer pressure 'squeeze' by the voicedness of the vowels before and after it, and so the "s" takes on, 'assimilates,' that voicedness, and becomes the voiced version of s, which is 'z.' This phenomenon occurs in many other English words as well. For example, when we pluralize a word in English, we add the letter "s" to it. When we speak of more than one rock, we add an "s" sound on the end, and say "rocks." When we speak of more than one cliff, we add an "s" sound to the end, and it becomes "cliffs." Now, the final sounds of both "rock" and "cliff" are unvoiced, so the "s" added to them remains unvoiced. However, when we add an "s" to a word that ends in a voiced letter, like a vowel, the "s" assimilates to the voicedness of the vowel. For example, when we speak of more than one key, we add an "s" to it, but the "s" becomes a "z" sound, which is the voiced version of "s." For another example, when we speak of more than one car, we add an "s" to it, and the result is the word "cars." But now, the "s" has become a "z" sound, which is the voiced version of "s." This is the same principle of phonological assimilation that happens in the word "Jesus." The "s" becomes a "z" sound simply because of the influence of the two voiced vowels surrounding it.

The name Jesus was completely Jewish. In the time of Jesus Christ, many Jews did not speak Hebrew. Hence the need for the Greek Septuagint and the Aramaic "Targums." Hebrew was probably spoken only in and around Jerusalem, by the scribes and priests who were trying to keep it alive. Depending on where they lived, Jews would have spoken Aramaic, Greek or Latin, or two or all of them. According to the Jewish historian Flavius Josephus, the name "Jesus" was a not uncommon name for Greek-speaking Jews in the Greek speaking era. In Galilee especially, which was a cosmopolitan district, with Latin and Greek being necessary for effective commerce, there would have been many Jews who read their Bible only in Greek, in the Septuagint. There were several Jews named Jesus mentioned in the Septuagint and in Josephus' histories of the Jews.

Yahveh and Adonai in Hebrew font:

YHVH:

יהוה (The letters are in reverse order to English. Unreversed: Yodh-He-Vav-He)

Sometimes you will see this name spelled "Yahveh," and other times, "Yahweh." Similarly, the name of the letter ו , "vav," is sometimes also spelled "waw." This is because in ancient Hebrew, this ו sound used to be pronounced "w." But now in modern Hebrew it sounds like an English "v." The original Hebrew vav may have actually been neither like our English V or W, but rather a sound formed similar to a W, but heard like a V, such as there is in Spanish.

This is very easy for a Spanish-speaking person to understand. Because the Spanish language has this same sound, quite close to the "vav" ( ו ) sound of Hebrew. In most Spanish words, there is neither difference in sound nor method of articulation, between the letters "B" and "V." Take for example, the name "Gustavo." If the name were spelled "Gustabo," they would pronounce it no differently. So also in Hebrew, the letter Beyt ( ב ) sounds identical and is produced the same way, as the letter "waw" ( ו ). Only when the Beyt has a dot in the middle ( בּ ) is the Beyt pronounced like our English "B." If you are unable or unwilling to pronounce the "waw" ( ו ) in "Yahweh" correctly, there is no spiritual disadvantage to you. God's name is not a magic incantation, or an "open sesame" that is required to be pronounced exactly right or God won't hear you. God has shown perfect willingness over the millennia to answer prayers made to all of his names, in all the different variations of them caused by all the different languages of the world. If you are relying on pronouncing this יהוה name exactly right, you are on shaky ground, because no one is absolutely certain how it is pronounced, since the Hebrew scribes forgot exactly which vowels used to be included with these four consonants.

Following is the Hebrew for "Said Yahweh to my lord" from Psalm 110:1

One theory is that, since the original Hebrew scriptures did not have vowels marked in them, and the Israelites never uttered Yahveh's name, they forgot which vowels were in the name, so when the Nakdan and Masorete scribes added vowels after the time of Christ, they decided to put in the vowels from "Adonai" instead. So, the result of forcing the vowels of Adonai into YHVH, was the following fictional word:

יְהוָה thus, yəhōvāh

This word Jehovah, they say, is not a real word therefore.

But many disagree, including Davidson in The Analytical Hebrew and Chaldee Lexicon, Hendrickson Publishers, page 171, where he says as follows:

יְהוָה the most sacred name of God, expressive of His eternal, Self-existence, first communicated to the Hebrews, Ex. 3:14, comp. chap. 6:3. This name appears to be composed of יְהִי (fut. of הָיָה, like יְהִי from הָיָה) and הָיָה (preterite by aphaeresis for הָיָה), the verb to be being twice repeated as in Ex. 3:14. If we supply אֲשֶׁר between these words we obtain nearly the same sense as expressed there in the words אֲשֶׁר אֲהִיָּה . The Jews who (from an early date) believed this name incommunicable, substituted, in the pronunciation, the consonants of אֲדֹנָי, the vowels being alike in both words (with the exception of simple and composite Sheva), and according to these the punctuators suited the vowels of the prefixes when coming to stand before יְהוָה, as בְּאֲדֹנָי, לְיְהוָה, מִיְהוָה according to אֲדֹנָי, לְאֲדֹנָי, מֵאֲדֹנָי. Where, however, יְהוָה is already preceded by אֲדֹנָי, to avoid repetition, they furnished it with the vowels of אֱלֹהִים, in order that it be pronounced with its consonants, so that אֲדֹנָי יְהוָה is to be read אֲדֹנָי אֱלֹהִים. The punctuators seem to intimate the originality of the vowels of יְהוָה by not pointing Yod with Hhateph Pattah (יְהוָה) to indicate the reading of אֲדֹנָי just as they point it with Hhateph-Segol to indicate the reading of אֱלֹהִים. We could, moreover, not account for the abbreviated forms יְהוּ, יוּ prefixed to so many proper names, unless we consider the vowels of יְהוָה original.

Now, the question arises, How important is it that we pronounce God's and Jesus' names just right? Here are some points to consider:

- God knows all things. God knows what is in the heart and mind of every one. God therefore also knows when he is being called upon.
- The kingdom of heaven belongs to little children. Little children do not pronounce words just right, yet God never turns them away. Unless you become like a little child, you shall never enter the Kingdom of God.
- The Israelites, the ones who received the pronunciation of Yehovah, lost it. If they don't know the exact pronunciation, then we today sure don't.

- All my life I have observed that God honors and answers the prayers of people who pray to "God," which is a Germanic word related to the word "gut" which meant "good." Indeed, "good" is one of God's "names" or character traits.
- God is concerned about our heart attitudes, not that we pronounce things exactly.
- It is a trait of the Pharisees, that they insisted on correctness in such minutiae, but failed to get their attitudes right. And Jesus guaranteed to the Pharisees that they would not escape being sentenced to Gehenna, the lake of fire.
- We all have knowledge. Knowledge puffs up, but Love builds up / edifies. Everything we say and teach should be out of love for our brother / sister, to help him or her succeed in their journey to eternal life.

I have heard many say that Mary (Miryam), the mother of Jesus, since she was a Jew, must have named her son Yeshua. This may well be, but we do not know this for sure. In Galilee, close as it was to the Greek-speaking and Latin-speaking cities Sephoris and Tiberias, they probably spoke both Aramaic and Greek, and even some Latin. Documents found among the Dead Sea Scrolls in the Qumran caves included Greek-language documents, and in the Cave of Letters, personal documents were found that were written in Greek. Jews of Galilee in Jesus' day were at a minimum bilingual-Aramaic and Greek, and probably spoke at least four languages. Here is a link to a discussion of Greek-language documents found in the Cave of Letters:

<http://www.stoa.org/diotima/essays/118267.pdf>

For all we know, Mary named her son the Greek name, Yaysoos. I translated the gospel of Luke from Greek to English, and from how Mary quotes the Old Testament in Luke chapter 1, it sure looks like she (or maybe Luke) read and quoted the Greek Old Testament scriptures, the Septuagint. But we don't know for sure.

The good news about Jesus Christ and his death and resurrection on our behalf, has been spread all around the world. In Spanish, Jesus' name is pronounced "Hess-oos." In German it is pronounced "Yay-soos." The name "Jesus" has saved many in many different cultures and languages, where they pronounce God and Jesus in many different ways. God honors all these pronunciations. Sure, you can pronounce Jesus' name as "Y'shua" if you like. But since billions of people in the world already know him as "Jesus" and not "Y'shua," you may come across as strange when you do say "Y'shua," because those billions of people won't know who or what you are talking about.

Some people make the argument that the word "Jesus" does not mean anything, whereas the word "Y'shua" does, means "Ya is salvation." But this argument is not valid. Because "Y'shua" did not mean anything to you until after someone explained to you that it means "Ya is salvation." In the same way also, the gospel of Matthew, in 1:21, explains to you that "Jesus" was named Jesus, "because he shall save his people from their sins." Any competent pastor or teacher would then proceed to explain that "Jesus" comes from a Hebrew name that means "God is salvation." So either way, Y'shua or Jesus, you don't know what it means until someone explains it to you.

Matt. Endnote #2 – Genealogies

Matthew's and Luke's genealogies appear to give conflicting genealogies of Joseph the husband of Mary.

Matthew 1:1-17; Luke 3:28-38

MATTHEW	LUKE
Abraham	Abraham
Isaac	Isaac
Jacob	Jacob
Judah	Judah
Perez	Perez
Hezron	Hezron
Aram	Aram
Amminadab	Amminadab
Nahshon	Nahshon
Salmon	Salmon
Boaz	Boaz
Obed	Obed
Jesse	Jesse
David	David
Solomon	Nathan
Rehoboam	Mattatha
Abijah	Menna
Asa	Melea
Jehoshaphat	Eliakim
Joram	Jonam
Uzziah	Joseph
Jotham	Judah
Ahaz	Simeon
Hezekiah	Levi
Manasseh	Matthat
Amos/Amo n	Jorim
Josiah	Eliezer

It should be noted that though Matthew states in 1:17 that there are three sets of 14 generations, there are only 13 generations in his 3rd set. He also left out two generations from the second set which would have made that set 16 generations. After Josiah came Jehoiakim and Jehoiachin, according to 2 Kings 23:34 – 24:6. Thus it seems Matthew made these sets for some purpose such as to be a memorization aid or teaching aid.

Following is taken from an article on the Internet: <http://www.carm.org/diff/2geneologies.htm>

Both Matthew 1 and Luke 3 contain genealogies of Jesus. But there is one problem. They are different. Luke's Genealogy starts at Adam and goes to David. Matthew's Genealogy starts at Abraham and goes to David. When the genealogies arrive at David, they split with David's sons: Nathan (Mary's side) and Solomon (Joseph's side).

There is no discrepancy because one genealogy is for Mary and the other is for Joseph. It was customary to mention the genealogy through the father even though it was clearly known that it was through Mary.

First, realize that the Bible should be interpreted in the context of its literary style, culture, and history. Breaking up genealogies into male and female representations was acceptable in the ancient Near East culture since it was often impolite to speak of women without proper conditions being met: male presence, etc. One genealogy is of Mary and the other of Joseph, even though both mention Joseph. In other words, the Mary was counted "in" Joseph and under his headship.

Second, do any critics actually think that those who collected the books of the New Testament, and who believed it was inerrant, were unaware of this blatant differentiation in genealogies? Does anyone actually think that the Christians were so dense that they were unaware of the differences in the genealogy lists, closed their eyes and put the gospels into the canon anyway hoping no one would notice? Not at all. They knew the cultural context and had no problem with it knowing that one was of Joseph and the other of Mary.

Third, notice that Luke starts with Mary and goes backwards to Adam. Matthew starts with Abraham and goes forward to Joseph. The intents of the genealogies were different which is seen in their styles. Luke was not written to the Jews, Matthew was. Therefore, Matthew would carry the legal line (from Abraham through David) and Luke the biological one (from Adam through David). Also, notice that Luke's first three chapters mention Mary eleven times; hence, the genealogy from her. Fourth, notice Luke 3:23, "And when He began His ministry, Jesus Himself was about thirty years of age, being supposedly the son of Joseph, the son of Eli," This designation "supposedly" seems to signify the Marian genealogy since it seems to indicate that Jesus is not the biological son of Joseph.

Finally, in the Joseph genealogy there is a man named Jeconiah. God cursed Jeconiah (also called Coniah), stating that no descendant of his would ever sit on the throne of David, "For no man of his descendants will prosper sitting on the throne of David or ruling again in Judah," (Jer. 22:30). But Jesus, of course, will sit on the throne in the heavenly kingdom. The point is that Jesus is not a biological descendant of Jeconiah, but through the other lineage -- that of Mary. Hence, the prophetic curse upon Jeconiah stands inviolate. But, the legal adoption of Jesus by Joseph reckoned the legal rights of Joseph to Jesus as a son, not the biological curse. This is why we need two genealogies: one of Mary (the actually biological line according to prophecy), and the legal line through Joseph.

Again, the early church knew this and had no problem with it. It is only the critics of today who narrow their vision and require this to be a "contradiction" when in reality we have an explanation that is more than sufficient.

Matt. ENDNOTE #3

What O.T. prophecies was Matthew referring to which said of Jesus, "He shall be called a Nazarene"?
Diatess. 3:10; Mt 2:23

PROBLEM: In Matthew 2:23, Matthew says, "And having been warned in a dream, he withdrew to the district of Galilee, <sup>23</sup>and went and lived in a town called Nazareth, so that what was spoken through the prophets would be fulfilled, that he will be called a Nazarene." Greek: Ναζωραῖος - Nazōraios. But there is no passage in the Old Testament prophets which says this.

Note that Matthew says here, "what was spoken through the prophets" with prophets in the plural. This is why I did not put the prediction in quotes, because it is not one specific prophecy, but a general one from more than one prophet. Some interpreters see the key to be the Semitic root word "netser" meaning "branch," which when spoken aloud, sounds similar to the "nazar" of Nazaroian. The Greek sound "dzeta" would be the natural letter for translators to use to render the Hebrew "tsade." Thus, shall be "called" a Nazaroian. And these interpreters thus connect it to Isaiah 11:1 where the Semitic "netser" root was used: "Then a shoot will spring from the stem of Jesse, and a branch from his roots will bear fruit." But since Matthew says "prophets," plural, this one Isaiah passage alone is probably not what he meant. He was probably also alluding to several passages in the Hebrew scriptures that use another related Hebrew word, Isaiah 4:2 "a Branch of Yahweh"; Jeremiah 23:5 "I will raise up for David a righteous Branch, and he shall reign as king..."; Jeremiah 33:15 "I will cause a righteous branch to spring up for David, and he shall execute justice and righteousness in the land"; Zechariah 3:8 "...I will bring my servant the Branch"; Zechariah 6:12 "Behold, the man whose name is the Branch: for he shall branch out from his place, and he shall build the temple of Yahweh." (For what it's worth, the Greek word ⲛⲉⲗⲉⲣ [nezer] in the Septuagint is translated as "crown" in IV Kings 11:12; in our Bible, II Kings 11:12)

This term "Nazarene" came to be a general term of contempt, considering the Judeans' view of Galileans and Samaritans as polluted genetically and contemptible. Nazareth was an unlikely place for the Messiah to be from, because Nazareth was held in contempt. Nathaniel said in John 1:46, "Nazareth! Can anything good come from there?" In John 7:52, the Pharisees scorned the temple guards, saying, "Are you also from Galilee? Search and see that no prophet arises out of Galilee." The Pharisees in John 8:48 told Jesus, "Do we not rightly say that you are a Samaritan?" For the town of Nazareth was quite close to Samaria.

Therefore, perhaps Matthew viewed Jesus' living in Nazareth as a fulfillment of several Old Testament prophecies which predict that the Messiah would be despised, combined with Isaiah 9:1,2 which says that a light will dawn on Galilee of the Gentiles, the geographical territory where Nazareth was, an area held in contempt by the Judeans. In fact, after the time of Jesus, his disciples came to be called "Notzri" by Jews who did not believe in Jesus. This is a contemptuous epithet.

"But I am a worm, and no man; scorned by men, and despised by the people."
Psalm 22:6

"He was despised and rejected by men; a man of suffering, and acquainted with grief; and as one from whom men hide their faces, he was despised, and we held him of no account." Isaiah 53:3

"And after the sixty-two weeks, an anointed one shall be cut off and shall have nothing..." Daniel 9:26a

"In the former time he brought into contempt the land of Zebulun and the land of Naphtali, but in the latter time he will make glorious the way of the sea, the land beyond the Jordan, Galilee of the nations. "The people who walked in darkness have seen a great light; those who lived in a land of deep darkness, on them light has shined." Isaiah 9:1-2

Combine this with the fact that Jesus declared that the prophet Jonah was a sign of Him. When people demanded from him a sign from heaven, Jesus several times responded, "This wicked and adulterous generation seeks a sign, but none will be given it except the sign of Jonah."

How was Jonah a sign of Jesus the Messiah? Apart from being in the heart of the earth for three days and three nights, Jonah was a sign of Jesus in another, very important but little known way. "I will raise up for them a prophet like you from among their brethren; and I will put my words in his mouth..." Deuteronomy 18:18 Did a prophet come out of Galilee? Yes, before Jesus, a prophet did indeed come out of Galilee: Jonah, from Gath-Hepher, which was on a hill very close to if not the same hill where Nazareth later was! See II Kings 14:25, "...according to the word of YHWH, the God of Israel, which he spoke by his servant Jonah son of Amittai, the prophet, who was from Gath-hepher." There was only one prophet named Jonah, who was the son of Amittai. Jonah was also in Sheol / Hades, as Jesus was (Jonah 2:2). Jonah also volunteered to be killed, in order to save the rest of the souls on the boat. Jesus volunteered to be killed, in order to save the rest of our souls.

Matt. ENDNOTE #4

Matthew 14:21

The Greek word for "without" in Matthew 14:21 is χωρίς (chōrís), which generally means "without, apart from." Here it could mean "besides, in addition to, not counting." But it is also possible that there were no women and children present at all.

Let's start with what we know for sure from the narrative: that it was men only who were in the mess-parties or groups of 50 and 100, for that is how they were counted. There would be no point in having women and children included in the groups of 50 if they were not going to be counted. For if women and children were in the groups of 50, and they counted only the men, does that mean that the disciples would go to each group and count, say 25 or 30 men in a group and then move on to count in another group? There would just not be any sense in groups of 50 unless everyone in the groups were counted. The point of the groups of 50 was to count the crowd, everyone in the groups were counted, that's how they knew that there were 5,000: that there were 50 or 100 in each group.

Therefore we must conclude one or the other of the following two scenarios: 1) That women and children may have been present, but segregated, as was the custom in the synagogues, and seated separate and apart from the men. The women and children were not in the groups of 50 and 100. This would fall within the meaning of the word chōrís. Or, (2), That no women and children were among the crowd that "ran together" over to the place (Mark 6:33) and arrived ahead of the boat. This would be reasonable, since the children and the women laden with infants would not be able to "run together" the four miles with the men. For the crowd ran all the way from Capernaum, most likely, as that became Jesus' "own town," and base of operations. They ran from Capernaum to near Bethsaida-Julias, across the lake from Capernaum. This would be a fast run of about four miles. (When you look at the shape of the lake, it would make sense to boat it, to go as the crow flies rather than around the hump in the shape of the lake that separated the two towns.) In addition, John notes that the Passover, the festival of the Jews, was near. This festival was one of the three "pilgrim" festivals, which only required men, not women and children, to "go up" to Jerusalem to present themselves to the Lord (Exodus 23:17). Thus the men were already out journeying, making their way to Jerusalem, for only there could they present themselves. So for both these reasons, it is reasonable to conclude that only adult males were even in the crowd that went out to that remote place. For otherwise, it is puzzling why John made note that it was almost the Passover. Moreover, there is Mark 6:44 that flatly states that the ones eating were five thousand males, and Luke 9:14 says that those present "were about five thousand males." And so the meaning of chōrís in Matthew 14:21 would be that the men were there without women and children. They came without them.

All that said, it would still be difficult to give meaning number 2 to chōrís here for the geographical and temporal considerations stated, but not for the use of chōrís in Matthew's account of the feeding of the four thousand in 15:38. Thus it seems most reasonable to conclude that women and children were not in the groups of hundreds and fifties, but were still possibly present and fed, only segregated from the men.

Matt. ENDNOTE #5

HOW DID A ONCE-ONLY ATONEMENT OFFERING BECOME AN ANNUAL TAX?

Diatessaron 17:22, Matthew 17:24

"<sup>11</sup>Then the LORD said to Moses, <sup>12</sup>When you take the census of the Israelites to number them, at the time he is numbered each man shall give a ransom for his life to the LORD, so that no plague may come upon him for being numbered. <sup>13</sup>Each one who crosses over to those already numbered is to give a half shekel, according to the sanctuary shekel, which weighs twenty gerahs. This half shekel is an offering to the LORD. <sup>14</sup>Each one who crosses over to those already numbered, each who is twenty years old or more, is to give an offering to the LORD. <sup>15</sup>The rich are not to give more than a half shekel and the poor are not to give less when you make the offering to the LORD, the ransom for your lives. <sup>16</sup>You shall take the atonement money from the Israelites and shall designate it for the service of the tent of meeting; before the LORD it will be a reminder of the ransom given for his life.'" Exodus 30:11-16

The money offering in question was clearly a ransom for a man's life, to atone for the evil act of a man allowing himself to be numbered. There are other scriptures that indicate God's displeasure with his people being numbered; see for example, I Chronicles chapter 21, and 27:23,24. The atonement offering was to be made only "when you take a census of Israel to number them." This was said in anticipation of the one "Numbering" of Israel in the book of Numbers. A man only had to pay this atonement when he "crosses over" to join the group of those registered in the book. Where in this scripture is there any command that a man be counted more than once? Or annually? It says no such thing.

The New Testament apostles tell us that the old testament is given to us as ensamples, or patterns. Old testament lessons are shadows of something real, a real object. Imagine that the light of God is shining upon an object with substance, but all that hits the earth is the outline of the real object in the form of a shadow. This atonement offering was such a shadow, a pattern in the shape of the real thing. The real thing is Christ. The real thing is the crossing over from death to life. Are you numbered among the living? Have you crossed over to join those whose name is registered in the book of life? There was a one time ransom through the Lamb of God. If it is more than one time, it is an indulgence scam. Does God let a man be kidnapped by Satan every year so that God can ransom the same man again?

"<sup>4</sup>So all the elders of Israel gathered together and came to Samuel at Ramah. <sup>5</sup>They said to him, 'You are old, and your sons do not walk in your ways; now appoint a king to govern us, such as all the other nations have.' <sup>6</sup>But when they said, 'Give us a king to lead us,' this displeased Samuel; so he prayed to the LORD. <sup>7</sup>And the LORD told him: 'Listen to all that the people are saying to you; it is not you they have rejected, but they have rejected me as their king. <sup>8</sup>As they have done from the day I brought them up out of Egypt until this day, forsaking me and serving other gods, so they are doing to you. <sup>9</sup>Now listen to them; but warn them solemnly and let them know what the king who will reign over them will do.'

<sup>10</sup>Samuel told all the words of the LORD to the people who were asking him for a king. <sup>11</sup>He said, 'This is what the king who will reign over you will do: He will take your sons and make them serve with his chariots and horses, and they will run in front of his chariots. <sup>12</sup>Some he will assign to be commanders of thousands and commanders of fifties, and others to plow his ground and reap his harvest, and still others to make weapons of war and equipment for his chariots. <sup>13</sup>He will take your daughters to be perfumers and cooks and bakers. <sup>14</sup>He will take the best of your fields and vineyards and olive groves and give them to his attendants. <sup>15</sup>He will take a tenth of your grain and of your vintage and give it to his officials and attendants. <sup>16</sup>Your menservants and maidservants and the best of your cattle and donkeys he will take for his own use. <sup>17</sup>He will take a tenth of your flocks, and you yourselves will become his slaves. <sup>18</sup>When that day comes, you will cry out for relief from the king you have chosen for yourselves, and the LORD will not answer you in that day.' <sup>19</sup>But the people refused to listen to Samuel. "No!" they said. "We want a king over us. <sup>20</sup>Then we will be like all the other nations, with a king to lead us and to go out before us and fight our battles.' <sup>21</sup>When Samuel heard all that the people said, he repeated it before the LORD. <sup>22</sup>The LORD answered, 'Listen to them and give them a king.'

I Samuel 8:4-22

God warned Israel against the dangers of a human government: the king would tax them oppressively, force them into labor, and send their sons to their deaths in economic wars. By choosing a human king, God said, "they have rejected me as their king." Following is what one of their kings did with the Exodus 30:11-16 scripture, the one about the one-time atonement offering.

"<sup>4,5</sup>After this Joash decided to restore the house of the LORD. He gathered the priests and the Levites, and said to them, 'Go out to all the cities of Judah and collect money from all Israel that you may repair the house of your God year by year. All the funds for sacred purposes that are brought to the temple of the LORD– the money from everyone who is counted, the money from personal vows, and all the money that any man's heart prompts him to bring into the temple of the LORD– the priests may take themselves, each from his own acquaintances. However, they must make whatever repairs on the temple may prove necessary.' <sup>6</sup>But by the twenty-third year of the reign of King Joash, the priests still had not made needed repairs on the temple. <sup>7</sup>So King Joash summoned the priest Jehoiada and the other priests. 'Why do you not repair the temple?' he asked them. 'Now therefore, you must no longer take funds from your acquaintances. You shall hand the money over for the repairs.' <sup>8</sup>The priests agreed that they would neither take funds from the people nor make the repairs on the temple. <sup>9</sup>Then the priest Jehoiada took a chest, bored a hole in its lid, and set it beside the pillar on the right side, as one entered the temple of the Lord. The priests who guarded the threshold put in it all the money that was brought into the house of the LORD. <sup>10</sup>Whenever they saw that there was a large amount of money in the chest, the royal secretary and the high priest came, counted the money that had been brought into the house of the LORD and put it into bags. <sup>11</sup>When the amount had been determined, they would give the money into the hands of the workmen who had the oversight of the house of the LORD; and they in turn paid it out to the carpenters and the builders who worked upon the house of the LORD, <sup>12</sup>and to the masons and stonecutters, as well as to buy timber and quarried stone for making repairs on the house of the LORD, and for any outlay upon the repairs of the house. <sup>15</sup>No reckoning was asked of the men who were provided with the funds to give to the workmen, because they were positions of trust."

II Chronicles 24:4, 5; II Kings 12:4-12, 15

This is the first time in the Bible that it was ever suggested that the census be annual, and that each man pay money every year when he is counted.

Note that Joash decided this. It was not commanded by God. God had been rejected as king. The decision to make the census annual, and accompanied by a "tax," was the decision of a human king. This was a clear disobedience to God's command. And therefore, illegal.

Note that each priest collected the money "each from his own acquaintances," v. 5. Then in verse 7, Joash told the priests to no longer collect from their acquaintances, but apparently they continued to do so, as we will see in the New Testament.

In addition to collecting from their own acquaintances, there was a chest placed at the entrance to the temple for voluntary offerings. This money was then given to Levites in charge of repairing the temple. Note that "No reckoning was asked of the men who were provided with the funds to give to the workmen, because they were positions of trust." This system gave them opportunity to skim from the collections for themselves.

Between the time of King Joash and the time of Nehemiah, the temple was destroyed and the people of Judah were taken into exile. After regaining an opportunity to return to Jerusalem, Ezra and Nehemiah led the people in the effort to rebuild the city and the temple. At that time, the people said:

"We lay upon ourselves the obligation to charge ourselves yearly one third of a shekel for the service of the house of our God" Nehemiah 10:32

This time, it is not a king who imposes this "temple tax" upon the people, but the people themselves who "lay upon ourselves the obligation to charge ourselves yearly..."

Here the people themselves have set aside the scriptures in order to set up their own tradition. And is there any human government anywhere, that, if the populace volunteers to pay a tax of some sort, would say, "No, we do not want the money. Do not give us any money"? A voluntary or temporary tax takes on a life of its own, and soon becomes a much larger amount, becomes more frequent, and becomes mandatory. Typical this is of the life of a tax. Such is the fate of a people who reject God as their king and choose a human government.

24And when they arrived in Capernaum, the collectors of the two drachmas approached Peter, and they said, "Does your rabbi not pay the two drachmas?"

25He says, "Yes he does."

And when Peter had come into the house, Jesus spoke to him first, saying, "What do you think, Simon: the kings of the earth, from whom do they collect toll and tribute — from their sons, or from others?"

26And when he answered, "From others," Jesus said to him, "Alright then, the sons are free. 27But, so that we not scandalize them, go to the lake, cast a hook, and the first fish that comes up, take, and when you have opened its mouth, you will find a four-drachma coin. Take that, and give it to them, as mine and yours."

Matthew 17:24-27 (DRP)

It appears that the custom of the priests collecting money "each from his own acquaintance" was still being practiced. The collectors "came to Peter." Peter did not seek the collectors out, or pass by a toll booth, or run an errand to a government building. No, these collectors must have been men who knew Peter, for they came to Peter. This happened in Capernaum, Peter's hometown. That may be why they chose to come to Peter and not to Jesus. They were men of Capernaum, and acquaintances of Peter, and not of Jesus.

The payment at issue in this passage was a Jewish religious matter. Jesus and the disciples were Sons or Citizens of the Kingdom of Heaven, so were not subject to this "tax." Remember, the Levites did not pay the census atonement fee tax. (Numbers 1:48, 49) All those who become Citizens of the kingdom of God have the same status in regard to this tax as the Levites had. "God has made us kings and priests, and we will reign on the earth." Rev. 5:10 Kings do not pay the tax. And kings are what Jesus and the twelve apostles were.

"Jesus sat down opposite the place where the offerings were put and watched the crowd putting their money into the temple treasury. Many rich people threw in large amounts. But a poor widow came and put in two very small copper coins, worth only a fraction of a penny.

Calling his disciples to him, Jesus said, 'I tell you the truth, this poor widow has put more into the treasury than all the others. They all gave their gifts out of their wealth; but she out of her poverty put in everything — all she had to live on.'" Mark 12:41-44; Luke 21:1-4

So by Jesus' time, the priests not only still collected "each from his own acquaintance," but they also collected by means of the chest at the temple entrance.

This is typical of the life of a tax. Whether ancient Israel, or America, if the lawmaking entity adopts a tax, say, for one time only, to be assessed only at the time of the manufacture of, say, a bullet making machine, over time the human government manages to turn it into an annual tax, and make it apply to everyone, who never had anything to do with a bullet making machine at all! The new generations of citizens do not study law, and are not aware of the "intent of congress" when that tax law was written. The schools are government run, so the schools from then on tell them that this tax must be paid annually by everyone.

But here is great news: In the land of the Majestic King,

"You will call to mind what once you feared: 'Where is the one who counted? (for tax purposes) Where is the one who weighed the tribute? Where is the one who counted the treasuries?' No longer will you see these arrogant people...For Yahweh is our judge; Yahweh is our lawgiver." Isaiah 33:18,19, 22

So, store up your treasures in heaven, where moths do not eat, rust does not destroy, thieves do not break in and steal, and bureaucrats do not confiscate under a pretense of law.

Matt. ENDNOTE #6 "the Evil Eye"

What is the "evil eye"? ὀφθαλμός πονηρός – ophthalmós ponēros

Diatessaron 10:2, 14:10, 18:29, 23:50; Matt. 6:23, 20:15; Mark 7:22; Luke 11:34

This phrase ὀφθαλμός πονηρός – ophthalmós ponēros, "evil eye," is not original in the Greek New Testament, but is from רָעָה עַיִן - rā'āh 'ayin, or, with the article and modifier postpositive, הָרַע עַיִן 'ayin hāra'. This is a concept from the Semitic cultures and the Hebrew scriptures. Ophthalmós ponēros is used only four times in the Greek New Testament. Two of those, Matthew 6:23 and Luke 11:34, are in the same teaching, the "lamp of the body," and so for the purpose of understanding the meaning of the phrase from context, these two passages really count as one context. Thus we have three contexts: the "eye is the lamp of the body" discourse of Matthew 6:23 and Luke 11:34; the set of "evils coming out of the heart of the human being that makes the human unclean" discourse of Mark 7:22; and the Parable of the workers in the field, Matthew 20:15, in which the 11th hour workers receive the same wage as the 3rd hour workers. And in the Jewish translation of the scriptures into Greek, the Septuagint, the phrase is found once, in Deuteronomy 15:9. This makes a total of four contexts from which to glean the meaning of the phrase ophthalmós ponēros.

When so few contexts are available, it is very helpful if the passages themselves designate any antonyms to the word or phrase in question, and this fortunately is such a case. For both the Matthew and Luke versions of the "lamp of the body" teaching show Jesus contrasting the ophthalmós ponēros to the ὀφθαλμός ἀπλοῦς – ophthalmós haploûs. This word, in its uncontracted form, ἀπλόος, is used once in the Septuagint, in Proverbs 11:25, where it means "generous." There, the Greek ψυχὴ ἀπλῆ - psuchē haplē, "liberal soul," is translated from the Hebrew נֶפֶשׁ בְּרַכָּה - nepēš bərākāh, for a giving, blessing, generous person.

The contrast to generosity is easily seen in Deuteronomy 15:9, where the evil eye רָעָה עַיִן - rā'āh 'ayin, is a case of resenting the poor, looking on one's poor neighbor with an evil eye, resenting the year of release of debts.

Similar is Matt. 20:15. In that passage the person with the evil eye had objected to the landowner for giving the same amount of pay to someone who had worked one hour as he had given to someone who had worked all day. The Greek says, "Is your eye evil because I am good?" There it seems to be a trait of suspiciousness, ascribing unfairness or evil motives to the landowner. Or it could be simple begrudgement of the landowner's generosity, as "Does my generosity arouse your stinginess?" Resentment or suspicion also darken the eye. The aperture of the eye narrows when the soul feels suspicious or stingy. And by stingy itself we mean "tight" and restricted. The word ra' also can mean "discontented," as in Genesis 40:7. Further, it remains today in Modern Hebrew that רָעָה עַיִן, ra' - 'ayin means "eye of envy."

Also helpful is to note as many antonyms of ἀπλόος as possible in all the Greek literature. It is the opposite of διπλόος, "two-fold, double;" of ἀκριβής, "strict, accurate," and of μειγμένος, "compound, mixed."

In the Septuagint the concept of the evil eye from the Hebrew רָעָה עַיִן was also translated into the Greek attributive noun βάσκανος - bāskanos, and the adjective βασκανία - baskanía. For instances of these words in the Greek scriptures, see Proverbs 23:6, 28:22. In these and other Jewish writings in Greek, such as the Apocrypha and Josephus, the words usually pertain to envy, covetousness, stinginess, or selfishness. An evil eye could be generalized as an attitude of malevolence toward one's neighbor, physically signaled by a narrowing of the eye when regarding the neighbor. The narrowing of the aperture of the eye decreases the light coming into one's own soul, and one's light becomes darkness.

Another aspect of narrowing of the eye is an attitude of scheming as to how one can manipulate things and people for one's own selfish gain, whether gain of power, prestige, or money. This desire arises out of lack of contentment with what situation one already has; thus it is related to "discontented, covetous." Look at the context of Jesus' teachings surrounding the mention of the evil eye. It is the person with the evil eye that is scheming how to manipulate and control in order to ensure financial advantage or security for himself. Even prayer can be used with an evil eye.

But one who is "simple," and relaxes in the knowledge of the fatherly benevolence of Elohim, does not take thought about what he will eat or wear in the coming days. Neither does he covet what he does not have. And rather than take advantage of the weakness and poverty of others, is cognizant that God is the champion of the poor, the widow, the fatherless, the alien, and the traveler.

In Talmudic Judaism historically, there are many connotations of magic to the term "evil eye." There is one aspect of evil magic that pertains to the person who has the evil eye, and there is another aspect of magic in the efforts of others to ward off the evil eye. The magical concept probably came from Babylon, where it was a type of voodoo worked upon others. Some examples of Talmudic mentions of the evil eye pertain to what acts make one vulnerable to the evil eye, and others to what amulets and charms you can use to ward off the evil eye. But teachings similar to Jesus' can be found in Avot 2:14, 2:16.

The voodoo aspect of the evil eye got obscured when translated into Greek because it was translated by more than just the words "evil eye." Deut. 28:54, 56 talk of "hapalos" persons being changed by God's curse, and becoming persons who look with evil eye רָעָה עֵין - rā'āh 'ayin, on their spouses or neighbors. Here the Greek verb for looking with an evil eye, is βασκαίνω - baskaínō. I say this to introduce Galatians 3:1 in the New Testament, where Paul uses baskaínō for "bewitch" when he says, "O foolish Galatians, who has bewitched you...? The idea of Galatians chapter three is, "Who has worked the evil eye on you and deluded you into going back to thinking you are perfected by works of the law?"

But throughout, whether in Babylonian, Kabbalistic, Talmudic, or Jesus' teaching, the evil eye radiates. (We can see some connection between baskaínō and our English word "bask." We "bask" in the sun's radiation.) An evil eye emits malevolent darkness upon one's neighbor. Jesus says, emit from your eye the benevolent light of the love from God upon your neighbor. If you do this, the forces will work in your favor without your manipulation and narrow-eyed foxiness being necessary.

A fundamental principle of all magic is the belief in the power of thought. Evil people try to use magic to manipulate the environment in order to obtain their own selfish ends. The "evil eye" magically speaking was the focusing of the radiation of one's thought power by means of squinting the eye and beaming the energy out of the eye that way. This idea of squinting is essential to understanding why Jesus speaks of a good eye allowing fullness of light, but an evil eye causing darkness in the body. I am not saying that Jesus legitimized any aspect of magic, but that he was simply using the well known principle of a squinted eye to make a parable about the eye being the lamp of the body, and the idea of your eye letting light in or not.

Jesus, speaking of the eye as the lamp of the body in the Sermon on the Mount (Diatess. 10:2; Matt. 6:22-24; Lk 11:33-36), speaks of a ἀπλοῦς - haploûs eye letting more light through, as opposed to one whose eye is evil, having a body filled with darkness or emitting darkness out through the aperture of the eye. For an evil eye, picture someone with a narrowed eye, out of suspicion, envy, resentment of another's happiness, resentment of another's goodness; plotting, scheming; stingy; having as its antonym ἀπλοῦς - haploûs, which means simple, sincere, guileless like doves (as opposed to scheming foxiness with hidden motive), open, generous, welcoming, unassuming of evil on the part of others.

Whatever makes you look at another with your eye darkened, is generally because that other is blocking your selfish way somehow, whether your own wealth, your aggrandizement as to esteem by comparison to you, or just the fact that the other is causing you an inconvenience as you pursue your own interests. But instead, bask your neighbor in the light of your smile, and wish good upon them. Be relaxed in the knowledge that God knows your needs and will take care of you. But also that God loves your neighbor equally as he loves you. The God above sends his sunshine and rain on both the evil and the good, and is kind to the unthankful and the evil.

Matt. ENDNOTE #7 - ἀκρασία

How the classic Greek philosophers used the word ἀκρασία.
Used in Matthew 23:25.

The Greek word here, ἀκρασία - akrasía, means to have no power over or to exercise no power over one's self, in restraining pursuit of pleasure, the pursuit of one's appetites. But it is hard to say, "the inside is full of an absence of something." I was tempted to say here, "full of addictions," because that is the ultimate product of lack of restraint, and the decline in usefulness to society spoken of by Socrates and Aristotle on the subject of this word ἀκρασία. Perhaps the regular Biblical way to say addiction would be with the Greek words ἐπιδόσις with τινός (epidosis with tinos), "being given over to something." Ultimately I decided to use the word intemperance, and to include this endnote to show how the Greek word was used in other Greek literature.

It is not solely a Bible-belt fundamentalist concept that unrestraint in the pursuit of pleasure brings the downfall of civilization, but it is also the belief and teaching of the great philosophers in the history of civilization. See the excerpts below of the classic philosophers, showing how they used the word. It is an antonym of the temperance or self-control that is said to be a fruit of the Holy Spirit in Galatians 5:22, 23. And in another place, I Corinthians 14: 32, Paul says that a trait of a true prophet is that "the spirits of the prophets are subject to the prophets." That is, under the control of the prophets. Whatever our station as Christians, our verbal testimony is weak or worse, if we are addicted to shopping, or to eating, or to drinking, or drugs, or pornography, or to romance novels, or to sex, or to television, or to complaining, or cursing, or anything else. Whoever sins habitually is a slave to sin.

The "Majority Text" reads ἀδικίαν here—"unrighteousness"—instead of ἀκρασίας. But the King James Version in this case did not follow the "Majority Text."

Demosthenes, in his Second Olynthiac Speech, spoke of Philip the king of the Macedonians as follows:

Εἰ δὲ τις σώφρων ἢ δίκαιος ἄλλος, τὴν καθ' ἡμέραν ἀκρασίαν τοῦ βίου καὶ μεθην καὶ κορδακισμούς οὐ δυνάμενος φερεῖν, παρῴσθαι καὶ ἐν οὐδένοσ εἶναι μέρει τὸν τοιούτον.

"Any fairly decent or honest man, who cannot stomach the licentiousness of his daily life, the drunkenness and the lewd dancing, is pushed aside as of no account."

Socrates, in Xenophon, Memorabilia, Book 4
(Apomnêmonematôn Δ)

V. He did also try to make his companions efficient in affairs, as I will now show. For holding that it is good for anyone who means to do honorable work to have self-control, he made it clear to his companions, in the first place, that he had been assiduous in self-discipline; moreover, in his conversation he exhorted his companions to cultivate self-control above all things. Thus he bore in mind continually the aids to virtue, and put all his companions in mind of them. I recall in particular the substance of a conversation that he once had with Euthydemus on self-control.

"Tell me, Euthydemus," he said, "do you think that freedom is a noble and splendid possession both for individuals and for communities?"

"Yes, I think it is, in the highest degree."

"Then do you think that the man is free who is ruled by bodily pleasures and is unable to do what is best because of them?"

"By no means."

"Possibly, in fact, to do what is best appears to you to be freedom, and so you think that to have masters who will prevent such activity is bondage?"

"I am sure of it."

"You feel sure then that the incontinent are bond slaves?"

"Of course, naturally."

"And do you think that the incontinent are merely prevented from doing what is most honorable, or are also forced to do what is most dishonorable?"

"I think that they are forced to do that just as much as they are prevented from doing the other."

"What sort of masters are they, in your opinion, who prevent the best and enforce the worst?"

"The worst possible, of course."

"And what sort of slavery do you believe to be the worst?"

"Slavery to the worst masters, I think."

"The worst slavery, therefore, is the slavery endured by the incontinent?"

"I think so."

"As for Wisdom, the greatest blessing, does not incontinence exclude it and drive men to the opposite? Or don't you think that incontinence prevents them from attending to useful things and understanding them, by drawing them away to things pleasant, and often so stuns their perception of good and evil that they choose the worse instead of the better?"

"That does happen."

"With Prudence, Euthydemus, who, shall we say, has less to do than the incontinent? For I presume that the actions prompted by prudence and incontinence are exact opposites?"

"I agree with that too."

"To caring for what is right is there any stronger hindrance, do you think, than incontinence?"

"Indeed I do not."

"And do you think there can be aught worse for a man than that which causes him to choose the harmful rather than the useful, and persuades him to care for the one and to be careless of the other, and forces him to do the opposite of what prudence dictates?"

"Nothing."

"And is it not likely that self-control causes actions the opposite of those that are due to incontinence?"

"Certainly."

"Then is not the cause of the opposite actions presumably a very great blessing?"

"Yes, presumably."

"Consequently we may presume, Euthydemus, that self-control is a very great blessing to a man?"

"We may presume so, Socrates."

"Has it ever occurred to you, Euthydemus—?"

"What?"

"That though pleasure is the one and only goal to which incontinence is thought to lead men, she herself cannot bring them to it, whereas nothing produces pleasure so surely as self-control?"

"How so?"

"Incontinence will not let them endure hunger or thirst or desire or lack of sleep, which are the sole causes of pleasure in eating and drinking and sexual indulgence, and in resting and sleeping, after a time of waiting and resistance until the moment comes when these will give the greatest possible satisfaction; and thus she prevents them from experiencing any pleasure worthy to be mentioned in the most elementary and recurrent forms of enjoyment. But self-control alone causes them to endure the sufferings I have named, and therefore she alone causes them to experience any pleasure worth mentioning in such enjoyments."

"What you say is entirely true."

"Moreover, the delights of learning something good and excellent, and of studying some of the means whereby a man knows how to regulate his body well and manage his household successfully, to be useful to his friends and city and to defeat his enemies— knowledge that yields not only very great benefits but very great pleasures— these are the delights of the self-controlled; but the incontinent have no part in them. For who, should we say, has less concern with these than he who has no power of cultivating them because all his serious purposes are centered in the pleasures that lie nearest?"

"Socrates," said Euthydemus, "I think you mean that he who is at the mercy of the bodily pleasures has no concern whatever with virtue in any form."

"Yes, Euthydemus; for how can an incontinent man be any better than the dullest beast? How can he who fails to consider the things that matter most, and strives by every means to do the things that are most pleasant, be better than the stupidest of creatures? No, only the self-controlled have power to consider the things that matter most, and, sorting them out after their kind, by word and deed alike to prefer the good and reject the evil."

And thus, he said, men become supremely good and happy and skilled in discussion. The very word "discussion," according to him, owes its name to the practice of meeting together for common deliberation, sorting, discussing things after their kind: and therefore one should be ready and prepared for this and be zealous for it; for it makes for excellence, leadership and skill in discussion.

Περὶ ἀντιδοσεως

Speech 2: To Nicocles, 219-221

But surely we could not expect to be admired nor to enjoy great honor for sending out disciples of that sort; on the contrary, we should be much more despised and hated than those who are charged with other forms of villainy. And, mark you, even if we could shut our eyes to these consequences, we could not gain the most money by directing a training of that character; for, I suppose, all men are aware that a sophist reaps his finest and his largest reward when his pupils prove to be honorable and intelligent and highly esteemed by their fellow-citizens, since pupils of that sort inspire many with the desire to enjoy his teaching, while those who are depraved repel even those who were formerly minded to join his classes. Who, then, could be blind to the more profitable course, when there is so vast a difference between the two?

Perhaps, however, some might venture to reply that many men, because of their incontinence, are not amenable to reason, but neglect their true interests and rush on in the pursuit of pleasure. I grant you that many men in general and some who pretend to be sophists are of this nature.

Aristotle, Nicomachean Ethics
(ed. J. Bywater) [1145a] book 7

Let us next begin a fresh part of the subject by laying down that the states of moral character to be avoided are of three kinds--Vice, Unrestraint, and Bestiality. The opposite dispositions in the case of two of the three are obvious: one we call Virtue, the other Self-restraint. As the opposite of Bestiality it will be most suitable to speak of Superhuman Virtue, or goodness on a heroic or divine scale; just as Homer has represented Priam as saying of Hector, on account of his surpassing valor-- nor seemed to be

The son of mortal man, but of a god.

Hence if, as men say, surpassing virtue changes men into gods, the disposition opposed to Bestiality will clearly be some quality more than human; for there is no such thing as Virtue in the case of a god, any more than there is Vice or Virtue in the case of a beast: divine goodness is something more exalted than Virtue, and bestial badness is different in kind from Vice. And inasmuch as it is rare for a man to be divine, in the sense in which that word is commonly used by the Lacedaemonians as a term of extreme admiration--'Yon mon's divine,' they say--, so a bestial character is rare among human beings; it is found most frequently among barbarians, and some cases also occur as a result of disease or arrested development. We sometimes also use 'bestial' as a term of opprobrium for a surpassing degree of human vice.

But the nature of the bestial disposition will have to be touched on later; and of Vice we have spoken already. We must however discuss Unrestraint and Softness or Luxury, and also Self-restraint and Endurance.

Matt. ENDNOTE #8 – Plural of οὐρανός

The Greek word οὐρανός

As used in the New Testament; singular versus plural

BDF §4(2) says that certain plurals such as οὐρανοί and αἰῶνες are Semitisms, specifically, terms connected with Judaism and drawn from the Septuagint. That the pluralization of concrete subjects originally was to denote what is long or wide, or mysterious powers.

In BDF §141(1), Blass says that the plural, οὐρανοί, = the Hebrew "shamaim," yet most authors use it only in a figurative sense as the abode of God (sing. also), while the singular predominates in the literal sense, except for those instances where, according to the Jewish conception, several heavens were to be distinguished.

Bauer also says that for the abode of the Divine, the plural is preferred.

In BDF §141(1) DeBrunner also notes that οὐρανός is always plural when referring to "the Father in heaven" and to "the kingdom of heaven." He notes also that John never uses οὐρανός in the plural, except for Revelation 12:12, and that only because it is a quotation of the Septuagint.

BDF §253(3) notes that οὐρανός is frequently anarthrous (without the article) after prepositions.

Uses in the plural:

Matt 3:16 βαπτισθεὶς δὲ ὁ Ἰησοῦς εὐθὺς ἀνέβη ἀπὸ τοῦ ὕδατος· καὶ ἰδοὺ ἠνεώχθησαν οἱ οὐρανοί, καὶ εἶδεν [τὸ] πνεῦμα [τοῦ] θεοῦ καταβαῖνον ὡσεὶ περιστερὰν ἐρχόμενον ἐπ' αὐτόν·

<sup>16</sup>As soon as he was baptized, Jesus came up out of the water, and behold, the heavens were opened, and he saw the Holy Spirit of God coming down like a dove, coming onto him.

Matt 5:12 χαίrete καὶ ἀγαλλιᾶσθε, ὅτι ὁ μισθὸς ὑμῶν πολὺς ἐν τοῖς οὐρανοῖς· οὕτως γὰρ ἐδίωξαν τοὺς προφήτας τοὺς πρὸ ὑμῶν.

Matt 5:16 τὸν πατέρα ὑμῶν τὸν ἐν τοῖς οὐρανοῖς.

<sup>16</sup>your Father who is in heaven.

Matt 5:45 τοῦ πατρὸς ὑμῶν τοῦ ἐν οὐρανοῖς

Matt 6:9 Οὕτως οὖν προσεύχεσθε ὑμεῖς· Πάτερ ἡμῶν ὁ ἐν τοῖς οὐρανοῖς, ἁγιασθήτω τὸ ὄνομά σου, <sup>9</sup>"This, then, is how you should pray: "Our Father in heaven, hallowed be your name.

Matt 6:26 ἐμβλέψατε εἰς τὰ πετεινὰ τοῦ οὐρανοῦ ὅτι οὐ σπεύρουσιν οὐδὲ θερίζουσιν οὐδὲ συνάγουσιν εἰς ἀποθήκας, καὶ ὁ πατὴρ ὑμῶν ὁ οὐράνιος τρέφει αὐτά· οὐχ ὑμεῖς μᾶλλον διαφέρετε αὐτῶν;

Matt 7:11 ὁ πατήρ ὑμῶν ὁ ἐν τοῖς οὐρανοῖς δώσει ἀγαθὰ τοῖς αἰτοῦσιν αὐτόν.

Matt 7:21 τοῦ πατρός μου τοῦ ἐν τοῖς οὐρανοῖς.

Matt 8:20 καὶ λέγει αὐτῷ ὁ Ἰησοῦς, Αἱ ἀλώπεκες φωλεοὺς ἔχουσιν καὶ τὰ πετεινὰ τοῦ οὐρανοῦ κατασκηνώσεις, ὁ δὲ υἱὸς τοῦ ἀνθρώπου οὐκ ἔχει ποῦ τὴν κεφαλὴν κλίνει.

Matt 10:32 τοῦ πατρός μου τοῦ ἐν [τοῖς] οὐρανοῖς·

Matt 10:33 ὅστις δ' ἂν ἀρνήσῃταί με ἔμπροσθεν τῶν ἀνθρώπων, ἀρνήσομαι κἀγὼ αὐτόν ἔμπροσθεν τοῦ πατρός μου τοῦ ἐν [τοῖς] οὐρανοῖς.

<sup>33</sup>And whoever disowns me before humans, I also shall disown that person before my Father in heaven.

Matt 11:23 καὶ σύ, Καφαρναούμ, μὴ ἕως οὐρανοῦ ὑψωθῇς; ἕως ᾧδου καταβῇς. ὅτι εἰ ἐν Σοδόμοις ἐγενήθησαν αἱ δυνάμεις αἱ γινόμεναι ἐν σοί, ἔμεινεν ἂν μέχρι τῆς σήμερον.

<sup>23</sup>And you, Capernaum, will you be exalted to the skies? No, you will sink as far as Hades. Because if the miracles that happened in you had taken place in Sodom, it would have remained until this day.

Rev. 12:12 διὰ τοῦτο εὐφραίνεσθε, οἱ οὐρανοὶ καὶ οἱ ἐν αὐτοῖς σκηνοῦντες· οὐαὶ τὴν γῆν καὶ τὴν θάλασσαν, ὅτι κατέβη ὁ διάβολος πρὸς ὑμᾶς ἔχων θυμὸν μέγαν, εἰδὼς ὅτι ὀλίγον καιρὸν ἔχει.

<sup>12</sup>Rejoice over this, O heaven, and you who dwell therein! Woe to the earth and the sea! For the devil has come down to you with great fury, because he knows he has but little time."

Matt. ENDNOTE #9 – Matt 27:9

Matthew 27:9

τὴν τιμὴν τοῦ τιμημένου ὃν ἐτιμήσαντο ἀπὸ υἱῶν Ἰσραήλ, the price of the priced him whom they priced (mid voice) from the sons of Israel

A very literal translation would have the word "price" in it three times, or forms of that word:

So first I will list the translations that contain three forms of the word τιμάω:

Wycliffe the prijs of a man preysid, whom thei preiseden of the children of Israel;

Tyndale the price of him that was valued whom they bought of the children of Israel

KJV the price of him that was valued, whom they of the children of Israel did value;

ASV the price of him that was priced, whom certain of the children of Israel did price
Darby the price of him that was set a price on, whom of the sons of Israel had set a price on
YLT the price of him who hath been priced, whom they of the sons of Israel did price
WEB The price of him upon whom a price had been set, Whom some of the children of Israel priced,
Phillips the value of him who was priced, whom they of the children of Israel priced
NKJV the value of Him who was priced, whom they of the children of Israel priced
Recov. the price of Him that had been priced, whom they of the sons of Israel had priced
NRSV the price of the one on whom a price had been set, on whom some of the people of Israel had set a price

CBW the price of the one whose price had been fixed by some Israelites
RSV the price of him on whom a price had been set by some of the sons of Israel,
NASB the price of the one whose price had been set by the sons of Israel
ISV the value of the man on whom a price had been set by the Israelites,
NET the price of the one whose price had been set by the people of Israel
HCSB the price of Him whose price was set by the sons of Israel
ESV the price of him on whom a price had been set by some of the sons of Israel,

Douay the price of him that was prized, whom they prized of the children of Israel
Wey the price of the prized one on whom Israelites had set a price
JB the sum at which the Precious One was priced by the children of Israel
BBE the price of him who was valued by the children of Israel;

NIV/TN the price set on him by the people of Israel
JNT which was the price the people of Israel had agreed to pay for him
NCV That is how little the Israelites thought he was worth.
Mess the price of the one priced by some sons of Israel
NLT the price at which he was valued by the people of Israel
GW the price the people of Israel had placed on him,

NAB the value of a man with a price on his head, a price set by some of the Israelites
REB the price set on a man's head (for that was his price among the Israelites)
CEV the price of a person among the people of Israel

Bauer Bauer says under τιμάω, def. 1, that the price set could have been the price set for the field, or, if referring to a man, then referring to Judas, as being the one who valued Jesus at 30 pieces of silver.

The BDF grammar offers no comment on this specific passage.

The Good News According to # MARK

Chapter 1

John the Baptizer Prepares the Way

"Behold, I am sending my messenger
before your face,
<sup>3</sup>"a voice of one calling in the wilderness,
'Prepare the way for the Lord,
make the paths straight for him,'<sup>230</sup>"

<sup>4</sup>so<sup>231</sup> John the Baptizer appeared in the wilderness, proclaiming a baptism of repentance for the forgiveness of sins. <sup>5</sup>And the whole region of Judea was going out to him, even all the Jerusalemites, and were getting baptized by him in the Jordan River, confessing their sins. <sup>6</sup>And

Some early manuscripts do not have, "Son of God." There was always a temptation, to which copyists often succumbed, to expand titles and quasi-titles of books. It is possible that these words were added that way. However, the manuscript support for them is strong. Yet one sign that a reading is secondary is when there are many variables of it, as we find here. The early translations are indeterminate for absence/presence of definite articles, but they mostly support the inclusion of "Son of God."

According to Strack-Billerbeck, "Kommentar zum Neuen Testament aus Talmud und Midrasch," I, p. 597, Jewish sources were also known to combine Malachi 3 with Isaiah 40.

<sup>230</sup> 1:3 The first quotation appears to be a blend of Exodus 23:20 and Malachi 3:1, and the second quotation is of Isaiah 40:3. It is easy to understand why copyists would want to change the text to the more inclusive "the prophets," but not easy to understand why they would want to change it the other direction.

John was dressed in camel's hair, with a leather belt around his waist, and eating locusts and wild honey.

<sup>7</sup>And he would preach, saying, "After me is coming someone more powerful than I, the thongs of whose sandals I am not worthy to stoop down and untie. <sup>8</sup>I have baptized you in water, but he will baptize you in the Holy Spirit."

The Baptism and Temptation of Jesus

<sup>9</sup>And it came about in those days that Jesus came from Nazareth in Galilee and was baptized by John in the Jordan. <sup>10</sup>And going up out of the water he immediately saw the heavens opening, and the Spirit as a dove coming down to him. <sup>11</sup>And a voice from heaven said, "You are my beloved Son; in you I have taken good pleasure."

<sup>12</sup>And immediately the Spirit thrusts him forth into the wilderness. <sup>13</sup>And he was in the wilderness forty days being tempted by Satan, and was with the wild beasts. And the angels were attending him.<sup>232</sup>

The Calling of Simon, Andrew, James, and John

<sup>14</sup>And after John was put in prison, Jesus went into Galilee, proclaiming the good news of God,<sup>233</sup> <sup>15</sup>and saying, "The time has played out,<sup>234</sup> and the kingdom of God has come near. Repent and believe the good news."

<sup>16</sup>And passing along beside the Sea of Galilee, he saw Simon, and Andrew, Simon's brother, casting a net in the sea, for they were fishers. <sup>17</sup>And Jesus said to them, "Come, you two.

<sup>232</sup> 1:13 Greek: οἱ ἄγγελοι διακόνουν αὐτῷ. The verb διακονέω - diakonéō generally means "to act as a waiter, as an attendant, as a servant." The same word is used in the parallel in Matthew 4:11, but there it sounds more like the angels came only after the temptation was concluded, and that their waiting on him involved feeding him. But in Mark it sounds like the angels were attending him throughout the entire duration of his temptation. Obviously, they were not feeding him during the 40 days, or he would not have been fasting and been tempted over the bread. No, Mark means something else by διακονέω. Mark is known for having a military outlook, and that Jesus was a rough man of action. And here he was amongst the dangers of Satan and wild beasts, and Jesus' attendants were standing by for him militarily to protect him. Somewhat like armor-bearers were attendants. Yet the word διακονέω encompasses the idea of feeding, and we can understand it to mean that they took care of him, met his needs, both military needs and nourishment needs, at the appropriate times, as they waited on him throughout. We know from Matthew that they were farther away before the temptation was concluded, and when it was over, they approached right up to Jesus and tended to his needs.

The phrase τὸ εὐαγγέλιον τοῦ θεοῦ "the gospel of God" is found in the gospels only here, so copyists naturally harmonized it to a more familiar "the gospel of the kingdom of God." The biggest flaw by far of the Byzantine text stream in the gospels, is harmonization.

<sup>234</sup> 1:15 Πεπλήρωται ὁ καιρὸς - Literally, "the time has been completed or filled." It means another time has come, because the time allotted for the age before it has run out. Bauer's lexicon says it means, "the age has come to an end." This idea is echoed by the apostle Paul in Acts 17:30: "In the past, God overlooked such ignorance, but now he commands all people everywhere to repent." And very succinct is Galatians 4:4, "But when the fullness of time had come, God sent his Son, born of a woman, born under the law, in order to redeem those who were under the law..." Jesus himself also taught that the age of the law was passing away; see Matt. 11:13 and Luke 16:16, "The Law and the Prophets were until John. Since that time, the kingdom of God is forcing its way forward, and the aggressive lay hold of it. And if you are willing to accept it, John is the Elijah who was to come."

Follow me, and I will make you fishers of people." <sup>18</sup>And they followed him right away, leaving the nets.

<sup>19</sup>And when he had gone a little farther, he saw James the son of Zebedee, and his brother John. They also were on board a boat, mending the nets. <sup>20</sup>At once he called them, and they went off after him, leaving their father Zebedee in the boat with the hired hands.

Jesus' Teaching Has Authority

<sup>21</sup>And they enter into Capernaum, and having gone straight into the synagogue on the Sabbath, he began to teach. <sup>22</sup>And they were amazed at his teaching, because he was teaching them as one having authority, and not like the Torah scholars.<sup>235</sup>

<sup>23</sup>And right then there was a man in their synagogue who was in an unclean spirit. And he cried out, <sup>24</sup>saying, "What business do you have with us, Jesus, you Nazarene?"<sup>236</sup> Have you come to destroy us? I know who you are— the Holy One of God!"

<sup>25</sup>And Jesus rebuked him, saying, "Be quiet and come out of him!" <sup>26</sup>And the unclean spirit shook him violently back and forth and came out of him, shouting very loudly.

<sup>27</sup>And all were astonished, such that they were discussing it, saying, "What is this? A new teaching, with authority. He even commands the unclean spirits, and they obey him." <sup>28</sup>And immediately the report went out about him everywhere, in the whole region of Galilee.

Jesus Heals All in Capernaum

<sup>29</sup>And as soon as they came out of the synagogue, they went into the house of Simon and Andrew, accompanied by James and John. <sup>30</sup>And Simon's mother-in-law was bedridden, burning a high fever, and right away they are telling him about her. <sup>31</sup>And after approaching her and grasping her by the hand, he lifted her, and the fever left her, and she began to wait on them.

<sup>32</sup>And when evening had come, when the sun had set,<sup>237</sup> they were bringing to him all who had an illness, and those being tormented by demons. <sup>33</sup>Indeed the entire town was gathered at the door. <sup>34</sup>And he healed many who were ill with various diseases, and many demons he expelled; and he would not allow the demons to speak, because they knew him.

<sup>235</sup> 1:22 The corresponding Hebrew word to γραμματεὺς is סֹפֵר - sōppēr, active participle of sāpār, to write, to count, to number. The Latin Vulgate rendered it scriba, and in English it is traditionally translated 'scribe.' The original meaning was "writer; clerk; copyist," but after the captivity, it came to mean a member of the class of professional interpreters of the Jewish Law.

<sup>236</sup> 1:24 Ναζωραῖος - Nazōraios. A Nazarene is someone from the town of Nazareth, just as a Houstonian is someone from the city of Houston. A Nazarene is not to be confused with a Nazirite, someone who took a time-limited vow not to cut his hair or to eat grapes or drink wine. The word Nazarene was sometimes derogatory, depending on who was saying it. Jews of Jerusalem and Judea looked down on people from Galilee as being not as pure in their Jewish blood or religion. Even someone from within Galilee, like the apostle Nathanael, looked down on Nazareth, John 1:46. Nazareth was quite close to Samaria. One way in which Jonah was a sign of Jesus was that they were both from the same home country. The prophet Jonah, son of Amittai, we read in 2 Kings 14:25, was from the town of Gath Hepher, which was at most one or two hills away from where Nazareth later was, if not the same hill. After the time of Jesus, his followers came also to be called "Notzri" by Jews who did not believe in him, a contemptuous epithet.

Jesus Keeps Moving

<sup>35</sup>And rising up very early, in the darkness, Jesus went outside and went off to a solitary place, and he was praying there. <sup>36</sup>And Simon and those with him hunted him down, <sup>37</sup>and found him, and they are saying to him, "Everyone is looking for you!"

<sup>38</sup>And he says to them, "Let us go somewhere else, to the nearby villages, so I may preach there also. For that is why I have come."

A Leper Healed Spreads the Word

<sup>41</sup>And filled with compassion,<sup>240</sup> he reached out his hand and touched him, and says to him, "I am willing. Be cleansed." <sup>42</sup>And immediately the leprosy went away from him and he was cleansed.

<sup>43</sup>And he immediately thrust him outside, sternly admonishing him, <sup>44</sup>and saying to him, "See that you don't tell a thing to anyone. Only go show yourself to the priest, and offer the things Moses commanded for your cleansing, as a testimony to them."

<sup>45</sup>But when he left he proceeded to speak out freely, and to spread the word around, with the result that Jesus could no longer enter a town openly, but stayed outside in deserted places. Yet people were still coming toward him from all directions.

Chapter 2

The Paralytic Lowered Through the Roof

<sup>1</sup>And some days later, he entered again into Capernaum, and it was heard that he was home. <sup>2</sup>And many gathered, so many that there was no room left, not even at the door; and he was speaking the word to them.

<sup>3</sup>Then some arrive, bringing to him a paralytic, carried by four. <sup>4</sup>And not being able to get to him because of the crowd, they removed the roof where he was, and when they had dug through, they lowered the pallet bed on which the paralytic is<sup>241</sup> lying.

One explanation I have encountered for this variant is confusion from the similarity between the Aramaic words for these Greek variants. The UBS Textual Commentary says compare the Syriac words ethrah am "he had pity," with ethra'em "he was enraged"). *Ephraem in his commentary on Tatian's Diatessaron shows knowledge of the "enraged" variant, but all extant ancient Syriac versions read in support of "filled with compassion." Note: though MS 1358 omits both σπλαγχνισθεὶς and ὀργισθεὶς, it follows Byz in the words preceding it: ὁ δὲ Ἰησοῦς in contrast to Σ B D which have just καί, and L has the Byz reading in a different word sequence.

<sup>6</sup>And some of the Torah scholars were sitting there, and debating in their hearts, <sup>7</sup>"Why does this fellow talk like this? He is blaspheming! Who can forgive sins but God alone?"

<sup>8</sup>And Jesus, knowing immediately in his spirit that they were debating like this inside themselves, says to them, "Why are you debating these things in your hearts? <sup>9</sup>Which is easier to say to the paralytic: 'Your sins are forgiven,' or to say, 'Get up, take your bed and walk'? <sup>10</sup>But so that you may know that the Son of Man has authority on earth to forgive sins..." He said to the paralytic, <sup>11</sup>"I say to you, get up, take your bed, and go to your house." <sup>12</sup>And he stood up, and immediately took his bed and went out in front of them all, with the result that they were all astonished, and glorified God, saying, "We have never seen anything like this!"

A Tax Collector Joins Jesus

<sup>13</sup>And he went out, along beside the lake again. And the entire crowd came with him, and he was teaching them. <sup>14</sup>And as he went along, he saw Levi son of Halphaeus sitting at the taxes post. And he says to him, "Follow me." And rising up, he followed him.

<sup>15</sup>And it comes about that Jesus is reclining at Levi's house, and many tax collectors<sup>242</sup> and sinners were reclining with him and his disciples, for there were many who followed him. <sup>16</sup>And when the Torah scholars of the Pharisees saw that he was eating with sinners and tax collectors, they said to his disciples, "Why does he eat with tax collectors and sinners?"<sup>243</sup>

<sup>17</sup>And hearing, Jesus says to them, "It is not the healthy who need a doctor, but the sick. I have not come to call the righteous, but sinners."

<sup>241</sup> 2:4 The imperfect is more properly rendered, "was lying." However, in English that sounds like he "used to be lying on it," and was no longer lying on the pallet at the time it is lowered.

<sup>242</sup> 2:15 τελώνης - telōnēs; a combination of the words τέλος - télos for excise off the end tally, and the word ὀνέομαι - ōnéomai which means to "buy." Hence, tax-buyers, or tax owners. The accounts receivable which the due taxes represented were bought by something like collection agencies. The telōnēs were not the holders of the 'tax farming' contracts themselves, (the actual holders were called publicani), but were subordinates (Latin, portitores) hired by the publicani. The higher officials, the publicans, were usually foreigners, but their underlings were taken, as a rule, from the native population, from the subjugated people. The prevailing system of tax collection afforded the collector many opportunities to exercise his greed and unfairness. Moreover, since the tax was forced upon the conquered by the conqueror, the collectors of the tax were personal reminders to the populace that they, the payers of the tax, were conquered. Therefore the collectors of the tax were particularly hated and despised as a class. They were pre-judged to be both embezzlers, and traitors or collaborators with the occupying foreign power.

<sup>243</sup> 2:16 There is an ambiguity here involving the word ὅτι - hōti. This is because the original manuscripts did not have punctuation, accent marks, or spaces. This word could have been one word, ὅτι, or two, ὃ τι. The former would mean the same as quotation marks, meaning that what immediately follows it is the first word of a direct quote; and the latter would be an interrogative and mean something like "why." Debrunner, §300(2), says this last is Markan, and Bauer, p. 587, beginning of heading 4, says it is doubtful for all the N.T. Later manuscripts, and even Codex Sinaiticus, read διὰ τί or διὰ τί instead of ὅτι, either to clarify the ambiguity, or to harmonize Mark with the Matthew and Luke accounts. It was characteristic of Septuagint Greek that ὃ τι mean "why." As for me I agree with Bauer, that ὃ τι is not used by Mark meaning "why," and since the manuscript evidence points to ὅτι being the correct reading, I interpret it as a quotation mark.

Jesus Questioned About Fasting

<sup>18</sup>And the disciples of John and the Pharisees were fasting. And they come and say to him, "How is it that the disciples of John and the disciples of the Pharisees fast, but your disciples do not fast?"<sup>244</sup>

<sup>19</sup>And Jesus said to them, "Are the members of the bridegroom's party able to fast while the bridegroom is with them? So long as they have the bridegroom with them, they are not able to fast. <sup>20</sup>But the days will come when the bridegroom is taken away from them, and then, in that day, fast they will.

Man Over the Sabbath

<sup>25</sup>And he says to them, "Have you never read what David did, when he and those with him were in need and hungry? <sup>26</sup>In the account about Abiathar the high priest, he entered the house of God and ate the bread of offering, which was not permissible to eat, except for the priests, and he gave also to those who were with him."<sup>247</sup>

<sup>244</sup> 2:18 The verb "fast" here is in the present linear. This could mean habitual action, repetitive action, or on the other hand, it could mean what was happening right now, presently going on. Are they questioning why they are not fasting right now in this instance? Or why they never are in the habit of fasting? Opinions are split. I take the cue from verse 19, that as long as Jesus was with them, they were not fasting at all. In other words, it was not just that one occasion that they were not fasting.

<sup>247</sup> 2:26 Notice that Jesus does not deny that they were violating the Sabbath, doing something that was unlawful to do on the Sabbath. He admitted that it was unlawful, by comparing it to something David did that was unlawful. Similar to what Jesus said in another place, "Something greater than the temple is here," so also now, "something greater than the Sabbath is here." Gathering even a very small amount of food on the Sabbath day, was unlawful to do. See the instructions on gathering the manna, in Exodus 16:21-30, "Morning by morning they gathered it, each as much as he could eat...On the sixth day they gathered twice as much bread, two omers apiece...This is what Yahweh has commanded: 'Tomorrow is a day of solemn rest, a holy sabbath to Yahweh; bake what you will bake, and boil what you will boil, and all that is left over, lay by to be kept till the morning.' ... 'Six days you shall gather it; but on the seventh day, which is a Sabbath, there will be none. ...See! Yahweh has given you the Sabbath, therefore on the sixth day he gives you bread for two days; remain every man of you in his place, let no man go out of his place on the seventh day.'"

<sup>27</sup>Then he said to them, "The Sabbath came about for humankind, and not humankind for the Sabbath.<sup>248</sup> <sup>28</sup>Consequently, the Son of Man also is lord of the Sabbath."

Chapter 3

<sup>1</sup>And again he went into a synagogue. And a man was there who had a shriveled hand.
<sup>2</sup>And they were watching him carefully whether he would heal him on the Sabbath, so that they might accuse him.

<sup>4</sup>And he says to them, "Is it permissible on the Sabbath to do good or do evil, to save life or destroy it?" But they were not speaking.

The Thronging Crowds Endanger Jesus

<sup>7</sup>And Jesus departed with his disciples to the lake, and a great multitude from Galilee followed. <sup>8</sup>And from Judea and from Jerusalem, and from Idumea and beyond the Jordan, and the vicinity of Tyre and Sidon also, a great multitude, hearing what things he was doing, came to him. <sup>9</sup>And he told his disciples that a boat should be kept handy for him, because of the crowd, in case they should crush him.<sup>250</sup> <sup>10</sup>For he had healed many, with the result that everyone who had a disease would charge upon him, in order to touch him. <sup>11</sup>And whenever the unclean spirits saw him, they would fall down before him and cry out, saying, "You are the Son of God!" <sup>12</sup>And he would strongly warn them not to make him known.

The Twelve Apostles

<sup>13</sup>And he goes up into the mountain, and calls to him those he wanted, and they came to him. <sup>14</sup>And he appointed twelve, that they might be with him, and that he might send them out to preach, <sup>15</sup>and to have authority to drive out the demons.

<sup>248</sup> 2:27 God rested, i.e., stopped working when he had created man. He rested because he had created man. He created humankind on the sixth day, and therefore he from that day forward did no more work of creation (Gen. 2:3), because humankind was created. For the creation of mankind was the pinnacle of creation, the climax of creation, the end, the goal. See my treatise entitled, "What is Sabbath?" The rendering, "The Sabbath was made for humankind, and not humankind for the Sabbath," is possible, but not Markan use of the words διὰ nor of γίνομαι. That is, Mark nowhere else uses the word 'dia' as meaning 'for,' and he nowhere else uses the word 'ginomai' as meaning 'create.'

<sup>249</sup> 3:6 The Herodians were neither a religious sect nor a political party, but people with a certain attitude and outlook, Jews of influence and standing who supported the Herodian rule, and hence also that of the Romans, by whose authority the Herodian dynasty was maintained. In such allegiance they were definitely in the minority, for most Palestinian Jews were strongly opposed to that regime. In the gospels the Herodians are mentioned as enemies of Jesus, once in Galilee (Mark 3:6; Diatess. 8:23), and again at Jerusalem (Matt. 22:16; Mark 12:13; Diatess. 26:1).

<sup>16</sup>And the twelve he appointed are: Simon, to whom he added the name Peter; <sup>17</sup>and James the son of Zebedee, and John the brother of James, and to them he added a name: Boanerges, which means Sons of Thunder; <sup>18</sup>and Andrew, and Philip, and Bartholomew, and Matthew, and Thomas, and James son of Halphaeus, and Thaddaeus, and Simon of Cana,<sup>251</sup> <sup>19</sup>and Judas of Kerioth,<sup>252</sup> the very one who betrayed him.

Jesus Thought to be Out of His Mind

<sup>20</sup>And he goes into a house, and once again a crowd gathered, such that they were not even able to eat bread. <sup>21</sup>And when they heard, his relatives set out to go and take custody of him; for they were saying, "He is out of his mind."<sup>253</sup> <sup>22</sup>And the Torah scholars who had come down from Jerusalem said, "He has Baal-zibbul,"<sup>254</sup> and, "By the prince of demons he drives out the demons."

And Jesus said he came only to the lost sheep of Israel, and in 10:5 right here one verse later, he tells the twelve to only go to the lost sheep of Israel, so very unlikely Jesus would have a Gentile as one of the 12, whose name is on one of the twelve foundations of the New Jerusalem. The Zealots were a political faction of the Jews, so very unlikely Simon was a Gentile. Strong's Concordance says κανανιτην (G2581) is derived from קנא kan-naw', "Jealous." Canaan in Greek consistently starts with the letter X. Canaan (ie., Genesis 13:12) Χανααν; Canaanite: Χαναναίων (Genesis 10:18) Χαναναίους (Genesis 15:21). And in the NT, for the Canaanite woman, Matt 15:22, Χαναναία. The KJV is incorrect rendering the word κανανιτης here as "Canaanite." The bottom line is that both the Greek textual variants above mean "of Cana," although the first listed variant, καναναιον, is said by some scholars to be from the Aramaic for "zealot."

<sup>253</sup> 3:21 The Greek word, ἐξίστημι - existēmi, is used here the same way as in II Corinthians 5:13, where it is used as an antonym of 'sane.'

The Textus Receptus, KJV and NKJV read Beelzebub, even though there is insufficient Greek manuscript evidence for that. The spelling Βεελζεβούβ - Beelzeboúb would represent the Hebrew זְבוּב בַּעַל - ba'al zəbūb as found in II Kings 1:2, and means "Baal (Lord) of flies." The spelling Beelzeboúl זְבוּל בַּעַל ba'al zəbūl would mean "lord of filth." 'Ba'al' means Lord or Prince. Baal was a Canaanite god, the son of Dagon, the god of grain. Baal was the bull prince, the bull being a symbol of fertility. Later the name Baalzebub became associated with the Aramaic Beeldebaba, 'enemy.' The conflation of Ba'alzebub and Beeldebaba, as 'Beelzebub,' came to be a name for Satan.

Jesus' Mother and Brothers

<sup>31</sup>And his mother and brothers arrive, and standing outside, they sent word to him, summoning him. <sup>32</sup>And the crowd was sitting around him, and they say to him, "Behold, your mother and brothers and sisters are wanting you outside."

<sup>33</sup>And answering them he says, "Who are my mother and brothers?" <sup>34</sup>And looking around at the ones sitting around him in a circle, he says, "Behold my mother and my brothers. <sup>35</sup>Whoever does the will of God, that one is my brother and sister and mother."

Chapter 4

The Parable of the Sower

<sup>1</sup>And he began to teach beside the lake again, and a very large crowd collects around him, such that he boards a boat to sit on the lake, and all the crowd was on the land up to the water's edge.

<sup>2</sup>And he taught them many things by parables, and in his teaching said to them: <sup>3</sup>"Listen! Behold, the sower went out to sow. <sup>4</sup>And it came about in the process of sowing that some seed fell beside the way, and the birds came and ate it up. <sup>5</sup>And other seed fell on the rocky place, where it did not have much soil, and it sprang up immediately, because it had no depth of soil. <sup>6</sup>And when the sun arose, it was scorched, and it dried up, because it had no taproot. <sup>7</sup>And other seed fell among thorns, and the thorns grew up and choked it, and it yielded no fruit. <sup>8</sup>And others fell into good soil, and came up, grew, and produced, thirtyfold,<sup>255</sup> and sixtyfold, and a hundredfold."

<sup>13</sup>And he says to them, "You don't understand this <sup>257</sup> parable? How then will you understand any parable? <sup>14</sup>The sower is sowing the word. <sup>15</sup>And the ones beside the way where the word is sown, these are those who when they hear, immediately comes Satan and takes away the word that was sown in them. <sup>16</sup>And likewise, the ones sown on the rocky places, these are those who when they hear the word, they immediately receive it with joy. <sup>17</sup>Yet they do not have a root in themselves, but are short-lived. When difficulty or persecution come because of the word, they quickly fall away. <sup>18</sup>And others sown among thorns, these are those hearing the word, <sup>19</sup>and the worries of this age, the seductiveness of wealth, and the desires concerning other things, come in and choke the word, and it becomes unfruitful. <sup>20</sup>And the ones sown on the good soil, these are those who hear the word and embrace it, and bear fruit, thirtyfold, and sixtyfold, and a hundredfold."

You Determine How Much You Receive

<sup>21</sup>And he said to them, "Does the lamp exist<sup>258</sup> to be put under a bucket or under a bed? Is it not meant to be put on a stand? <sup>22</sup>For there is nothing hidden that is not meant to be made manifest, nor covered up but to come into view. <sup>23</sup>If anyone has ears to hear, hear."

<sup>24</sup>And he said to them, "Consider carefully what you hear. In what size container you measure, it will be measured to you, and increased for you. <sup>25</sup>For whoever has, to him it will be given, and whoever has not, even what he has will be taken away from him."

The Parable of the Automatic Earth

<sup>256</sup> 4:13a Isaiah 6:9-10 The phrase, "lest they turn, and be forgiven," means that God's intention was to prevent them from turning and being forgiven.

<sup>257</sup> 4:13b This does not make much sense without knowing from Luke's account that the disciples asked him the meaning of the parable of the sower specifically. (Luke 8:9; Diatess. 11:40)

<sup>258</sup> 4:21 The Greek says literally, "Does the lamp come to be put under a bucket..." This could also possibly be translated, "Is the lamp brought in to be put under a bucket..." It is my belief that the word of God frequently has double meanings intentionally. If we take this latter footnote rendering as the reading, then Jesus is saying that he is not telling the parables only to be never understood by anyone. And that we should, if we have a spiritual ear, listen carefully, and be encouraged that we can take from them. Thus with this latter reading, Jesus is the holder of the lamp. On the other hand, with the reading as I have it in the text of Mark, we the hearers, are the holders of the lamp. We should take our lamp out and use it. Jesus elsewhere tells us, "The eye is the lamp of the body." (Matt. 6:23; Luke 11:34) And in this case, we are not to worry that our eye is bigger than our stomach. We are encouraged to come and get it, and whatever size container we bring, God will fill it, and more. If you think he won't, then he won't. If you think he will, then he will. Why not be like the prophet Elisha, and ask, "Lord, give me a double portion of Elijah's spirit"? (2 Kings 2:9) And of Christ, it is said, "to him God gives the Holy Spirit without measure." (John 3:34) Be not one of those who shrink back in cowardice. For "those who conquer will inherit these things, and I will be their God and they will be my children. But as for the cowardly, the unbelieving, the polluted, the murderers, the fornicators, the sorcerers, the idolaters, and all liars, their inheritance will be the lake that burns with fire and sulfur, which is the second death." Revelation 21:7-8 how, he does not know. <sup>28</sup>Automatically the earth bears fruit; first the grass, then the head, then the full kernel in the head. <sup>29</sup>And when the grain is ready, he immediately sends out the sickle, because the harvest has come."

The Parable of the Mustard Seed

<sup>30</sup>And he said, "How may we compare the kingdom of God? Or in what parable shall we set it forth? <sup>31</sup>It is like a mustard seed, which when sown in the soil is smaller than all the seeds in the soil, <sup>32</sup>yet when it is sown, it grows, and becomes larger than all the vegetables, and makes branches big enough that the birds of the sky can dwell under its shadow."<sup>259</sup>

<sup>33</sup>And with many such parables he was speaking the word to them, as long as they were able to listen. <sup>34</sup>To the crowds,<sup>260</sup> he would not say anything without a parable; but in private with his disciples, he would explain everything.

Jesus Commands the Elements

<sup>35</sup>That same day, when evening had come, he says to them, "Let's cross over to the other side."

<sup>36</sup>And leaving the crowd behind, they take him along, just as he was, in the boat. Other boats also were with him.

<sup>37</sup>And a great storm of wind is coming up, and the waves crashed into the boat, such that the boat is now filling up.

<sup>38</sup>And he was in the stern, sleeping on the cushion. And they rouse him and say to him, "Teacher, doesn't it matter to you that we are perishing?"

<sup>39</sup>And when he was awake, he rebuked the wind, and said to the sea, "Hush. Be still." And the wind died down, and there came a total calm.

<sup>40</sup>And he said to them, "Why are you afraid? Have you still no faith?" <sup>41</sup>And they were very much afraid, and saying to one another, "Who, then, is this, that even the wind and the sea obey him?"

The Legion of Demons Near Gadara

<sup>259</sup> 4:32 This is very much like Daniel 4:12. And in Genesis 19:8, Lot took the two angels "under the shadow of his roof." The idea here is, in hot countries, a shadow is shelter from the sun, whereas rain is a very welcome thing to walk in uncovered. Where I am from, people would use umbrellas against the sun, not so much against the rain. This is especially true when "nesting," or in repose, like sitting at a spectator event, for an extended period of time in the sun— out come the umbrellas. This reminds me of Jonah 4:6-9, where Jonah also got shelter from the sun under a vegetable plant, of the cucumber or castor-bean variety. Recall also how God protects his people under the "shadow of his wings," Psalm 17:8; 36:7; 57:1; 63:7; Isaiah 34:15, etc.

<sup>260</sup> 4:34 The Greek does not have the words "the crowds" here, but only the dative plural article serving as pronoun. But it is referring back to the crowds mentioned in 4:1, as contrasted to how he would explain everything to the disciples when he was alone with them in private with them, 4:10, 34.

in the tombs, and no longer was anyone able to bind him with a chain, <sup>4</sup>because he had often been bound hand and foot, only to have the chains burst apart and the leg irons broken, and no one had the strength to subdue him. <sup>5</sup>And through all, night and day, among the tombs and in the hills, he was crying out and cutting himself with stones.

<sup>6</sup>And seeing Jesus from afar, he ran and fell down before him, <sup>7</sup>and shouting with a loud voice, he says: "What business between you and me, O Jesus, you son of the Most High God? In the name of God, I beg you, do not torture me." <sup>8</sup>For Jesus was saying to him, "Come out of the human, unclean spirit!"

And he says to him, "Legion is my name, for we are many." <sup>10</sup>And he begged him earnestly not to send them out of the area.

<sup>11</sup>And on a hillside near there, a large herd of pigs was feeding, <sup>12</sup>and they pled with him, saying, "Send us into the pigs, so that we may enter into them."

<sup>13</sup>And he allowed them. And coming out, the unclean spirits went into the pigs, and the herd, about two thousand, rushed down the steep bank into the lake, and were drowned in the lake.

<sup>14</sup>And those feeding them fled, and reported to the town and to the farms, and people came to see what it is that took place. <sup>15</sup>And they come near to Jesus, and they see the demon-possessed man dressed and in his right mind, he who had had the legion, and they were afraid. <sup>16</sup>And the ones who had seen how it happened to the demon-possessed man rehearsed it to them, also about the pigs. <sup>17</sup>And they began to beg him to go away from their territory.

<sup>18</sup>And as he was getting into the boat, the man who had been demon-possessed was begging him that he might always be with Jesus. <sup>19</sup>And he did not allow him, but says to him, "Go home to your people and report to them what things the Lord has done for you, and what mercy he has shown you." <sup>20</sup>And he left and began to proclaim in the Ten Cities what things Jesus had done for him. And all were amazed.

A Dead Damsel and a Sick Woman

<sup>21</sup>And when Jesus crossed back over to the other side, a large crowd had assembled for him, and he was beside the lake. <sup>22</sup>And one of the synagogue rulers comes, Jairus by name, and when he sees him he falls at his feet, <sup>23</sup>and pleads with him earnestly, saying, "My little daughter is at the point of death. Oh, that you might come and lay your hands on her, so that she may be healed and live." <sup>24</sup>And he went with him.

And a large crowd was following with him, and compressing around him. <sup>25</sup>And a woman was there with a flow of blood of twelve years, <sup>26</sup>and had suffered many things under many doctors and spent everything she had, and not been helped, but rather had moved toward the worse. <sup>27</sup>And she had heard the things about Jesus, and coming up behind in the crowd, she <sup>30</sup>And Jesus, noticing immediately in himself that power was going out from him, turned around in the crowd and said, "Who touched my clothes?"

<sup>31</sup>And his disciples said to him, "You see the crowd pressing in together around you, and you say, 'Who touched me?'" <sup>32</sup>Yet he was still looking around to see the one who had done this.

<sup>33</sup>The woman then, knowing what had happened to her, came and fell down before him, fearing and trembling, and told him all the truth.<sup>262</sup> <sup>34</sup>And he said to her, "Daughter, your faith has healed you. Go with peace, and be free from your scourge."

<sup>35</sup>While he was still speaking, they come from the synagogue ruler's, saying, "Your daughter has died. Why inconvenience the teacher any farther?"

<sup>37</sup>And he did not allow anyone to come along with him, except Peter, James, and John the brother of James. <sup>38</sup>And they are coming into the house of the synagogue ruler, and he sees an uproar, and weeping and much loud wailing. <sup>39</sup>And when he had come in he says to them, "Why are you making a commotion and weeping? The child is not dead but sleeping." <sup>40</sup>And they laughed him to scorn.

Then, having put them all out, he takes the father of the child, and the mother, and the ones who were with him, and he goes in where the child was. <sup>41</sup>And taking hold of the child's hand, he says to her, "Talitha, kōum."<sup>263</sup> (which when translated is, "O little damsel, I say to you, stand up.") <sup>42</sup>And the damsel stood up immediately, and was walking (for she was twelve years of age). And they were stunned with amazement. <sup>43</sup>And he was ordering them sternly that no one know this. And he said to give her something to eat.

"No Boy We Knew Could Be a Prophet"

<sup>1</sup>And he moved on from there, and comes into his home town, and his disciples are accompanying him. <sup>2</sup>And when the Sabbath came, he proceeded to teach in the synagogue, and the many hearing were astonished, saying, "Where did this man get these things? Namely,

<sup>262</sup> 5:33 The reason for her fear was probably because she knew she had violated the Rabbi's cleanness. As a woman with a flow of blood, she was perpetually unclean ceremonially (Leviticus 15:25-31), and the others in the crowd, were they to touch her, would be unclean.

<sup>263</sup> 5:41 The earliest Greek manuscripts of Mark 5:41 say κοῦμ, and later Greek manuscripts say, κοῦμι. There have been two main explanations for the difference: (1) That this is apparently an effort on the part of later copyists to correct the masculine ending to the feminine. For without the i, it is the Aramaic imperative singular masculine form קִימ - qūm; with the i, it is the imperative singular feminine, קִימִי - qūmī. But the masculine form was sometimes used as default, without reference to the gender of the person being addressed. And according to Dalman both forms came to be pronounced alike, because of the phonological phenomenon of a final vowel weakening when it follows a stressed syllable and strong consonant: the final i sound of the feminine imperative falling away because of its position following the stressed penult. See G. A. Dalman, Grammatik des jüdisch-palästinischen Aramäisch, 2te Aufl. (Leipzig, 1905), p. 266, n. 1. And (2), the other explanation of the difference in forms is that it is a dialectal difference: the form without the final i was the Mesopotamian form, and the form with the final i was the Palestinian Aramaic form. See J. Wellhausen.

<sup>4</sup>And Jesus said to them, "A prophet is not without honor, except in his home town and among his relatives, and in his house."

Jesus Sends Out the Twelve

And he went around the villages in a circuit teaching. <sup>7</sup>And calling the Twelve to him, he began to send them out two by two, and he gave them authority over the unclean spirits, <sup>8</sup>and he gave orders to them: that they should take nothing for the trip except a staff only; no bread, no bag, nothing in the money belt, <sup>9</sup>but only the sandals already tied on; also not to put on two tunics.

<sup>10</sup>And he further said to them, "Wherever you enter into a house, there stay up until when you leave that place. <sup>11</sup>And whatever place does not receive you nor will they listen to you, leaving there, shake off the dust under your feet, as a testimony to them."

<sup>12</sup>And going forth, they proclaimed that people should repent. <sup>13</sup>And many demons they expelled, and many sick ones they anointed with oil and healed.

John the Baptizer Beheaded

<sup>14</sup>And Herod the king heard, for his name had become well known, that<sup>266</sup> some were saying, "John the Baptizer has been raised from the dead; that is why miraculous powers are at work in him."

And still others were saying, "He is a prophet, as though one of The Prophets."

<sup>16</sup>But when Herod heard this, he kept saying, "John, the man I beheaded, has been raised from the dead!"

It is a Hebraism to use καί, "and," for "that," and this may explain the rendering of the Greek καί as ut or quod in the Old Latin mss. indicated. That is, the translators of the Greek into Latin were aware of this potential Hebraism, and interpreted this as "And what is this wisdom given to him, such that these miracles happen by his hands?" See also the Peshitta, which renders it this way. Or, perhaps the Latin and Syriac translators saw this καί as an exegetical one, as in BDF § 442(9).

So the king said to the girl, "Ask me anything you want, and I will give it to you." <sup>23</sup>And he swore to her, "Whatever you ask for, I will give it to you, up to half my kingdom."

<sup>24</sup>And going out, she said to her mother, "What shall I ask for?"

And she said, "The head of John the Baptizer."

<sup>26</sup>And the king became greatly distressed. He did not want to refuse her, because of the words of oath and those reclining. <sup>27</sup>And the king immediately gave orders to bring his head, sending an executioner. And he went, and beheaded John in the prison, <sup>28</sup>and brought his head on a platter and gave it to the girl. And the girl gave it to her mother. <sup>29</sup>And when his disciples heard, they came and took his corpse and laid it in a tomb.

Jesus Feeds the Five Thousand

<sup>30</sup>And the apostles are collecting around Jesus, and they reported to him all the things that they had done, and what they had taught. <sup>31</sup>And he says to them, "Come by yourselves to a remote place and rest a little." For those coming and going were many, and they did not even have opportunity to eat.

<sup>32</sup>And they went away in a boat by themselves to a remote place. <sup>33</sup>And many saw them leaving and knew, and ran together there on foot from all the towns and arrived ahead of them.

There at first appears to be some disagreement between Josephus, Mark, Matthew and Luke (or the copyists thereof) about Herod's family tree. For example, who was Herodias' first husband? Some mss of Matthew follow the early mss of Mark on that question, while others are changed to agree with Josephus. Compounding all this is how broadly words such as father, son, brother, and daughter were used (for example, "daughter" could also mean niece or granddaughter). But the following is what can be distilled from all accounts. Herodias' first husband, named Philip in the Bible and Herod in Josephus, was also known as Herod Philip. They were the same man. Herodias then divorced Herod Philip and married Herod Antipas, who was Herod Philip's half brother (the father of both was Herod I, king of Judea, 4 B.C., who had eight wives in his lifetime. Herod Philip's mother was Mariamne II, the third wife, and Herod Antipas' mother was Malthake, the fourth wife). Josephus says that Herodias already had a daughter named Salome before she married Herod Antipas (p 485 of The Works of Josephus, trans. William Whiston, Hendrickson, 1988; or Antiquities book 18, chapter 5, secs. 136-137). So if it was Salome that danced for Herod Antipas, she was both his half-niece and step-daughter. Both niece and step-daughter would be a not-unheard-of use of the word daughter. But, the earliest manuscripts of Mark say, "his daughter Herodias." If Herod Antipas had another daughter, whether by Herodias or otherwise, such a daughter is not mentioned anywhere else. In summary, then, though the earliest Greek manuscripts say "Herod's daughter Herodias," some translations dated just as early (Sinaitic and Curetonian Syriac, Bohairic Coptic, and Gothic, all 4th century) or earlier (Sahadic Coptic, 3rd century) than those Greek manuscripts, read, "Herodias' daughter," as does also Tatian's Diatessaron. Because of the combined testimony of these witnesses along with Josephus, I am confident that the dancer in question was Salome, the daughter of Herod's wife Herodias.

<sup>34</sup>And getting out he saw the large crowd, and felt compassion for them, because they were like sheep not having a shepherd, and he began to teach them many things.

<sup>35</sup>And now as an advanced hour comes, his disciples approached him and said, "The place is remote, and it's now an advanced hour. <sup>36</sup>Dismiss them so that they may go into the surrounding farms and villages and buy for themselves something to eat."

And they say to him, "Are we to go and buy two hundred denarii<sup>269</sup> of loaves of bread and give it to them to eat?"

<sup>38</sup>And he says to them, "How many loaves do you have? Go see."

And finding out, they say, "Five, and two fish."

<sup>40</sup>And they reclined, in groups of a hundred and in groups of fifty. <sup>41</sup>And taking the five loaves of bread and the two fish, and looking up to heaven, he blessed<sup>271</sup> and broke the loaves of bread and gave to the disciples to set before the people. The two fish also he divided for all.

<sup>45</sup>And he immediately told his disciples to get into the boat and go on ahead of him to the other side to Bethsaida, while he would dismiss the crowd. <sup>46</sup>And after saying farewell to them, he went away into the hills to pray.

<sup>47</sup>And after evening had come, the boat was in the middle of the lake, and he was alone on the land. <sup>48</sup>And about the fourth watch<sup>273</sup> of the night, when he saw them being sorely taxed in the process of rowing, because the wind was against them, he goes toward them, walking on

That is, "Get them to recline messparty messparty; and they reclined group group...by hundreds and by fifties" The 'symposia' are in the accusative case; 'prasiai's in the nominative. This is an example of 'distributive doubling,' a vulgarism, and probably a Hebraism. Now notice the variety of words for dining groups; Some see this as typical of Mark, in choosing very particular words around the leitmotif of bread and eating.

<sup>271</sup> 6:41 The Greek word is εὐλογέω – eulogéō. There is an ambiguity here as to whether Jesus blessed heaven, or blessed the loaves. On the whole, Biblically speaking, it is more likely that he "blessed heaven (God) for the loaves." In other words, he said good words about God and to God for supplying the loaves. But the ambiguity remains: compare John 6:11, where εὐχαριστέω – eucharistēō, the word for "giving thanks" is used, and it is clear that Jesus is thanking God, whereas on the other hand in Luke 9:16, the Greek is clear that Jesus blessed them, that is, the loaves and the fish. Paul says in Romans 14:6 that all food is clean if the eater gives thanks to God for it; thus in a sense the food is blessed by reason of the giving thanks. See also I Timothy 4:4-5, all food is sanctified if by prayer.

A κόφινος was used for many things, including carrying manure, while a σπυρίς was a smaller basket used for carrying edibles.

And they were being healed, as many as touched him.

Chapter 7

Clean and Unclean

<sup>1</sup>And the Pharisees and some of the Torah scholars are coming from Jerusalem and gathering toward him, <sup>2</sup>and they see that some of his disciples are eating bread with unclean<sup>276</sup>— that is, unwashed— hands. <sup>3</sup>For the Pharisees and all the Jews do not eat unless they wash their hands with the fist,<sup>277</sup> holding to the tradition of the elders. <sup>4</sup>And they do not eat from the marketplaces<sup>278</sup> unless they wash.<sup>279</sup> And there are many others which they have received instruction to keep, the baptizing of cups, pitchers, and kettles.<sup>280</sup>

<sup>274</sup> 6:52a οὐ συνῆκαν ἐπὶ τοῖς ἄρτοις (not understood upon the loaves). The verb generally means 'understand,' but in all other cases where it is transitive in the NT, its object is in the accusative case. Here it is coupled with the preposition 'upon,' and the word 'loaves' is in the dative case. So they "had not reached a state of understanding based upon the incident of the loaves" or, "they had not put two and two together by reflecting on the miracle of the loaves," or, "they were not any wiser because of the loaves." Indeed, since they did not learn from this incident, Jesus put them through it again, soon afterward, with the feeding of the four thousand. And still, even after that, Jesus expressed frustration with them (Mark 8:17-21; Diatess 14:31, 35) at their lack of intelligence. For intelligence is the main meaning of this verb: to be able to connect things, integrate and put it all together.

<sup>276</sup> 7:2 Koinos hands, that is, common, not consecrated, having touched anything and everything without having that washed off. Also in verse 5.

<sup>277</sup> 7:3 The meaning of πύγμῃ here is uncertain. It has been translated: "along with the fore-arms," or "to the wrist;" "up to the elbow;" "carefully;" "in the proper way;" or also: "in a way in which one clenched fist is turned about in the hollow of the other hand;" or, "with a fistful of water;" or "rubbing with the dry hand." This difficulty in understanding the significance of "with the fist" in the context of Jewish ceremonial washing prompted some copyists of the Greek manuscripts to omit it, and others to replace it with a word that gives a better sense, such as pukna, which can mean 'often' or 'thoroughly.' Some Italic manuscripts read, momento, 'in a moment,' or another, primo, 'first.'

<sup>278</sup> 7:4a The abruptness of this phrase prompted a few copyists to add the words "when they come," thus, "they do not eat when they come from the marketplaces unless they wash." That could be the meaning, or also, "they do not eat anything from the marketplaces unless they wash it."

<sup>279</sup> 7:4b Most manuscripts, βαπτίζονται, while the earliest Alexandrian manuscripts read ῥαντίσονται, sprinkle. Although it can be argued that the less familiar hrantisōntai was replaced by the more familiar baptisōntai, it is far more likely that Alexandrian copyists, either wishing to reserve baptisōntai for the Christian rite, or, more probably,

<sup>5</sup>And the Pharisees and Torah scholars are questioning him: "Why are your disciples not walking according to the tradition of the elders, but eating bread with unclean hands?"

<sup>6</sup>And he said to them, "Isaiah prophesied rightly about you hypocrites, as it is written:

" 'This people honor me with the lips, but their heart is far from me.

<sup>7</sup>They worship me in vain, their instruction is the drilling of<sup>281</sup>
the rules of human<sup>282</sup> beings.'

<sup>9</sup>And he said to them, "You have a fine way of setting aside the commandment of God in order to set up<sup>283</sup> your own traditions. <sup>10</sup>For Moses said, 'Honor your father and your mother,' and, 'The person cursing father or mother must be put to death.' <sup>11</sup>But you say that if someone says to father or mother, 'Whatever financial help you would receive from me is now korban' (that is, a gift vowed to God), <sup>12</sup>you relieve him of doing anything more for father or mother, <sup>13</sup>annulling the word of God by your tradition which you have handed down. And many similar such things you do."

they understood 'from marketplaces' as involving a partitive construction, they introduced hrantisōntai as more appropriate to express the meaning, thusly: "except they sprinkle [what is] from the market place, they do not eat [it]." But since both words speak of a ceremonial form of washing, the distinction may not be critical in this instance.

<sup>280</sup> 7:4c Most later manuscripts further read, 'and beds.' For in that time and culture, they ate while reclining on couches which also served as their beds. It is difficult to decide whether the words 'and beds' were added by copyists who were influenced by the legislation of Leviticus 15, or whether the words were omitted (a) accidentally because of homoioteleuton or (b) deliberately because the idea of washing or sprinkling beds seemed to be quite incongruous.

<sup>281</sup> 7:8a It is difficult to know the exact shade of meaning for διδάσκω, the Greek word here for "teach," which I translated "drill." For the Hebrew scriptures used 12 different words for teaching, and the Greek only half that, with the vast majority of instances being the word didaskō. The verse Jesus is quoting here is a rendering of the Hebrew of Isaiah 29:13. (Though in the N.T. Greek it bears far more resemblance to the Septuagint than the Masoretic Text Hebrew.) Here in the Greek N.T. the participle is διδάσκοντες, and in the Hebrew the corresponding participle is מְלַמְּדִים - məlummadīm, the pual (passive intensive) participle of לָמַד - lāmad, to instruct, to train. An intensive training would be a drilling. In fact, לָמַד - lāmad is the root word for Talmid, the word for the most scholarly Rabbi, and for Talmidim, such a Rabbi's apprentices; and rote drills were in fact the way things were taught. Also illuminating is to look at another word derived from לָמַד - lāmad, which is מְלִמָּה - malmēd, the word for "ox goad." The ox became accustomed to being goaded with the goad, being trained by it. This is effective training in one sense, but, this is not service from the heart, but rather merely becoming accustomed to submitting to pressure and pain. Compare also Jesus' discouraging of repetitious prayers, in Matt. 6:7; Diatess 9:27.

<sup>282</sup> 7:8b "Mitzvot," plural of mitzvah. This is the word used here in the Hebrew text of Isaiah 29:13. It means commandments, precepts, rules, and was used of commandments both from God or from men.

<sup>283</sup> 7:9 Some manuscripts say τηρήσητε, 'keep'; some say στήσητε, 'set up.' Quoting the Editorial Committee of the United Bible Society's Greek NT, "It is most difficult to decide whether scribes deliberately substituted 'establish' for 'keep,' as being the more appropriate verb in the context, or whether, through inadvertence in copying and perhaps influenced by the preceding phrase 'the commandment of God,' they replaced 'establish' with 'keep.' The Committee judged that, on the whole, the latter possibility was slightly more probable." In other words, it is more likely that later copyists 'refined' by changing 'set up' to 'keep.' In conclusion, it is slightly more probable that 'set up' is the original.

<sup>14</sup>And calling the crowd to him again, he said, "Listen to me everyone, and understand:
<sup>15</sup>There is nothing outside a human being which by entering him is able to make him unclean. Rather, the things coming out of a human being are the things making the human being unclean." [<sup>16</sup>If anyone has ears to hear, let him hear.]"<sup>284</sup>

<sup>17</sup>And when he had entered a house, away from the crowd, the disciples asked him the meaning of the parable.

<sup>18</sup>And he says to them, "Are you also this obtuse? Do you not understand that everything entering a human being from the outside is unable to make him unclean, <sup>19</sup>since it is not entering his heart but his stomach, and then goes out into the sewer?" (He is declaring all foods clean.)<sup>285</sup>

This sentence was added before the time of the breaking up of the text into verses with numbers. The UBS textual commentary says that though present in the majority of witnesses, it is absent from important Alexandrian witnesses. It appears to be a scribal gloss, derived perhaps from 4:9 or 4:23, introduced as an appropriate sequel to verse 14.

<sup>285</sup> 7:19 Or, "...then it goes out into the sewer, rendering all foods clean." There are problems either way. With the latter, how does a sewer or latrine purify foods? This problem appears to have prompted the copyist(s) who produced Codex Bezae, 5th century, to change their manuscript from 'latrine' to 'intestinal canal,' as it would make more sense to them to say that the intestines remove uncleanness from all foods. In a similar vein, attempts have been made to trace the etymology of βρώμα, 'food,' as a back-formation from the Modern Greek ἡ βρόμα (stench, filth) and add it to the variant reading of "intestinal canal" and thus come up with the rendering, "through the intestinal canal, purifying all filth." But in fact, according to DeBrunner, the meaning "stench, filth" would be a back-formation from the Modern Greek βρομῶ to the ancient Greek word βρόμος, 'din,' or βρομεῖν, 'to roar,' and not to βρώμα, 'food.' And as for the problem with the former option, (the way I have it in the Bible text above, the sentence in parentheses), the Greek as it reads does not seem to be an agreeably complete sentence ('rendering clean' is just a participle without an agent for subject, followed by 'all foods'); however, it is typical of Mark to be very abrupt and brief, for example, 3:30, and also to make small explanatory statements for the benefit of his non-Jewish readers, to explain what is going on from a Jewish religious point of view. Elsewhere in Mark, his explanatory statements are brief, seemingly incomplete sentences. As for the participle, it is nominative, singular, masculine. So with which earlier substantive is it agreeing in case, number and gender? There has been much discussion about this being a 'solecism,' that is, a case of inattention to inflectional agreement, thus making uncertain whether it is agreeing with 'everything entering' in Mark 7:18, or with 'sewer' just prior to the participle. However, one form of solecism customarily frequent in NT Greek is that of the 'circumstantial participle' being in the nominative rather than an oblique case. It seems the best explanation for this participle is that it is connected with the 'he says' at the beginning of verse 18; that is, the participle is circumstantial in that it sets the circumstances or reason for Jesus' saying everything in between. Happily, the most important truth here remains unaffected: that is that Jesus is declaring that all foods are clean. For if his point is that the waste ejection system purifies the foods, then he is saying all foods are clean for that reason. But if he is acting with Rabbinical authority and declaring all foods permissible and ceremonially clean, then the effect is still the same. The apostle Paul says all foods are clean, Romans 14:14, 17, 20, especially since the eater gives thanks to God in prayer for it. Also, remember the experience of Peter, the apostle to the Jews. In Acts chapters 10 and 11 God commanded Peter in a vision to eat all sorts of foods that were not Torah in Peter's upbringing.

<sup>286</sup> 7:21 Not merely evil thoughts, but where a reasoning process is evil, in that the conclusion arrived at from that reasoning process, is evil. An example of evil reasoning is James 2:4 where this same Greek word is used. In that passage James says that if you reason that a well-dressed person is more worthy of a good seat than a person wearing dirty clothes, then your reasoning is evil. You would be a judge coming to an evil conclusion, because your reasoning process is evil.

<sup>287</sup> 7:22a πλεονεξία - pleonexía. The literal etymological meaning is "desire for more." Its antonym is contentment. "But godliness with contentment is great gain. If we have food and clothing, we will be content with that." (I Tim.

haughtiness, and folly.<sup>290</sup> <sup>23</sup>All these evil things come forth from within and make the human being unclean."

The Faith of the Gentile Dog

<sup>24</sup>And getting up, he departed from there into the vicinity of Tyre.<sup>291</sup> And entering a house, he wanted no one to know, yet he could not escape notice. <sup>25</sup>In fact immediately upon hearing about him, a woman whose daughter had an unclean spirit came, and fell at his feet. <sup>26</sup>And the woman was a Gentile, a Syro-Phoenician by race. And she kept begging him that he drive the demon out of her daughter.

<sup>30</sup>And going away to her house, she found the child lying on the bed, and the demon gone.

Jesus Does All Things Well

<sup>31</sup>And going back out of the district of Tyre, he went through Sidon, down to the Sea of Galilee, into the midst of the region of the Ten Cities. <sup>32</sup>And they bring a man to him, deaf and speaking with difficulty, and they are begging him to place his hand on him.

6:6-8) "Let your way of life be without love of money, and be content with the things you presently have, for He has said, 'I will never leave you, nor will I ever forsake you.'" (Hebrews 13:5) The apostle Paul teaches that a covetous person is an idolater (Eph. 5:5; Col. 3:5; I Cor. 5:11). Covetousness might also be defined as in Mark 4:19 or Diatessaron 11:36 as "the desires for other things," that is, things other than the kingdom of God.

<sup>288</sup> 7:22b πονηρία – ponēria. This word is difficult to know the meaning of, because it has so long been a "religious jargon" word that most people have no other point of reference. Usually it is translated "wickedness, iniquity, evil, evil intent." But what are these? Both the Greek words for 'evil' and 'wicked' are derived from πόνος - ponos, the word for 'pain.' Thus evil and wicked are something causing pain, injury and harm. In I Cor. 5:8 πονηρία is grouped with κακία, another word for malice. My impression is that it is a conscious, knowing, deliberate, relished evil. Enjoying being bad for being bad's sake, and applauding others who are bad for bad's sake. For all humans, even the apostles, are called 'evil' by the Lord, but not all are called 'wicked.' It seems therefore to be a distinction of relishing it or not, and presence of malice versus absence of malice. Thus I translated it 'malice,' or even 'malevolence.'

<sup>289</sup> 7:22c ὀφθαλμός πονηρός – ophthalmos poneros, "evil eye." This is a Semitic concept, in which the attitude of the heart or the force of a person's thoughts, are focused out through, and cause the narrowing of the person's eye, out of envy, resentment, scheming, or even voodoo, toward one's neighbor. This concept merits a long explanation, which is to be found in an end note at the end of this document.

<sup>290</sup> 7:22d ἀφροσύνη, Without circumspection, without higher thought, without prudence. Without moral intelligence. Without wisdom. A fool is a moral simpleton, morally thoughtless.

The UBS Textual Commentary says: "The words καὶ Σιδῶνος seem to be an assimilation to Mt 15:21 and Mk 7:31. If they had been present originally, there is no reason why they should have been deleted. The witnesses in support of the shorter text include representatives of the Western the Caesarean types of text." To me, Mark 3:8 is a good candidate for source of assimilation.

<sup>36</sup>And he was ordering them that they tell no one. But as much as he ordered them, all the more they were talking about it. <sup>37</sup>And they were being overwhelmed with admiration, saying, "He has done everything well. He makes both the deaf to hear and the mute to speak."

Chapter 8

Jesus Feeds the Four Thousand

<sup>1</sup>During those days when there was again a great crowd and also having nothing to eat, he calls the disciples to him and says to them, <sup>2</sup>"I feel compassion for this crowd, because they have stayed with me three days now, and have nothing to eat. <sup>3</sup>And if I dismiss them to their homes, without eating they will collapse in the journey, and some of them are from a long distance."

And they said, "Seven."

<sup>6</sup>And he directs the crowd to recline on the ground. And taking the seven loaves of bread, giving thanks he broke them, and gave to his disciples, for them to serve. And they served the crowd. <sup>7</sup>They also had a few fish, and blessing them, he ordered them to be served as well. <sup>8</sup>And they ate and were filled, and they picked up the fragments left over, seven basketfuls. <sup>9</sup>And they were about four thousand; and he dismissed them. <sup>10</sup>And immediately boarding the boat with his disciples, he went to the area of Dalmanutha.

The Yeast of the Pharisees and Herod

<sup>11</sup>And the Pharisees came forward and began to debate with him, asking him for a sign from heaven, testing him.

<sup>12</sup>And sighing deeply in his spirit, he says, "Why does this generation ask for a sign? Truly I say to you, a sign will certainly not be given this generation!"<sup>294</sup> <sup>13</sup>And leaving them, he got back into the boat and went away to the other side.

<sup>293</sup> 7:35 δεσμός - desmós, "bond," used also in Luke 13:16 for that which Satan had used to restrain the crippled woman from walking. There, Luke uses two forms of the word, "whom Satan has bound," and also "loosened from this bond on the Sabbath." Some have rendered this in v. 35 above as "ligament," or "string," or "impediment." It depends on whether you think a literal body part is meant here, or something more figurative or spiritual. Perhaps it could even be rendered, "his tongue was freed from its bondage."

<sup>294</sup> 8:12 This is an implied oath or asseveration, strongly in the Hebraistic style, except leaving off, and only implying, the first part of the formula. The Greek literally says, "if a sign will be given to this generation!" If the formula were complete here, the whole sentence would be something like, "Be it done to me ever so severely, if a sign is ever given to this generation!"

<sup>14</sup>And they had forgotten to take bread; and except for one loaf, they had none with them in the boat. <sup>15</sup>And he started warning them, saying, "Take heed, be on your guard against the yeast of the Pharisees, and the yeast of Herod."

<sup>16</sup>And they were discussing with one another the fact that they had no bread loaves.

<sup>17</sup>And knowing, he says to them, "Why are you discussing with one another the fact that you have no bread loaves? Are you still not understanding, nor putting it together? Have you completely hardened hearts? <sup>18</sup>You have eyes; can't you see? And you have ears; can't you hear? And do you not remember? <sup>19</sup>When I broke the five loaves of bread to the five thousand, how many basketfuls of fragments did you pick up?"

They say to him, "Twelve."

<sup>20</sup>"When I broke the seven to the four thousand, how many basketfuls of fragments did you pick up?"

And they say, "Seven."

<sup>21</sup>And he said to them, "Do you still not understand?"

The Healing of a Blind Man at Bethsaida

<sup>22</sup>And they come to Bethsaida. And they bring a blind man to him, and they are begging Jesus to touch him. <sup>23</sup>And taking hold of the blind man's hand, he led him outside the village. And after spitting in his eyes and placing his hands on him, he asked him, "Do you see anything?"

<sup>24</sup>And looking up he said, "I see people, that I am perceiving as trees walking around."

<sup>25</sup>Then he put his hands on the man's eyes again. And he looked for a while, and his sight was restored, and he saw everything clearly again. <sup>26</sup>And he sent him home, saying, "Do not go into the village."

Peter's Confession of Messiah

<sup>27</sup>And Jesus and his disciples went on to the villages of Caesarea of Philip, and on the way, he was inquiring of his disciples, saying to them, "Who do the people say I am?"

<sup>28</sup>And they informed him, saying, "John the Baptizer; and others, Elijah; and still others, one of the Prophets."

<sup>29</sup>And he asked them, "And you, who do you say I am?"

Peter in answer says to him, "You are the Messiah."

<sup>30</sup>And Jesus warned them that they should tell no one about him.

Peter Opposes Jesus' Death

<sup>31</sup>And he began to teach them that the Son of Man had to suffer many things and be rejected by the elders and the chief priests and the Torah scholars, and must be killed, and after three days, rise again. <sup>32</sup>And he was stating the matter plainly. And Peter, taking him aside, started correcting him.

<sup>33</sup>But he, turning around and seeing his disciples, corrected Peter. And he says, "Get behind me, Satan! For you are not thinking of the things of God, but the things of human beings."

<sup>34</sup>And calling the crowd to him, together with his disciples, he said to them, "If someone wants to come after me, he must deny himself and take up his cross and follow me. <sup>35</sup>For whoever tries to save his life<sup>295</sup> will lose it, but whoever will lose his life for my sake, and of the good news, will save it. <sup>36</sup>For what good will it do a human being to gain the whole world, only to be penalized his soul? <sup>37</sup>And what could a human being tender in trade for his soul? <sup>38</sup>For if anyone is ashamed of me and my words in this adulterous and sinful age, the Son of Man will also be ashamed of him, when he comes in the glory of his Father with the holy angels."

Chapter 9

<sup>1</sup>Then he was saying to them, "Truly I say to you, there are some standing here who will certainly not taste death before they see the kingdom of God having come with power."

The Transfiguration

<sup>2</sup>And after six days Jesus takes Peter and James and John, and he is leading them up into a high mountain, alone in private. And he was transfigured in front of them, <sup>3</sup>and his clothes became an exceedingly brilliant white, such as no launderer on earth is able to whiten. <sup>4</sup>And Elijah appeared to them, together with Moses, and they were conversing with Jesus.

<sup>5</sup>And Peter is responding and saying to Jesus, "Rabbi, it is good for us to be here, and we should make three shelters, one for you, and one for Moses, and one for Elijah." <sup>6</sup>(For he had not known what to say, because they were so frightened.)

<sup>8</sup>And suddenly, when they looked around, they saw no one else anymore, but only Jesus, along with themselves.

<sup>9</sup>And as they were coming down out of the mountain, he admonished them so that they would not report the things they had seen to anyone, except until such time the Son of Man should rise from the dead. <sup>10</sup>And they kept the matter to themselves, discussing what the words "rise from the dead" meant.

<sup>11</sup>And they queried him, saying, "Why do the Torah scholars say that Elijah has to come first?"

<sup>12</sup>And he said to them, "Elijah indeed having come first will restore all things."<sup>296</sup> And why is it written about the Son of Man, that he would 'suffer much and be rejected?'<sup>297</sup> <sup>13</sup>But I tell you that Elijah has indeed<sup>298</sup> come, and they did to him whatever they wished, just as it is written about him."<sup>299</sup>

<sup>295</sup> 8:35 The Greek word, ψυχή - psuchē, means either life or soul, as throughout this passage.

<sup>296</sup> 8:12a Malachi 4:5-6 (3:23-24 in some Bibles); Luke 1:17; Diatess. 1:5

<sup>297</sup> 8:12b This word ἐξουθενέω – exoudenēō has been translated throughout both the Old and New Testaments as both "despised" and "rejected." Isaiah 53:3 says "He was despised and rejected by men, a man of sorrows and familiar with suffering."

<sup>298</sup> 8:13a or, "also."

<sup>299</sup> 8:13b This statement of Jesus is a problem if you interpret him as saying the scriptures predicted something that would in the future happen to John the Baptizer. But perhaps that is not what Jesus was saying at all, but simply referring back to the scriptures that talk about Elijah, not John. There were some similarities. Both operated under a

Disciples Accused of Impotence to Heal

<sup>14</sup>And as they were coming near the other disciples, they saw a large crowd around them, and the Torah scholars debating with them. <sup>15</sup>And all the crowd were overcome with awe as soon as they saw him, and they were running up to him, greeting him.

<sup>16</sup>And he asked them, "What are you debating with them?"

<sup>17</sup>And one from the crowd answered him, "Teacher, I brought my son to you, who has a spirit of speechlessness. <sup>18</sup>And wherever<sup>300</sup> it seizes him, it convulses him. And he foams at the mouth, and gnashes his teeth and becomes rigid. I asked your disciples to drive it out, and they did not have the power."<sup>301</sup>

<sup>19</sup>And in answer to them, he says, "O unbelieving generation, how long shall I stay with you? How long shall I put up with you? Bring him to me."

<sup>20</sup>And they brought him to him. And seeing Jesus, the spirit immediately convulsed him violently, and falling onto the ground, he was rolling over, foaming at the mouth.

<sup>21</sup>And he asked his father, "Over what period of time has this happened to him?"

And he said, "From childhood. <sup>22</sup>And it has often thrown him into both fire or water, trying to kill him. But if you can do anything, take pity on us and help us."

<sup>23</sup>Jesus said to him, "'If I can'? All things are possible to one who believes."

<sup>25</sup>Then Jesus, seeing that a crowd is running together, rebuked the unclean spirit, saying to it, "You mute and deaf spirit, I command you, come out of him. And you may no longer go into him."

<sup>26</sup>And it came out, with shrieking and much convulsing. And he appeared as dead, so as to cause many to say, "He's dead." <sup>27</sup>But Jesus, taking him by the hand, lifted him, and he stood up.

<sup>28</sup>And after he went into a house, his disciples asked him in private: "Why weren't we able to drive it out?"

hen-pecked king, whose wives wanted the prophet dead: Elijah under Ahab and Jezebel, I Kings 19:1-10, and John under Herod Antipas and Herodias, Mark 6:14-29; Diatessaron 6:1-2; 13:1-10.

<sup>300</sup> 9:18a ὅπου ἐὰν means "wherever," not "whenever." I know, Bauer says that ὅπου means "where" in all instances except for four instances, those like here where ὅπου ἐὰν occurs with an aorist subjunctive verb and means "whenever," because it resembles Semitic syntax. But in all the instances Bauer mentions, "wherever" makes fine sense as Greek. As for here, the most harmful to the boy is "wherever." For example, near the cooking fire, or in a little boat, or walking on a ridge of a mountain on a journey somewhere, these are "where"s, where great harm could easily come to the boy if he suddenly was convulsed. Indeed, in verse 22 you will see this is exactly what is meant: the danger of proximity to fire and water. These are "wherevers." It is true that, in a sense, matters of proximity are also matters of timing. But the word ὅπου means where, and where does work, so I left it where. The boy's father tells us in v. 22 that the spirit was purposely trying to harm him, and so it makes sense that the spirit would convulse the boy "where" there was fire or water. All that said though, it does sound odd to our English ears to lead out with "wherever" before the context is established. So I can well accept the rendering of "whenever."

<sup>301</sup> 9:18b What is it that irritated Jesus so? The boy's father had said that the disciples οὐκ ἴσχυσαν.□ The word, the verb ἰσχύω is usually translated here as something like, "they could not." It is illuminating that in v. 23 Jesus throws the onus back on the man making the request: "All things are possible to one who believes." In other words, it is not an issue of how much power the disciples or anyone else has, or if they have power at all, but that one need only believe God, in God's power. In Luke 17:5 the disciples asked Jesus to "increase their faith." But Jesus responded that it was not an issue of how much faith they had, but if they had any at all, in God.

<sup>29</sup>And he told them, "This kind cannot be made to go out by anything except prayer."<sup>302</sup>

<sup>30</sup>And moving on from there, they were passing through Galilee, and he did not want anyone to know, <sup>31</sup>because he was teaching his disciples. And he told them, "The Son of Man is being transferred into the hands of human beings. And they will kill him. And three days after being killed, he will rise again." <sup>32</sup>But they did not understand the statement, and they were afraid to query him.

Who is the Greatest?

<sup>33</sup>And they came to Capernaum. And when he was in the house, he asked them, "What were you arguing about on the way?" <sup>34</sup>But they were keeping quiet, because on the way they had argued over who was greater.

<sup>35</sup>And sitting down, he called the Twelve and says to them, "If anyone wants to be first, he shall be last of all, and servant of all."

<sup>36</sup>And taking a child he set him in the midst of them. And wrapping him in his arms, he said to them, <sup>37</sup>"Whoever welcomes one child like this on the basis of my name, is welcoming me; and whoever welcomes me is welcoming not me but the one who sent me."

Do Not Hinder Other Camps of God's Little Ones

<sup>38</sup>John said to him, "Teacher, we saw someone who is not following with us driving out demons in your name, and we forbade him, because he was not following with us."

<sup>39</sup>But Jesus said, "Do not forbid him, for there is no one who shall do a miracle on the basis of my name, who can then be quick to speak evil of me; <sup>40</sup>for someone who is not against us is for us. <sup>41</sup>For whoever gives you a cup of water because you are of Christ, truly I tell you: he will by no means lose his reward. <sup>42</sup>And whoever causes one of these believing little ones to fall, it would be better for him to wear a millstone around his neck and be thrown into the depths of the sea.

But important representatives of the Alexandrian, the Western, and the Caesarean types of text resisted adding this. The apostle Paul warns us about this trend in Colossians 2:23- "These indeed have an appearance of wisdom in promoting rigor of devotion and self-abasement and severity to the body, but they are of no value in checking the indulgence of the flesh." Aside from the textual evidence, consider the following four points. 1.) Jesus succeeded in casting this demon out, and he did not have to fast to do it. (2.) Jesus told the disciples very clearly and specifically, that the reason they could not cast this demon out, was because of their unbelief, not their lack of fasting. In fact, in the parallel passage in Matthew 17:20, Jesus said you don't even have to have faith any bigger than a mustard seed to do it, so fasting won't improve your faith. (3.) If fasting is indeed necessary to cast out this kind of demon, then how long must you fast? A fast means going without meals, so that would have to be at least half a day, to even begin to be considered a fast. What do you do with the demoniac in the meantime, while you are fasting? Imprison him? Shackle him? Drug him? (4.) There is not a single instance in the Bible where Christ or his apostles had to fast in order to cast out any demon. In fact, it was important to deal with the demon immediately, and there is not time to fast.

Jesus Tested on Divorce

<sup>1</sup>And getting up to leave from there, he goes into the territory of Judea and beyond the Jordan. And once again, crowds are going along with him, and as was his custom he again was teaching them. <sup>2</sup>And some Pharisees came and, testing him, asked him, "Is it permissible for a husband to release a wife?"

<sup>3</sup>In answer he said to them, "What did Moses command you?"

<sup>4</sup>They said, "Moses permitted one to write a release of interest form<sup>307</sup> and to release."

<sup>5</sup>And Jesus said to them, "It was in view of the hardness of your hearts he wrote you this instruction. <sup>6</sup>But from the beginning of creation he 'made them male and female.'<sup>308</sup> <sup>7</sup>For this defiles her. This word ἀποστάσιον – apostásion, "release of interest form," was used to signify the relinquishment of property. A quit-claim deed, if you will. In the culture of ancient Israel there was never any provision for a wife to quit her property claim in her husband, since the wife was considered property of her husband, and never the other way around. The apostle Paul in the New Testament, however, states in I Corinthians 7:4, "The wife has not authority over her own body, but rather the husband; and likewise also the husband has not authority over his own body, but rather the wife." This is a consequence of being "one flesh."

reason, a human being shall leave his father and mother,<sup>309 310 8</sup> and the two shall become one flesh. As a result, they are no longer two, but one flesh.<sup>311 9</sup> What therefore God has joined together, a human being must not separate."

<sup>10</sup>And when back in the house, the disciples were questioning him about this. <sup>11</sup>And he says to them, "Whoever releases his wife and marries another commits adultery against her, <sup>12</sup>and if she after releasing her husband marries another, she commits adultery."

Little Children Come to Jesus

<sup>13</sup>And people were bringing little children to him to have him touch them, but the disciples scolded them.

<sup>14</sup>Seeing this, Jesus was indignant, and said to them, "Let the little children come to me. Do not hinder them, for the kingdom of God is made of such as these. <sup>15</sup>Truly I tell you, whoever does not receive the kingdom of God like a little child will certainly not enter it." <sup>16</sup>And wrapping them in his arms, he is blessing them, placing his hands on them.

The Rich Young Man

<sup>17</sup>And as he was going forth onto the road, someone ran up to him and fell on his knees before him, asking him, "Good teacher, what should I do so that I will inherit eternal life?"

<sup>18</sup>And Jesus said to him, "Why are you calling me good? No one is good except one, God. <sup>19</sup>The commandments you know: Do not murder, do not commit adultery, do not steal, do not give false testimony, do not defraud, honor your father and mother."<sup>312</sup>

<sup>20</sup>And he said to him, "Teacher, all these I have kept since my youth."

<sup>309</sup> 10:7a Later manuscripts added the phrase "and be united to his wife," probably to harmonize Mark with the parallel passage in Matthew 19:5 (and Genesis 2:24). And possibly also, that without this phrase, the words "the two" in verse 8 might be mistaken to refer to "father and mother" of verse 7. But "the two" can be fairly easily understood to mean the "male and female" of verse 6. I am confident that the earlier reading of Codices Sinaiticus and Vaticanus—without the phrase "and be united to his wife," is the correct one, because it is consistent with a pattern I see when translating this whole passage from the Greek: I see throughout it a marked difference from Matthew in that Mark in three instances shows an intent to be more gender-inclusive. The most obvious instance is the whole of verse 12, the concept of a woman divorcing her husband. This was a concept foreign to Jews, but not to Mark's Roman target audience. The second instance is what was first discussed above, leaving out "and be united to his wife," possibly so as to allow the reader to include in his mind the idea of "being united to her husband." And thirdly, whereas Matthew in 19:8 says, "Moses in view of your hardness of heart permitted you to release your wives," Mark in verse 5 avoids the gender-specificity of that phrase and says: "In view of your hardness of heart he wrote you this instruction."

<sup>310</sup> 10:7b The question arises, as to why I rendered the Greek word ἄνθρωπος - ánthrōpos into the English "human being," rather than the traditional "man." Is it only the man who leaves father and mother? Does the woman stay with her father and mother, and the man when he marries her, moves in with his in-laws? No, that is obviously not the meaning. There is nothing gender-specific about this leaving of father and mother. Both genders have to leave father and mother, and their new covenant with their spouses supersedes their obligations to father and mother.

<sup>21</sup>And Jesus looked at him and loved him, and said to him, "One thing you are lacking. Go sell what things you own and give to the poor, and you will have treasure in heaven. Then come follow me." <sup>313</sup>

<sup>22</sup>But he with face aghast<sup>314</sup> because of this word, went away regretting, for he was owner of much property.

<sup>23</sup>And looking around, Jesus says to his disciples, "How hard it will be for the ones who have wealth to enter the kingdom of God."

<sup>26</sup>And they became even more astonished, saying to each other, "Who, then, can be saved?"

<sup>29</sup>Jesus said, "Truly I tell you, there is no one who has left house or brothers or sisters or mothers or children or fields for my sake and for the cause of the good news, <sup>30</sup>who will not receive a hundred times as much in this present time, of houses and brothers and sisters and mothers and children and fields, along with persecutions, and, in the coming age, eternal life.

The Byzantine text adds the words "take up the cross" in two different places. (Cod. B has an umlaut indicating awareness of the variant.) This added text was probably an effort to harmonize Mark's account with that of Matthew, in Mt 19:21, and Lk 18:22, or perhaps came from Mk 8:34. This kind of harmonization was a frequent cause of additions made to the Byzantine Greek manuscripts of the New Testament over the centuries. But it is certain that these words were not originally a part of the gospel of Mark. Many of the Byzantine manuscripts further harmonized by adding the phrase, "If you wish to be perfect,..." earlier in the passage.

<sup>315</sup> 10:25 Just as it is impossible, humanly speaking, for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, Jesus says in v. 27 that it is "impossible" for a rich man to enter the kingdom of God. Some people teach that Jesus really instead said "rope to go through the eye of a needle," because he was speaking in the Aramaic language, and the Aramaic word for camel was also the word for a kind of rope. Regardless, Jesus would want to invent a simile that was in line with his main point: "something impossible." His illustration must demonstrate something that is impossible, naturally speaking. "Camel" is more impossible than "rope," so at worst, camel works just fine, and at best, camel is the best rendering because it is more impossible.

<sup>316</sup> 10:32 This does not mean it was a road that led to Jerusalem, necessarily. The phrase "going up" here probably is referring to the pilgrimage to Jerusalem required by one of the three "pilgrim festivals" for which the adult men would "go up" to Jerusalem. Exodus 23:14-17 stated that the men must present themselves to the Lord. And the temple was where the Presence of the Lord was. It was the one temple of the One God, for the one people of God.

again, he began to tell them the things about to happen to him. <sup>33</sup>"See, we are going up to Jerusalem, and the Son of Man will be betrayed to the chief priests and to the Torah scholars. And they will condemn him to death, and hand him over to the Gentiles. <sup>34</sup>And they will mock him, and spit on him, and flog him, and execute him. And after three days he will rise again."

The Ambition of James and John

<sup>35</sup>And James and John the sons of Zebedee come up to him, saying to him, "Teacher, we wish that you would do for us whatever we will ask you."

<sup>36</sup>And he said to them, "What do you want me to do for you?"

<sup>37</sup>And they said to him, "Grant to us that in your glory, we may sit one on your right, and one on your left."

<sup>38</sup>And Jesus said to them, "You don't know what you are asking. Are you able, to drink the cup I am drinking, or to be baptized the baptism I am being baptized?"

<sup>39</sup>And they said to him, "We are able."

And Jesus said to them, "The cup which I drink you will drink, and the baptism I am baptized you will be baptized. <sup>40</sup>But to sit on my right or on my left is not for me to grant; they belong rather to those for whom they have already been prepared."

<sup>41</sup>And when the ten heard, they began to be angry with James and John. <sup>42</sup>And Jesus calling them together says to them, "You know that the ones considered to be rulers among the nations, lord it over them, and their great ones exercise authority over them. <sup>43</sup>Not so among you. Instead, whoever wants to be great among you must be your servant, <sup>44</sup>and whoever wants to be first among you shall be slave of all. <sup>45</sup>For even the Son of Man did not come to be served, but to serve, and to give his life a ransom for many."

An Obnoxious Beggar Gets His Wish

<sup>46</sup>And they come into Jericho. And as he was going away from Jericho, plus his disciples and a large crowd, Bartimaeus (the Son of Timaeus), a blind beggar, was sitting beside the road. <sup>47</sup>And hearing that it is Jesus the Nazarene, he began to shout, and say, "Jesus, Son of David, have mercy on me!"

<sup>48</sup>And many were telling him to be quiet. But he kept shouting much more: "Son of David, have mercy on me!"

<sup>49</sup>Jesus stopped and said, "Call him."

So they call the blind man, saying to him, "Take heart! Get up! He's calling you!" <sup>50</sup>So throwing his cloak aside, he jumped up and came to Jesus.

<sup>51</sup>In answer to him, Jesus said, "What do you want me to do for you?"

The blind man said to him, "Rabboni, that I could see."

<sup>52</sup>And Jesus said to him, "Go. Your faith has healed you." And immediately he saw, and was following him in the way.

The festival for which they were "going up" here was most likely the Festival of Unleavened Bread, Exodus 23:14-15.

Chapter 11

The Triumphal Entry

<sup>1</sup>And when they had come close to Jerusalem, to Bethphage and Bethany on the Mount of Olives, he sends two of his disciples, <sup>2</sup>and tells them, "Go into the village ahead of you, and just as you enter it you will find a colt<sup>317</sup> tied, upon which no one has ever yet sat. Untie it and bring it. <sup>3</sup>And if anyone says to you, 'Why are you doing that?' say, 'The Lord needs it and is sending it back here shortly.' "

<sup>4</sup>And they went, and found a colt tied at a doorway, outside in the street. And they are untying it. <sup>5</sup>And some people standing there said to them, "What are you doing untying the colt?"

<sup>6</sup>And they said to them as Jesus said, and they allowed them. <sup>7</sup>And they bring the colt to Jesus, and throw their cloaks on it, and he sat on it.

"Hosha na!"<sup>318</sup>

"Blessed is he who comes in the

<sup>10</sup>"Blessed is the coming kingdom of our father David!"

"Hosha na in the highest!"

<sup>11</sup>And he went into Jerusalem to the temple, and after looking around at everything, he went out to Bethany with the Twelve, since the hour was now late.

Jesus Clears the Temple

<sup>12</sup>And the next day as they were on their way from Bethany, he was hungry. <sup>13</sup>And seeing from afar a fig tree that had leaves, he went, if perchance he would find something on it. And coming upon it he found nothing but leaves. (For it was not the season of figs.) <sup>14</sup>And in response he said to it, "May no one ever eat fruit from you again." And his disciples heard.

<sup>15</sup>And they come into Jerusalem. And when he had entered the temple, he proceeded to drive out the ones selling and the ones buying in the temple, and the tables of the

The Septuagint Psalm 117:25 has Ὁ Κύριε, σῶσον δὴ - Ō Kúrie, sōson dē, "O Lord, save now!" or "Save indeed!" No doubt some in the crowd accompanying him expected him, as the Messiah ben David, to literally "save now," and deliver them from the Romans and set up the kingdom of David.

<sup>18</sup>And the chief priests and the Torah scholars heard, and they were looking for a way to kill him, for they feared him, because the entire crowd was being held enrapt during<sup>323</sup> his teaching.

The Withered Fig Tree

<sup>19</sup>And when it got late, they would go outside the city.

<sup>22</sup>And in response Jesus says to them, "Have faith in God. <sup>23</sup>Truly I tell you, whoever can say to this mountain, 'Be lifted up and thrown into the sea,' and it is not being questioned in his heart, but he is believing that what he is saying is happening, it will happen for him.

The Authorities Question Jesus' Authority

<sup>27</sup>And they arrive again in Jerusalem, and as he was walking in the temple, the chief priests and the Torah scholars come up to him, along with the elders, <sup>28</sup>and they were saying to him, <sup>320</sup> 11:16 σκεῦος – skeûos; This is usually translated, "vessel." But it comprises the containers, equipment, and product– objects of any kind involved in an enterprise. The English word "stuff" best encompasses all these ideas. Webster's Ninth New Collegiate Dictionary defines the noun "stuff," at definition no. 1, as follows: "materials, supplies or equipment used in various activities:..." See I Samuel 30:24 in the King James Version as an example of this usage of the English word "stuff." In this verse, when the translators of the Septuagint translated the Hebrew into Greek, they translated it into the Greek word σκεῦος which is the same word as here in Mark 11:16.

<sup>323</sup> 11:18 ἐπὶ with the dative; a temporal indicator. The entire crowd was always taken away from the Torah scholars when Jesus was teaching. This would surely be disturbing to them.

<sup>324</sup> 11:24 The aorist is used here, according to Metzger, in a sense corresponding to the Semitic usage of the prophetic perfect, which expresses the certainty of a future action. In other words, "if you believe that it is as good as done." Many later copyists, perhaps because they did not understand this, changed the verb to "you are receiving," and others, for the same reason plus possibly being influenced by the Matthew parallel passage, changed it to the future, "you will receive." And others changed it to the present tense "you are receiving" perhaps in order to make it the same tense as the "is happening" in v. 23 just prior.

<sup>325</sup> 11:26 The words that came to be numbered verse 26 are absent from the earliest of manuscripts of the Western, Caesarean and Alexandrian text families, and from the earliest translations into other languages, making it highly probable that the words were inserted in imitation of Matthew 6:15.

"By what authority are you doing these things? Or, who gave you this authority, that you may do these things?"

<sup>29</sup>And Jesus said to them, "I will ask you one question. You answer me, and I will tell you by what authority I am doing these things. <sup>30</sup>John's baptism— was it from heaven, or from human beings? Answer me."

<sup>31</sup>And they were discussing it among themselves, as follows: "If we say, 'From heaven,' he will say, 'Then why didn't you believe him?' <sup>32</sup>On the other hand, dare we say, 'From human beings?'" (They were fearing the people, for the people all held that John really was a prophet.)

<sup>33</sup>And in answer they say to Jesus, "We do not know."

And Jesus says to them, "Neither am I telling you by what authority I do these things."

Chapter 12

The Parable of the Tenants

<sup>1</sup>And he began to speak to them in parables. "A man planted a vineyard, and put a hedge around it, and dug a winepress, and built a watchtower, and leased it out to tenant-farmers, and journeyed away. <sup>2</sup>And in the time of harvest he sent a servant to the tenants, that he might be paid by the tenants out of the fruit of the vineyard. <sup>3</sup>And seizing him they beat him, and sent him away empty-handed. <sup>4</sup>And again he sent a servant to them, a different one. That one they wounded in the head and insulted. <sup>5</sup>Yet another he sent, and that one they killed. And he sent many others; some they beat, some they killed.

<sup>6</sup>One alone he still had, a beloved son. Finally, him he sent to them, saying, 'They will respect my son.'

<sup>7</sup>"But those tenants said among themselves, 'This is the heir. Come, let us kill him, and the inheritance will be ours.' <sup>8</sup>And taking him, they killed him, and cast him outside the vineyard.

<sup>9</sup>"What will the owner of the vineyard do? He will come and kill the tenants, and he will give the vineyard to others.

<sup>10</sup>"Have you not read this scripture:

<sup>12</sup>And they were looking for a way to arrest him, for they knew he had told the parable in reference to them. Yet they were afraid of the crowd. And they went away, leaving him alone.

you about anyone, in that you pay no attention to the personage of people, but rather on the basis of truth you teach the way of God. Is it permissible to pay<sup>327</sup> the tribute<sup>328</sup> to Caesar, or not? Should we pay, or should we not pay?"

<sup>15</sup>But he, perceiving their hypocrisy, said to them, "Why are you testing me? Bring me a denarius, so that I may look at it." <sup>16</sup>And they brought one. And he says to them, "Whose image is this, and inscription?"

They say to him, "Caesar's."

<sup>17</sup>And Jesus said to them, "Caesar's things give back to Caesar, and God's things to God." And they were amazed at him.

Marriage and the Resurrection

<sup>18</sup>Then some Sadducees come up to him (Sadducees say there is no resurrection), and they questioned him as follows: <sup>19</sup>"Teacher, Moses wrote for us that if a man's brother dies and leaves behind a wife and does not leave behind a child, that the brother of the deceased should take the woman and raise up descendants for his brother."<sup>329</sup>

<sup>23</sup>"In the resurrection, when they rise again, of which of them will she be wife? For all seven had her as wife."

<sup>24</sup>Jesus said to them, "Is this not the reason you are mistaken, that you know neither the scriptures nor the power of God? <sup>25</sup>For when they rise from the dead, they neither marry nor are given in marriage, but are like the angels in heaven. <sup>26</sup>Now about the dead, that they do rise, have you not read in the scroll of Moses, at the part about the bush, how<sup>330</sup> God spoke to him,

<sup>327</sup> 12:14A The verb here is δίδωμι, 'give,' and also in the next sentence, 'should we give or should we not give.' And the verb Jesus used in v. 17 is ἀποδίδωμι, 'give back,' or, 'give up.'

saying, 'I am the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob'?<sup>331</sup> <sup>27</sup>He is not the God of dead people, but of living. You are badly mistaken!"

The Weightiest Commandment

<sup>28</sup>And one of the Torah scholars who had approached, after listening to them debating, recognized that Jesus had answered them well. He asked Jesus, "Teacher, out of all of them, which commandment is primary?"

<sup>32</sup>And the Torah scholar said to him, "Well done, Teacher. It is on true basis you have said, that there is one, and there is no other but him; <sup>33</sup>and to love him with all your heart, with all your intelligence, and with all your strength, and to love your neighbor as yourself, is more important than all the burnt offerings and sacrifices."

<sup>34</sup>And Jesus, having seen him, that he had answered thoughtfully, said to him, "You are not far from the kingdom of God." And no one dared to ask him any more questions.

Whose Son Is the Messiah?

<sup>35</sup>And continuing to teach in the temple, Jesus said, "How do the Torah scholars say that the Messiah is the Son of David? <sup>36</sup>David himself said, by the Holy Spirit,

<sup>331</sup> 12:26 Exodus 3:6. The point is that at the time of God's saying, "I am," present tense, "am the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and of Jacob," those three people had long since passed on from the earth. But Jesus' point is: the saying of God to Moses proved that Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob were not dead people, but living at the time God said this. The Sadducees considered Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob to be dead people, and this was one of their errors.

<sup>332</sup> 12:29 The Greek word represented by "alone" above is εἷς - heĩs, basically meaning "one." But using the word "one" would be a poor translation, since most readers today would take it to have some significance in rebuttal of the "trinity." But nothing of the sort was underlying God's words. The context of God's original words was idolatry. God's commandments did not arise out of a vacuum, but arose out of a need to counteract some error of humankind. In this case it was that God's people should have no other gods before Him. The situation was that there were many other so-called gods, but יהוה, YHVH, alone was to be their God. Paul says, "There may be many so-called gods, and many lords, but for us there is only one God, and only one lord," I Corinthians 8:5-6. (See also Mark 2:7; 10:18 for similar uses of the Greek word εἷς. The Hebrew word, echad, was also used meaning "alone," "only," or even, "first," as the "first" day of the month.) Now God was not comparing himself to other gods in that other gods were many lords in contrast to our God being one lord. From small childhood I have puzzled over the odd thought, found in my Bible, represented by the phrase "The Lord our God is one Lord." It didn't say 'God is one God.' Instead, it said 'God is one Lord.' God is one Lord? So then it must be otherwise conceivable that one God could be many lords? You see, "The Lord our God is one Lord" makes no sense. The problem with "The Lord our God is one Lord" is that it wasn't supposed to be saying "Lord" at all, for "LORD" was the substitute for the Tetragrammaton, יהוה, YHVH, the name of God, which the Israelites refused to pronounce, for fear of taking God's name in vain. Thus, when the Jewish scholars in Egypt translated the Hebrew scriptures into Greek, they perpetuated this misnomer even more, for in the Septuagint, the word "kurios" or "lord" is used instead of Yahveh, and the quote above in Mark appears to be taken from the Septuagint. To lessen confusion, it is best to throw out the word "lord" completely; for indeed, it is not only confusing, but inaccurate.

" 'Yahweh<sup>335</sup> said to my Lord:
"Sit at my right hand
until such time I put your enemies under your feet." ' <sup>336</sup>

<sup>37</sup>David himself calls him 'Lord,' so how is he his son?"
And the large crowd was listening to him with delight.

Jesus Denounces the Torah Scholars

The Widow's Offering

<sup>41</sup>And while sitting opposite the temple treasury, he was watching how the crowd was dropping copper into the donation chest. And many rich people put in much. <sup>42</sup>And when one poor widow came, she put in two lepta (which is equivalent to one quarter of a penny).

<sup>43</sup>And calling his disciples to him, he said to them, "Truly I tell you, this poor widow has put in more than all the others putting into the treasury. <sup>44</sup>For they all put in out of the extra they had. But she out of her lack put in everything, all she had to live on."

<sup>337</sup> 12:40 κατασθίω - katesthío, the preposition kata attached to ἐσθίω, the verb for eat, serving to perfectivize, or alternatively, to repetitivize, the verb. Here the verb is also linear (continuous, progressive) in aspect, showing that there is a gradual process to the eating up, or alternatively a habitual process, leading to a conclusion of complete devourment. Psalm 14:4 used this same Greek word in the Septuagint for financial oppression of people. But how can one oppress a house? In the context of property, κατασθίω means to appropriate property illegally. We must remember that the Hebrew scriptures, like Deuteronomy 23:19, Psalm 15:1-5, declared it illegal to charge your fellow Israelite interest on a loan. Yet many did so, including or even especially the priests and officials, such that the interest "ate up" the equity in the houses of widows, at which point the lenders would re-possess the houses. Jesus was not the first or the last man of God to decry this practice of charging fellow believers interest. Nehemiah in 5:10-11, said to the officials, "Stop this taking of interest!...Give them back, this very day, their fields, their houses..." Ezekiel 22:12, "...you take both advance interest and accrued interest, and make gain of your neighbors by extortion..." James 2:6, "Is it not the rich who oppress you? Is it not they who drag you into court?" The Pharisees were lovers of money, Luke 16:14. Another theory on what this means is that the Pharisees used their position as judges to get insider information or use trickery in their office, to fraudulently obtain title to property, or as the trustees or financial managers of widows to use up their household finances, or to eat up their estates. Or perhaps to make unjust rulings in cases in which they had a pecuniary interest. They may have done all of the above. As usual, the law of the Spirit is a higher standard than the letter of the law of Moses. Jesus not only forbade lending with interest, he commanded to lend without expecting even the principal back, Luke 6:35.

Chapter 13

Signs of the Times

<sup>2</sup>And Jesus said to him, "Do you see all these great buildings? By no means will there be a stone left upon a stone that will not be thrown down."

<sup>3</sup>And as he was sitting on the Mount of Olives opposite the temple, Peter and James and John and Andrew asked him privately, <sup>4</sup>"Tell us, when will these things be, and what will be the sign that these are all about to be accomplished?"

<sup>5</sup>And Jesus proceeded to tell them, "See that no one misleads you. <sup>6</sup>Many will come in my name, saying, 'I am He,' and they will deceive many. <sup>7</sup>But when you hear of wars and rumors of wars, do not be alarmed. Such must happen, but the end is not yet. <sup>8</sup>Nation will rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom. There will be earthquakes in various places, there will be famines. These are the beginning of birth pains.

<sup>9</sup>"But you, you watch yourselves. They will deliver you over to courts, and you will be beaten in synagogues, and you will be stood before governors and kings, for my sake, to be a witness to them. <sup>10</sup>Indeed the gospel must first be preached to all nations.

<sup>11</sup>"So when they take you delivering you to trial, do not concern yourself beforehand what you will speak. Rather, whatever is given you in that hour, that you are to speak. For you are not the ones speaking, but the Holy Spirit.

<sup>12</sup>"And a sibling will betray a sibling to death, and a parent a child, and children will rise up against parents and put them to death. <sup>13</sup>And you will be hated by all because of me. But the person remaining to the end, that one will be rescued.

<sup>339</sup> 13:20 This word in the Greek for "made short" is κολοβόω - kolobóō. It has traditionally been translated here as "those days will be shortened." But that raises more questions than are answered. Questions such as, will those days start out as regular 24-hour days, but then be shortened to days of less than 24 hours each? No, it means that "that period of time" will be shortened. So then, does it mean God changed his mind, that is, that he had originally planned for that period of time to last X amount of days, but at some point decides to shorten that period of time? No, that would not be consistent with what is written in either the prophets, or in the New Testament. Thus Mark puts it in the past tense: "He (the Lord) has made those days short." It has already been decided by the Lord how long that period of time will be. Their duration will not be changed. They will not be shortened. The point of this verse is that, if that period of time went on longer, no flesh would survive.

miracles, trying to deceive, if possible, the elect. <sup>23</sup>But you, you be watchful; I have told you everything ahead of time.

<sup>24</sup>"But in those days, after that suffering,

" 'the sun will be darkened, and the moon will not give its light, <sup>25</sup>and the stars will be falling from the sky, and the forces<sup>340</sup> in space will be shaken.'<sup>341</sup>

<sup>26</sup>"And at that time they will see the Son of Man coming on the clouds, with great power and glory. <sup>27</sup>And at that time he will send forth the angels, and they will gather together his elect out of the four winds, from the farthest points of the earth to the farthest points of the horizon.

<sup>28</sup>"Now learn the parable from the fig tree. When its twig has already become tender and it puts forth leaves, you know that summer is near. <sup>29</sup>And likewise you, when you see these things happening, you know that it is near, right at the door. <sup>30</sup>Truly I tell you: by no means will this age<sup>342</sup> pass away before all these things have happened. <sup>31</sup>Sky and earth will pass away,<sup>343</sup> but my words will not pass away.

No One Knows the Day or Hour

<sup>32</sup>"But as to that day or that hour, no one knows, not even the angels in heaven, not even the Son, but only the Father. <sup>33</sup>Watch, be alert, for you do not know when the time is. <sup>34</sup>It is like a man going away on a journey, leaving his house and giving the authority of it to his servants, each his task, and the doorman he admonished to keep watch. <sup>35</sup>Thus you must keep watch, for you do not know when the lord of the house is coming, whether in the evening, or at midnight, <sup>340</sup> 13:25A Possibly, "the heavenly bodies," referring to the planets, stars, and constellations to which power was ascribed by idolaters and astrologers. Of course, bodies of mass do have power or force of gravity, and therefore exercise force upon other bodies, including the earth. Indeed, in the parallel passage in Luke 21, verse 25, it says nations will be in anguish over the violence of the sea and surf, which we know is affected among other things by the moon. If there is also a rise in sea level from global warming, it would be even worse. In Isaiah 34:4, the stars and planets are called the armies of heaven, and armies are forces. Moreover, the principle of parallelism probably applies here, so this line is to be understood in some meaning parallel to the stars and the sky of the previous line. At any rate, the heavenly bodies would not be shaken without the forces in space being involved.

<sup>342</sup> 13:30 ἡ γενεὰ αὐτῆς; Or, this "generation." The verse following this is a Hebraistic parallelism; that is, "the sky and earth" being a parallel to the "age" or "world" mentioned here. See the same Greek phrase in Genesis 7:1, for the "generation" before the flood. God destroyed the entire world, not just the "generation" or those of the same age as Noah. God destroyed that whole world and scheme of things, and started a new age. So also here, Jesus is not talking about a small period of time of one human lifespan, but rather the whole age or aion. The theme of the context was clearly set in vv. 28-29, by the example of the budding of leaves showing the change of seasons. We are talking about seasons and times, not generations in a genealogical or racial sense. Furthermore, it is striking how similar is Peter's parallelism in 2 Peter 3:6-7. There, Peter compares the destruction of Noah's generation ὁ τότε κόσμος, "the then world," in comparison to οἱ νῦν οὐρανοὶ καὶ ἡ γῆ "the present heavens and earth."

<sup>343</sup> 13:31 "Sky and earth," traditionally translated "heaven and earth," but the heavens are the skies, or everything you see when you look up. Compare Isaiah 34:4, Psalm 102:25-26, Hebrews 1:10-12.

or when the rooster crows, or at dawn; <sup>36</sup>no good if he comes suddenly, and finds you sleeping.
<sup>37</sup>And what I am saying to you, I am saying to all: 'Keep watch!'"

Chapter 14

Mary Anoints Jesus at Bethany

<sup>1</sup>And the Passover and the Festival of Unleavened Bread were two days away. And the chief priests and the Torah scholars were seeking how they might kill him after arresting him in stealth. <sup>2</sup>For they were saying, "Not in the festival, or there will be a riot of the people."

<sup>3</sup>And when he was in Bethany, in the house of Simon the Leper, and reclining, a woman came holding an alabaster bottle of very expensive perfume ointment, pure oil of nardroot. Breaking the alabaster, she poured down upon his head.

<sup>4</sup>But there were some who were saying indignantly to themselves, "Why has this waste of perfume occurred? <sup>5</sup>For this perfume could have been sold for over three hundred denarii<sup>344</sup> and given to the poor." And they were scolding her.

<sup>6</sup>But Jesus said, "Leave her alone. Why are you causing her hardship? She has performed a good work with<sup>345</sup> me. <sup>7</sup>For the poor you always have with you,<sup>346</sup> and you can do well with them whenever you want, but me you do not always have. <sup>8</sup>She did what was available to her. She was early<sup>347</sup> to anoint my body in preparation for its burial. <sup>9</sup>Truly I tell you, wherever the good news is preached throughout the whole world, what she has done will also be told, as an honorable remembrance of her."

<sup>10</sup>And Judas of Kerioth, one of the Twelve, went to the chief priests, to betray him to them. <sup>11</sup>And hearing this delighted them, and they promised to give him silver. Then he was planning how he might betray him the most timely.

<sup>344</sup> 14:5 A single denarius was the usual daily wage for a laborer, so 300 denarii would be worth about a year's wages.

<sup>345</sup> 14:6 Greek: ἐν -en, "in," with dative of "me"; in other words, she has done a good work in the circumstance of me. She has done a good work by means of my being here. From context we can see that it is a dative of happenstance, of the conditions; or even a "temporal dative;" for example, "you can always do good works with the poor, but me you do not always have with you," and Jesus' comment that "she did what was available to her." (Of the 22 English translations I have on hand, 4 say "on me," 6 "to me," 10 "for me," 1 "as to me," and 1 "towards me." Sometimes ἐν is simply a substitute for the dative inflection.)

<sup>347</sup> 14:8 προλαμβάνω, literally, "take ahead." Compare the same word in I Cor. 11:21. The Lidell & Scott lexicon lists this Mark 14:8 occurrence as the only one with an infinitive accompanying; which DeBrunner, § 392 (2), says is an Aramaism meaning "early to do something." As we first see in Luke 10:38-42, Mary from the beginning showed a good trait of zeroing right in to what was most important: the person of Jesus, and dropping everything else. Her sister was occupied with the meal and housework, but Mary was attentive to Jesus himself, while he was still with them. They could always do housework when Jesus was gone, and they could always eat when Jesus was gone. It is no wonder that one who attended to and treasured Jesus so much, would be the first to prepare his body for its burial.

The Passover Supper

<sup>12</sup>And on the first day of Unleavened Bread, when they would sacrifice the Passover lamb, his disciples say to him, "Where are you wanting us to go to make preparations so you may eat the Passover?"

<sup>13</sup>And he sends two of his disciples and tells them, "Go into the city, and a man carrying a jar of water will meet you. Follow him. <sup>14</sup>And wherever he enters say to the owner of the house, 'The Teacher says: Where is my guestroom, where I may eat the Passover with my disciples?' <sup>15</sup>And he will show you a large upper room furnished and ready. And there you shall make preparations for us."

<sup>16</sup>And the disciples left and went into the city, and found things just as he had told them. And they prepared the Passover.

<sup>17</sup>And as evening is coming on, he arrives with the Twelve. <sup>18</sup>And as they are reclining and eating, Jesus said, "Truly I tell you: one of you will betray me. One who is eating with me."

<sup>19</sup>They began to be very sad and to say to him one by one, "Surely not I?"

<sup>20</sup>And he said to them, "It is one of the Twelve, the one dipping into the bowl with me. <sup>21</sup>Therefore indeed the Son of Man is going just as it is written about him. But woe to that one through whom the Son of Man is betrayed! It would be better for that man if he had not been born!"

<sup>22</sup>And when they were eating, taking a loaf of bread and blessing, he broke it and gave to them, and said, "Take ye. This is my body."

<sup>23</sup>And taking a cup and giving thanks, he gave it to them, and they all drank from it.

<sup>24</sup>And he said to them, "This is my blood of the covenant, being shed on behalf of many. <sup>25</sup>Truly I tell you: By no means will I drink of the fruit of the vine any more, until that day when I drink it new in the kingdom of God."

<sup>26</sup>And when they had sung a hymn, they went out toward the Mount of Olives.

Jesus Predicts Peter's Denials

<sup>27</sup>And Jesus is saying to them, "You will all be scandalized, for it is written: 'I will strike down the shepherd, and the sheep will be scattered.' <sup>28</sup>But after I am raised up, I will go ahead of you into Galilee."

<sup>29</sup>But Peter said to him, "Even if everyone else will be scandalized, not I."<sup>348</sup>

<sup>30</sup>And Jesus says to him, "Truly I tell you: today, this very night, before the rooster crows two times, you yourself will disown me three times."

<sup>31</sup>But he kept saying vehemently, "Even if I have to die with you, no way will I disown you." And the rest of them were saying things similar.

<sup>348</sup> 14:29 The word 'else' is not in the Greek, but its meaning is there. The Greek says literally, "Even if everyone will be tripped up, in contrast, not I." Peter is contrasting himself to everyone else. As for the word "scandalized," there are almost as many opinions of how to translate this as there are translators. The most basic meaning is "tripped by a stumbling block." In the New Testament it usually has an aspect of being defeated in one's faith, sometimes of a temporary lapse and sometimes of a permanent one; and in some passages, even of falling away to the extent of becoming apostate.

Gethsemane

<sup>32</sup>And they come to an orchard<sup>349</sup> the name of which was Gethsemane, and he says to his disciples, "Sit here while I pray." <sup>33</sup>And he takes Peter, and also James and John with him. And he began to be overwhelmed with dread and heaviness. <sup>34</sup>And he says to them, "My soul is too sad, to the point of death.<sup>350</sup> Remain here and stay awake." <sup>35</sup>And going forward a little, he dropped to the ground, and prayed that if it is possible, the hour might pass aside from him. <sup>36</sup>And he was saying, "Abba, Father, all things are possible for you. Remove this cup from me. Nevertheless, not what I will, but what you will."

<sup>37</sup>And he comes back, and finds them sleeping, and he says to Peter, "Simon, are you sleeping? Had you not the self-control to keep awake one hour? <sup>38</sup>Keep awake and pray, that you not come into temptation. The spirit indeed is willing, but the flesh is weak."

<sup>39</sup>And going away again, he prayed, saying the same thing. <sup>40</sup>And when he returned, he again found them sleeping, for their eyelids were weighing down; and they didn't know what to say to him.

<sup>41</sup>And he comes the third time and says to them, "Are you still sleeping and resting?<sup>351</sup> Enough! The hour has come. Behold, the Son of Man is being betrayed into the hands of sinners. <sup>42</sup>Get up, let us go. Behold, the one betraying me has come near."

The Arrest of Jesus

<sup>43</sup>And right then while he was still speaking, Judas comes, the one of the Twelve, along with a crowd with swords and clubs, from the chief priests and the Torah scholars and the elders.<sup>352</sup>

<sup>44</sup>And the one betraying him had given them a signal, saying, "Whomever I kiss is he; him you arrest and lead away under guard." <sup>45</sup>And coming straight up to him, he says, "Rabbi," and

<sup>349</sup> 14:32 χωρίον - chōrion; a "little field, little farm" a word used in I Chronicles 27:27 for a "treasure vineyard," and used in some other literature for a suburb. I get the picture of an orchard or grove in the suburbs that has become a public park because of the proximity of the big city. In the N.T., χωρίον usually just means "a spot; a place," but considering that the place was associated with "the Mount of Olives," Luke 22:39, and also called by John in 18:1 "a garden," and that the word "Gethsemane" itself means "oil-press," or, according to Jerome, "oil valley," therefore "an olive orchard having come into disuse and now become a public park" seems most reasonable. It was on the western slope of the Mount of Olives, just across the Kidron Valley.

<sup>350</sup> 14:34 ἕως θανάτου; ἕως indicating the upper limit of possibility. In other words, he could not be more sad, for if he was any sadder, he would die.

<sup>351</sup> 14:41 These verbs, sleep and rest, are inflected in the Greek such that they could be either indicative or imperative mood, for in Greek morphology the indicative and imperative forms were identical more often than not. I am not convinced that they were intended as indicative mood. Translating Mark has led me to believe that Jesus was sharp in speech more often than many are willing to believe. And if these verbs are indeed imperatives, then in the light of what immediately follows, one can only interpret them as bitter irony or satire. If the verbs are imperatives, it might be translated something like, "Go ahead, sleep soundly and get your beauty rest. It is over anyway." The verb translated as "resting" is ἀναπαύω, which contains the idea of refreshment and cheering up. Jesus had already used another verb, καθεύδω, for sleeping soundly, so this second verb could have some other purpose, the purpose of irony. Jesus could have said it out of profound disappointment with his "friends." Remember also that this takes place shortly after he had told them they would all abandon him. Moreover, there is definitely a recurrent theme in Mark of Jesus chiding the disciples for various forms of spiritual unconsciousness.

<sup>352</sup> 14:43 The three elements composing the Sanhedrin. The posse was sent from the Sanhedrin. Those doing the actual arresting were probably temple police officers or soldier types, for the Sanhedrin was authorized by the Romans to have a company of guards with powers of arrest.

fervently kissed him. <sup>46</sup>And they laid hands on him and arrested him. <sup>47</sup>Then a certain one of those standing near drew a sword and struck the servant of the high priest, and cut off his ear.

<sup>48</sup>And Jesus said to them in response, "As though after a bandit, you have come out with swords and clubs to capture me? <sup>49</sup>Day after day I was right next to you in the temple, teaching, and you never arrested me. But, may the scriptures be fulfilled." <sup>50</sup>Then everyone fled, abandoning him.

Jesus' Trial by the Sanhedrin

<sup>53</sup>And they led Jesus away to the high priest, and all the chief priests and the elders and the Torah scholars are gathering together. <sup>54</sup>And Peter followed him at a distance, right up to within the courtyard of the high priest, and remained, sitting with the guards and warming himself by the fire.

<sup>55</sup>And the chief priests and the whole Sanhedrin were trying to find evidence against Jesus in order to put him to death, and they were not finding it. <sup>56</sup>For many were bearing false witness against him, yet their statements were not consistent.

<sup>57</sup>Then some appeared and bore false witness against him as follows: <sup>58</sup>"We heard him saying, 'I will destroy this handmade temple, and by three days I will build another, not handmade.'" <sup>59</sup>Yet not even their testimony was so consistent.

<sup>60</sup>And after standing up in front of them all, the high priest examined Jesus, saying, "You are not making any answer? What about this testimony these are bearing against you?" <sup>61</sup>But he was keeping silent, and making no answer at all.

Again, the high priest was examining him, and saying to him, "Are you the Messiah, the Son of the Blessed One?"

<sup>353</sup> 14:51 σινδών – sindōn is just the word for linen, and could possibly mean just a sheet, or a night gown, or even a shirt. But the way it says "thrown over his nakedness" seems to indicate that it was not daytime clothing.

<sup>354</sup> 14:58 Jesus' actual statement was, "Destroy this temple, and in three days I will raise it." (John 2:19; Diatess. 5:34) The perjurers added the word "handmade," and switched the destroying agent from his hearers, to Jesus himself. (And remember, the statement of Jesus in question took place right after he had destroyed the operation of the currency exchangers in the temple, lending some credibility to the notion of Jesus potentially destroying their temple.) Now this saying which they were attributing to him could be a saying far more inflammatory than meets the eye. The English word "handmade" is translated from the Greek word, χειροποίητος - cheiropoiētos, which in all ten occurrences in the Jewish Greek Bible (the Septuagint) means "idol." Especially significant is Isaiah 31:7, where χειροποίητος is used twice for "idol," and is then followed by the phrase, "which their hands have made," with the constituent words of χειροποίητος broken up and used separately. In the other occurrences of this word in the New Testament, however, it is not used as meaning idol exactly. But when these witnesses made their statement, their words could have had a ring insulting to the temple, at least in the ears of any that had read the Jewish Greek Bible, of which surely there must have been some. Considering that the bulk of Jesus' enthusiasts were from Galilee, and that Galilee was far more cosmopolitan than Jerusalem and Judea, and thus more likely to be the residence of Hellenistic (Greek-speaking) Jews who read the Bible in Greek, the Septuagint, perhaps this testimony was staged in a way calculated to turn the Galileans against Jesus. For since this word in the Bible had up to that point only meant "idol," the alleged statement by Jesus could have sounded to the Greek-speaking Jews like this: "I will destroy this idol temple of yours, and by three days I will build another, not idolatrous."

<sup>65</sup>And some began to spit on him, and to cover his face and punch him, and say to him, "Prophecy!" The guards also took him with slaps.

<sup>358</sup> 15:2 The Greek for "You are the one saying that" is Σὺ λέγεις. This means literally, "You are saying" or, "Are you saying?" This was a Jewish idiom, and you can find some Rabbinic examples where it was understood as a Yes, and some where it would obviously NOT be understood as a yes. Therefore, we have to conclude that it is not a yes of any kind. At the same time, it is not a denial. Which sometimes some people might take as a yes. But as for translation, it should be translated literally, and left at that. No helper words should be added that might imply an affirmative answer. See the endnote on this topic at the end of this document.

<sup>6</sup>Now every Festival he would release for them one prisoner, whomever they would make plea for. <sup>7</sup>And there was one named Barabbas, bound with the rebels who had committed murder during the uprising. <sup>8</sup>And when the crowd came up, they began to ask Pilate that he do for them just as he usually did.

<sup>9</sup>And Pilate answered them, saying, "Do you wish that I release to you the king of the Jews?" <sup>10</sup>For he knew it was because of envy that the chief priests had handed him over.

<sup>11</sup>But the chief priests had stirred up the crowd to ask that he release Barabbas to them instead.

<sup>12</sup>And Pilate when he answered again, said to them, "What then should I do with the one you call the king of the Jews?"

<sup>13</sup>And they shouted back, "Crucify him."

<sup>14</sup>And Pilate said to them, "Why? What crime has he committed?"

But they shouted all the more, "Crucify him!"

<sup>15</sup>So Pilate, wanting to make the crowd contented, released Barabbas to them, and Jesus, after scourging him, he handed over to be crucified.

The Soldiers Mock Jesus

<sup>16</sup>And the soldiers led him away, inside the palace, that is, the Praetorium, and they are calling together the whole cohort.<sup>359</sup> <sup>17</sup>And they are draping on him a purple robe, and setting around him a crown of interweaving thorns. <sup>18</sup>And they began to salute him: "Hail, King of the Jews!" <sup>19</sup>And they were striking his head with a cane, and spitting on him. And dropping their knees, they were doing homage to him. <sup>20</sup>And when they had mocked him, they stripped him of the purple robe and put his own garments on him.

The Crucifixion

And they are leading him out to crucify him. <sup>21</sup>And a certain Simon passing by, a Cyrenian coming from the country, the father of Alexander and Rufus, they conscript to carry his cross. <sup>22</sup>And they bring him to the place Gulgolta, which when translated is "skull" place.<sup>360</sup> <sup>23</sup>And they were holding out to him wine mixed with myrrh.<sup>361</sup> He, however, did not take it. <sup>24</sup>And they crucify him. And they divide his garments, casting a lot for them, who would take what.

<sup>359</sup> 15:16 A cohort, if a complete one, was a thousand soldiers, (one tenth of a legion) commanded by ten centurions, who commanded a hundred men each. The number here could have been from 600 to 1,000 soldiers, assuming that all the men were present at that moment.

<sup>31</sup>Likewise also the chief priests, making fun with one another along with the Torah scholars, were saying, "Others he saved. Himself he cannot save. <sup>32</sup>Let<sup>364</sup> the Messiah, the king of Israel, come down now from the cross, so that we may see and believe."

Even the ones crucified with him were shaming him.

The Death of Jesus

<sup>33</sup>And when it was the sixth hour, darkness came over the whole land,<sup>365</sup> until the ninth hour. <sup>34</sup>And at the ninth hour Jesus cried out in a loud voice, "Elohi, Elohi, ləma<sup>366</sup> shəḇaqtani?" — which when translated is, "My God, my God, why have you forsaken me?"

<sup>361</sup> 15:23 Myrrh is part of Eastern incense blends for meditation and centering. Ancient Greek and Roman physicians used the herb to treat wounds. It also removes mucus from the respiratory tract, acts as a lung tonic and stimulant, and as an anti-inflammatory agent. And wine of course is a sedative, and you "give wine to those in bitter distress," Proverbs 31:6

<sup>362</sup> 15:25 That is, the third hour from 6 a.m. when the daytime starts, which makes this 9:00 a.m. So also the remaining references to time in Mark: the darkness came over the land at noon, and lasted until 3:00 p.m., when Jesus cried out to the Father. See the endnote in my Diatessaron regarding the differing clock systems and divisions of the day used by the synoptic evangelists in contrast to John.

Metzger: The earliest and best witnesses of the Alexandrian and the Western types of text lack ver. 28. It is understandable that copyists could have added the sentence in the margin as a note pointing out Lk 22:37, and from there it got put into the text of Mark itself. There is no reason why, if the sentence were present originally, it should have been deleted. It is also significant that Mark very seldom expressly quotes the Old Testament.

<sup>364</sup> 15:32 "Let come down" represents the one Greek word "come down," which is in the 3rd person imperative. In English we do not have a 3rd person imperative, and this has traditionally been signaled by the word "let." But the reader must not think it is a command to the soldiers to "let him come down." It is rather a command to someone whom the speakers are not actually addressing.

<sup>366</sup> 15:34 Metzger: The reading ηλει ηλει of Codex Bezae et al represents the Hebrew אֱלֹהִי ("my God"), and has been assimilated to the parallel in Mt 27:46. The great majority of uncials and minuscule manuscripts read ελωι ελωι, which represents the Aramaic ܐܠܗܝ ("my God"), the ω (ō) for the α sound being due to the influence of the Hebrew אֱלֹהִי. The spelling λεμα (8, C, 72, al) represents the Aramaic ܠܡܐ ("why"), which is also probably behind the λμα of A, f<sup>3</sup> al, whereas the λαμα of B, D, al represents the Hebrew לָמָּה ("why"). All Greek manuscripts except Codex Bezae read σαβαθθανι or something similar, which represents the Aramaic ܫܒܚܬܢܝ ("thou hast forsaken me"). The reading ζαφθανι of D is a scholarly correction representing the Hebrew of Psalm 22:1, which is ܥܕܒܬܢܝ ("thou hast forsaken me").

<sup>35</sup>And some of the bystanders hearing were saying, "Behold, he is calling Elijah." <sup>36</sup>And one ran, and after filling a sponge with sour wine, stuck it on a reed and was helping him to drink, saying, "Back off. Let's see if Elijah comes to take him down."

<sup>38</sup>And the veil of the temple was rent in two from top to bottom. <sup>39</sup>And the centurion, standing across from and facing him, seeing the way that he died, said, "This man truly was the Son of God."

<sup>40</sup>And there were also women watching from a distance, among whom were both Mary the Magdalene and Mary the mother of James the younger and of Joses; and Salome, <sup>41</sup>they who when he was in Galilee used to follow him and provide for him, plus many others who had come up to Jerusalem with him.

The Burial of Jesus

<sup>42</sup>And evening had now come, and since it was Preparation Day,<sup>367</sup> that is, before the Sabbath, <sup>43</sup>Joseph of Arimathea comes, a respected council member, himself also looking forward to the kingdom of God, who, taking courage, went in to Pilate and asked for the body of Jesus. <sup>44</sup>But Pilate doubted that he was already dead,<sup>368</sup> and calling the centurion to him, asked him if he had already died. <sup>45</sup>And knowing from the centurion, he granted the corpse to Joseph.

<sup>46</sup>And having bought linen, he took him down and wrapped him in the linen, and laid him in a tomb which was hewn out of the rock, and rolled a stone up against the entrance of the tomb. <sup>47</sup>And Mary the Magdalene and Mary the mother of Joses were watching where he was laid.

<sup>367</sup> 15:42 The word "evening" at first causes confusion. For if evening had already come, then a new day had started, right? So it was no longer "Preparation (Day)," because evening had come and the Sabbath had started, right? No, in fact the word "preparation" always means the day of the week we call Friday; see Luke 23:54; John 19:14, 31; Josephus: Jewish Antiquities xvi. 6. 2 §163. (There is no word "day" in the Greek here.) The point is, "Preparation Day" does not mean the 24 hours leading up to the evening that starts the Sabbath. Instead it means simply "Friday." Even the word "day" in the Bible, both Old and New Testaments, unfortunately would sometimes mean that period of time during which it is "daytime" or "sunlit," and other times it also means the 24 hours "between the evenings." As in all languages, most words of the Biblical languages have more than one meaning, but when it comes to matters like this that require precision, it is frustrating. This very problem was the reason for there being held at that time two differing interpretations regarding the Biblical timing of the Passover. The Pharisees and the Galileans and Jesus had one timing for the Passover, and the Sadducees (and the temple that year) had another.

<sup>368</sup> 15:44 There are three main interpretations of this statement about Pilate's reaction to Joseph's petition. First, here are the words literally according to their main lexical glosses: "But Pilate marvelled if he has died / is dead (perfect tense)." Obviously, it does not make good English translated this way. The problem word is the conditional conjunction translated "if," the Greek word ei (ei). Of the 22 English translations I have on hand, 7 here render it "if," 2 "whether," 12 render it "that," and 1 leaves it untranslated. Both Bauer and Blass say it means "that" after verbs of emotion, such as perhaps here and also as in I John 3:13, "Do not marvel if (that) the world hates you," plus other examples which are not the most standard of "if" phrases, because the verbs are not in the subjunctive mood; and also after verbs of knowing or not knowing: John 9:25; Acts 19:2; I Cor. 1:16; 7:16. Bauer also says that ei frequently means "whether" before indirect quotes of questions, such as in "Tell us if (whether) you are the Christ," "were watching him if (whether) he would heal on the Sabbath." Thus the following renderings are also possible: "He was surprised that he was already dead." "He was amazed that he was already dead." "He wondered whether he had already died." Anyway, all of these renderings work, and all of their scenarios could have potentially prompted Pilate to verify the death with the centurion.

The Empty Tomb

<sup>1</sup>And when the Sabbath had passed, Mary the Magdalene, and Mary the mother of James, and Salome, bought spices so that they might go and anoint him. <sup>2</sup>And very early on the first day of the week, they are coming upon the tomb, as the sun broke. <sup>3</sup>And they were saying to each other, "Who will roll away for us the stone from the entrance of the tomb?" <sup>4</sup>And when they look up, they behold: the stone has been rolled away! For it was very large. <sup>5</sup>And entering into the tomb, they saw a young man sitting on the right side, dressed in a white robe. And they were greatly alarmed.

<sup>6</sup>But he says to them, "Do not be alarmed. You are seeking Jesus [the Nazarene],<sup>369</sup> who was crucified. He is risen! He is not here. Behold the place where they laid him. <sup>7</sup>But go tell his disciples and Peter, that he is going ahead of you into Galilee. There you will see him, just as he told you."

Verses 9-12<sup>373</sup>

<sup>370</sup> 16:8a τρόμος καὶ ἔκστασις means literally "tremors and ecstasy," but Greek sometimes used a method of modifying a word whereby you place a second word following with an "and" in between. This is called parataxis. One could render this above, "tremors of shock." (But the singular number of the verb here for "hold," ἔχω, is not a factor. The rules governing number agreement of verbs state that when a verb has two or more co-ordinate words as its subject, and the two subjects are both singular and separated by καὶ, and the verb stands before the first subject, as is the case here, then the verb agrees in number with the first subject. So here, the Greek verb would be singular either way, parataxis or not.) For another example of this kind of parataxis, see Luke 2:47, "amazed at the intelligence and his answers," meaning, "amazed at his intelligent answers." As for the meanings of the words, they must have experienced trauma that caused them to be put out of their senses (out of their senses = ecstasy, shock, bewilderment, being spaced out) accompanied by tremors, anxiety, and racing heart beat. That is what medically is called shock.

<sup>371</sup> 16:8b "They said nothing to anyone" is subordinate to the "for" at the beginning of the sentence. It is part of the idea of their fleeing from the tomb. That is to say, they said nothing to anyone who was there at the tomb, but instead fled from the tomb because of their trembling, bewilderment, and fear. For there were in fact other people there outside the tomb, the guards at least. See my Diatessaron.

<sup>372</sup> 16:8c Some interpreters maintain that the Greek word here for "they were afraid," ἐφοβοῦντο, should be translated "they were afraid of..." They maintain that this verb is always transitive, and requires an object. See the endnote at the end of this document, entitled "Does the Greek verb PHOBEO require an object?" which explores this question.

MARK ENDNOTES

Mark Endnote #1

Mark's beginning all his sentences with the conjunctions καί and δέ

In the narrative prose of the gospel of Mark, practically every sentence begins with one of the above words for "and." (The split between the two is something like 90% καί and 10% δέ.) The problem is, in English it is bad style to start many sentences with "and," let alone all of them. So the translator is left with the tension between on the one hand not letting even one letter pass from God's word, and on the other hand the desire for good English style and therefore wanting to drop the initial "and"s.

I shall first address Mark's use of καί. I have read of several factors that may have come to bear as to why Mark began so many of his sentences with καί.

1. Semitic Influence. The writer, being Jewish, and whose native language was Aramaic and whose scriptures were Hebrew and Aramaic, and probably also the Jewish-Greek of the Septuagint, wrote a brand of Greek influenced by the syntax of those Semitic languages. Since Hebrew had no other mechanism to indicate past, present, or future, and neither did it show relationship between clauses, like subordination, purpose and result, it instead added clauses and events together in a long chain connected by "and"s. Thus to one idea which was complete in itself, a second idea is added, also complete in itself, connected usually in Hebrew by וְ(wə) and in Greek by καί, and then a third complete idea in like manner connected, and so on.

2. Vulgarity or Unsophistication. Yet the above chaining with "and" was not at all exclusively Semitic. Aristotle, in Rhetorica 3.9, p. 1409a, 24 following, describes two opposing styles of Greek: the εἰρομένη (running and continuous) style, like the above described chain of complete ideas separated by καί, in contrast to the κατεστρωμένη (compact) or ἐν περιόδοις (periodic) styles. The former was the plain and unsophisticated language of all periods, and the latter the more artistically developed prose.

3. Demarcation of Sentences. The Greek New Testament was originally written using only capital letters; and there were no spaces between words, and there were no spaces in between sentences. Neither did they use any punctuation like periods. So there was no way you could tell when one sentence ended and another began. Or was there? Some speculate that the conjunctions καί and δέ served as markers of the beginning of a new sentence.

If this third theory is valid, then the translator may properly render those sentence-initial conjunctions into the equivalent coding employed by English to demarcate sentences: By using a period, followed by two spaces, followed by a capital letter. So if a translation drops the "and" and instead uses these English markers, the period and spaces, etc., where the Greek had a καί, then that translation does in fact translate the καί. The English equivalent of the Greek is in fact provided. That is what translating is.

Yet, if this were in fact the way to signal the beginning of sentences, why did only Mark use it consistently? John, for example, uses οὖν in somewhat the same way. But in a book in the N.T. written with more literary sophistication, like the epistle to the Hebrews, the sentences are begun with much greater variety of conjunctions and particles.

In Mark, however, even if those conjunctions were in fact employed for sentence demarcation, they would not always have been there for that reason. It is a matter of some interpretation, therefore, as to whether they are there to mark the beginning of a sentence, or whether they mean something like, "and," "also," "then," "even." Also, the "and" may in fact be there in the middle of a sentence, and a difference of interpretation exist as to where the sentences begin and end. When a present-day printed Greek New Testament edition capitalizes a letter to indicate the beginning of a new sentence, that merely reflects the interpretation of those editors as to where the new sentence began. This is a matter of interpretation, as are also paragraph divisions. By leaving all the "and"s in there, the English reader is allowed the opportunity to see other possibilities of sentence division, and other possible turns of meaning involving καί and δέ.

4. By "turns of meaning involving καί and δέ," I am speaking in terms of "discourse analysis." Specifically here, thematic development, continuities, discontinuities, points of departure, parentheticality, etc. Some discourse analysis of New Testament Greek has been done by a linguist associated with the Summer Institute of Linguistics, Mr. Stephen H. Levinsohn. In his book entitled Discourse Features of New Testament Greek, Dallas, SIL, (1992), Levinsohn treats this issue of the conjunctions καί and δέ beginning sentences, but largely only as found in the gospels of Matthew, Luke, and John, and in Acts.

His general observations are found on page 31, that passages characterized by the use of the coordinate conjunction καί may be considered "straight narrative." He goes on:

If the verb is initial in the sentence, the event concerned is in natural sequence with the previous one. If some constituent precedes the verb, this generally occurs at a point of discontinuity in the story, and indicates the point of departure for what follows, as well as the basis for relating what follows to the context. Sentences in the narrative are associated together or separated from each other solely on the basis of such features.

Though Koine Greek writers can and do present some passages of straight narrative, they have the option of linking sentences in other, more marked ways. One way is through a developmental conjunction such as δέ. (Footnote: More accurately, δέ is a developmental-antidevelopmental conjunction, since it also introduces parenthetical comments.)

His observations regarding the gospel of Mark specifically are limited to the following on page 32:

In Matthew, Luke and Acts, δέ is used to mark development both between incidents (high-level usage) and within incidents (local usage). In Mark's gospel, however, δέ generally functions locally; it is rarely used to indicate development from one incident to another.

and on page 39:

Mark practically never uses δέ to introduce a new incident (1:32 and 7:24 are rare exceptions). In other words, Mark seldom presents one incident as developing from the previous one. Even Mark's local usage of δέ is generally limited to specific contexts.

Most commonly, δέ is used in Mark's gospel in instances involving switch or contrast, whether or not there is a point of departure.

Examples of δέ in connection with a point of departure include:

- a contrastive condition, as in 2:21-22;
- a temporal setting with contrasting overtones, as in 4:29;
- other points of departure involving contrast, as in 4:11, 34;
- a reference to the new individual through whom the story will develop, as in 5:33, 36 and 6:22.

Examples of sentences containing δέ which begin with a verb, when there are contrastive overtones, include Mark 2:20 and 6:16. Only occasionally does δέ occur in sentences with an initial verb when there are no contrastive overtones. Examples include Mark 7:20 and 9:25.

Another function of δέ is to introduce parenthetical comments, particularly those that are significant for the further development of the story, as in Mark 1:30a and 2:6.

(Palmer's note: the above bulleted "reference to the new individual through whom the story will develop, as in 6:22" is from a variant of the Greek text found in neither the UBS 4th edition nor the Nestle-Aland 27th Edition.)

I Dave Palmer have observed that in many modern English translations, when the Greek conjunction δέ is used to mark a parenthetical statement, it is translated with the English word "now." One example is Mark 2:6, in the context of Jesus teaching and healing in the Capernaum synagogue, verse 6 is often rendered: "Now some scribes were sitting there..." However, I am loath to use the word "now," preferring that it be reserved as a time marker, since time markers are so rare. When you read my translation, you can know, that when you see the word "now," it means "now."

The gospel of Mark has the distinction of being the book in the New Testament most extreme in its frequency of beginning sentences with the two conjunctions. There are three other gospels, Matthew, Luke and John, each with its own distinctive style. Why force all four of them into one identical style of English, when God deliberately gave us four different accounts authored by four unique individuals with their own style? Why not allow the author of Mark to be seen as unsophisticated and vulgar in style, which in fact he was? Why not let the four gospels be recognizably different in style even after rendered into English? This, plus my willingness to let the readers make their own interpretations of the "and"s, led me to leave them all in there.

Therefore, please, let no one pounce judgmentally upon a translation for dropping a lot of the "and"s, condemning the translator for "taking away from God's word," and neither should others make condescending conclusions about a translation that retains all the "and"s, as surely having been done by an unskilled translator using an interlinear and lexical glosses.

Mark Endnote #2

Mark's frequent use of the present tense for the past

The gospel of Mark very frequently uses present tense verbs intermixed with past tense verbs, even alternating several times back and forth within the same sentence. This is something found far more frequently in Mark than anywhere else in the Greek New Testament. The only pigeon-hole in the grammars into which to potentially file this practice, has the label on it, "historical present."

The definition of the historical present states that the present indicative form of a verb (present time, linear or continuous aspect, statement of fact) can be used to replace the aorist indicative form (past time, punctiliar aspect, statement of fact) in a narrative, in describing events at which the narrator imagines himself present right now, and gives the readers also a feeling of being right there themselves. Supposedly, according to the definition, the aspect remains punctiliar in spite of the present linear form. This device gives the narrative an increased vividness and immediacy.

DeBrunner, in discussing "historical presents" in the gospel of John, sees that the circumstances, or all that is secondary, are given in a past tense, and the main action is likely to be represented by the present, and then the concluding events are again put into the aorist because there, an historical present would not be natural.

In a way, Mark's usage conforms essentially to this definition, but not completely. Take for example Mark 6:1, Καὶ ἐξῆλθεν ἐκεῖθεν, καὶ ἔρχεται εἰς τὴν πατρίδα αὐτοῦ, καὶ ἀκολουθοῦσιν αὐτῷ οἱ μαθηταὶ αὐτοῦ, "And he moved on from there, and comes into his home town, and his disciples are accompanying him." Here the first verb, "moved on," is in the aorist, and is secondary in importance to the present tense verbs, "comes" and "are accompanying." The present tense verbs "comes" and "accompanying" are setting the scene for the next story, while the past tense verb, "he moved on," is hardly as important. But ultimately, Mark is doing the opposite of DeBrunner's description of John: Mark is using the present tense to set the circumstances, and the aorist for the main event, which follows: "He began to teach in the synagogue," 6:2. Another way in which Mark does not conform to the above formal rule of historical presents is that Mark often uses them with their linear (continuous) aspect where such linear aspect is clearly intended or appropriate.

The comment of Blass about this in Mark specifically is that the Aramaic participial sentence may have contributed to its frequency. I agree that the effect in Mark is similar to the "circumstantial participle." In fact I say that the effect is better than that of the participle when put into English. Let's rephrase the above Mark 6:1 making the ἀκολουθοῦσιν participial in English rather than present tense: "And he moved on from there, coming into his home town, his disciples accompanying." The use of the present indicative makes it more clear than does the participle.

Here is the same verse using aorists instead of the presents: "And he moved on from there and came into his home town, and his disciples accompanied him." Well, it's okay. But if you read Mark at his brisk pace, with an endless string of simple past statements of fact, it gets monotonous. The present tenses liven it up, and truly, it is more like the way most English speakers I know, actually speak.

See how familiar the following quote sounds to you. "I'm walking through Northgate Mall, and I run into Ashley, and she says, 'What are you doing?' And I'm like, 'Duh, I'm going shopping.'"

This narrative is describing events that took place in the past. The narrator uses six verbs, but not a single one of them is past tense. Yet this is acceptable to the ears of most English speakers, apart from perhaps the most ivory tower of English professors. No doubt most people would admit it is not the paragon of English style. As for reading my translation of Mark, the present tenses may sound a bit strange to you at first. But if you continue reading, after a while you get used to it. At any rate, it is Mark's style. And the flip side of Mark's unsophistication is his honesty and unpretentiousness, thanks to which we get some of the most frank descriptions of the disciples and of other elements in the narrative.

Though it is often that Mark uses present indicative verbs participially, he does at least as often use them with a punctiliar aspect, just as the mall girl above said, "and I run into Ashley..." The verb run is in the present tense, yet is something that happens once and is concluded, for she does not keep running into Ashley repeatedly. Nor is she saying that it is her custom or way of life to run into Ashley. Thus, though Mark's usage often does not conform to the formal definition of the historical present, it often does.

To show just how often Mark uses present tense for the verbs, here is a three-verse chunk of text from chapter 5, verses 38-40, in which there are only a couple past tense verbs in the narrative. And I am not saying this is the largest such chunk; it merely happened to be close to the previous passage I was referring to above, and I caught sight of it.

38 And they are coming into the house of the synagogue ruler, and he sees an uproar, and weeping and much loud wailing.

39 And when he had come in he says to them, "Why are you making a commotion and weeping? The child is not dead but sleeping."

40 And they laughed him to scorn. Then, having put them all out, he takes the father of the child, and the mother, and the ones who were with him, and he goes in where the child was.

Note: The words in v. 39 "and when he had come in" are not from a past tense verb, but an aorist participle, and participles do not tell past-present-future. Same with the "having put them all out" in v. 40- aorist participle. The meaning of the aorist in the participle is that the action takes place in "punctiliar kind of action," that is, at one point, as opposed to progressively over a longer period of time, or continuously, or habitually, or repetitively. Only when in the indicative mood do the verbs potentially tell us past-present-future.

Following is a catalogue of the verbs in the above passage:

15 Greek verbs total present progressive indicative	8	53%	are coming, sees, says, making a commotion, weeping, sleeping, takes, goes in progressive participle	2	13%	weeping, loud wailing punctiliar participle	2	13%	when he had come in, having put out past punctiliar indicative	2	13%	has died, laughed to scorn past progressive indicative	1	7%	was

Of the four gospel authors, Luke uses this "historical present" device the least, because, according to Blass, Luke regarded it as vulgar. This is quite to be expected, since Luke was the most educated of the four gospel authors. But the fact is, the same style as Mark may be found in the Septuagint, the papyri, Josephus, modern Greek, and yes, in the great classical Greek writers. In this world, there are rules, whether of grammar or whatever else, and then there is what people actually do.

I doubt that as Mark was writing his account, he was cognizant of any grammatical rules governing the "historical present." And if he had been, I doubt that he would have followed them all the time anyway. In conclusion, if there is a well defined "historical present," Mark does not come close to always conforming to it. And even if he did, he would have been over-using it, for Mark uses a present-tense verb for the past very, very frequently. No, whatever the formal nomenclature for it, if there is such, Mark's use of present tense verbs for the past is simply an unsophisticated, every-day, man-on-the-street style, which is also very common in the English of our time. And translating Mark's present tenses into English presents does work, so I see no compelling reason not to do so.

Indeed, in this decision I am in good company. There is another English translation that translated all the Greek present tenses into English present tenses, and that translation is only the best-selling piece of English literature of all time on the planet Earth, the King James Version Bible. Ironically, it is held up as having great "literary beauty," and being great English. The fact is, the King James Version was written in common, popular English, such as using the present tense for the past. It also more closely followed Greek word syntax than do modern translations. To some of us, 400 years later, the phrase, "And Jesus saith unto him" sounds sophisticated. But in fact, the word "saith" was the present tense, third person, singular form for "say." In modern English, "Jesus says to him."

No doubt there are other interpretations of Mark's use of the historical present, but that is all the more reason to leave the verbs in the present in English: so that the reader may have the opportunity to see them and so interpret them.

Mark 2:23, ἤρξαντο ὁδὸν ποιεῖν

This phrase if translated using the most frequently translated English words, (the "lexical glosses"), would be, 'began to make or do a way or path.' The form ἤρξαντο is the 3rd person, plural, aorist, indicative, middle voice, of the verb ἄρχω or ἄρχομαι (árchō or árchomai), which means to begin. We must understand that they began to do something they were not doing up to that point. (These grammatical details are pertinent to my argument, so please bear with me as it develops.)

The word ποιεῖν (poiēîn) is the linear infinitive form of the word ποιέω (poiēō) meaning 'to do' or 'to make,' depending on the context. The combination of ἤρξαντο (3rd pl.) or ἤρξατο (3rd sing.) with a following infinitive is very common in both the New and Old Testaments, found well over a hundred times.

This passage here in Mark is usually translated something like, 'as they made their way,' or, 'as they went along.' I find these simply unacceptable. The first adds the possessive pronoun 'their,'

which is unwarranted, and the second is a little better, but they both ignore the fact that the word ἄρχομαι when in the aorist middle, ἤρξαντο, as here, always takes the infinitive. The infinitive here is ποιεῖν (poieîn), to do or to make. We can absolutely rule out 'plucking' as what the disciples were beginning to do. And the disciples were not 'beginning to go along,' or 'beginning to make their way.' Because the verse had already stated that they were 'passing through the grainfields.' For the Greek infinitive is translated as an English participle like "making" only when it is with the article, but the article is not present here. No, we must show them starting some new activity once they were already passing through the grainfields. That is what ἄρχομαι means.

The 3rd person aorist middle of ἄρχομαι (ἤρξαντο or ἤρξατο) occurs well over a hundred times in both the New Testament and the Old, and it is always followed by an infinitive. I have not found an exception. Vincent in his Word Studies says this phrase is a Latinism, where he says Mark adopts the Latin phrase iter facere, "to make a way." But this conjecture violates the required presumption that the writer used ordinary grammar. Since Mark did in fact use this exact ἄρχομαι construction 25 times elsewhere in the ordinary Greek way: with an infinitive, and Mark's examples in fact comprise one third of the occurrences in the whole New Testament, the burden to overcome the presumption that Mark used ordinary grammar is too great to be overcome by a conjecture of a Latinism.

Then Vincent says, "The same idiom occurs in the Septuagint, Judges 17:8; ποιῆσαι ὁδόν, 'as he journeyed.' " But Vincent neglects to point out that, first of all, the whole thing is a genitive phrase, preceded by τοῦ, "belonging to or characterized by his to journey," and secondly, it is not preceded by ἤρξατο. So I do not see the comparability. He also fails to mention that ὁδόν is followed by the word αὐτοῦ, which would make it say "his journey," which possessive pronoun we do not have here in Mark. There is in Mark simply no indication that a possessive pronoun is called for, as: "their way." It is true that in Greek, as in German and some other Indo-European languages, the possessive pronoun need not be supplied where possession is obvious. But, in that situation in Greek, from what I have seen, the article is found instead. Here we have no article. Neither is possession obvious. I again fail to see the comparability.

Another argument against the phrase ἤρξαντο ὁδόν ποιεῖν being a Latinism meaning, "to make their way," in my mind, is that the Douay-Rheims translators did not see it that way. You see, the Douay-Rheims was a Roman Catholic translation based muchly on the Latin Vulgate. The NAB is also a Catholic translation, whose translators we can presume, know Latin. And they did not see this as a Latinism either. I reject the argument of Vincent and others, therefore, that this phrase in the Greek represents a Latinism.

And others in their attempt to justify departing from the "ἤρξαντο followed by infinitive" rule, point to Acts 11:4, where Peter explained starting from the beginning, ἀρξαμενος ἐξετίθετο. But there, archomai is a linear participle. There is no infinitive there in Acts, so I fail to see the comparability.

Still another argument is that ἄρχομαι is a pleonasm here, that is, an extra wordiness not adding anything significant to the meaning. I strongly disagree. I have never seen ἄρχομαι used pleonastically in the gospel of Mark, not in the third person, aorist, middle voice, indicative aspect; it always signals the beginning of an activity.

Even if they were not "beginning to make a way," they were certainly not "beginning to pluck," since "pluck" is a participle instead of the required infinitive. So what was it the disciples were 'beginning' to do that they were not already doing?

Some have translated this phrase "they began to make a path" through the grain. But this does not seem sensible, for there would be no need to make a path through the grain, because one can pluck from the plants that are right next to the road. Yet it is possible there was no road, or that they were taking a shortcut right through a particularly large field of grain. Perhaps those translating it such, had in mind the finely developed doctrine of the scribes as to what constituted unlawful harvesting on the Sabbath. Over the centuries it was decided that it was permitted to walk through a grainfield if the plants were only ankle high; but if the plants were at least knee high, it was not permissible, for then one's legs might inadvertently knock some of the ripened grain off the heads, and thereby 'work' by doing what constituted 'threshing.' But here, it was not that the disciples were inadvertently knocking off heads of grain, for they were deliberately plucking them off and de-husking them between their hands. Still, this interpretation has merit, and I consider it the second best interpretation. At least it is faithful to the ἤρξαντο - infinitive rule. Jesus' response is revealing, as to the comparison he used, to illustrate what his disciples were doing. David, he says, broke the law because he was hungry and in need, and that is a valid excuse in Jesus' mind. So also now, the disciples may be technically breaking the law by doing what officially constituted "threshing," but since they are hungry and in need, mercy and compassion are weightier matters of the law than those technicalities.

Now in Mark's phrase ἤρξαντο ὁδὸν ποιεῖν, "began to do or make a way," the word ὁδὸν is the accusative case, singular form of the word ὁδός (hodós), which means 'way' or 'road' or 'journey.' But just like our English word 'way,' it is very often used metaphorically, as meaning 'a systematic course of action,' or also "a way of doing something." The Bible speaks of the 'way of peace' (Isaiah 59:7-8; Rom. 3:17), the 'ways of the Lord,' etc. In the early days of the church, when people referred to the first Jewish believers in Jesus as the Messiah, they called their set of beliefs and practices ἡ ὁδός, (hē hodós), "the way," Acts 9:2, 19:9, 23, 22:4, 24:14, 22.

Aristophanes in "Plutus" at 506 used hodós to mean a course of action: εἰ πάυσει ταύτην βλάβας ποθ' ὁ Πλούτος, ὁδὸν ἦντιν' ἰὼν τοῖς ἀνθρώποις ἀγάθ' ἂν μείζω πορίσειεν, "if Plutus...drove out [Poverty], it would be the greatest blessing possible for the human race."

Plato used the word hodós as follows in his Laws, 810e: θαρροῦντα τὴν νῦν ἐκ τῶν παρόντων λόγων τετμημένην ὁδὸν τῆς νομοθεσίας πορεύεσθαι, "to proceed boldly along the path of legislation marked out in our present discourse..."

I have not seen the word ποιεῖω used for the idea of "make a road." Thucydides in his Histories, at 2.100.2, when describing improvements to a country made by king Archelaus, including the making of roads, did not use ποιεῖω, but said Ἀρχέλαος...καὶ ὁδοὺς εὐθείας ἔτεμε..., "Archelaus...also cut straight roads."

In Tragedy, the verb ἀνύειν was used in phrases with ὁδόν or κέλευθον meaning "make one's way," or "win."

Ποιέω often means the same as πράσσω. Ποιέω was used, for example to say "good doings or practices." Herodotus used ποιέω this way in his Histories, 3.75.1 about king Cyrus: ἔλεγε ὅσα ἀγαθὰ Κῦρος Πέρσας πεποιήκοι, "he recounted all the good that Cyrus had done to Persia..."

In fact ποιέω can itself mean something similar to the metaphorical hodós, i.e., "practice" or "custom." Speaking of polygamy in Histories, at 5.40.2, Herodotus said ...γυναῖκας ἔχων δύο διζᾶς ἰστίας οἶκεε, ποιέων οὐδαμῶς Σπαρτητικά. "...he had two wives and kept two households, a thing which is not at all customary at Sparta."

In light of the above word studies, the ὁδὸν ποιεῖν in Mark 2:23 could even be a Hebraistic redundancy: "they practiced a practice." If it means something like, "they began to do a custom," or "began to practice a way," then it could be explained a couple of ways. One, that since they were all unemployed, and perpetual travelers, it was a way of life for them to eat from the fields of others. Or two, more like Plato's ὁδὸν τῆς νομοθεσίας πορεύεσθαι, "to proceed along the path of legislation..."

Thus in my humble opinion the most satisfactory explanation of these words is that Mark is explaining Jewish things to us, as he often does, thanks be to God. Mark is here editorializing, as he often does for the benefit of his non-Jewish readers. In this case he is explaining lest the readers think the disciples were doing something wrong like stealing or trespassing. Mark probably wanted them to know that this was an acceptable way of the Jews, the allowable Jewish practice of "plucking the heads," of Deuteronomy 23:25, "If you enter your neighbor's grainfield, you may pluck the heads with your hands, but you must not put a sickle to your neighbor's standing grain."

It may well be that it was foreseen that this passage would be scandalous in the eyes of many future readers. To wit, if Mark had not explained this for us in his gospel, then wherever this gospel is translated throughout the world, into the remotest tribal language, this passage would raise eyebrows among the tribespeople, as follows. "Jesus and his disciples would trespass and steal their neighbors' food!?" I assure you that the stealing of food is what tribespeople will zero in on, and continue to do so, even after you explain any Sabbath issue. Thus it is that Mark tells us that this practice was acceptable; it was a "path of legislation." It was an acceptable way, a Jewish way, a custom.

Mark Endnote #4

Mark 3:9; πλοιάριον προσκατερῇ...ἵνα μὴ θλίβωσιν αὐτόν

I see three possibilities of interpretation here:

(1) This clause expresses a concern that something might happen, or is like a ὅπως clause, or also like the "infinitive of result," expressing a result, with the previously stated condition as a deterrent to prevent the result. Since θλίβωσιν is the present subjunctive, this theory is possible. That idea would be that Jesus wanted to use the presence of the boat as a threat to deter the people, that if they would not queue up in a civilized manner to be healed in turn, he would get into the boat, and then none of them could be healed. Thus, "he told his disciples that a boat should be on hand for him, because of the crowd, so that they would not crush him."

But, I see two problems with this interpretation; one, is that it does not say that Jesus actually got into the boat at this time; and two, that it seems out of character for Jesus to threaten them with withdrawal, out of concern for his own injury. One thing I perceived out of translating Mark is how "close to the edge" Jesus lived; indeed, a few paragraphs later we see that his family did not approve. Jesus was not a wimp as far as fear and desire for self-preservation. The point is that Jesus would not be concerned about the crowd merely pressing in upon him. Instead, here I think that he was in mortal danger of being literally crushed under a pile of bodies. The Greek word ἐπιπίπτω – epipíptō originally meant an attack, like when an army or a lion would "fall upon" its prey (though it can also be used figuratively). One might even translate it here, "leaped upon" him. I picture Jesus struggling to stay standing, because at the very least, he was getting knocked from a domino effect, if not actually having people landing on him after leaping over the people that had been in their way. At any rate, I do not think the mere presence of a boat nearby would succeed in deterring the desperate crowd of sick people.

(2) On the other hand, the present subjunctive in this situation could also mean something similar to μέλλει – mélleí, that something is about to happen. And ἵνα μὴ sometimes is an expression of apprehension, BDF §370(1), cf. LXX Daniel 1:10. Thus, "a boat should be kept handy for him, because of the crowd, in case they should crush him." In other words, Jesus would use the boat in the event that the crowd got too overwhelming.

I have chosen stronger shades of meaning of the words than some. I don't think the scene was very genteel. Picture people without medicine available as we know it, and without money even if it was, who had heard that Jesus could and did completely heal any ailment, and they walk, in desperation, from as far away as Idumea, and Sidon, and when they arrive to Jesus, they merely "press upon him"? Since people dug through a roof above him to get to him when he was in a house, imagine what hordes of desperate people would do when Jesus was standing out in the open, on the beach. Jesus simply wanted to have an escape route ready, in order to prevent his suffocation, in case it came to that, so that he could continue doing the Father's work. His time had not yet come for him to die. But I think he wanted to heal as many people as possible, not withdraw from them on the boat just out of reach.

(3) The third possibility is that the present subjunctive of προσκαρτέρω, "that a boat be continually at hand," is meant as a wish for the near future. Thus, "he told his disciples that in the future a boat should be ready for him, because of the crowd, so that then they would not crush him."

This latter seems the most likely, for later, and only later, do we see, in Mark 4:1, that Jesus used the new strategy to deal with large crowds: "a very large crowd collects around him, such that he boards a boat to sit on the lake, and all the crowd was on the land up to the water's edge." Boarding the boat and floating separate from the crowd made it possible for Jesus to teach them at all, for it is hard to teach when you are trying to keep your footing.

Mark 14:72, ἐπιβάλλω - epibállō

The words "when he thought upon" are translated from the Greek word ἐπιβάλλω (epibállō), which hyper literally means "throw upon," or, "throw over," and which is in the punctiliar participle form. There are three schools of thought on how to translate this: one, as I have it above.

The second school objects, saying the idea of "think upon" is redundant since it already states that Peter "recalled" the statement. And they point to uses of the word where it appears to mean somewhat the same as ἄρχομαι (árchomai), or "begin to do something," and they render it something like, "And he broke down and wept," or, "he burst into tears." As for the objection regarding the redundancy of "thinking upon," I see them as two quite different actions: merely remembering something is very different from reflecting upon something.

The third school translates epibállō as a reflexive, which is in fact possible, since there are plenty of examples of transitive active verbs of action being used reflexively, that is, as though in the middle voice, where the agent acts upon himself. In fact epibállō (along with its compounds) is one of the two verbs with which this is most common, according to Blass. This school would translate this something like, "And after having thrown himself down, he wept." I consider this possible, since the word is also used in the New Testament for "pour." Thus, "And having poured himself upon [the ground], he wept," or, "having flung himself, he wept." This latter is what I had chosen for my first edition of my Diatessaron. This solution has the attractive trait to it that one need not supply any English words as being implied, unlike with the other two possibilities. And it seems to fit well with Matthew's account which says he wept "bitterly." I can easily imagine one dropping to the ground because of the bitterness or strength or abandon of one's sobbing.

Mark 15:2, Σὺ λέγεις - Sù légeis

In Mark 15:2, Jesus' answer to Pilate's question, "Are you the king of the Jews," the words I translated: "You are the one saying that," the words in the Greek are Σὺ λέγεις - Sù légeis. This means literally, "You are saying," or, "Are you saying?" Is this an affirmative response or not?

On the one hand, the presence of the personal pronoun "su" is not necessary for the sense, nor for the completeness of the sentence (because the suffix on the word for "say" indicates 2nd person). This can mean that "su" is being emphasized. So some contrast could be indicated, contrasting what "you" say, to what "I" say. This is more clearly so in John 18:34, where Jesus says, ἀφ' ἑαυτοῦ σὺ τοῦτο λέγεις - "Of yourself do you say this, or have others told you about me?" And in John 18:37, where Jesus says Σὺ λέγεις ὅτι βασιλεὺς εἰμι. Ἐγὼ εἰς τοῦτο..., "You are saying that I am a king; I am saying that for this: I came into the world to testify to the truth." See DeBrunner, § 277 (2). There is also some contrast intended by "su" in Matthew 26:64, Σὺ εἶπας πλὴν λέγω ὑμῖν..., (plēn légō humin), "You said it. But I say to you,...". And if Jesus wanted to be unambiguously affirmative, he could have answered as he did in

Mark 14:62 to the high priest's question, "Are you the Messiah, the Son of the Blessed One?" There, Jesus' answer was an unmistakably affirmative, ἐγώ εἰμι (egō eimi), "I am."

Bauer interprets the Σὺ λέγεις here as, "That is what you maintain." Or perhaps it is a question like in John's account: "Is that what you maintain?" For such uses of λέγειν see Mark 6:14-15; 8:29. In this sense, I could see it as a response arising out of Jesus' awareness of the prosecutorial import of Pilate's question. That is, Pilate was considering charging Jesus with claiming to be a king, an act treasonous to Caesar. And a non-answer on the part of Jesus would better fulfill his destiny as given in Isaiah 53:7, that like a lamb that is led to slaughter, and as a sheep before its shearers is silent, so he did not open his mouth.

On the other hand, in some contexts where the phrases Σὺ λέγεις and the similar Σὺ εἶπας (you said) are given in answer, we have reason to believe they were understood by the hearers as affirmative answers. In Matthew 26:25, after Jesus had declared to his disciples that one of them would betray him, they each in turn said, "Surely not I, Lord?" When Judas Iscariot asked the same, Jesus' answer to him was, Σὺ εἶπας, "You said it." And in Luke 22:70 when the Sanhedrin asked Jesus if he was the son of God, Jesus answered, ὑμεῖς λέγετε ὅτι ἐγώ εἰμι (you are saying that I am). This was taken by the Sanhedrin as a blasphemous "yes," for they then said, "Why do we need any more testimony? For we ourselves have heard from his own mouth." However, knowing the more complete text of the conversation as found in Matthew, the reaction of the Sanhedrin could have been in response to his later saying, as in Matthew 26:64, "You said it. But I say to you, from now on you will see the Son of Man sitting at the right hand of the Power, and coming on the clouds of heaven."

If someone wanted to simply say "Yes" as an answer to a question, all they had to say in Greek is Ναί, of which there are many examples in the Greek New Testament. In Matthew alone:

9:28 Ἐλθόντι δὲ εἰς τὴν οἰκίαν, προσήλθον αὐτῷ οἱ τυφλοί, καὶ λέγει αὐτοῖς ὁ Ἰησοῦς, Πιστεύετε ὅτι δύναμαι τοῦτο ποιῆσαι; Λέγουσιν αὐτῷ, Ναί, κύριε.

13:51 ¶ Λέγει αὐτοῖς ὁ Ἰησοῦς, Συνήκατε ταῦτα πάντα; Λέγουσιν αὐτῷ, Ναί, κύριε.

17:25 Λέγει, Ναί. Καὶ ὅτε εἰσῆλθεν εἰς τὴν οἰκίαν, προέφθασεν αὐτὸν ὁ Ἰησοῦς, λέγων, Τί σοι δοκεῖ, Σίμων; Οἱ βασιλεῖς τῆς γῆς ἀπὸ τίνων λαμβάνουσιν τέλη ἢ κῆνσον; Ἀπὸ τῶν υἱῶν αὐτῶν, ἢ ἀπὸ τῶν ἀλλοτρίων;

21:16 καὶ εἶπον αὐτῷ, Ἀκούεις τί οὗτοι λέγουσιν; Ὁ δὲ Ἰησοῦς λέγει αὐτοῖς, Ναί: οὐδέποτε ἀνέγνωτε ὅτι Ἐκ στόματος νηπίων καὶ θηλαζόντων κατηρτίσω αἶνον;

If we take Jesus' Σὺ λέγεις as an affirmative response, however, it would not be accurate to translate it as simply, "Yes." Better would be something like "As you say," or "You've got it," or "You are saying rightly."

When translating this phrase in Mark, Σὺ λέγεις, it is impossible to stay completely neutral by simply translating the Greek words literally, and adding no English words. For in English, the words "You are saying" would not be a complete sentence. The English word "say" is always transitive, requiring an object in the sentence. In other words, the sentence must tell what is said. Thus, when you look at various English translations, you will find distinct differences.

We would be remiss if we did not consider the question, in light of other sources as well, as to whether Jesus actually considered himself the king of the Jews. And we must consider both ideas in the question: first, there is the question of kingship at all, and secondly there is the question whether he is king of the Jews. He admitted to being God's Anointed One, when Peter declared so in answer to Jesus' question, "Who do you say I am?" (Matthew 16:15-20) But significantly, Jesus used this as a segue to say, "I will build my church."

All four gospels have Pilate asking Jesus, "Are you the king of the Jews," Mt 27:11, Mk 15:2, Lk 23:3, Jn 18:33. And in all four gospels Jesus' answer contains the words σὺ λέγεις. But The three synoptic gospels have no detail in the conversation between Jesus and Pilate; they have Σὺ λέγεις as Jesus' entire answer. The gospel of John, however, it takes four verses after Pilate asks him if he is the king of the Jews, to cover Jesus' answers and Pilate's responses. In John, the words Σὺ λέγεις are found both immediately after Pilate's question, in verse 18:34, which all translations interpret as a question, "Are you saying this...?" and then also three verses later the words Σὺ λέγεις are found as a statement, "You are saying that..." Thus John's gospel is by far the most detailed in its recounting of Jesus' conversation with Pilate, and sheds the most light on the question at hand, that is, whether Jesus considered himself the king of the Jews.

In John's gospel, Jesus admits to being a king, but makes three qualifications to his kingship: (1.) His kingship is not of this world, 18:36; (2.) His kingship is not from this place, 18:36; and (3.) kingship is not the reason he was born into the world, 18:37.

Throughout Jesus' ministry, he urged secrecy upon those he healed, and upon demons, that they not reveal who he was. After the feeding of the 5,000, John tells us Jesus knew that many in the crowd wanted to come and take him to make him king by force (6:15). Jesus circumvented even the possibility of that. It seems that the possibility of his being King of the Jews was to be first offered to and considered by the Sanhedrin. (Jesus himself said they sit in Moses' seat, Matthew 23:2.) If they were willing, John was the Elijah who was to come, Matthew 11:14. But the leaders were not willing. They alone did not submit to John's baptism, Luke 7:29-30. True, when Jesus made his triumphal entry into Jerusalem, he did not refute or controvert those hailing the arrival of the Son of David, the King of Israel. Then when tried by the Sanhedrin, Jesus acknowledged being the Messiah, the Son of David, and hence the King of the Jews. The Sanhedrin however rejected him as such, and thereby rejected him on behalf of the whole nation of Israel. Then kicked in Jesus' prophecy that "the kingdom will be taken away from you and given to a people who will produce its fruit," Matthew 21:43. So by the time Jesus was tried by Pilate, Jesus had ceased to be officially offered as the Messiah. Yet could it be that God in his patience once again was holding out his Son to the leaders through Pilate: "Would you have me release to you the King of the Jews?" But they once again responded, "No, let his blood be on us and on our children!" Shudder at the words. And so it would be.

Does this leave open the possibility that Jesus answered affirmatively to Pilate that he was the king of the Jews? I think not. Pilate's reaction is telling. We are told that Pilate is astonished that Jesus gave no answer, not to even a single charge. You see, according to Mark 15:26, "king of the Jews" was the charge against him that was made notice of over his head at his crucifixion, the charge for which the Sanhedrin executed him. Thus, we may say that the Sanhedrin alleged that he claimed to be king of the Jews, and Pilate asked him if this charge was true, and Jesus says to Pilate, "Are you alleging so?" In Roman law, an averment when unrebutted, thereafter stood as valid. Jesus did not rebut, to the astonishment of Pilate. But this was Jesus' destiny: "As a sheep before its shearers is silent, so he did not open his mouth." Jesus neither confirmed nor denied the charges. Prophecy states that Jesus would not answer the charges. And he did not answer.

Something else to consider, is that Jesus had already consistently avoided disclosing that he was the king of the Jews, avoided disclosing it to the general Jewish populace. Why would he now readily admit it to the Roman governor?

I concluded ultimately to render the phrase Σὺ λέγεις as I did, because there is no compelling evidence from other Biblical Greek usage that it is an idiom for simply "Yes." I have been shown some Rabbinic examples where it was understood as a Yes, and some where it would obviously not be understood as a yes. Therefore, I have to conclude that it is not a yes of any kind. At the same time, it is not a denial. Which sometimes some people might take as a yes.

But as for translation, it should be translated literally, and left at that. No helper words should be added that might imply an affirmative answer. Because it was not always an affirmative answer.

Here are a couple Rabbinic examples:

As cited by Thayer in 1894, pp. 40-41:

Jerusalem Talmud, ed. Wagenseil, Tract Sota, p. 1001; see also tract. Kilaim, fol. 32, col. 2. Thayer states it this way:

"The story relates to the famous Judah 'Hakkodesh," who in the second century is reputed to have codified the Mishna. The substance of it ... runs as follows: "When Rabbi Judah was on his dying bed and the fatal hour was at hand, the inhabitants of Sepphoris (where he dwelt) in an excess of sorrow spread abroad the saying, "Whoever shall tell us that the Rabbi is dead we will slay." Therefore, when he had breathed his last, the son of Kaphra betakes himself to them, with head covered and raiment torn, and addresses them as follows: "Holy men and heavenly powers laid hold at the same time on the Tables of the Law, and each party endeavored to get possession of them, but the heavenly powers prevailed, and they carried off the Tables." Thereupon the citizens of Sepphoris inquire, "Has Rabbi Judah fallen asleep?" The son of Kaphra replies, "Ye have said." Then they rent their robes, etc."

Thayer footnotes: "The story is also given in Schwab's French translation of the Talmud, vol. ii., p. 316 (Paris, 1878)

On p. 42 Thayer suggests a Hebrew phrase such as ken dibarta as the equivalent.

Here is a blog entry that was brought to my attention, apparently posted by a Matt Colvin. I think it has some very good points.

Alastair has asked me to blog about something Jesus said during His earthly ministry. This being Lent, I thought it might be good to focus on something he repeats three times during the Passion week. Thrice Jesus answers a question by su eipas "you have said (it)," or su legeis "you say (it)". With this reply, He is answering momentous questions: "Is it I [who am to betray you], Lord?" by Judas (Mt. 26:25); "Are you the Christ, the Son of the Blessed One?" by the High Priest (Mt. 26:64); and "You are the king of the Jews?" by Pilate (Mt. 27:11, Mk. 15:2, Lk. 23:3, Jn. 18:37). The reply to all three is mistranslated by many Bibles as "It is as you say," i.e. a direct affirmation of the proposition put in the question. It is amusing to look at the NKJV and find "It is as you say" – the italics indicating the translators' supplements.

David Daube, in an article on Judas, traces Jesus' utterance to the Hebrew 'amarta, which Strack-Billerbeck equate with wie du sagst, so ist es: "as you say, so it is." But this is not the true meaning of the phrase. Daube cites an episode from t. B. K. Kelim 1:6, which concerns a dispute over whether a certain entrance to the Temple had required a washing of hands and feet. After the war with Rome, Rabbi Simon the Modest, in the presence of Rabbi Eliezer ben Hyrcanus, professed that he used to enter that particular gate without washing. "Whereupon Eliezer, a giant in learning and piety yet rudely domineering, asked him which was more esteemed, he or the High Priest. Simon kept silent. Eliezer: "You are ashamed to admit that the High Priest's dog was more esteemed than you." Simon: "Rabbi, you have said it." Eliezer: "By the Temple service, they would break even the High Priest's head with their clubs [were he to enter unwashed]; what would you do that the guard might not find you?"

R. Simon's use of 'amarta is a reply to Eliezer's rude comparison of himself with the High Priest's dog. It is a mistake to read it as "Yes, you're absolutely right." It is far more subtle than that: something more like, "I take no responsibility for the proposition you have just put. It came out of your mouth, not mine. To say more would be to cross a line into impropriety."

Consider: a straight "Yep" would be absolutely inappropriate in Judas' case. "One of you is going to betray me." Judas: "Is it I, Rabbi?" Jesus: "Bingo." This would be mere fatalism, not Biblical prophecy. Judas becomes a sort of Oedipus, betraying the Messiah malgré lui. But Jesus' answer is a non-denial, not a straight affirmation. Judas will betray, but not because Jesus has compelled him.

The answers given on the witness stand before the Sanhedrin and Pilate would be less troublesome if they were reduced to "yes." But there, too, Jesus has His reasons for evasion. Of course, Jesus is the Messiah, the Son of the Blessed One. And the reaction of His opponents to his use of su eipas is to treat it as a "yes." But this is because in their eyes only a denial of His Messiahship would do. As for Pilate, N.T. Wright points out that his question is in the form of a statement: "You are the king of the Jews" – su ei ho basileus tw'n Ioudaiwn. The answer "Thou sayest" has a further nuance to it: You think you are asking, but you are in fact declaring. Pilate will end by writing Jesus' title on a sign over His head.

Jesus' answer before the Sanhedrin and Pilate is of a piece with the rest of His earthly ministry. He never denies His messiahship, but He seldom asserts it verbally. Rather, by His actions, He lets the Father and Spirit testify of Him, while He testifies of Them. Of course, He is the king of the Jews. But recall to what lengths he had gone to avoid oral professions of it. When John's disciples asked him if He was the Coming One, "or do we wait for another", Jesus directed them to "Tell John what you have seen and heard," and adverted to His miracles and His preaching of the kingdom. When confronted by the Pharisees about the crowds who were hailing Him as Messiah, He replies that if they do not do it, the stones will cry out. He tells the Jews that "If I testify about myself, my testimony is not true...There is one who testifies." What wonder then that when on the witness stand, Jesus still refuses to testify? "You will see the Son of Man coming in the clouds, and sitting at the right hand of God." The Father will vindicate Him. He does not need to argue His way to a "not guilty" verdict.

Klaas Schilder likes to point out that though Jesus is in the dock, it is really the Sanhedrin and Pilate who are on trial. Jesus is pronouncing sentence on them. He has come to Israel and done the works of His Father. All Israel is on trial to see what she thinks of God's anointed. Peter passed the same test with his profession: "You are the Christ, the son of the living God," and Jesus congratulated him. But then He immediately commanded his disciples to tell no one (Mt. 16:20).

The Jews of Jesus' day took His reticence for a "yes": "What further need of witnesses? You have heard the blasphemy." But many modern Jews take it as a "no." A. Kolatch, The Second Jewish Book of Why, p. 71:

Many Jewish scholars believe that Jesus considered himself a prophet only. They reject the contention of Christian scholars that when Jesus used the phrase "Son of Man" in his preaching (first mentioned in Daniel 7:13, where the Aramaic phrase bar enash is used), he was referring to himself as the Messiah. The phrase "Son of Man," in the Jewish view, is used in the third person, and more likely than not, when Jesus used the phrase he was referring to someone other than himself. Jewish scholars also point to the fact that there is little evidence in the Synoptic Gospels (Matthew, Mark, Luke) – the earliest account of the life of Jesus – that Jesus regarded himself as the Messiah.

"Little evidence"?? What kind of evidence did Kolatch want? Miracles?

The trial continues to this day. Who do you say that He is?

Matt Colvin holds a PhD in Classics from Cornell University, and has published articles in Oxford Studies in Ancient Philosophy and the Classical Quarterly. He has worked as a quarry truck driver, and a teacher at Mars Hill Academy in Cincinnati, OH (to which he will return this fall). He blogs at Fragmenta.

The above Rabbinic example shows that the idiom does not mean "It is as you say." It really is a non-answer. Sometimes it was understood as yes, sometimes not. So, we should just translate it literally.

There is no example of this exact phrase in the Septuagint that is an answer to a yes-or-no question. What instances there are in the LXX are below:

1 Kings 3:23 Σὺ λέγεις means "you are claiming." This is the famous dispute between the two women as to whose son it was that was the living baby, and King Solomon wisely settled it. He said to one of them, "You are claiming 'My son is the living one.'" Then in the same verse, σὺ λέγεις appears again, when he says to the other woman, "You say, 'No, on the contrary, my son is the living one.'"

1 Kings 18:11 Καὶ νῦν σὺ λέγεις "And now you are saying, 'Go tell your master...'"

1 Kings 18:14 you are saying, same as 18:11

2 Esdras 15:12 οὕτως ποιήσομεν, καθὼς σὺ λέγεις. “This we have done, just as you say.”

2 Esdras 16:8 καὶ ἀπέστειλα πρὸς αὐτὸν λέγων Οὐκ ἐγενήθη ὡς οἱ λόγοι οὗτοι, οὓς σὺ λέγεις, ὅτι ἀπὸ καρδίας σου σὺ ψεύδῃ αὐτούς. Here it means “these words which you are saying.” Nothing like “yes.”

Amos 7:16 καὶ νῦν ἄκουε λόγον κυρίου Σὺ λέγεις Μὴ προφήτευσ ἐπὶ τὸν Ἰσραὴλ καὶ οὐ μὴ ὀχλαγωγῆσῃς ἐπὶ τὸν οἶκον Ἰακωβ· “And now, listen: A word of the Lord: You say, “Do not prophesy against Israel...”

Jeremiah 39:25 καὶ σὺ λέγεις πρὸς με Κτῆσαι σεαυτῷ ἀγρὸν ἀργυρίου· And you say to me, “Buy yourself the field with silver”

Jeremiah 39:36 καὶ νῦν οὕτως εἶπεν κύριος ὁ θεὸς Ἰσραὴλ ἐπὶ τὴν πόλιν, ἣν σὺ λέγεις Παραδοθήσεται εἰς χεῖρας βασιλέως Βαβυλωνος ἐν μαχαίρᾳ καὶ ἐν λιμῷ καὶ ἐν ἀποστολῇ “And now thus the Lord God of Israel has spoken concerning this city, of which you say, ‘It shall be delivered into the hands of the king of Babylon by the sword...”

Jeremiah 39:43 καὶ κτηθήσονται ἔτι ἀγροὶ ἐν τῇ γῇ, ἣ σὺ λέγεις Ἐβατός ἐστιν ἀπὸ ἀνθρώπων καὶ κτήνους καὶ παρεδόθησαν εἰς χεῖρας Χαλδαίων. And there shall still yet be fields bought in the land, about which you say, ‘It shall be destitute of man and beast...”

Jeremiah 47:16 καὶ εἶπεν Γοδολιας πρὸς Ἰωαναν Μὴ ποιήσῃς τὸ πρᾶγμα τοῦτο, ὅτι ψευδὴ σὺ λέγεις περὶ Ἰσραὴλ. But Godolias said to Joanan, “Do not do the thing, for you are saying lies about Israel.”

DOES THE GREEK VERB ΦΟΒΕΩ REQUIRE AN OBJECT?

Some interpreters maintain that the Greek word in Mark 16:8 for "they were afraid," ἐφοβοῦντο, should be translated "they were afraid of..." They maintain that this verb always requires an object. The answer to this question would have much bearing on whether the longer ending of Mark naturally follows, or if the original ending was lost.

Friederich Blass says in § 149 that this verb (he lists verbs in present infinitive form, i.e., φοβεῖσθαι) is usually transitive. Bauer's lexicon does comment that "for they were afraid of..." is an odd way to end the eighth verse. My opinion is that, if this verb is required to be transitive there, it is the guards that they were afraid of, since the guards were probably still present at the tomb. See my Diatessaron.

Further, some say that it is odd for a sentence to end with γάρ, but this is not true. There is nothing unusual about γάρ being placed either before or after other words. Even in English this word order would not be odd. The word γάρ is an explanatory word which might nicely be rendered as "they were afraid, you see."

The verb φοβέω - phobéō is in the imperfect in Mark 16:8, so I have located all occurrences of this verb in the imperfect to be found in the Greek New Testament, and typed them below. It can be seen that only very rarely is φοβέω - phobéō not transitive. The intransitive ones are Mark 10:32, only one out of twelve.

ἐφοβοῦντο (third person, plural, imperfect, as in 16:8)

Mark 9:32 οἱ δὲ ἡγνόουν τὸ ῥῆμα, καὶ ἐφοβοῦντο αὐτὸν ἐπερωτῆσαι.

<sup>32</sup>But they did not understand the statement, and they were afraid to query him.

Mark 10:32 Ἦσαν δὲ ἐν τῇ ὁδῷ ἀναβαίνοντες εἰς Ἱεροσόλυμα, καὶ ἦν προάγων αὐτοὺς ὁ Ἰησοῦς, καὶ ἐθαμβοῦντο, οἱ δὲ ἀκολουθοῦντες ἐφοβοῦντο.

<sup>32</sup>And they were on the road, going up to Jerusalem, and Jesus was going on ahead of them; they were stunned, while those following were fearing. And taking the Twelve aside again, he began to tell them the things about to happen to him.

Mark 11:18 καὶ ἤκουσαν οἱ ἀρχιερεῖς καὶ οἱ γραμματεῖς, καὶ ἐζήτουν πῶς αὐτὸν ἀπολέσωσιν· ἐφοβοῦντο γὰρ αὐτόν

<sup>18</sup>And the chief priests and the Torah scholars heard, and they were looking for a way to kill him, for they feared him, Mark 11:32 ἀλλὰ εἰπόμεν, Ἐξ ἀνθρώπων; – ἐφοβοῦντο τὸν ὄχλον, ἅπαντες γὰρ εἶχον τὸν Ἰωάννην ὄντως ὅτι προφήτης ἦν.

<sup>32</sup>On the other hand, dare we say, 'From human beings'?' (They were fearing the people, for they all held that John really was a prophet.)

Mark 16:8 καὶ ἐξελθοῦσαι ἔφυγον ἀπὸ τοῦ μνημείου, εἶχεν γὰρ αὐτὰς τρόμος καὶ ἔκστασις· καὶ οὐδενὶ οὐδὲν εἶπαν, ἐφοβοῦντο γάρ.

Luke 9:45b καὶ ἐφοβοῦντο ἐρωτῆσαι αὐτὸν περὶ τοῦ ῥήματος τούτου.

And they were afraid to ask him about this statement.

Luke 22:2 καὶ ἐζήτουν οἱ ἀρχιερεῖς καὶ οἱ γραμματεῖς τὸ πῶς ἀνέλωσιν αὐτόν, ἐφοβοῦντο γὰρ τὸν λαόν.

<sup>2</sup>and the chief priests and the Torah scholars were still yet looking for a way to put him to death, because they were still yet fearing the people.

John 9:22 ταῦτα εἶπαν οἱ γονεῖς αὐτοῦ ὅτι ἐφοβοῦντο τοὺς Ἰουδαίους, ἥδη γὰρ συνετέθειντο οἱ Ἰουδαῖοι ἵνα ἐάν τις αὐτὸν ὁμολογήσῃ Χριστόν, ἀποσυνάγωγος γένηται.

<sup>22</sup>His parents said these things because they were fearing the Jews. For the Jews had already decided that anyone who acknowledged Him to be the Christ, would be put out of the synagogue.

Acts 5:26b ἐφοβοῦντο γὰρ τὸν λαόν, μὴ λιθασθῶσιν.

for they were afraid of being stoned by the people.

Acts 9:26 καὶ πάντες ἐφοβοῦντο αὐτόν, μὴ πιστεύοντες ὅτι ἐστὶν μαθητής.

and they were all afraid of him, for they did not believe that he was a disciple.

ἐφοβούμην (first person, singular, imperfect)

Luke 19:21 ἐφοβούμην γὰρ σε, ὅτι ἄνθρωπος αὐστηρὸς εἶ,

<sup>21</sup>For I was afraid of you, since you are an austere man

ἐφοβεῖτο (third person, singular, imperfect)

Mark 6:20 ὁ γὰρ Ἡρώδης ἐφοβεῖτο τὸν Ἰωάννην, εἰδὼς αὐτὸν ἄνδρα δίκαιον καὶ ἅγιον,

WHAT IS THE AUTHENTIC ENDING OF THE GOSPEL OF MARK?

Here is a composite of all the endings of the gospel of Mark:

The Short Ending:

(L): "Where you shall find also these things." (Φέρετε τοῦ καὶ ταῦτα:)

And all the things announced they shortly reported to those around Peter. And after these things also Jesus himself sent out through them, from the rising as far as the setting of the sun, the holy and enduring proclamation of eternal salvation. Amen.

The Longer Ending:

9 And having risen early on the first day of the week, he appeared first to Mary the Magdalene, from whom he had expelled seven demons.

10 She went and reported to the ones mourning and weeping, who had been with him.

11 And they, when they heard that he was living and was seen by her, did not believe it.

12 And after these things he was manifested in a different form to two of them as they were walking along in the country.

13 And those went and reported to the rest; neither did they believe those.

14 And finally, once when they had reclined, he was manifested to the Eleven themselves, and he denounced their disbelief and hardness of heart, in that they had not believed the ones who had seen him risen.

(W) And they excused themselves, saying, "This age of lawlessness and unbelief is under Satan, who does not allow the truth and power of God to prevail over the unclean things dominated by the spirits. Therefore reveal your righteousness now." They spoke to Christ; and Christ responded to them, "The limit of the years of Satan's power is completed, but other terrible things draw near. And for those who have sinned I was handed over to death, that they might return to the truth and no longer sin, in order that they might inherit the spiritual and incorruptible glory of righteousness in heaven. But after you have gone into all the world,..."

15 And he said to them, "After you have gone into all the world, proclaim the good news to the whole creation.

16 "The person who believes and is baptized will be saved, but the person who does not believe will be condemned.

17 "And these signs will accompany those who believe: in my name they will drive out demons, they will speak in new tongues,

18 "they will pick up serpents, and should they drink something deadly it would in no wise hurt them; they will lay their hands on sick ones, and they will have health again."

19 And so the Lord after speaking to them was taken up to heaven, and sat at the right hand of God.

20 And they went forth and preached everywhere, the Lord co-working and confirming the word by the signs accompanying.

The last twelve verses of Mark as found in the King James Version, verses 9-20, are known as The Longer Ending of Mark. The paragraph before verse 9 is called The Shorter Ending, and is found in one Italic manuscript as the only ending to the gospel, and in some other manuscripts is found in combination with verses 9 through 12 as shown. The paragraph beginning with (W) remains in only one Greek manuscript today, Codex Washingtoniensis, or "W," although Jerome speaks of others extant in his time. These latter two passages are so undoubtedly inauthentic that they will not be examined here.

Mark 16:9-20, known as "The Longer Ending of Mark:"

PROBLEM 1: The connection between verse 8 and verses 9-20 is abrupt and awkward. Verse 9 begins with the masculine nominative participle anastas, which demands for its antecedent a masculine topic, i.e., Jesus; but the subject of the last sentence of verse 8 is the women, not Jesus" (Zondervan's NIV Bible Commentary, Vol II p 204):

8 And going out, they fled from the tomb. For trembling shock was holding them; and they said nothing to anyone, because THEY were afraid.

9 And having risen early on the first day of the week, HE appeared first to Mary the Magdalene, from whom he had expelled seven demons.

There is a lack of transition from the plural female topic of verse 8 to the masculine singular of verse 9. That is not how Greek worked. That is not even how English works. Even by English rules, when you change the subject of narrative or conversation, you have to use a proper noun. If you change the subject with a pronoun, no one knows who or what you are talking about. This problem is one indicator that verses 9-20 were not originally part of the gospel of Mark.

PROBLEM 2: The last twelve verses of the gospel of Mark as found in the King James Version, or footnoted in recent translations, (chapter 16, verses 9-20) are not found in the two earliest complete Greek manuscripts of the New Testament. As the UBS textual commentary states, they are also absent from many of the oldest translations of Mark into other languages, for example, the Latin, Sinaitic Syriac, and Georgian translations. Clement of Alexandria and Origen show no knowledge of the existence of these verses; furthermore Eusebius and Jerome attest that the passage was absent from almost all Greek copies of Mark known to them. The original form of the Eusebian sections (drawn up by Ammonius) makes no provision for numbering sections of the text after 16:8. Not a few manuscripts which contain the passage have scribal notes stating that older Greek copies lack it, and in other witnesses the passage is marked with asterisks or obeli, the conventional signs used by copyists to indicate an inauthentic addition to a document. Other manuscripts which do contain the passage place it in differing locations in Mark, and still another Greek manuscript that contains the long ending has a large addition following verse 14. There is also another ending entirely, a shorter one, found in other Greek manuscripts. Add to all this the internal consideration that none of the endings are written in Mark's style and vocabulary. Another major internal consideration is how awkwardly verse 9 connects the line of thought from verse 8, or rather fails to connect.

See Metzger, Bruce M., A Textual Commentary on the Greek New Testament, on behalf of and in cooperation with the Editorial Committee of the United Bible Societies' Greek New Testament: Kurt Aland, Matthew Black, Carlo M. Martini, Bruce M. Metzger, and Allen Wikgren (Stuttgart, United Bible Societies, Corrected Edition, 1975) for the details, which are compelling evidence in favor of the spuriousness of the passage. The Editorial Committee concludes:

"Thus, on the basis of good external evidence and strong internal considerations it appears that the earliest ascertainable form of the Gospel of Mark ended with 16:8. (Three possibilities are open: (a) the evangelist intended to close his Gospel at this place; or (b) the Gospel was never finished; or, as seems most probable, (c) the Gospel accidentally lost its last leaf before it was multiplied by transcription.) At the same time, however, out of deference to the evident antiquity of the longer ending and its importance in the textual tradition of the Gospel, the Committee decided to include verses 9-20 as part of the text, but to enclose them within double square brackets to indicate that they are the work of an author other than the evangelist."

James Snapp, the main researcher of evidence in favor of the longer ending of Mark, points out that "Mark 16:9-20 was utilized in the 180's by Irenaeus, in the 170's by Tatian, around 160 by Justin, and probably by the unknown author of Epistula Apostolorum, around 150. Many other patristic writers, such as Hippolytus, Ambrose, and Augustine, also used the passage."

Eusebius of Caesarea, a church father who died in the year 339, said, in "Questiones ad Marinum" published by Cardinal Mai, in his "Nova Patrum Bibliotheca" (Romae, 1847,) vol. IV, pp. 255-7 the following:

Πῶς παρὰ μὲν τῷ Ματθαίῳ ὁψέ σαββάτων φαίνεται ἐγγεγερμένος ὁ Σωτὴρ, παρὰ δὲ τῷ Μάρκῳ πρῶτῃ τῇ μιᾷ τῶν σαββάτων.

The key section is translated as follows: "For, on the one hand, the person who rejects the passage itself – the pericope which says this – might say that it does not appear in all copies of the Gospel of Mark. At any rate, the accurate copies end their text of the Marcan account with the words of the young man who appeared to the women and said to them, "Do not fear. You are seeking Jesus the Nazarene" and so forth, proceeding to where it says, 'And having heard, they fled, and they said nothing to anyone, for they were afraid.'

"That is where the text does end, in almost all copies of the Gospel according to Mark. The material that comes next seldom appears; it is in some copies but not in all, and may be spurious, especially since it implies a contradiction to the witness of the other Gospels. This, then, is what someone might say to avoid and completely do away with a superfluous question.

"On the other hand, someone else, who dares to set aside nothing at all which appears, by whatever means, in the text of the gospels, says that the reading, like many others, is double, and each of the two must be accepted, in that they are approved in the opinion of the faithful and pious; not this one instead of that one, or that one rather than this one.

"Well then, allowing this portion [of Mark] to be really authentic, our business is to interpret the sense of the passage."

End Quotation of Eusebius. You can read this on page 113, download Roger Pearse's PDF of this free here.

We see from the above that scribes were far more afraid to OMIT anything, however suspect it was, than to ADD something to the text.

Which is another prop for the tenet, that the shorter reading is generally to be preferred. That tenet has that going for it, that scribes were more afraid to remove anything than to add something.

I say that, since Eusebius indicates that some people stated that the Gospel of Mark ended at verse 16:8 in "almost all the copies" in the 4th century, it bolsters the reputation of the two or three manuscripts currently extant which omit the long ending of Mark, and these must therefore be considered the most significant manuscripts for consideration. Thus we can say, that though a majority of late copies now contain it, the "majority text" used to omit it. What value is there, then, in a "majority text" derived from counting up only the recent and late copies, when in the 3rd and 4th centuries, the majority of manuscripts read so differently from the present majority?

The conclusion is, most Textual Criticism scholars agree, we must "weigh" each manuscript and witness, not "count" them. Thus, the testimony of Codex Vaticanus is more important than the testimony of 4,000 cursives from the much later centuries.

Some might refer us to John William Burgon, and his book, "The last twelve verses of the Gospel according to S. Mark vindicated against recent critical objectors established.," pp. 41-51. In it Burgon attempts to lessen the impact of the testimony of Eusebius and Jerome about the the longer ending of Mark not being found in the accurate copies, and being absent in almost all the copies of Mark.

Burgon spends some time questioning the authenticity of the document provided by Cardinal Mai entitled "Quaestiones ad Marinum," and its quotations of Eusebius. Why? Because it appears to be a CONDENSED version of Eusebius, Burgon says. But then, on p. 44, Burgon says, "Let it, however, be candidly admitted that there seems to be no reason for supposing that whenever the lost work of Eusebius comes to light, (and it has been seen within about 300 years,) it will exhibit anything essentially different from what is contained in the famous passage which has given rise to so much debate,..."

In the succeeding pages, Burgon's main point seems to be that Eusebius is playing Devil's advocate, that "some may say that..." Well, Eusebius does not contradict or refute or dismiss those statements from such advocate.

Burgon's purpose was to show that Eusebius did not question the authenticity of the passage. In fact, Burgon himself quotes Eusebius, on p. 45, where Eusebius says about the last 12 verses of Mark, Καὶ δὴ τοῦδε τοῦ μέρους συγχωρουμένου εἶναι ἀληθοῦς, προσήκει τὸν νοῦν διερμηνεύειν τοῦ ἀναγνώσματος: "Well then, allowing this portion to be really authentic, our business is to interpret the sense of the passage."

Thus, Burgon himself shows us that Eusebius did in fact question the authenticity of the longer ending of Mark. Eusebius only allows for the sake of argument that it is "really genuine." That does not sound to me like Eusebius believed it to be authentic. Eusebius did not include the passage in his "Eusebian Canons."

Some interpreters of this Eusebius passage make a point something along these lines: that Eusebius was only quoting other people's statement that the longer ending of Mark was absent from most of the copies, and thus we cannot say for certain that it was a fact that it was so absent. But would Eusebius really allow such a weighty statement to go uncontradicted, if the statement were not true? I think it is obvious that he would not. Thus it is safe to conclude that it was common knowledge, and accepted as fact in the 4th century, that many, if not most, Greek manuscripts at the time, did not contain Mark 16:9-20.

The trail of evidence of the Longer Ending being added to Mark is fairly clear:

Eusebius (4th century) in his letter to Marinum shows indication that most manuscripts of Mark in his day ended at 16:8, and did not contain the Longer Ending of Mark. The Eusebian canons did not include 16:9-20 either.

Victor of Antioch (5th century) in his commentary on the gospel of Mark admits that the verses 16:9-20 "do not stand alongside most copies." But he says that he and others added the Long Ending to any manuscripts they found that did not contain it, because they judged the verses to be "in truth." This comment appears in many minuscules. [Note that Victor is not saying "Egyptian manuscripts" lack the Longer Ending of Mark. He is 'of Antioch.']

Severus of Antioch (520 CE), in his Homily 77, says at that time "In the more accurate copies, therefore, the gospel according to Mark has the end until the [statement]: "For they were afraid." [verse 8] But in some (copies) these things, too, stand in addition: And having arisen early on the first day of the week he appeared first to Mary Magdalene, from whom he had cast out seven demons."

PROBLEM 3: The passage contains a statement that is contrary to the gospel of Luke.

The statement is found in verses 12 and 13 about the two walking to Emmaus:

12 And after these things he was manifested in a different form to two of them who were walking along in the country.

13 And those went and reported to the rest; neither did they believe those.

This is contrary to Luke 24:13, 33-35 where we read:

13 And behold, two of them during that same day were making their way toward a village sixty furlongs from Jerusalem, which was called Emmaus...

33 And they got up and returned that same hour to Jerusalem, and found the Eleven and those with them assembled together,

34 saying, 'The Lord really has risen, and he appeared to Simon.'

35 And the two told what things happened on the way, and how Jesus was recognized by them when he broke the bread.

Luke says the rest responded "The Lord really has risen," thus agreeing with the two. The others agreed that Jesus was alive, because Simon Peter had already come back and told them the same thing as the two were telling them. But "Mark" 16:13 says the rest disbelieved the two. Thus, Mark 16:12-13 contradicts what Luke 24:33-

35 says. So then, we either have to believe that the scriptures contain an error, or else believe that one of these passages is not scripture. The problem of the contradiction is solved, by concluding from the objective external evidence that the longer ending of Mark is not scripture, therefore we do not have a case here of scripture contradicting other scripture.

Some say that there is not a contradiction between Mark in the TR and Luke, because later in Luke, in 24:40-41, it says

"<sup>40</sup>And when he had said this, he showed them his hands and his feet. <sup>41</sup>But, since they were still not believing, out of joy and astonishment, he said to them, "What do you have to eat in this place?"

But I say this is another event. The passages I already compared, are talking about the same event. That is the more legitimate comparison.

There are other contradictions involving the ending of Mark also, that do not show themselves until you do a harmonization of the gospels, as I have. My harmonization, called Palmer's Diatessaron, will come out when I have finished translating all four gospels. But for now, see the excerpt at the end of this document, of the resurrection portion of the existing Palmer's Diatessaron.

PROBLEM 4: The passage contains another statement that is impossible to harmonize with the other gospels. Mark 16:9 says, "...he appeared first to Mary the Magdalene, from whom he had expelled seven demons."

This statement is impossible to reconcile with the other gospels, particularly John. It appears that Jesus first appeared to all the other women EXCEPT Mary the Magdalene, as they were heading back from the tomb to the apostles. Then, Jesus went back to the tomb and appeared to Mary the Magdalene alone, since she had stayed longer than the other women at the tomb. See my harmony of the gospels.

PROBLEM 5: The passage can be easily taken to teach doctrines that are contrary to teachings found elsewhere in the New Testament.

Verses 17-18 say Jesus said,

<sup>17</sup>And these signs will accompany those who believe: in my name they will drive out demons, they will speak in new tongues, <sup>18</sup>they will pick up serpents, and should they drink something deadly, it would in no wise hurt them; they will lay their hands on sick ones, and they will have health again.

In the book of I Corinthians, chapter 12, verses 7-11, 29-31, on the other hand, the apostle Paul teaches that not all believers will speak in tongues and not all believers will have the gift of healing. A new Christian, unfamiliar with the rest of scripture, might question whether he has truly believed, thinking, "These things have not happened in my life, so I must not be a real Christian." How discouraging this was to me personally at one time. And if the new Christian were to deliberately drink deadly poison, he would be putting God to the test, as Satan urged Christ to do when he suggested that he throw himself off the highest point of the temple. Jesus responded that although the scriptures promise the believer that God's angels will not allow his foot to strike against a stone, it would be sin to deliberately put oneself in harm's way (for example, drinking deadly poison), for the scriptures also say, "Thou shalt not put the Lord your God to a test." But, in violation of this prohibition, there is a practice by some churches, based on this passage, of handling deadly snakes in church. Scores of Christians therefore die each year from snake bites in church, giving unbelievers a legitimate and justified basis to mock Christians.

SUMMARY: The evidence, both external and internal, is conclusive that the Mark 16:9-20 pericope is not part of the original Gospel of Mark. In addition, it cannot be harmonized with the Gospel of Luke. It appears that the author of Mark 16:9-20 considered verse 8 to be an inappropriate ending and felt the need to add to it a better conclusion. I suggest that the following is what he did: In verses 9-14, he summarized the endings of Matthew, Luke and John, plus Acts, and perhaps Colossians 1:23, but carelessly. Then the contents of verses 15-20 are for the most part taken from the book of Acts. He took some historical happenings of miraculous events such as tongues speaking, healing of the sick, and the apostle Paul being bitten by a snake but not being harmed, and tacked them on following Mark 16:8 because he knew from his vantage point looking back, that these are what in fact happened next. The problem is that the way it is written, he has in effect put them into Jesus' mouth as if Jesus was saying that all people who believe in him would have these things happen to them.

It is true that there is a great deal of early testimony from early church writers in favor of the long ending of Mark. James E. Snapp Jr. is one of the main collectors of that evidence, and you can download his document here. This evidence, however, does not convince me that the long ending of Mark was penned by Mark. What it shows is that verses 9-20 were added quite early.

In view of these things, I did not include Mark 16:9-20 in either the text of the gospel of Mark, nor in my "Palmer's Diatessaron." I believe it is very clear that Mark 16:9-20 is not scripture, but rather belongs on the list of New Testament pseudepigrapha.<sup>375</sup> I believe that to include Mark 16:9-20 in the text of the New Testament does far more harm than good. I am praying that New Testament editors and translators around the world in all languages will soon standardize the text of their products in this matter and omit Mark 16:9-20. With the firm belief that I am speaking from the grace and gifts God has given me for the edification of the church, I urge Bible translators and editors everywhere not to include Mark 16:9-20 in the text of their products.

I believe it is certain that Mark intended to end his gospel at verse 16:8. There is no "lost" portion of the gospel of Mark.

Chapter 1

Introduction

The Birth of John the Baptizer Foretold

<sup>5</sup>It came about in the time of Herod, king of Judea, that there was a priest, Zechariah by name, of the rotation of Abijah.<sup>377</sup> He had a wife from the daughters of Aaron, and her name was Elizabeth. <sup>6</sup>Both were upright in the sight of God, walking blamelessly in all the commandments and requirements of the Lord. <sup>7</sup>But a child they did not have, because Elizabeth was barren. And they were both advanced in age.

<sup>8</sup>And it came about, that once when his rotation was on duty and he was serving as priest before God, his lot fell <sup>9</sup>(normal custom for the priesthood) to go into the temple of the Lord, and to burn incense.<sup>378</sup>

NOTE regarding the critical apparatus in these footnotes. Due to feedback I have received about what manuscripts I cite, that there was some "cherry-picking" of which minuscules to cite, I have changed my footnotes. In order to make it objective, I now use only one criteria that is objective: I only cite witnesses 8th century or earlier, and I cite all witnesses 8th century or earlier that I have access to. The result is very revealing.

<sup>376</sup> 1:2 Or, "as delivered to us by those who from the beginning were eyewitnesses and servants of the word." The word I translated "became" is the Greek word γίνομαι - gínomai, which usually means became, or came about, or happen. But Luke often uses γίνομαι in place of the simple word in Greek for "to be." That is why most translations translate it here as simply "were." But the reason I did not translate it that way, is that it would result in a non-Lukan use of the title "the Word" for Jesus. For you see, if we say, they were eyewitnesses and servants of the word from the beginning, that would be the only possible explanation of the idea of "being eyewitness of the word." That means they beheld Jesus as the word, in the Johannine concept of I John 1:1 and John 1. Otherwise, what would it mean? That they saw Jesus write the word down? But I do not believe that is what Luke is saying. I believe he is saying that the men who were the first eyewitness of Jesus, were given the trust of being stewards of the word, of the message. See Acts 1:21-22, which Luke also wrote. There we read how it was decided that the original eyewitnesses became official stewards of the word.

<sup>378</sup> 1:9 It is said that a priest received only once in his lifetime, if at all, the privilege to enter inside the shrine to burn incense. The Levites were divided into 48 semi-annual rotations. So a particular priest's rotation was on duty only about twice a year. Then as to the individual who would go inside to burn incense, it was the custom of the priesthood to decide whose turn it was by casting lots. Zechariah's lot fell.

it disturbed Zechariah, and fear fell over<sup>379</sup> him. <sup>13</sup>But the angel said to him: "Fear not, Zechariah, for your request was heard. Your wife Elizabeth will bear you a son, and you shall call his name John. <sup>14</sup>Joy and gladness will be with you, and many will rejoice over his birth. <sup>15</sup>For he will be great in the eyes of the Lord. Wine and intoxicating beverages by no means shall he drink, and he will be filled with the Holy Spirit, beginning yet in his mother's womb. <sup>16</sup>He will turn many of the children of Israel toward the Lord their God. <sup>17</sup>And he will procede in front of Him, in the spirit and power of Elijah, such that the hearts of fathers will turn<sup>380</sup> toward their children,<sup>381</sup> and the disobedient toward the outlook of the righteous: a prepared people will be arranged for the Lord."

<sup>18</sup>Zechariah said to the angel, "By what will I know this?"<sup>382</sup> For I am old, and my wife is well advanced in age."

<sup>19</sup>In answer the angel said to him, "I am Gabriel, one who stands in the presence of God, and I have been sent to speak to you and to tell you these glad announcements. <sup>20</sup>And behold, you will be silent and unable to speak, until the day these things take place, because you did not believe my words, which will be fulfilled in their time."

<sup>21</sup>And the people were waiting for Zechariah, and wondering about his delay in the temple. <sup>22</sup>And when he came out, he was not able to speak to them, and they knew: a vision he had seen in the temple. He kept motioning to them, and remained mute. <sup>23</sup>And when his days of service were completed, he went home.

<sup>24</sup>After those days, his wife Elizabeth conceived, and she hid herself for five months. <sup>25</sup>"The way the Lord has done this for me," she said, "these are days he has looked with concern upon me, to take away my disgrace among the people."

<sup>381</sup> 1:17B The wording "the Fathers," in English tends to mean "all the fathers." But in this context, the number of fathers is set by verse 16, "He will turn many." Thus, there would be many fathers whose hearts will turn ἐπὶ τέκνα - epi tekna (toward children.) There is no possessive pronoun "their" here in the Greek. But if we leave it out here, in English, if someone's heart "turns toward children," that might be understood to mean, he decides he now wants to have children. This verse must be an allusion to Malachi 4:6 in the Hebrew, and not the Septuagint. In the Hebrew it is fathers, plural, and children, generic. The Septuagint says ὃς ἀποκαταστήσει καρδίαν πατρός πρὸς υἱόν, "who will turn the heart of the father to the son." Several translations make the word πατήρ (pater) generic here, and so translate it as "parents to their children." I can understand that. But so many people already have an understanding of this verse, based on what seems to be a reality in this world that there are more children and fathers estranged, than children from their mothers. For example, the Bible says "Who ever heard of such a thing as a mother killing her child and eating him?" Apparently, it is harder to believe that a mother would do that to her child, than a father. Note that Malachi in the Hebrew also says that He will turn the hearts of the sons to the fathers. The question is, what is broken? Is it more fathers estranged from their children, and children angry at their fathers? Or mothers to the same extent? I think it is the former. That is why I am leaving it fathers and children, because that is more what is broken in the absence of the power of the Spirit.

<sup>382</sup> 1:18 Zechariah may have felt his question justified in that Abraham asked the same thing— for a sign. See Genesis 15:8. But this reflects a lack of belief in God's statements. Jesus said later, "A wicked and adulterous generation asks for a miraculous sign, but none will be given it except the sign of Jonah." (Diatess. 11:17-18; Mt 12:38-39; Lk 11:16, 20) The apostle Paul said, "For Jews require a sign, and Greeks seek after wisdom..." (I Cor. 1:22)

The Birth of Jesus Foretold

<sup>26</sup>And in the sixth month, the angel Gabriel was sent out from God, to a town in Galilee named Nazareth, <sup>27</sup>to a virgin pledged to be married to a man named Joseph, of the house of David. And the virgin's name was Mary. <sup>28</sup>And the angel went in to her, and said, "Hail, O favored one! The Lord is with you."<sup>383</sup>

<sup>29</sup>She was very troubled by the utterance, and wondered what sort of greeting it might be. <sup>30</sup>Then the angel said to her, "Fear not, Mary, for you have found favor with God. <sup>31</sup>You shall conceive in your womb, and shall bear a son, and you are to call his name Jesus. <sup>32</sup>This man will be great, and will be called the Son of the Most High. And the Lord God will give him the throne of his father David, <sup>33</sup>and he will reign over the house of Jacob for ever; and of his kingdom there will be no end."

<sup>34</sup>And Mary said to the angel, "How will this happen, since I am not knowing a man?"<sup>384</sup>

<sup>35</sup>And in answer the angel said to her, "The Holy Spirit will come upon you, and the power of the Most High will overshadow you. For this reason also, the one to be born will be called holy,<sup>385</sup> the Son of God. <sup>36</sup>And behold, Elizabeth your relative, even she in her old age, has conceived a son, and this is the sixth month with her, she who was called barren. <sup>37</sup>Therefore with God, nothing<sup>386</sup> will be impossible."

<sup>38</sup>"Here am I, the slave girl of the Lord," Mary said. "May it be to me according to your statement." Then the angel left her.

Mary Stays With Elizabeth

<sup>39</sup>At that time Mary got up and went with speed to the hill country, to a town of Judah, <sup>40</sup>where she entered the house of Zechariah, and greeted Elizabeth. <sup>41</sup>And it came about that when Elizabeth heard Mary's greeting, the baby in her womb did leap, and Elizabeth was filled with the Holy Spirit. <sup>42</sup>And she shouted out in a loud voice, saying, "Blessed are you among women, and blessed is the fruit of your womb! <sup>43</sup>And why does it come to me, that to me the mother of my Lord should come? <sup>44</sup>For when the sound of your greeting came into my ears, the

<sup>385</sup> 1:35 The one to be born would already have been called holy, in that it would be a firstborn male; see Exodus 13:2, 14-16.

<sup>386</sup> 1:37 Literally, "Because with God every saying will not be impossible," ὅτι οὐκ ἀδυνατήσει παρὰ τοῦ θεοῦ πᾶν ῥῆμα. The BDF grammar states that ῥῆμα - hrēma here is Hebraistic in use: "thing, matter, event," and that οὐκ...πᾶν is also a Semitism, resulting in the whole to mean, "nothing will be impossible with God." But I can't help but feel that Mary's response, "Let it be to me according to your hrēma," harks back to the use of hrēma by the angel, and that the angel told of Elizabeth's case as assurance that "therefore, in view of this, as for my statements to you also, not one statement will be impossible." Still, this is reminiscent of Genesis 18:14 in the Septuagint: Μὴ ἀδυνατήσει παρὰ τῷ θεῷ ῥῆμα? "Is anything too hard for the LORD?" That was when the angel of the LORD had announced to the aged Sarah that she would bear a son. There, the word ῥῆμα - hrēma is used as meaning "anything."

"My soul does magnify the Lord,<sup>388</sup> <sup>47</sup>and my spirit did rejoice in God my Savior, <sup>48</sup>because he looked toward the lowly station of his servant.
So behold: all generations after now will consider me blessed, <sup>49</sup>because the Mighty One did great things for me.
And holy will be his name,<sup>389</sup> <sup>50</sup>and his mercy to those who fear him, into age after age.<sup>390</sup>

<sup>387</sup> 1:44 Leapt in ἀγαλλιάσις - agalliasis. This word is found only in Biblical and ecclesiastical literature. It refers primarily to messianic exultation. Some of the other occurrences are: later in this chapter, v. 46, where Mary rejoiced in "God my Savior," i.e., God + a form of the word Yeshua; in Psalm 44:8, exulting in God; Hebrews 1:9, the Messiah is anointed with the oil of gladness more than his peers; Acts 2:46, the church fellowshiped in Messianic exultation; and Jude 24, it is an exceeding joy found in the presence of God himself.

<sup>388</sup> 1:46 Mary probably had in mind Psalm 34:3, "O magnify the Lord with me, and let us exalt his name together," and "My soul shall make its boast in the Lord," Psalm 34:2. And so she says, "My soul does magnify the Lord." It is reminiscent also of the "Bless the Lord, O my soul...bless his holy name" of Psalm 103:1; and also of 104:1, 35, and 146:1, where in the Septuagint the Greek sentence is startlingly identical to Mary's, only that the imperative mood of the verb 'magnify' is changed to the indicative. Note: It was Semitic to use the nominative case for vocative, so Mary could still have been addressing her soul, as in the Psalms, i.e., "Magnify the Lord, O my soul." The songs of Mary and Zechariah are the most Semitic parts of Luke.

<sup>389</sup> 1:49 ...ὁ δυνατός, καὶ ἅγιον τὸ ὄνομα αὐτοῦ, καὶ τὸ ἔλεος αὐτοῦ εἰς γενεὰς καὶ γενεὰς τοῖς φοβουμένοις αὐτόν. Traditionally, this ὁ δυνατός, καὶ ἅγιον τὸ ὄνομα is considered an example of the Hebraistic use of καὶ to coordinate words with independent clauses; so Friedrich Blass, and thus read: "The Mighty One did great things for me, wherefore his name is holy." But ἅγιον is ambiguously both masculine and neuter, and the flow seemed to group together "his name and his mercy" as that which is holy. In the Greek, ἅγιον τὸ ὄνομα αὐτοῦ, καὶ τὸ ἔλεος αὐτοῦ...τοῖς φοβουμένοις, "holy his name and his mercy," the words 'holy,' 'name,' and 'mercy' are all three neuter singular; 'name' and 'mercy' are subjects; and 'holy' is the predicate adjective, and there is no verb, except the implied copula verb ἐστίν, 'is'. The O-V-S syntax is more common when a single verb has a double subject. ἔστιν is by far the copula most frequently omitted but implied in Greek, and a preference for omission is observed in (1) proverbs, (2) impersonal constructions, especially those expressing possibility or necessity, (3) questions, and (4) exclamations. And the τοῖς φοβουμένοις, "to those who fear him," is something like an "ethical dative," (also a Semitism), thus meaning, "his name and his mercy will be holy in the eyes of those who fear him." For is not the kindness and forbearance of God meant to lead you to repentance and holiness? (Romans 2:4) For other examples of the ethical dative, see Jonah 3:3, Acts 7:20, II Peter 3:14, and possibly the ἐρχομαί σοι of Rev. 2:5. We have examples of the ethical dative in English literature also. See Milton's Paradise Lost, Book I, Lines 25-26: "I may assert Eternal Providence, And justify the ways of God to men." In other words, justify the ways of God in the eyes of men, in the sight of men.

<sup>390</sup> 1:50 Mary through the anointing of the Holy Spirit looks both backward and forward: backward to the "from everlasting to everlasting, to generation of generations" of Psalm 103:17, and forward, as in Psalm 146:10, "into age

The Birth of John the Baptizer

<sup>57</sup>And the time was fulfilled for Elizabeth to give birth, and she produced a son. <sup>58</sup>Her neighbors and relatives heard that the Lord had magnified his mercy to her, and they rejoiced with her.

<sup>59</sup>And it came about that on the eighth day, they came to circumcise the child, and they were about to call him by the name of his father, Zechariah, <sup>60</sup>and his mother responded and said, "No! He shall be called John."

<sup>61</sup>And they said to her, "There is no one among your relatives called by that name."

<sup>62</sup>Then they signaled to his father, to find out what he wanted him to be called. <sup>63</sup>And he asked for a tablet, and wrote as follows,<sup>392</sup> "His name is John." Everyone was surprised. <sup>64</sup>And immediately his mouth was opened, and also his tongue, and he spoke, blessing God.

<sup>65</sup>An awe came over everyone who lived around them, and all through the hill country of Judea these things were being discussed. <sup>66</sup>And everyone who heard, kept thinking about it, saying, "What then will this child be?" For the hand of the Lord was certainly with him.

after age," in harmony with Paul in Ephesians 2:7, that God sent Yeshua "so that in the ages to come he might show the exceeding riches of his grace in his kindness toward us through Christ Jesus." In Psalm 89:1, the "From everlasting until everlasting" covers both past, present and future. But the "time" tense here is still relative to and set by verse 48 as the future, where she speaks of "all the ages from now on." Her phrase in the Greek, "into age after age," εἰς γενεὰς καὶ γενεὰς, is almost identical to the Greek phrase of Psalm 146:10. This same phrase is also used in Lamentations 5:19, and Psalm 49:11 (and many others) as a parallelism to "for ever." Psalm 146 is clearly a Psalm she loved. Psalm 45:17 says, "I will cause your name to be celebrated in all generations; therefore the peoples will praise you for ever and ever." This shows that "all generations" is a parallelism to "for ever and ever." See the preceding footnote about the verb "is" being omitted when expressing possibility. "And holy may be his name, and his mercy to those who fear him."

<sup>392</sup> 1:63 Literally, "he wrote, saying...", ἔγραψεν λέγων, a Semitism for "he wrote as follows:..."

Zechariah's Song

for his people.

to remember his holy covenant,

<sup>74</sup>to give us rescue from the hand of our enemies,

that we may serve him without fear

all our days.

<sup>76</sup>And you, child, will be called for you will go on before the Lord with which the Sunrise from on high <sup>79</sup>to appear to those sitting in darkness and in the shadow of death, to guide our feet along the path of peace."

<sup>80</sup>And the child grew and became strong in spirit; and he was in the deserts, until the days of his being presented to Israel.

Chapter 2

The Birth of Jesus

<sup>1</sup>And it came about in those days, that a decree went out from Caesar Augustus, that all the inhabited earth should be registered.<sup>394</sup> <sup>2</sup>This was the first registration that took place while Quirinius was governor of Syria. <sup>3</sup>And all were making their way to be registered, each to his own town.

<sup>4</sup>Thus Joseph also went up, from the town of Nazareth in Galilee, to Judea, to the town of David, which is called Bethlehem, because he was from the house and line of David; <sup>5</sup>to be registered along with Mary, the one pledged to him, who was pregnant. <sup>6</sup>And it came about that while they were there, the days for her to give birth were completed, <sup>7</sup>and she bore her firstborn son. And she swaddled him<sup>395</sup> and placed him in a feeding trough, because there was no room for them in the inn.

The Shepherds and the Angels

<sup>8</sup>And there were shepherds in that same region, camping out in the fields, keeping watch over their flocks by night. <sup>9</sup>And an angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone all around them, and they were terrified. <sup>10</sup>And the angel said to them, "Fear not. For behold, I am announcing to you a great joy that will be with all the people. <sup>11</sup>Because for you is born this day, in the town of David, a Savior, who is Messiah the Lord. <sup>12</sup>And this will be a sign to you: you will find a baby swaddled, and lying in a feeding trough."

<sup>13</sup>And suddenly, there was with the angel a great company of the army of heaven, praising God and saying, <sup>14</sup>"Glory to God in the highest realms! And on earth peace, good will toward men!"<sup>396</sup>

<sup>394</sup> 2:1 The whole inhabited earth... This is hype, commonly used in order to magnify the emperors. The meaning is the whole empire. The registration here is the recording of the names for the purpose of adding everyone to the tax rolls. The phrase could also be translated that a census should be taken of all the inhabited earth. The tax is a poll tax, or head tax, or a capitation, as forbidden in the constitution for the U.S.A. This was a form of tribute forced upon the conquered by the conqueror.

<sup>395</sup> 2:7 Or swathed, or podded. In this practice, the baby was bound up tight with bands of cloth = band-ages, for reasons which may be reasonably guessed. The cloth would absorb any blood, amniotic fluid and wax still present after cleaning; this would have both practical and ceremonial cleanness ramifications, since the mother's blood was ceremonially unclean. The dead were wrapped somewhat similarly. Furthermore, the infant wrapped in such a way would be prevented from rolling. This last reason could have been especially applicable in Jesus' case, since he was placed in a stone feeding trough. The stone surface was not necessarily level or even. In addition, swaddling could have prevented the infant from rolling or flopping its limbs during travel on an animal. Native Americans swaddled a papoose to a sled of sorts to facilitate traveling. Traveling or not, a woman of that circumstance had a heavy burden of chores, and the swaddling could have kept the infant out of trouble while mother's eye was not upon it. Many Mediterranean lands practiced swaddling well over a thousand years later. See also Job 38:8,9; Ezekiel 16:4-6. Note that the Ezekiel passage implies that a baby not swaddled, is unclean, and undignified. (The passage refers to Jerusalem.) It is important that a translation of this Luke text use the same word as used in Job and Ezekiel, so that the reader catches the connection.

<sup>16</sup>And they went speeding, and found both Mary and Joseph, and the baby lying in the feeding trough. <sup>17</sup>And once they had seen, they revealed about the message spoken to them concerning this child. <sup>18</sup>And all who heard it were amazed at what the shepherds said to them. <sup>19</sup>As for Mary, she kept these words, and pondered them in her heart. <sup>20</sup>And the shepherds returned, glorifying and praising God, because of the fact that all the things which they had heard and seen, were just as it had been told to them.

Jesus Presented in the Temple

<sup>21</sup>And when the eighth day had arrived, the time to circumcise him, he was called the name Jesus, the name called by the angel before he was conceived in the womb.

<sup>22</sup>And when the days of their cleansing according to the Law of Moses<sup>397</sup> had been completed, they took him up to Jerusalem to present him to the Lord, <sup>23</sup>as it is written in the Law of the Lord, "Every male to open a womb<sup>398</sup> shall be called holy to the Lord,"<sup>399</sup> <sup>24</sup>and to offer a sacrifice, in keeping with what is said in the Law of the Lord: "a pair of doves or two young pigeons."<sup>400</sup>

<sup>25</sup>And behold, a man was in Jerusalem whose name was Simeon. This man was righteous and devout, waiting for the consolation of Israel, and the Holy Spirit was upon him. <sup>26</sup>It had been communicated to him by the Holy Spirit, that he would not see death before he had seen the Lord's Anointed. <sup>27</sup>And he came by the Spirit into the temple, at the same time that the parents of the child Jesus brought him to do for him what the custom of the Law required. <sup>28</sup>And Simeon took him into his arms and blessed God, and said:

you are dismissing your slave in peace.

Chromatius Jerome<sup>11/15</sup> Augustine<sup>39/41</sup> msacc. to Erasmus // καὶ ἐν ἀνθρώποις εὐδοκία syr(s),(p),h Origen<sup>1/5</sup> // lacuna C N. The UBS textual commentary says that the majority text reading is probably a scribal oversight, because, "at the end of a line εὐδοκίας would differ from εὐδοκία only by the presence of the smallest lunar sigma, little more than a point, for which it might have been taken— thus ΕΥΔΟΚΙΑ." Also according to the UBS textual commentary, the earlier reading is a Semitizing construction characteristic of Luke chapters 1 and 2. This Semitic expression is found in Hebrew in the Dead Sea Scrolls in several Qumran Hymns: "the sons of his (God's) good pleasure," 1 QH iv.32 f.; xi.9; and "the elect of his (God's) good pleasure," viii.6; and also in Aramaic, in a fragment from Qumran, "among men of his good pleasure," see J. A. Fitzmeyer, S.J. (Theological studies, XIX [1958], pp. 225-227. The Sahidic translation of this phrase of the angels' song reads, "And peace upon earth among men of his desire." Similarly, later in this gospel, a voice from heaven says about Jesus, "You are my beloved son; in you I had good pleasure." See Galatians 6:16. Interesting that the same people who object to the NA27 text in Luke 2:14 where instead of "peace, goodwill toward men," it limits the blessing to "men of his good pleasure," yet in Revelation 22:21 where the NA27 text says "the grace of the Lord Jesus be with all," they object, and prefer that that blessing be only to the saints. This shows that the TR-only and KJV-only mentality is not reasonable, neither spiritual, but a cult following of one translation, and carnal, like where Paul says some say, "I am of Paul," and others, "I am of Apollos," etc.

<sup>33</sup>And the child's father<sup>402</sup> and mother were marveling at the things being said about him.
<sup>34</sup>And Simeon blessed them, and said to Mary, his mother: "Behold, this one is being laid down to cause the stumbling or rising of many in Israel,<sup>403</sup> and to be a sign that will be continually denounced – <sup>35a</sup>a sword will be run through your own soul too– so that the thoughts of many hearts will be revealed."

<sup>36</sup>And there was also a prophetess, Hannah, daughter of Penuel, of the tribe of Asher. This woman had grown to be very old, having lived with a husband for seven years after her virginity, <sup>37</sup>and then being a widow to eighty-four years of age, one who hardly left the temple, but served night and day, in fasting and praying. <sup>38</sup>And coming up at that very time, she gave thanks to God, and spoke about the child to all those expecting redemption in Jerusalem.

<sup>39</sup>And when they had completed everything required by the Law of the Lord, they returned to their own town of Nazareth. <sup>40</sup>And the child grew and became strong; he was filled with wisdom, and the grace of God was upon him.

Erasmus has πατήρ "father" in all 5 of his editions. Said he, "In some Greek manuscript I read 'Joseph' instead of 'father'; in my opinion it has been changed by someone who feared that Joseph be called Jesus' father" ("In Graecis aliquot codicibus lego pro pater, Ioseph; quod arbitror immutatum a quopiam, qui vereretur Ioseph vocare patrem Iesu..."; 'aliquot' added in 1519—ASD VI–5, p. 484 ll. 42–44; similarly in Resp. ad annot. Ed. Lei, ASD IX–4, p. 126 ll. 506–509). So we see that Erasmus figured that copyists changed the original "father" to Joseph, for the very same reasons that KJV Onlyists prefer the reading "Joseph." But they forget that the KJV calls Joseph Jesus' father in several other passages. Erasmus was correct, but the KJV does not follow him here.

<sup>403</sup> 2:34 "I lay in Zion for a foundation a stone..." "A stone of stumbling, a rock of offense..." "The person who trips over that stone will be turned into powder..." On the other hand, many new Israelites will rise up or stand up, as a result of Gentiles being grafted into the Olive Tree. This is the same word as used for resurrection, and also for some brand new thing or person coming into existence. See for example Isaiah 56:6-8.

<sup>404</sup> 2:42 Greek, καὶ ὅτε ἐγένετο – kai hote egeneto, "and when he became" twelve... Luke does not use "kai hote egeneto" as a transitional phrase. Never once in his gospel or in Acts did Luke use even just the word "hote" in a transitional phrase, but rather, he always used it to indicate precisely the timing of something. Here Jesus, the Lamb of God, is just turning twelve shortly before the Passover festival. This may mean that Jesus' birthday was in our late March or early April. The Magi that knew of Jesus' birth and came from the east, were astrologers. For them, signs involving the planet Jupiter (Zeus) represented royalty and kings. So if there was a sign or conjunction involving Jupiter, the Magi would take note. Jupiter was in retrograde motion in April of the year 6 B.C. Thus, that star would "stand still." We know from the gospel of Luke that the shepherds were "keeping watch over their flocks by night." They only did that during birthing time, to protect the ewes and newborn lambs. In other words, they did that during Spring time. Furthermore, Luke says here that Jesus turned 12 years old around Passover time. Astronomer Michael Molnar (<http://www.eclipse.net/~molnar/>) has found that there was a conjunction of Jupiter (while retrograde and "standing still") with the moon, in Aries, on April 17, 6 B.C. This would harmonize with

<sup>43</sup>And when the days were completed and they were returning home, the boy Jesus remained in Jerusalem, and his parents were not aware of it. <sup>44</sup>Thinking he was in their company, they went a day's journey, and then began looking for him among their relatives and acquaintances. <sup>45</sup>And when they did not find him, they went back to Jerusalem to look for him. <sup>46</sup>And it came about that after three days they found him, sitting in the temple, in the midst of the teachers, both listening to them and questioning them. <sup>47</sup>And all those who heard him were amazed at the understanding of his responses.<sup>405</sup> <sup>48</sup>And when his parents saw him, they were stunned. His mother said to him, "Son, why have you treated us this way? Look at how distressed your father and I are, searching for you."

<sup>49</sup>And he said to them, "Why would you be searching for me? Shouldn't you have known that I would have to be among my Father's things?"<sup>406</sup> <sup>50</sup>But they did not understand what he said to them.

<sup>51</sup>Then he went down with them and arrived in Nazareth, and continued to subordinate himself to them. But his mother was recording all these words in her heart.<sup>407</sup> <sup>52</sup>And Jesus kept growing in wisdom and stature, and in favor with God and with people.

Chapter 3

<sup>1</sup>In the fifteenth year of the reign of Tiberius Caesar, with Pontius Pilate governor of Judea, and Herod as tetrarch<sup>408</sup> of Galilee, his brother Philip tetrarch of Iturea and Trachonitis, and Lysanias as tetrarch of Abilene, <sup>2</sup>during the high priesthood of Hananiah<sup>409</sup> and Kayafa, the word of God came upon John the son of Zechariah in the desert. <sup>3</sup>And he appeared, in all the areas around the Jordan, proclaiming a baptism of repentance for forgiveness of sins, <sup>4</sup>as it is written in the scroll of the words of Isaiah the prophet:

"The voice of one calling in the desert,
 'Prepare the way for the Lord,
 make the paths straight for him.

Luke's spring timing, and also with the fact that both Matthew and Luke say Jesus was born during the reign of Herod, who died in 4 B.C. Thus I say it is practically certain that Jesus was born in spring time, and that April 17, 6 B.C. is the best theory put forth yet as to his exact day of birth. One thing we know for certain is that his birthday was not December 25th, or any time in the winter, when the sheep in Judea would be in pens, and not in the field in the cold.

<sup>405</sup> 2:47 The Greek says literally, "were amazed at his understanding and his responses." This is probably an example of hendiadys, which according to BDF §442(16), when used with the conjunction καὶ (and), accomplishes the coordination of two ideas, one of which is dependent on the other, and serves in the NT to avoid a series of dependent genitives. Blass gives this verse, Lk 2:47, as an example of hendiadys.

<sup>406</sup> 2:49 Jesus is not remarking against the fact that his parents came to find him, but that it took them a 3-day search to find him. But Jesus is saying that no searching around was necessary because they should have figured he would be in the temple, and look there first. For the temple is "his Father's things."

<sup>408</sup> 3:1 From the Greek tetra, four, and arche, to rule. As a monarch is a one and only ruler of a realm, in the same way a tetrarch is a ruler of one fourth of a realm. (Which implies that there must exist three other one-fourth divisions of the realm.)

every mountain and hill laid low.
 The crooked places shall be made straight,
 the rough ways smooth.
<sup>6</sup>And all flesh shall see the salvation of God.<sup>410</sup>

<sup>7</sup>So John would say to the crowds coming out to be baptized by him, "You spawn of snakes! Who warned you to flee from the coming wrath? <sup>8</sup>Then produce fruit characteristic of repentance. And do not begin to say to yourselves, 'We have Abraham as our father.' For I tell you that God can raise up children for Abraham from these stones. <sup>9</sup>Even now the axe is poised at the root of the trees, and every tree that does not produce good fruit will be cut down and thrown into the fire."

<sup>10</sup>And the crowds would ask him, "What should we do then?"

<sup>11</sup>And in answer he would say to them, "The person who has two tunics should give away to the one who has none, and the person who has foodstuffs should do the same."

<sup>12</sup>Revenue agents also came to be baptized, and they asked him, "Teacher, what should we do?"

<sup>13</sup>He said to them, "Collect nothing in excess, beyond what is prescribed for you."

<sup>14</sup>Some soldiers were also questioning him, saying, "And us, what should we do?"

And he told them, "You should no longer shake down anyone, nor frame anyone, always staying content with your pay."

<sup>15</sup>And all the people were waiting expectantly, wondering in their hearts if John might possibly be the Anointed One.

<sup>16</sup>John responded speaking to everyone, "I baptize you in water, but one who is more powerful than I is coming, the thongs of whose sandals I am not worthy to untie. He will baptize you in the Holy Spirit and in fire: <sup>17</sup>his winnowing fork is in his hand to clear out his threshing floor, gathering the wheat into the barn; but the chaff he will burn up in unquenchable fire."

<sup>19</sup>But when Herod the Tetrarch was rebuked by him, regarding Herodias his brother's wife, and all the other evil things he had done, <sup>20</sup>Herod piled this on top of them all: he shut John up in prison.

The Baptism of Jesus

<sup>21</sup>When all the people were being baptized, Jesus was baptized too. And as he was praying, the heavens were torn open, <sup>22</sup>and the Holy Spirit descended on him in the bodily form of a dove. And a voice from heaven said, "You are my Son, whom I love; with you I am well pleased."

<sup>23</sup>And this Jesus, being about thirty years old,<sup>411</sup> was the son, so it was thought, of Joseph,<sup>412</sup>

<sup>411</sup> 3:23a καὶ αὐτὸς ἦν Ἰησοῦς ἀρχόμενος ὥσεὶ ἐτῶν τριάκοντα.. Most translations render this something like, "And Jesus himself was about thirty years old when he began his ministry." The trouble with that is that the words "his ministry" are not in the Greek. The usual reasoning for this rendering is that the word "began," ἀρχω is reminiscent of Luke's use of the same word, and in the same middle voice, in Acts 1:1, where he says he wrote about all that Jesus "began both to do and to teach." I find this an unacceptable leap. The KJV says, "And Jesus himself began to be about thirty years of age..." The trouble with that is, how can you begin to be about thirty? The thirtieth year has a beginning, but "about thirty" does not. So what was it that was beginning? The lexical authorities on koine Greek tell us that the word ἀρχω in the middle voice is often pleonastic or superfluous, in accordance with late Jewish usage; so Josephus, Dalman, Worte; and JWHunkin on the Pleonastic ἀρχομαι in the New Testament. Acts 1:1 is specifically given as an example of this; thus Acts 1:1 would be "everything he did and taught." Here in Luke 3:23, both εἰμι and ἀρχω are in the continuous aspect. The word αὐτὸς could be its demonstrative use. Thus I translated this passage, "And this Jesus, being about thirty years old, was the son, so it was thought, of Joseph..."

<sup>413</sup> 3:23c Probably, son-in-law of Eili. (In Hebrew this name Eili starts with the consonant Ayin, a guttural stop. The NA27/UBS Greek text and the 1550 Textus Receptus have it spelled Eili, but the Hodges & Farstad "Majority Text" has a Greek rough breathing mark in front, so spelled "Heli.") In that culture, the word "son" was used more broadly. Ben Crick of England has a good commentary on this, as follows: "The genealogies in Matthew 1 and Luke 3 are both ostensibly of Joseph, not of Mary. But whereas Matt. 1:16 gives Jacob as the father of Joseph, Luke 3:23 states that Joseph was the son of Heli. How do we explain this? We know that Mary had a sister (John 19:25), but nowhere is a brother mentioned. So if Heli had no son, his inheritance would pass to his nearest male relative, in this case his son-in-law (Numbers 27:1-11), provided he was of the same tribe (Numbers 36:1-9). Therefore we should read in Luke 3:23 that Joseph was son-in-law of Heli. So Heli was Mary's father, and Mary was descended from David. Gabriel's words to Mary, "the Lord God shall give unto Him the throne of His father David," (Luke 1:32) confirm this.

The Temptation of Jesus

<sup>1</sup>Jesus, full of the Holy Spirit, returned from the Jordan, and was led by the Spirit into the desert, <sup>2</sup>being tempted forty days by the devil. And he ate nothing during those days, and at the end of them he was hungry.

<sup>3</sup>And the devil said to him, "If you are the Son of God, speak to this stone, that it become a loaf of bread."

<sup>4</sup>And Jesus responded to him, "It is written, 'A human being shall not live on bread alone.'<sup>416</sup>"

<sup>5</sup>Then leading him up, the devil showed him all the kingdoms of the inhabited earth, in a moment of time. <sup>6</sup>And he said to Jesus, "All this authority and their glory I will give to you, for

They go on: "the Committee adopted what seems to be the least unsatisfactory form of text, a reading that was current in the Alexandrian church at an early period. Although the reading τοῦ Ἀμιναδὰβ τοῦ Ἀράμ - τοῦ Aminadab τοῦ Arám is supported by an impressive range of witnesses (A D 33 565 1079 many versions), with a reading that involves three names (such as that adopted by the Committee) Luke's entire genealogy of Jesus falls into an artistically planned pattern, even more elaborate than Matthew's (cf. Mt 1:17); thus, from Adam to Abraham, 3 x 7 generations; from Isaac to David, 2 x 7 generations; from Nathan to Salathiel (pre-exilic), 3 x 7 generations; from Zerubbabel (post-exilic) to Jesus, 3 x 7 generations, making a total of 11 x 7, or 77 generations from Adam to Jesus."

<sup>8</sup>In answer Jesus said to him, "It is written: 'You shall worship Yahweh your God, and him only shall you serve.'<sup>417</sup>

<sup>9</sup>Then the devil led him into Jerusalem, and had him stand on the gable of the temple. And he said to him, "If you are the Son of God, throw yourself down from here. <sup>10</sup>For it is written:

<sup>12</sup>Jesus answered and said to him, "It says: 'You shall not test Yahweh your God.'<sup>419</sup>

Jesus Begins to Preach

<sup>14</sup>And Jesus returned to Galilee in the power of the Spirit, and a rumor about him spread throughout the whole region. <sup>15</sup>And he taught in their synagogues, being praised by everyone.

Jesus Rejected at Nazareth

<sup>16</sup>And he came to Nazareth, where he had been brought up, and went into the synagogue on the Sabbath day, as was his custom. And he stood up to read. <sup>17</sup>And the scroll of the prophet Isaiah was handed to him. Unrolling the scroll, he found the place where it is written:

The standard textual criticism arguments are: (1), lectio brevior lectio potior ("the shorter reading is the better reading" - unless homoioteleuton or otherwise explains omission), and (2), that the first reading best explains the other reading; that is, there is no good explanation why scribes might have omitted the phrase, but an explanation why scribes might have added the phrase is that the additional phrase completes the gap compared to the Isaiah passage- it harmonizes Luke to Isaiah. But there would be nothing remarkable about Jesus selecting and reading only the phrases that were pertinent to what he wanted to say. Indeed, all Greek editions agree that Jesus did not finish the sentence from Isaiah; and that is why some translations, including mine, end the quotation with an ellipsis..." Moreover, Jesus also adds a phrase from a totally different passage in Isaiah, 58:6, "to set at liberty those who are oppressed." To me, the fact that Jesus selected another phrase from a completely different passage as well, just proves how selective he was being for phrases, and that lends more credibility to the idea that he skipped one phrase from the Isaiah 61 passage. Another interesting fact is that the phrase sight to the blind here in Luke 4:18 is to preach good news to the poor, to announce release for the prisoners and sight for the blind, to send off the crushed into liberty,

<sup>20</sup>And having closed the scroll, he gave it back to the attendant and sat down. The eyes of everyone in the synagogue were fastened on him. <sup>21</sup>And he began to speak to them: "Today this scripture is fulfilled in your hearing."

<sup>22</sup>All were speaking well of him and amazed at the gracious words coming from his mouth. And they were saying, "Isn't this Joseph's son?"

<sup>23</sup>And he said to them, "No doubt you will quote to me this proverb: 'Physician, heal yourself! The things we heard were happening in Capernaum, do here in your home town.'"

<sup>24</sup>And he said, "Truly I tell you, no prophet is accepted in his home town. <sup>25</sup>I tell you, in Elijah's days, during the three years and six months that the sky was shut and there was a great famine covering the whole land, it is a fact that there were plenty of widows in Israel. <sup>26</sup>Yet it was not to any of them that Elijah was sent, but to Zarephath in the country of Sidon, to a widow woman there. <sup>27</sup>Again, in the case of Elisha the prophet, there were plenty of lepers in Israel, and not one of them was cleansed; only Naaman the Syrian."

<sup>28</sup>And all the people in the synagogue were furious when they heard these things. <sup>29</sup>They got up and drove him outside the town, intending to throw him down the cliff. <sup>30</sup>But he walked right through them, and went on his way.

Jesus' Teaching Has Authority

<sup>31</sup>And he went down to Capernaum, a town in Galilee, and on the Sabbath began to teach them. <sup>32</sup>And they were amazed at his teaching, because his word was authoritative.

<sup>33</sup>And in the synagogue there was a man who had a demon, an unclean spirit. He shouted out with a very loud voice, <sup>34</sup>"Ha! What business do you have with us, Jesus, you Nazarene? Have you come to destroy us? I know who you are — the Holy One of God!"

<sup>35</sup>And Jesus rebuked him, saying, "Be quiet and come out of him!" And the demon threw him down before them all and came out of him, doing him no damage.

<sup>36</sup>And astonishment overwhelmed them all, and they spoke to each other, saying, "What is this message, that with authority and power he commands unclean spirits, and they come out?"

<sup>37</sup>And a rumor went out about him into every place in that region.

<sup>421</sup> 4:19 Isaiah 61:1,2 When Jesus read this passage, he did not read to the end of the sentence. The next phrase was about the Lord's vengeance.

Jesus Heals All in Capernaum

<sup>38</sup>And rising up out of the synagogue, he went into the home of Simon. And Simon's mother-in-law was suffering a high fever, and they asked him about her. <sup>39</sup>So he stood over her and rebuked the fever, and it left her. And she got up at once and proceeded to wait on them.

<sup>40</sup>And as the sun was setting, everyone who had anyone ill with various kinds of sickness brought them to him, and laying his hands on each one of them, he was healing them. <sup>41</sup>Moreover, demons were coming out from many, shouting and saying, "You are the Son of God!" And he would rebuke them, not allowing them to speak, because they knew him to be the Messiah.

Jesus Keeps Moving

<sup>42</sup>And when day came, he left and went off to a solitary place. And the crowds were searching for him, and they came up to him and detained him from leaving them. <sup>43</sup>But he said to them, "I must preach the kingdom of God to the other towns also, because on that basis I was sent." <sup>44</sup>And he kept on preaching in the synagogues of Jewdom.<sup>422</sup>

Chapter 5

The Calling of Simon, Andrew, James, and John

<sup>1</sup>And it came about that as he was standing by the Lake of Gennesaret, with the crowd pressing urgently around him and listening to the word of God, <sup>2</sup>he saw two boats standing idle by the lake; the fishers had gotten out of them, washing the nets. <sup>3</sup>And getting on board one of the boats, which was Simon's, he asked him to put out a little from shore. And sitting down, he taught the people from the boat.

<sup>4</sup>And when he had finished speaking, he said to Simon, "Put out into the deep, and let down your nets for a catch."

<sup>5</sup>And in response Simon said, "Master, working hard through the whole night we took nothing. But on the basis of your word, I will let down the nets."

<sup>6</sup>And when they had done so, they had enclosed a great number of fish, and their nets were beginning to tear. <sup>7</sup>So they signaled to their partners in the other boat to come and help them, and they came, and they filled both the boats, such that they began to sink.

<sup>8</sup>And when Simon Peter saw this, he fell at Jesus' knees and said, "Go away from me Lord; I am a sinful man!" <sup>9</sup>For astonishment had seized him and all those with him, at the catch of fish that they had taken, and likewise also James and John the sons of Zebedee, who were partners with Simon.

<sup>10</sup>But Jesus said to Simon, "Don't be afraid. From now on you will be catching human beings." <sup>11</sup>And when they had pulled the boats to shore, they gave it all up and followed him.

<sup>422</sup> 4:44 There are five different readings here in the Greek manuscripts. Where the earliest say he was preaching in the synagogues "of Judea," some manuscripts say, "of the Jews," others say, "to the Jews," others say, "of Galilee," and others say "their synagogues." It is apparent that the copyists responsible for the reading "of Galilee" were trying to correct the seeming difficulty of the words "of Judea," when the context before and after indicates that Jesus was traveling in Galilee; and other copyists were motivated by the desire to harmonize Luke with the accounts of Matthew and Mark. The reading "of Judea," however, can be translated as "the land of the Jews," or something to that effect, which in meaning would be inclusive of Galilee.

A Leper Healed Spreads the Word

<sup>12</sup>And it came about that he was in one of the towns, and behold, a man covered with leprosy.<sup>423</sup> And when he saw Jesus, he fell on his face and begged him, saying, "Lord, if you are willing, you can cleanse me."

<sup>13</sup>And reaching out his hand, he touched him, saying, "I am willing. Be cleansed." And immediately the leprosy left him.

<sup>14</sup>And he ordered him to tell no one, but "Go, show yourself to the priest, and offer for your cleansing what Moses commanded, as a testimony to them."

<sup>15</sup>But word about him was spreading all the more, and many crowds would walk alongside to listen, and to be healed of their sicknesses. <sup>16</sup>And he would take retreat in deserted places, and pray.

The Paralytic Lowered Through the Roof

<sup>17</sup>And it came about during one of the days that, as he was teaching, Pharisees and teachers of the Torah also were sitting there, who had come from every village of Galilee and from Judea and Jerusalem. And the power of the Lord was present for him to heal the sick.

<sup>18</sup>And behold, men carrying on a pallet a man who was paralyzed. And they were trying to carry him in, to lay him before him. <sup>19</sup>And not finding a way to carry in because of the crowd, they went up onto the roof, and lowered him with his bed down through the tiles, into the middle, in front of Jesus.

<sup>20</sup>And when Jesus saw their faith, he said, "Friend, your sins are forgiven you."

<sup>21</sup>And the Torah scholars and Pharisees began to reason as follows: "Who is this fellow who speaks blasphemy!<sup>424</sup> Who can forgive sins but God alone?"

<sup>22</sup>But knowing their reasonings, Jesus in response said to them, "Why are you debating this in your hearts? <sup>23</sup>Which is easier: to say 'Your sins are forgiven you,' or to say, 'Get up and walk'? <sup>24</sup>But so that you may know that the Son of Man has authority on earth to forgive sins..." He said to the paralyzed man, "I tell you, get up, pick up your mat and be on your way home." <sup>25</sup>And immediately he stood up, in full view of them, and taking up that upon which he had been lying, he went away toward home, praising God. <sup>26</sup>Everyone was stunned with amazement. And they glorified God, and were filled with awe, saying, "We have seen remarkable things today."

A Revenue Agent Joins Jesus

<sup>27</sup>And after these things he went out, and he saw a revenue agent<sup>425</sup> by the name of Levi, sitting at the taxes post, and he said to him, "Follow me." <sup>28</sup>And he rose up and followed him, giving it all up.

<sup>424</sup> 5:21 The Greek for blasphemy is in the plural, an idiomatic pluralization of abstract topics that frequently serves as a designation of concrete phenomena. Here it would mean something more like "words of blasphemy," referring to the one incident of blasphemy in verse 20. Other examples of this kind of plural are Matthew 14:9, 15:19.

<sup>29</sup>Then Levi held a great banquet for him at his house. And there was also a large crowd of revenue agents and others who were reclining with him. <sup>30</sup>And the Pharisees and Torah scholars grumbled to his disciples, saying, "Why do you eat and drink with revenue agents and sinners?"

<sup>31</sup>And Jesus responded and said to them, "It is not the healthy who need a doctor, but those who are sick. <sup>32</sup>I have not come to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance."

Jesus Questioned About Fasting

<sup>33</sup>They then said to him, "The disciples of John are often fasting and making prayers, and likewise those of the Pharisees, but yours go on eating and drinking."

<sup>34</sup>And Jesus said to them, "Can you make the members of the bridegroom's party fast during days in which the bridegroom is with them? <sup>35</sup>But the days will come. Yes, when the bridegroom is taken away from them, then in those days they will fast."

<sup>36</sup>And he also spoke a parable to them: "No one tears a patch from a new garment and places it onto an old garment. For then, he will both tear the new, and the patch from the new will not match the old. <sup>37</sup>And no one puts new wine in old wineskins. For then, the new wine will burst the wineskins, and it will be spilled, and the wineskins will be ruined. <sup>38</sup>On the contrary, new wine must be put in new wineskins. <sup>39</sup>And no one after drinking old wine wants the new, for he says, 'The old is better.' "

Man Over the Sabbath

<sup>1</sup>And he happened during a Sabbath<sup>426</sup> to be passing through grainfields, and his disciples were plucking and eating the heads, rubbing them in their hands.<sup>427</sup> <sup>2</sup>But some of the Pharisees said, "Why are you doing what on a Sabbath is not permissible?"<sup>428</sup>

<sup>425</sup> 5:27 The Greek word here translated "revenue agent" is τελώνης, a combination of the words τέλος for excise off the end tally, and the word ὠνέομαι which means to "buy." Hence, tax-buyers, or tax owners. The accounts receivable which the due taxes represented were purchased by something like collection agencies. According to Bauer, the τελώναι were not the holders of the 'tax farming' contracts themselves, (the actual holders were called publicani), but were subordinates (Latin, portitores) hired by the publicani. The higher officials, the publicans, were usually foreigners, but their underlings were taken, as a rule, from the native population, from the subjugated people. The prevailing system of tax collection afforded the collector many opportunities to exercise his greed and unfairness. Moreover, since the tax was forced upon the conquered by the conqueror, the collectors of the tax were personal reminders to the populace that they, the payers of the tax, were conquered. Hence the collectors of the tax were particularly hated and despised as a class. They were pre-judged to be both embezzlers, and traitors or collaborators with the occupying foreign power.

The word δευτεροπρώτος occurs nowhere else, and appears to be a vox nulla that arose accidentally through a transcriptional blunder. (Perhaps some copyist introduced πρώτω as a correlative of ἐν ἑτέρω σαββάτω in ver. 6, and a second copyist, in view of 4:31, wrote δευτέρω, deleting πρώτω by using dots over the letters—which was the customary way of cancelling a word. A subsequent transcriber, not noticing the dots, mistakenly combined the two words into one, which he introduced into the text.)"

<sup>427</sup> 6:1 This was the allowable practice of "plucking the heads," see Deuteronomy 23:24, 25, "If you enter your neighbor's vineyard, you may eat grapes until you are fully satisfied, but do not put any in a container. If you enter

<sup>3</sup>And in answer to them Jesus said, "Have you never read what David did when he and those with him were hungry? <sup>4</sup>How he went into the house of God, and taking the loaves of offering, he ate, and gave to the ones with him, which was not permissible to eat, except for the priests only?"

<sup>5</sup>Then he said to them, "The Son of Man is lord of the Sabbath."

<sup>6</sup>And it came about that on another Sabbath, he went into the synagogue and was teaching, and a man was there whose right hand was shriveled. <sup>7</sup>And the Torah scholars and the Pharisees were carefully watching him, whether he would heal on the Sabbath, in order to obtain cause to prosecute him. <sup>8</sup>But he knew their reasoning, and said to the man with the shriveled hand, "Get up and stand in view." And he got up and stood.

<sup>9</sup>Then he said to them, "I ask you, which is permissible on the Sabbath: to do good or to do evil, to save life or destroy it?"

<sup>10</sup>And looking around at them all, he said to him, "Stretch out your hand." He did so, and his hand was restored. <sup>11</sup>And they were filled with rage,<sup>429</sup> and discussed with each other what they should do to Jesus.

The Twelve Apostles

<sup>12</sup>And it came about in those days that he went out into the hills to pray, and spent the whole night praying to God. <sup>13</sup>And when it was day, he called his disciples to him, and from them he selected twelve, whom he then designated apostles: <sup>14</sup>Simon, whom he also named Peter, and his brother Andrew; James and John; Philip and Bartholomew; <sup>15</sup>Matthew and Thomas; James son of Halphaeus and Simon the Zealot; and Judas son<sup>430</sup> of James; <sup>16</sup>and Judas of Kerioth,<sup>431</sup> who became a betrayer.

Blessings and Woes

<sup>17</sup>And when he came down, he stopped at a level place with them and with a large crowd of his disciples, and with a great multitude of the people from all of Judea and Jerusalem, and from the coastal areas of Tyre and Sidon <sup>18</sup>who had come to hear him and to be healed of their diseases. And those being oppressed by unclean spirits were cured. <sup>19</sup>And the entire crowd was trying to touch him, because power was going out from him, and curing everyone.

<sup>20</sup>And he lifted his eyes toward his disciples, and began to speak:

your neighbor's grainfield, you may pluck the heads with your hands, but you must not put a sickle to your neighbor's standing grain."

<sup>428</sup> 6:2 The Greek word translated "permissible" is the impersonal participle ἔξεστιν - éxestin, which is derived from the same root as ἐξουσία - exousía, the word for authority. If an activity was ἔξεστιν, that means it was "loosed," or ruled by the rabbis to be something "allowed" by the Torah. If something was not ἔξεστιν, as is the case here, that means it was "bound," that is, the rabbis had adjudged that it was forbidden by the Torah.

<sup>429</sup> 6:11 Greek, ἀνοία - anoia, a word much like our English word 'mad,' which can mean both anger and insanity. You could say Jesus' opponents went out of their minds with rage. Anger often overcomes better judgment. Thus anoia is often translated as 'folly.'

"Blessed are you who are poor, for yours is the kingdom of God.

<sup>21</sup>Blessed are you who are going hungry now, for you will be satisfied.

Blessed are you who are weeping now, for you will laugh.

<sup>22</sup>Blessed are you when people hate you, excommunicate you and shame you and cast out your name as evil, because of the Son of Man.

<sup>23</sup>"Rejoice in that day, and skip for joy! For behold, great is your reward in heaven, because the same things their ancestors did to the prophets.

<sup>24</sup>"But woe to you who are rich, because you have received your share of comfort.

Woe to you who are well fed now, for you will go hungry.

<sup>25</sup>Woe to you who are laughing now, for you will mourn and weep.

<sup>26</sup>Woe to you when all people speak well of you, for the same their ancestors did to the false prophets.

Love Your Enemies

<sup>27</sup>"But I say to you who are listening, love your enemies, treat well the ones hating you,
<sup>28</sup>bless the ones cursing you, pray for the ones insulting you. <sup>29</sup>To the one striking you on the cheek, offer the other cheek also. And the person taking your jacket, do not prevent him from taking your shirt as well. <sup>30</sup>To everyone asking you, give, and from the one forcefully taking your things, do not demand them back. <sup>31</sup>And just as you wish people would do to you, do likewise to them.

<sup>32</sup>"And if you love the ones loving you, what credit is that to you? For the sinners also love the ones loving them. <sup>33</sup>And if you do good to the ones doing good to you, what credit is that to you? The sinners also do the same. <sup>34</sup>And if you lend to the ones from whom you foresee repayment, what credit is that to you? Sinners also lend to sinners, in such a way they may receive the equal back. <sup>35</sup>But love your enemies, and do good and lend, expecting nothing, and great will be your reward, and you will be children of the Most High, for he is kind to the unthankful and evil. <sup>36</sup>Be compassionate, just as your Father is compassionate.<sup>432</sup>

<sup>432</sup> 6:36 Exodus 34:6-7; Psalm 103:8-14; Joel 2:13; Jonah 4:10-11

The Law of Reciprocity

<sup>37</sup>"Do not be judgmental, and you will not be judged. Do not be condemning, and you will not be condemned. Be forgiving, and you will be forgiven.

<sup>38</sup>"Be giving, and it will be given to you. A generous container: compacted, shaken<sup>433</sup> and running over they will hand into your arms. For with the standard you measure out, it will be measured back to you."

Correcting Others

<sup>39</sup>And he also spoke a parable to them: "Can a blind person lead a blind person? Will they not both fall into a ditch? <sup>40</sup>A student is not above the teacher, but rather, every student when fully trained will be like his teacher.

<sup>41</sup>"Why do you look at the speck in your brother's eye, but the log that is in your own eye you do not consider? <sup>42</sup>How are you able to say to your brother, 'Brother, allow me to take out the speck that is in your eye,' while you are not seeing the log that is in your own eye? You hypocrite, first get the log out of your own eye, and then you will see clearly the speck that is in your brother's eye, to remove it.<sup>434</sup>

A Tree and its Fruit

<sup>43</sup>"Now there is no good tree producing bad fruit, nor again a bad tree producing good fruit. <sup>44</sup>For each tree is known by its own fruit. For they do not gather figs from thornbushes, neither do they pick a grape from a brier.

<sup>45</sup>"The good person, out of the good stockpile of his heart, brings forth good, and the evil person out of the evil, brings forth evil. For out of the abundance of the heart one's mouth speaks.

The Two Kinds of Builders

<sup>46</sup>"And why do you keep calling me 'Lord, Lord,' and yet not do the things which I say? <sup>47</sup>Anyone who comes to me and hears my words and does them, I will show you what that person is like. <sup>48</sup>That person is like a man building a house, who dug and deepened and laid a foundation on the rock. And when a flood occurred, the river dashed against that house, but was not able to shake it, because it was well built.

<sup>49</sup>"But the one who has heard them and not done them, is like a man who built a house on the ground without a foundation, against which dashed the river, and very soon it collapsed, and the destruction of that house was great."

<sup>433</sup> 6:38 In other words, settled. Along with being pressed down and compacted, the container would be holding the most it possibly could.

<sup>434</sup> 6:42 Note that Jesus is not forbidding the correcting of others, nor telling us not to remove a speck from someone else's eye. But strangely enough, that is how many people interpret this passage. Rather, what this passage is saying is that we should examine ourselves before we correct others. And then do correct others. See Luke 17:3, and several other passages in the New Testament.

One Centurion's Faith with Authority

<sup>1</sup>When he had finished all his sayings in the ears of the people, he entered Capernaum. <sup>2</sup>And the slave of a certain centurion,<sup>435</sup> who was very valuable to him, was sick and about to die. <sup>3</sup>And having heard about Jesus, he sent elders of the Jews to him, asking him to come and heal his slave. <sup>4</sup>So when they came to Jesus, they were pleading earnestly with him, saying, "He is worthy that<sup>436</sup> you confer this upon him, <sup>5</sup>for he loves our nation, and he built us the synagogue."

<sup>6</sup>So Jesus went with them. And when he was not far from the house, the centurion sent friends saying to him as follows: "Lord, don't trouble yourself, for I am not fit that you should enter under my roof. <sup>7</sup>So also neither did I consider myself worthy to come to you. But say with a word<sup>437</sup> that my slave must be healed.<sup>438</sup> <sup>8</sup>For I too am a man stationed under authority, having soldiers under myself. And I say to this one, 'Go,' and he goes; and to another, 'Come,' and he comes; and to my slave, 'Do this,' and he does."

<sup>9</sup>And when Jesus heard these words, he was amazed at him, and turning to the crowd following him, he said, "I tell you, not in Israel have I found such faith."

<sup>10</sup>And when the ones who had been sent returned to the house, they found the slave well.

<sup>436</sup> 7:4 Interestingly, this message from the Roman centurion in Luke 7:4 contains a Latinism in the Greek. In the phrase "ἄξιός ἐστιν ὃ παρέξιπ τοῦτο, the use of the relative pronoun instead of the customary ἵνα (hina) is a Latinism: dignus qui with the subjunctive.

<sup>437</sup> 7:7a "Word" here, is in the dative case, as instrumental. Here the word λόγος is used to contrast with "in deed, in active work." It is exactly the same form of the word as in I John 3:18, "Let us not love in word, but in deed." In other words, the centurion believes of Jesus, "You don't have to DO anything, just command it by word. You don't have to be there in person hands-on; you can heal him by declaration or command, with a word. Your word has the authority to cause reality."

<sup>438</sup> 7:7b The Greek verb for heal here, ἰάομαι, is in the 3rd person, singular, aorist, imperative, passive form, ἰαθήτω. This is difficult to construe, and that is why later copyists changed it to the simple future indicative passive form ἰαθήσεται in conformity with the Matthew account in 8:8. Perhaps the copyists thought that the imperative form reflected badly on the centurion as being too demanding, as thus: "Say in a word, and let my servant be healed." And if the copyists felt a desire to do this, it is also very possible that here is an instance of Matthew making more palatable the Greek of a written Greek original Spruchquelle as compared to Luke's more conservative and word for word reproduction, rather than the scenario that Matthew translated the Aramaic of an Aramaic Spruchquelle into the future indicative in Greek, but Luke into the aorist imperative. As for the word 'and' here, καί, it is here used as an explicative καί and introducing a command in indirect quotation; in other words, to particularize the word to be spoken, as thus: "But say in a word, namely, that my slave be healed." This use of καί is not terribly uncommon in the New Testament, and this rendering preserves an imperative mood. Moreover, it is preceded here by εἶπον, which regularly precedes discourse. As for the centurion's peremptory tone, how remarkable is it that a soldier, and a commanding officer at that, would have that kind of personality? He was a bold man, but he humbled his tone well enough by twice stating that he was not worthy. It is commendable to be bold in this way, as indeed the Lord commended him for it. But how bold really was it? For after all, he had heard that Jesus was already doing such things as he was requesting, and was doing it for everybody who asked, and also some who did not ask. So it wasn't so bold and demanding after all, with the exception of expecting the same for a Gentile, which he covered by admitting his unfitness.

Jesus Raises a Dead Man at Nain

<sup>11</sup>And it came about that on the next day, he went into a town called Nain, and his disciples and a large crowd went along with him. <sup>12</sup>And as he approached the town gate, behold, a dead person was being carried out, the only son of his mother, and she was a widow. And a considerable crowd from the town was with her. <sup>13</sup>When he saw her, the Lord was moved with pity for her, and he said to her, "Don't cry."

<sup>14</sup>And he went up to the coffin and touched it, and the pallbearers stood still. And he said, "Young man, I say to you, rise up!" <sup>15</sup>And the dead man sat up, and began to speak. And he gave him back to his mother.

<sup>16</sup>And fear took hold of all, and they praised God, saying, "A great prophet has been raised up among us," and, "God has come to help his people." <sup>17</sup>And this news about him spread throughout the land of the Jews and the surrounding country.

Jesus and John the Baptizer

<sup>18</sup>And John's disciples reported to him about all these things. And after calling a certain two of his disciples to him, John <sup>19</sup>sent word to the Lord, as follows: "Are you the one who was to come, or should we expect another?"

<sup>20</sup>And when they had come to him, the men said, "John the Baptizer sent us to you saying, 'Are you the one who was to come, or should we expect another?'"

<sup>21</sup>In that same hour he healed many people of diseases and sicknesses and evil spirits, and gave sight to many who were blind. <sup>22</sup>And in answer, he said to them, "Go and report back to John what things you saw and heard: The blind see again, the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, the deaf hear, the dead are raised, and good news is preached to the poor. <sup>23</sup>And tell him, 'Blessed be whoever is not offended on account of me.' "<sup>439</sup>

<sup>24</sup>And as John's messengers were leaving, he began to speak to the crowd about John: "What did you go out into the desert to see? A reed being swayed to and fro by the wind? <sup>25</sup>On the contrary, what did you go out to see? A man dressed in delicate clothes? Behold, those in expensive clothes and living in luxury are in royal palaces. <sup>26</sup>On the contrary, what did you go out to see? A prophet? Yes indeed I tell you, and more than a prophet. <sup>27</sup>This is the one about whom it is written:

<sup>439</sup> 7:23 Why did Jesus tell John this? Would John be offended by all the good works here recently listed? Not likely. It is more likely that what John would be offended by was Jesus' non-abstentious lifestyle, or even what in John the ascetic's view might be "shady" practices. John had already testified earlier, emphatically and with certainty, that Jesus was the Expected One. But now it appears, John was having his doubts about him. Jesus was apparently a contrast to John in the following: He did not worry too much about ceremonial washing (Diatess 5:45, 14:1-10; 5:25; Matt. 15:1-20; Mark 7:1-23; John 3:25,26, John 2:6). He de-emphasized the concept of clean v. unclean foods (Diatess 14:9; Matt. 15:11,17; Mark 7:15-19). He did not fast, or at least did not teach his disciples to fast (Diatess. 7:24; Matt. 9:14; Mark 2:18; Luke 5:33). He drank alcohol, enabling Pharisees to dare call him a "drunkard," (Luke 7:33, 34; Matt. 11:18-19; Diatess. 10:30). He associated with "shady" characters (Diatess 7:22, 10:30, 10:35-36, 21:1, 24:19; Matt. 9:11; Mark 2:16; Luke 5:30; Matt. 11:19; Luke 7:34, 7:39, 15:1-2, 19:7). He violated the Sabbath by allowing his disciples to husk grain (Mark 2:23-28; Matt. 12:1-8; Lk 6:1-5). He did not pay the two-drachma tax, except for only the 2 people who were discovered, out of the total of 13 in his party (Diatess. 17:22-26; Matt. 17:24-27. On this tax, which was voluntary at best, and illegal at worst, see my endnote in my translation of the gospel of Matthew.) It remains today, that some who consider themselves righteous are offended by these truths about Jesus' lifestyle. But "Blessed be whoever is not offended on account of me." "For the kingdom of God is not a matter of eating and drinking, but of righteousness, peace, and joy in the Holy Spirit." Romans 14:17

'Behold, I am sending my messenger
before your face,
who will prepare your way
before you.'<sup>440</sup>

<sup>28</sup>I tell you, among those born of women, no one is greater than John the Baptizer. Yet the one who is least in the kingdom of God is greater than he."

<sup>29</sup>(And all the people who heard, even the revenue agents, vindicated God, having been baptized with the baptism of John. <sup>30</sup>But the Pharisees and the lawyers, not baptized by him, rejected the purpose of God for themselves.)

<sup>31</sup>"To what, then, shall I compare the people of this generation? And what are they like?

<sup>32</sup>They are like children sitting in a marketplace and calling out one to the other, who say:

'We played the flute for you,
and you didn't dance;
we sang a dirge,
and you didn't cry.'

A Prostitute Washes Jesus' Feet with her Tears

<sup>36</sup>But a certain one of the Pharisees asked him to eat with him, and he went to the Pharisee's house and reclined.<sup>442</sup> <sup>37</sup>And behold, a woman who was being a sinner in that town came, who having learned that he is reclining at the Pharisee's house, had brought an alabaster bottle of perfume, <sup>38</sup>and appeared behind Jesus, weeping at his feet. And with the tears she began to bathe his feet. And with the hairs of her head she was wiping off, and earnestly kissing his feet, and anointing them with the perfume.

<sup>39</sup>When the Pharisee who had invited him saw this, he thought to himself as follows, "If this man were a prophet, he would know who and of what sort is the woman touching him— that she is a sinner."

<sup>40</sup>And Jesus spoke up, and said to him, "Simon, I have something to tell you."

"Tell me, teacher," he says.

<sup>441</sup> 7:35 Greek τέκνων; perhaps a misunderstanding of the Aramaic for "works." Which would make sense: emphasis on ALL. You have to look at ALL the works of a person, not judge on superficial things like eating and drinking, which in fact Paul says in Romans 14:17, but of righteousness, peace, and joy in the Holy Spirit.

<sup>442</sup> 7:36 In that time and culture, those eating a meal lay on a futon of sorts, on their sides and resting on an elbow, with their feet off the floor. That is how the woman could both stand behind him at his feet, and wipe his feet with her hair.

<sup>41</sup>"Two men were debtors to a certain moneylender. One owed five hundred denarii,<sup>443</sup> and the other fifty. <sup>42</sup>And as they did not have the money to pay him back, he freely forgave them both. Now which of them will love him more?"

And he said to him, "You have judged correctly." <sup>44</sup>And turning toward the woman, he was saying to Simon, "Do you see this woman? Your house I entered. Water you did not give me for my feet, but this woman bathed my feet with her tears, and wiped them off with her hair. <sup>45</sup>A kiss you did not give me, but this woman, from the time I entered, has not stopped earnestly kissing my feet. <sup>46</sup>With oil you did not anoint my head, but this woman with perfume anointed my feet. <sup>47</sup>For which reason, I tell you, her many sins have been forgiven, that she loved much. But someone who has been forgiven little, loves little."<sup>444</sup>

<sup>49</sup>And those reclining with him began to say to themselves, "Who is this who even forgives sins?"

<sup>50</sup>But he said to the woman, "Your faith has saved you. Go with peace."

Chapter 8

Jesus' Financiers

<sup>1</sup>And it came about after this that he traveled about through one city and village after another, proclaiming the good news of the kingdom of God. The Twelve were with him, <sup>2</sup>and also some women who had been cured of evil spirits and diseases: Mary, called the Magdalene,<sup>445</sup> from whom seven demons had come out; <sup>3</sup>and Joanna the wife of Kuza, the manager of Herod's household; and Susanna; plus many others; these women were providing for them out of their own means.

The Parable of the Sower

<sup>4</sup>And when a great crowd was coming together, people from every one of those towns coming toward him, he spoke by means of a parable: <sup>5</sup>"The sower went out to sow his seed. And in the process of sowing, some seed fell beside the way and was trampled on, and the birds of the sky devoured it. <sup>6</sup>And other seed fell on rock, and after it grew, it withered, having no way to get moisture. <sup>7</sup>And other seed fell in the midst of thorns, and the thorns grew up and choked it. <sup>8</sup>And other seed fell into good soil, and when grown it produced fruit a hundredfold."

<sup>444</sup> 7:47 Verse 47 is difficult in terms of Greek exegesis, and can't help but be influenced by one's existing beliefs regarding sin and salvation. Are the woman's many sins forgiven because she loved much? Or does she love much because her many sins are forgiven? Consult the many English translations, and you will be surprised to see which falls on which side of this problem. Nevertheless, a few things are clear: Jesus means to point out that the woman loved more because she was forgiven more. And also clear is where Jesus declared in verse 50 that it was her faith that had saved her. And it was not faith without repentance. For her weeping and humility could indicate repentance, and since Jesus knew the hearts of all humans (John 2:24-25; Diatess. 5:36), he apparently knew that in her was true repentance.

<sup>445</sup> 8:2 A Magdalene is someone who is from the town of Magdala, just as a Seattleite is someone who is from the city of Seattle.

After he said these things, he called out, "Whoever has ears to hear, hear."

The Parable of the Sower Explained

<sup>9</sup>And his disciples asked him the intent<sup>446</sup> of this parable, <sup>10</sup>and he said, "To you it is given such that you will know the mysteries of the kingdom of God, but to the rest in parables,<sup>447</sup> so that,

""Though seeing, they will not see,
and though hearing,
they will not understand."<sup>448</sup>

<sup>11</sup> "This, then, means the parable: The seed is the word of God. <sup>12</sup>And the ones beside the way are those who when they hear, next comes the devil, and takes away the word from their heart, so that they will not believe and be saved. <sup>13</sup>And the ones on the rock are those who when they hear, receive the word with joy. They are also ones who have no root, and believe for a time, and in the time of trial shrink back. <sup>14</sup>And the seed falling in the thorns, these are those who hear, and as they go, are choked by the worries and riches and pleasures of life, and do not bear fruit to the end. <sup>15</sup>And the seed in good soil, these are those who when they hear the word, retain it in a good and worthy heart, and bear fruit with perseverance.

<sup>16</sup>"Now no one after lighting a lamp covers it with a bucket, or puts it under a bed, but instead puts it on the lamp stand, so that those coming in may see the light. <sup>17</sup>For there is nothing hidden that will not be made manifest, nor secret, that will not become clearly known, and come into illumination. <sup>18</sup>Watch therefore how you listen, for whoever has, it will be granted him, and whoever has not, even what he seems to have will be taken away from him."

<sup>446</sup> 8:9 The Greek word is the 3rd person, singular, present, optative form of the verb 'to be.' It says, literally, "What is the being of this parable?" Except in optative mood. "What is this parable supposed to be? Except there must be a word which encompasses both 'meaning' and 'reason for being.' Thus, "What is this parable meant to accomplish?" The word 'essence' comes to mind, but 'essence' does not include the "reason why you speak in parables" idea. The word 'intent' encompasses the meanings "import, significance, and meaning," and also the mood of potential. We know this 'why' meaning must be part of the meaning of the disciples' question, both because of Jesus' answer, explaining 'why' he used parables; and also from the parallel account in Matthew 13:10, where the disciples say simply, "Why do you speak to the people in parables." (In Mark it is very ambiguous.) Luke elsewhere in his Greek uses the word 'to be' for the meaning and intent of impersonal events. See for example, Acts 2:12, where in reference to the disciples' speaking in dozens of languages simultaneously, the onlookers say, literally, "What does this wish to be?" But instead of the verb 'to be' in the optative mood, 'to be' is an infinitive, and the verb 'thelo' for 'wish, will' is used with it. However, Luke uses the exact same inflection of this same verb in Luke 3:15 as here in 8:9, where the crowd wonders if John the Baptizer might possibly be the Messiah.

<sup>447</sup> 8:10a Or, "To you it is granted (perfect tense) to know the mysteries of the kingdom of God, but to the rest in parables, so that..." The problem with this latter reading is determining what verb is to be implied or supplied for the phrase "but to the rest in parables." This is why I interpreted the infinitive as one of result: "such that you will know." Then the same idea, that is the idea, "in such a way," easily carries over to the "but to them in parables."

Jesus' Mother and Brothers

<sup>19</sup>And his mother and brothers came to him, and were not able to get near him because of the crowd. <sup>20</sup>And it was reported to him, "Your mother and brothers are standing outside, wanting to see you."

<sup>21</sup>But he in answer said to them, "These are my mother and brothers, the ones hearing and doing the word of God."

Jesus Commands the Elements

<sup>22</sup>And it came about in one of the days that he and his disciples had gotten into a boat, that he said to them, "Let's cross over to the other side of the lake." And they put out to sea.

<sup>23</sup>And as they sailed, he fell asleep. And a storm of wind came down onto the lake, and they were being swamped, and in great danger.

<sup>24</sup>And after approaching him, they roused him, saying, "Master, we are going to die!"

And when he was awake, he rebuked the wind, and the roughness of the water, and they stopped, and it was calm. <sup>25</sup>And he said to them, "Where is your faith?"

But they were amazed and fearful, saying to one another, "Who then is this? For he even commands the wind and the water, and they obey him!"

The Legion of Demons Near Gadara

<sup>26</sup>And they sailed down into the territory of the Gadarenes,<sup>449</sup> which is opposite Galilee. <sup>27</sup>And as he was going on shore, a certain man from the town met him, demon-possessed, and not having put clothes on for quite some time, and who was living not in a house but in the tombs.

<sup>28</sup>And when he saw Jesus, he fell down before him crying out, and in a loud voice he said: "What business is there between you and me, O Jesus, you son of the Most High God? I beg you, do not torture me!"

<sup>29</sup>For Jesus was commanding the evil spirit to come out of the man. For many times it had possessed him, and he would be bound with chains and leg irons and guarded, but tearing the bonds apart, he would be driven by the demon into solitary places.

<sup>30</sup>And Jesus questioned him: "What is your name?"

And he said, "Legion."<sup>450</sup> For many demons had entered into him. <sup>31</sup>And they begged him that he would not order them to depart into the Abyss.

<sup>32</sup>And a considerable herd of pigs was feeding there on a hillside, and they pled with him that he allow them to enter into them, and he allowed them.

<sup>449</sup> 8:26 Some manuscripts say Gerasenes, some Gadarenes, some Gergesenes. Topographically (the right cliffs, and the prepositional phrase of Lk 8:26, "down to the territory of..."), and culturally (the raising of pigs), Gadarenes is the most likely, which is the reading of Matthew 8:28. For Luke 8:26, both the UBS4 and NA26 read Γερασηνῶν, and the UBS4 gives that a {C} rating of certainty.

<sup>450</sup> 8:30 Among the Romans a legion was a select body of soldiers— a complete army of cavalry and infantry, numbering from 4,200 to 6,000 men, usually with approximately an equal number of auxiliary troops, thus totaling about 10,000. The legion was divided into ten cohorts of 1,000 each. In this case, a more general meaning of the word legion probably applies: a very large number.

<sup>33</sup>So coming out from the man, the demons entered into the pigs, and the herd rushed down the steep bank into the lake, and drowned.

<sup>34</sup>And seeing what had happened, the herders fled, and reported to the town and to the farms. <sup>35</sup>And they came out to see what had happened. And they came to Jesus, and found the man from whom the demons had gone out sitting at Jesus' feet, dressed, and in his right mind, and they were afraid. <sup>36</sup>And the ones who had seen reported to them how the demon-possessed man had been cured. <sup>37</sup>And all the population of the neighborhood of the Gadarenes asked him to go away from them, for they were overcome with great fear. So he got into the boat and turned back.

<sup>38</sup>But the man from whom the demons had gone out begged to accompany him. But he sent him away, saying, <sup>39</sup>"Return to your house, and recount all the things God has done for you." And he went throughout the whole town, proclaiming what things Jesus had done for him.

A Dead Damsel and a Sick Woman

<sup>40</sup>And upon his return a crowd was welcoming him, for they were all expecting him. <sup>41</sup>And behold, a man had come whose name was Jairus, and he was a synagogue ruler. And falling at Jesus' feet, he begged him to come to his house, <sup>42</sup>because he had an only daughter, about twelve years of age, and she was dying.

And as he was on his way, the crowds were pinching him in. <sup>43</sup>And a woman suffering a flow of blood since twelve years, who had not been able to get healing from anyone, <sup>44</sup>came up behind and touched the tassel<sup>451</sup> of his cloak, and immediately her flow of blood stopped.

<sup>45</sup>And Jesus said, "Who was it touching me?"

When everyone denied it, Peter said, "Master, the crowds are pushing in together and jostling you."

<sup>46</sup>But Jesus said, "Someone touched me, for I sensed power going out from me."

<sup>47</sup>Then the woman, seeing that she was not going unnoticed, came, trembling.<sup>452</sup> And falling at his feet, she related before all the people the reason she had touched him, and how she had been instantly healed. <sup>48</sup>And he said to her, "Daughter, your faith has healed you. Go with peace."

<sup>49</sup>While he was still speaking, someone comes from the synagogue ruler's, saying, "Your daughter has died. Don't trouble the teacher any more."

<sup>50</sup>But having heard, Jesus responded to him, "Don't be afraid. Only believe, and she will be healed."

<sup>51</sup>And when he went into the house, he did not allow anyone to enter with him except Peter and John and James, and the father of the maiden and the mother. <sup>52</sup>And all were weeping and wailing for her. But he said, "Do not weep. She is not dead but sleeping." <sup>53</sup>And they laughed scornfully at him, knowing that she had died.

<sup>452</sup> 8:47 The reason for her fear was probably because she knew she had violated the Rabbi's cleanness. As a woman with a flow of blood, she was perpetually unclean ceremonially (Leviticus 15:25-31), and the others in the crowd, were they to touch her, would be unclean as well.

<sup>54</sup>Then, holding her hand, he called out, as follows: "Damsel, wake up!"<sup>453</sup> <sup>55</sup>And her spirit returned, and she stood up at once, and he ordered that she be given something to eat. <sup>56</sup>And her parents were astonished. Then he charged them not to tell anyone what had happened.

Jesus Sends Out the Twelve

<sup>4</sup>"And into whatever house you might enter, there remain, and from there go forward. <sup>5</sup>And all the places that do not welcome you, going forth from that town, shake the dust off your feet, as a testimony against them."

<sup>6</sup>And going forth they went throughout all the villages, preaching the good news, and healing everywhere.

<sup>453</sup> 8:54 The Greek verb is ἐγείρω - egeírō and would generally mean "rouse yourself; wake up; get up." In figurative use it means, "wake up from death," or in the passive, "be raised from the dead." So also with the Greek word ἀνίστημι - anístēmi, which means "stand up," but which spiritually means "rise from the dead."

The UBS (singular) reading would mean Jesus is saying, "Take nothing for the journey, neither a staff..." Whereas in Mark 6:8, both Greek texts say that Jesus instructed them "that they should take nothing for the trip except a staff only." Did an Alexandrian copyist accidentally change the number of this word to the singular in conformity with the surrounding subjects in the phrase? Or did a later copyist that gave us the Byzantine tradition change it to the plural in an attempt to eliminate the contradiction with Mark 6:8? Some interpreters say that the plural of staffs is similar to how Jesus tells them, later in the same verse of Luke 9:3, not to take more than one tunic. So let us suppose that that is true, that Jesus told them to take only one staff each, instead of more than one staff each. Then the question arises: why would anyone take more than one staff anyway? And have you ever seen anyone use more than one staff at a time? I think I have seen that once or twice in my lifetime, and that was because the person was lame or injured. (Actually, in 2007 I just met a guy who does use two walking sticks; he is not injured. They are metal, somewhat like ski poles. It seemed ridiculous to me; he is apt to catch one on something and trip over it.) But we have no reason to think here that any of the disciples was lame or injured. The only other reason that I could come up with as a reason why the disciples might take more than one staff each, was to carry a spare staff. To do that would not make much sense to me though, as someone who has done a lot of hiking in my lifetime (for lack of automobile roads in my part of New Guinea). I would not want to carry the extra weight or bulk for insufficient reason. But then again, I hiked in rain forest, where I could cut myself a new walking stick at any time without any trouble finding one. The disciples, on the other hand, were hiking in a place much more arid, where it would not be near as easy to find another walking stick after the rocky surface had worn down their first one.

Herod Hears of Jesus

<sup>7</sup>Now Herod the tetrarch heard about all that was going on, and kept becoming perplexed, because it was said by some that John had been raised from the dead, <sup>8</sup>and by some that Elijah had appeared, and still others that a prophet, one of the Ancients, had come back to life.

<sup>9</sup>But Herod said, "John, I beheaded. Who, then, is this I hear such things about?" And he tried to see  $\pi$ him.

Jesus Feeds the Five Thousand

<sup>10</sup>And when the apostles returned, they reported to him what things they had done. Then he took them, and retreated in private toward a town called Bethsaida.<sup>457</sup> <sup>11</sup>But the crowds who knew, followed him. So, welcoming them, he spoke to them about the kingdom of God, and the ones having need of healing, he cured.

<sup>12</sup>But the daylight began to decline, and the twelve approached and said to him, "Dismiss the crowd, so they can go to the surrounding villages and farms to sleep and find supplies. Because here, we are in a remote place."

<sup>13</sup>And he said to them, "You give them something to eat."

But they said, "We have no more than five loaves and two fish, unless we were to go and buy food for all this crowd." <sup>14</sup>For there were about five thousand men.

And he said to his disciples, "Get them to recline in groups of about fifty each." <sup>15</sup>And they did so, and got them all to recline. <sup>16</sup>And taking the loaves and the two fish, and looking up to heaven, he blessed them and broke them, and gave to the disciples to set before the people.

<sup>17</sup>And they all ate and were satisfied, and their leftovers picked up were twelve large baskets of fragments.

Peter's Confession of Messiah

<sup>18</sup>And it came about that, when he was praying in private, the disciples were with him, and he queried them, saying, "Who do the crowds maintain me to be?"

<sup>19</sup>And they in answer said, "John the Baptizer; and others, Elijah; and others that a prophet, one of the Ancients, has risen again."

<sup>20</sup>And he said to them, "But you, who do you maintain me to be?"

And Peter in answer said, "The Christ<sup>458</sup> of God."

<sup>457</sup> 9:10 There are a great variety of readings in the Greek manuscripts here, I think arising from many scribes' simplistic understanding of the preposition  $\epsilon\iota\varsigma$  having to mean "into Bethsaida," and then changing the text in order to eliminate a perceived contradiction. But Luke in his gospel and Acts often uses the preposition  $\epsilon\iota\varsigma$  to mean "toward." There is no contradiction here in the UBS text with other gospels, since the rendering, "retreated toward Bethsaida" allows them to have stopped before reaching Bethsaida, stopped in a deserted place. The reading in the UBS text best explains the rise of all the other readings, and is original. The usual renderings of the Majority Text, such as "retreated into a deserted place belonging to the city of Bethsaida" sound concocted and unnatural do they not?

<sup>458</sup> 9:20 That is, the Anointed One of God, or God's anointed; the one God chose and enabled to be the Messiah, prophet, priest and king of Israel.

Jesus Predicts His Death

<sup>21</sup>But he, admonishing them, charged them to tell this to no one, <sup>22</sup>saying, "The Son of Man must suffer many things and be rejected by the elders, the chief priests, and Torah scholars, and be killed, and on the third day be raised again."

<sup>23</sup>Then toward everyone he was saying, "If someone wants to come after me, he must deny himself, and take up his cross daily, and follow me. <sup>24</sup>For whoever wants to save his life will lose it; but whoever loses his life for my sake, this one will save it. <sup>25</sup>For how does it benefit a human being when he has gained the whole world, but has lost or been forfeited his very self? <sup>26</sup>For whoever is ashamed of me and of my words, that person the Son of Man will be ashamed of, when he comes in his glory, and of the Father, and of the holy angels. <sup>27</sup>But truly I say to you: There are some, of the ones standing here, who will certainly not taste death until they see the kingdom of God."

The Transfiguration

<sup>28</sup>And it came about, something like eight days after these words, that having taken Peter and John and James, he went up into the mountain, to pray. <sup>29</sup>And it came about that as he prayed, the appearance of his face was different, and his clothes were a glistening white. <sup>30</sup>And behold, two men were conversing with him, who were Moses and Elijah, <sup>31</sup>who, having been made visible in glory, were relating about the exodus<sup>459</sup> of him, which was soon to be coming true in Jerusalem.

<sup>32</sup>But Peter and the ones with him were heavy-eyed with sleepiness. But when they had fully woken up, they saw his glory, and the two men standing with him. <sup>33</sup>And it came about that as those were moving off from Jesus, Peter said to him, "O Master, it is good for us to be here, and we should make three shelters, one for you and one for Moses and one for Elijah." (Not knowing what he is saying.)

The Disciples Accused of Impotence to Heal

<sup>37</sup>And it came about that during the following day, as they were coming down from the mountain, a large crowd met him. <sup>38</sup>And behold, a man in the crowd shouted out, saying, "Teacher, I beg of you to look at my son; because he is my only born, <sup>39</sup>and behold, a spirit takes

It is much easier to explain why copyists would change it to "beloved," than why they would change it to "chosen." This is an example of "scribal assimilation," where the copyists, whether deliberately, or merely because they were more familiar with the other gospels, changed the reading to harmonize it with Matthew's gospel, or even Luke's account of the baptism of Jesus, where God says, "My beloved Son." Or perhaps the concept of "chosen son," since God had only one son, was too difficult, leading copyists to change it to agree with Matthew.

<sup>41</sup>And in response Jesus said, "O unbelieving and perverted generation, how long must I be with you, and put up with you? Bring your son here."

<sup>42</sup>And even as he was approaching Him, the demon dashed him to the ground, and thrashed him back and forth. But Jesus rebuked the unclean spirit, and the child was restored to wholeness, and He gave him back to his father. <sup>43</sup>And all were struck by the majesty of God.

And while everyone marvelled at all that he was doing, he said to his disciples, <sup>44</sup>"You place into your ears these words. For the Son of Man is about to be transferred into<sup>461</sup> the hands of human beings."

<sup>45</sup>But they were not understanding this statement, and the meaning was being kept hidden from them, with the result that they did not see it.<sup>462</sup> And they were afraid to ask him about this statement.

Who Is the Greatest?

<sup>47</sup>And Jesus, knowing the contention of their hearts, took a child by the hand, and stood him next to himself. <sup>48</sup>And he said to them, "Whoever welcomes this child on the basis of my name, is welcoming me, and whoever welcomes me, is welcoming the one who sent me. For the person who is smallest among you all, that is who is great."

Do Not Hinder Other Camps of God's People

<sup>49</sup>And in response, John said, "Master, we saw someone casting out demons in your name, and we tried to stop<sup>466</sup> him; for he is not following you together with us."<sup>467</sup>

<sup>461</sup> 9:44 Turned over to, delivered into the custody or jurisdiction of.

<sup>462</sup> 9:45 The verb "to see" in the Greek is in the infinitive form, which DeBrunner [§391(5)] says is an "infinitive of result." This would mean that, instead of the meaning being hidden "with the intended purpose that they would not see it," the sense would be a little weaker, that it was hidden from them, "and the result was that they did not see it."

<sup>463</sup> 9:46a Verse 46 begins with the conjunctive or transitional particle δὲ - dè. The sense seems to be still connected to v. 45, in that there, Jesus admonished them to be sure to understand that he was soon going to be apparently defeated, but they did not understand this, and indeed, as illustration that they did not understand, a contention next arose in them as to who of them is greatest in Jesus' imminent (so they thought) rising to rule over Israel.

<sup>464</sup> 9:46b The Greek phrase is the verb εἰσερχομαι - eisérchomai combined with the prepositional phrase ἐν αὐτοῖς - en autoîs. Eisérchomai means "enter into," and the preposition "en" would usually mean "in," but speaking of a group, as here, could mean "among." The BAG lexicon gives two possibilities for eisérchomai, both "entered into them," 1 b β on p. 232d, and "arose among them," 2 b on p. 233b. The BDF Greek Grammar in §202 under "Eis-" says the preposition "en" here is used as "eis," or "into." And in §218, Blass is adamant that the "en" here in Luke 9:46 is an example of the "hyper-correct use of "en" (in) for "eis" (into), the most obvious and certain of which are Lk 9:46 'came into them, into their hearts' (cf. v. 47)..." The thing for Blass that re-inforces in his mind that the debate "entered their hearts," is that in the next verse, it says Jesus "knew what was in their hearts." This makes much sense. Yet no English translation that I possess follows Blass in this. But for me, the combination of Bauer and Blass are authorities too great to controvert.

<sup>50</sup>But Jesus said to him, "Do not stop such, for someone who is not against you is for you."

Jesus Rejected by a Samaritan Village

<sup>51</sup>And it came about that the days leading to his being taken up were running out, and he set his face to head toward Jerusalem. <sup>52</sup>And he sent out messengers before his face. And when they proceeded forth they went into a Samaritan village, so as to prepare it for him. <sup>53</sup>And they did not welcome him, because his face was heading toward Jerusalem.

<sup>54</sup>And when they saw this, the disciples James and John said, "Lord, do you will that we command fire to come down from heaven and consume them?" <sup>468</sup>

The Cost of Following Jesus

<sup>57</sup>And as they were proceeding on the way, someone said to him, "I will follow you, wherever you might go."

<sup>58</sup>And Jesus said to him, "The foxes have dens, and the birds of the sky, nestling places, but the Son of Man has nowhere he can lay his head."

<sup>59</sup>And to another man, he said, "Follow me."

But he said, "Lord, give me leave to first go and bury my father."

<sup>60</sup>But Jesus said to him, "Leave those who are dead to bury their dead themselves; and you, after you have come away, <sup>471</sup> you publicize the kingdom of God."

<sup>466</sup> 9:49 The Greek verb for "stop" or "bar," κωλύω - kōlūō, is in the imperfect form, which DeBrunner in §326 says is a "conative imperfect," which means "tried to prevent." A little over half of my English translations agree, and render this as "tried to" stop, or something similar.

<sup>467</sup> 9:49 According to DeBrunner, BDF §193(1), this is an "associative (committative) dative," thus, not meaning "following us," but rather, "following [you] together with us."

<sup>471</sup> 9:60 Or, "after you have gone away." It could mean, either after the man leaves Jesus, or after the man leaves (comes away from) the dead. In Greek, the word for "come" was the same as the word for "go." The context here allows the possibility of either. Something else to think about is that in this one conversation between Jesus and the man who wanted to bury his father, three different Greek words are used that could be translated "leave" in English: ἐπιτρέπω - epitrepō ("give me leave"), ἀπέρχομαι - apérchomai (twice, "go off" and "come away"), and ἀφίημι - aphīēmi ("leave").

<sup>61</sup>And another also said, "I will follow you, Lord. But first give me leave to say farewell to my household."

<sup>62</sup>But Jesus said, "No one putting hand to plow and looking back to the things behind, is cut out for the kingdom of God."

Chapter 10

Jesus Sends Out the Seventy-Two

<sup>1</sup>And after these things, the Lord appointed another seventy-two,<sup>472</sup> and sent them out two by two before his face, into every town and place where he himself was about to go. <sup>2</sup>And he was saying to them, "The crop is large, but the workers are few. Request therefore of the lord of the harvest, that he send out workers into his harvest. <sup>3</sup>Be on your way. Behold, I am sending you out like sheep in the midst of wolves. <sup>4</sup>You must carry no moneybag, no knapsack, no sandals, and greet no one along the way."<sup>473</sup>

<sup>5</sup>"And into whatever house you enter, first you say, 'Peace to this house.' <sup>6</sup>And if a child of peace is there, your peace will settle upon him. Otherwise, it will bounce back onto you. <sup>7</sup>And in that same house you are to remain, eating and drinking the things belonging to them; for the worker is worthy of his pay; you are not to be moving from house to house.

<sup>8</sup>"And into whatever town you enter that<sup>474</sup> they welcome you, eat the things being set before you, <sup>9</sup>and heal the sick in it, and say to them, 'The kingdom of God has drawn over you.' <sup>10</sup>But into whatever town you enter that they do not welcome you, go out into the streets of it, and say, <sup>11</sup>'Even the dust sticking to us from your town onto our feet, we are shaking off to you. Even so, know this, that the kingdom of God has drawn near.' <sup>12</sup>I assure you, it will be more bearable for Sodom in That Day, than for that town.

<sup>13</sup>"Woe to you, Khorazin! Woe to you, Bethsaida! For if the miracles that took place in you took place in Tyre and Sidon, they would have repented long ago, sitting in sackcloth and ashes. <sup>14</sup>In any case, it will be more bearable in the judgment for Tyre and Sidon than for you. <sup>15</sup>And you, Capernaum, will you be lifted up to heaven? You will go down to Hades!"<sup>475</sup>

<sup>16</sup>"The person who listens to you is listening to me, and the one rejecting you, is rejecting me. And the one rejecting me, is rejecting the one who sent me."

<sup>473</sup> 10:4 The meaning of the Greek is such that these commands and prohibitions are generally valid, for the whole campaign, and not just right now as they are first leaving.

<sup>474</sup> 10:8 A Hebraism, the substituting of kai for oti. Also in verse 10.

<sup>475</sup> 10:15 This sentence is quite different in some manuscripts, as also Matthew 11:23. It appears that what I have above, is the original reading. But various transcriptional factors involving the way Greek was written without spaces between words (see the UBS Textual Commentary) and also seemingly a better contextual sense, caused copyists to change the verbs from "will you be exalted" to "you who are exalted," and from "you will go down," to "you will be brought down." Regarding the "You Capernaum, you who are exalted to heaven," the context speaks of what chance each city had to see the light, and experience the kingdom of God having drawn near over them. It does make sense to me, as perhaps to some of the manuscript copyists, that the point Jesus is making is that Capernaum, having been Jesus' base of operations, and his "own town," had already been lifted up to heaven, compared to any other town, in terms of the kingdom of heaven having drawn near. But the UBS textual commentary says, "The unexpected expression, 'And you, Capernaum, will you be exalted to heaven?' is a sharp and startling interrogation, entirely in the manner of Jesus' use of vivid language."

<sup>18</sup>And he said to them, "I was watching as Satan fell from heaven like lightning.

<sup>19</sup>"Behold, I have given you authority to tread upon snakes and scorpions, and over all the power of the enemy; and nothing will by any means harm you. <sup>20</sup>Nevertheless, do not rejoice in this, that the spirits submit to you; but rejoice that your names are written down in heaven."

<sup>21</sup>In that same hour, he exulted in the Holy Spirit, and said, "I praise you, Father, O Lord of heaven and earth, that you have hidden these things from the learned and intelligent, and revealed them to babes. Yes, O Father, for that is what was pleasing in your sight.

<sup>22</sup>"Everything has been turned over to me by my Father, and no one knows who the Son is, except the Father; and who the Father is, except the Son, and those to whom the Son decides to reveal it."

<sup>23</sup>And after he had turned toward his disciples privately, he said, "Blessed are the eyes that see what you see. <sup>24</sup>For I tell you, many prophets and kings wanted to see what you are seeing, and did not see it, and to hear what you are hearing, and did not hear it."

The Parable of the Good Samaritan

<sup>25</sup>And behold, a lawyer arose, testing him, saying, "Teacher, what must I do to inherit eternal life?"

<sup>26</sup>And he said to him, "What is written in the law? What is your reading of it?"<sup>476</sup>

<sup>27</sup>And he in answer said, "You shall love Yahweh your God from your whole heart, and with all your soul, and with all your strength, and with all your mind, and your neighbor as yourself."

<sup>28</sup>And He said, "You have answered correctly. Do this, and you will live."

<sup>29</sup>But wanting to justify himself, he said to Jesus, "And who is my neighbor?"

<sup>30</sup>In reply, Jesus said, "A certain man was going down from Jerusalem to Jericho, and he fell among bandits. And they, when they had stripped him and inflicted wounds, went away, leaving him half dead. <sup>31</sup>And by chance a priest was going down that road, and when he saw him, he avoided him. <sup>32</sup>And likewise also a Levite, when he came near that place and saw, passed on around. <sup>33</sup>But a certain Samaritan came traveling by him, and when he saw, was moved with pity. <sup>34</sup>And he approached and stopped up his wounds, and applied olive oil and wine. And mounting him on his own animal, he took him to an inn and took care of him. <sup>35</sup>And on the morrow, he took out two denarii,<sup>477</sup> gave them to the innkeeper, and said, 'Take care of him, and whatever you spend beyond this, I will reimburse you when I return.'

<sup>37</sup>And he said, "The one who did the mercy with him."

And Jesus said to him, "Go yourself and do likewise."

Jesus at Mary and Martha's House

<sup>38</sup>And when he moved on, he entered a certain village. And a woman by the name of Martha housed him. <sup>39</sup>There was also a sister to that one, named Mary, and she having sat down at the Lord's feet, was listening to his word.

<sup>40</sup>But Martha was being drawn away by many chores of hospitality. But when she did come over, she said, "Lord, doesn't it concern you that my sister has left me to serve alone? Tell her therefore that she should help carry the load with me."

<sup>41</sup>But in answer, Jesus said to her, "Martha, Martha. You are getting concerned and agitated over many things. <sup>42</sup>But there is only one thing that warrants it. For Mary has selected the good portion, which will not be taken away from her."

Chapter 11

Prayer

<sup>1</sup>And it came about when he was praying in a certain place, that as he was finishing, a certain one of his disciples said to him, "Lord, teach us to pray, even as John taught his disciples."

<sup>2</sup>And he said to them, "When you pray, say:

" 'Father, <sup>478</sup> hallowed be your name.

May your kingdom come. <sup>479</sup>

<sup>3</sup>Give us each day our daily bread.

<sup>4</sup>And forgive us our sins,

for we ourselves forgive

everyone who is indebted to us.

And lead us not into temptation.' " <sup>480</sup>

<sup>5</sup>And he said to them, "Suppose one of you shall have a friend, and will go to him at midnight and say to him, 'Friend, lend me three loaves, <sup>6</sup>because a friend of mine has shown up, from a journey toward me, and I have nothing to set before him.'

<sup>7</sup>"That one inside may say in answer, 'Do not cause me hassles. The door is already shut up, and my children are in bed with me. I can't get up to give you something.' <sup>8</sup>I tell you, even if he will not get up and give you something because of being your friend, yet because of brash persistence on your part he will get up, and give you as much as you need.

Jesus and Baalzibbul

<sup>14</sup>And he was casting out a demon of muteness.<sup>482</sup> And it came about that after the demon went out, the mute man spoke. And the crowd was amazed.

<sup>15</sup>But some of them said, "It is by Ba'al-zibbul,<sup>483</sup> the prince of demons, that he drives out the demons." <sup>16</sup>And others, testing, wanted from him a sign out of heaven.

<sup>17</sup>But he, knowing their thoughts, said to them, "Every kingdom divided against itself is desolated, and a house divided against itself falls. <sup>18</sup>So also, if Satan was divided against himself, how will his kingdom stand? I say this because you claim I drive out the demons by Baal-zibbul. <sup>19</sup>Now if I drive out the demons by Baal-zibbul, by whom do your followers drive them out? So then, they will be your judges. <sup>20</sup>But if I am driving out demons by the finger of God, then the kingdom of God has come upon you.

<sup>24</sup>"When an evil spirit comes out of a human being, it goes through waterless places, seeking rest. And not finding it, at that time<sup>484</sup> it says, 'I will return to the house from which I came out.' <sup>25</sup>And when it arrives, it finds the house unoccupied, swept clean and put in order. <sup>26</sup>Then it goes and brings with it seven other spirits more wicked than itself, and they come inside and live there. And the final condition of that human is worse than the first."

---

<sup>481</sup> 11:10 The "continuous" aspect of the Greek verbs here is a part of their meaning that is essential to this passage. In fact, the whole point of the parable is persistence, verse 8. So to translate v. 9 as, "Ask, and it will be given to you," would be incorrect and misleading. Someone might interpret it to mean that you will only have to ask once.

<sup>482</sup> 11:14 Greek: ἐκβάλλων δαιμόνιον κωφόν· Later manuscripts read, ἐκβάλλων δαιμόνιον, καὶ αὐτὸ ἦν κωφόν· - "And he was casting out a demon, and it was mute. And it came about..." Though that would be in the style of Luke, in a Semitism for saying, "a demon that was mute," the textual evidence for the shorter reading, "a demon of muteness," is just too strong.

<sup>483</sup> 11:15 Some Greek manuscripts, Beelzeboul, others, Beezeboul, Beelzebub. The Textus Receptus, KJV and NKJV say Beelzebub, even though there is not one Greek manuscript that says that; only a few Latin and Syriac. Beelzeboul comes from the Hebrew Ba'al-zibbul. "Ba'al" means Lord or Prince. Ba'al was a Canaanite god, the son of Dagon, the god of grain. Baal was the bull prince, the bull being a symbol of fertility. Ba'alzebub, as in the Hebrew text of II Kings 1:2, is a derisive alteration of Ba'alzibbul meaning "Prince of flies." In this way the followers of Yahweh made fun of Ba'al. Later the name Baalzebub became associated with the Aramaic Beeldebaba, "enemy." Thus the conflation of Ba'alzebub and Beeldebaba, "Beelzebub," came to be a name for Satan. To avoid confusion in all the names, this author thought it best to revert to the original form of the name.

<sup>484</sup> 11:24 Many early witnesses do not include the word τότε ("then," or "at that time."). It is suspect as a scribal assimilation to the parallel in Matthew 12:44.

Six Woes

<sup>37</sup>And as he was speaking, a Pharisee asks him to have lunch with him; so having gone inside, he reclined. <sup>38</sup>And the Pharisee when he saw, was shocked that he did not first baptize before the meal.<sup>489</sup>

<sup>39</sup>And the Lord said to him, "As it is, you Pharisees clean the outside of the cup and platter, but the inside of you is loaded with acquisitiveness<sup>490</sup> and wickedness.

<sup>42</sup>"But woe to you, Pharisees! For you tithe the mint, and even the rue<sup>493</sup> and every kind of garden herb, and neglect the justice and the love of God. But these latter things you ought to practice, without leaving the former undone.

<sup>43</sup>"Woe to you, Pharisees! For you love the prominent seats in the synagogues, and the greetings in the marketplaces.

<sup>44</sup>"Woe to you! For you are like graves that are not marked, and the people when walking over them do not know it."<sup>494</sup>

<sup>45</sup>And in response, someone from the class of lawyers says to him, "Teacher, in saying these things, you are insulting us also."

<sup>46</sup>But he said, "And to you lawyers also, woe! For you make people carry loads oppressive to bear, and you yourselves, not one of your fingers do you touch to such loads.

<sup>47</sup>"Woe to you! For you build mausoleums for the prophets, and it was your forefathers who murdered them. <sup>48</sup>So then, approving witnesses you are, to the deeds of your forefathers; for they kill<sup>495</sup> them, and you build.

<sup>489</sup> 11:38 The Greek word βαπτίζω - baptízō was used for the ceremonial dunking of not only human beings' bodies (vessels), but for the ceremonial dunking of dishes and hands as well. But because the word has been transliterated into English only in the case of dunking the human body, English speakers have not acquired a full understanding of what it means. This translator therefore thought it best to transliterate the word in every instance.

<sup>490</sup> 11:39 Acquisitiveness means continuously acquiring things, always wanting more things. This is wickedness, both because it makes an idol of possessions over and above God, and also because there are so many people who have little. It has already been established in the gospel of Luke, 3:11, that one fruit characteristic of repentance, was to give away extra things you had, to the poor.

<sup>491</sup> 11:41a Somewhat a play on words. Their inside is "loaded up" with wickedness, and Jesus segues from that to the idea of the inside of their warehouse, or perhaps their platter, being loaded up with goods, which is evil in itself; but if they give what is lying inside to the poor, the inside of their vessel will be clean. Another play on words is that in New Testament Greek, "vessel" sometimes means your body, which is your container or dish, so to speak.

<sup>492</sup> 11:41b A variable here is the dative case of the words meaning "for you" in the phrase πάντα καθαρὰ ὑμῖν ἐστίν. Some translations say "for you," others "to you," and others leave it untranslated altogether. The rendering "clean for you" is easy enough to understand. Clean "to you" could be an "ethical dative," meaning "clean in your sight." For the N.T. teaches that some things are clean to some people, but unclean to others, depending on their conscience. Perhaps here, the giving to charity changes the evil conscience of the rich. When a rich person is rich selfishly, he has an evil conscience, and his wealth can be unclean in his own eyes, whereas if he is generous, he no longer feels guilty? Something to think about. Paul said in Romans 14:14, "to him that thinks any thing to be unclean, to him it is unclean."

<sup>493</sup> 11:42 Another garden herb, ruta graveolens. Deuteronomy 14:22 commands the Israelites to give God a tithe from all their crops. But according to the Mishna (Shebi'ith IX 1; cf. Billerb. II 189) it was not necessary to tithe the rue. Hence Jesus' words, "even" the rue.

<sup>494</sup> 11:44 Jesus is bringing up an analogy much more grave than is apparent, unless one is familiar with Numbers 19:16-22. At stake is whether someone remained an Israelite, or was cut off from Israel. If an Israelite touched a grave, he was unclean for seven days. If after he touched a grave, he did not do the prescribed cleansing process, he was to be cut off from Israel.

<sup>49</sup>"For this reason also the wisdom of God has said, 'I am sending to them prophets and apostles; and some of them they will kill, and some of them they will persecute,' <sup>50</sup>with the result that the blood of all the prophets spilled since the founding of the world will be demanded of this generation, <sup>51</sup>from the blood of Abel, up until the blood of Zechariah, who perished between the altar and the sanctuary; yes, I tell you, all will be demanded of this generation.

<sup>52</sup>"Woe to you, lawyers! For you have taken away the key to the door of knowledge. You yourselves have not gone in, and the ones going in you have barred."<sup>496</sup>

<sup>53</sup>And then as he went forth from there, the Torah scholars and Pharisees began to be extremely hostile, and to provoke him to speak unpreparedly<sup>497</sup> about a great variety of topics, <sup>54</sup>ambushing him, to pounce on something coming from his mouth.

Warnings and Encouragements

<sup>1</sup>When a vast multitude had gathered, such that they were trampling on one another, he began to say to his disciples first, "Be on your guard against the yeast of the Pharisees, which is hypocrisy. <sup>2</sup>But<sup>498</sup> there is nothing covered up that will not be revealed, and nothing secret that will not be made known. <sup>3</sup>Therefore, what things you have said in the darkness, will be heard in the light, and what you have spoken close to an ear in the cellars, will be proclaimed on the housetops.

<sup>4</sup>"I tell you, my friends, do not be afraid of the ones killing the body, and after that having nothing worse left to do. <sup>5</sup>But I will suggest to you whom you should fear. Fear the one who after the killing, has the power to cast into Gehenna. Yes, I tell you, fear him.

<sup>496</sup> 11:52 The Greek verb I translated "barred" is κωλύω - kōlúō, which is related to the word for "limb" of the body, κῶλον - kōlon. Thus we get a picture of someone blocking the way by putting their arm across the way, like a bar. So even after someone figured out how to enter, in spite of the key being withheld, the lawyers would still further block the way, probably by passing a law against it, and enforcing that law. Even as the international pictogram for something which is forbidden by law, is the picture of the activity, with a bar across it. Even when not making it illegal, the "clergy" down through the ages to the present time, have in other ways led the "laity" to believe that the Bible is either too hard to understand or translate without their key, without being initiated into their clergy club, or else it is against church policy, or something like that.

<sup>497</sup> 11:53 The Greek verb I translated "to provoke to speak unpreparedly" is ἀποστοματίζω - apostomatízō, of which we do not have a large sampling in Greek literature. You will find a great variety of renderings of it in the English translations. I have stuck with the most ancient and traditional interpretation.

<sup>498</sup> 12:2 The particle δὲ is hard to render here. "But" is possible. For there is a contrast made, between hypocrisy, in v. 1, and the disclosure of v. 2. For hypocrisy entails a covering up of one's true inner motives, a pretention.

<sup>499</sup> 12:6 Literally, "two assarion," which were little fragments of brass coin. It means, practically, "a pittance, a trifle, a doit." We say, "I sold it for peanuts." We don't say exactly how many peanuts, like "I sold it for three peanuts." That is not the point.

<sup>500</sup> 12:8 This is not a standard Greek sentence, but "Biblical Greek," like that in the Septuagint, which is to say, Greek influenced strongly by the Semitic languages. Here we have a very unusual use of the Greek preposition ἐν - en, the lexical gloss of which is "in" in English; thus: "Whoever confesses in me before humans, I will also confess beings, will be disowned before the angels of God. <sup>10</sup>And everyone who will speak a word against the Son of Man, it will be forgiven him. But to the person who blasphemes against the Holy Spirit, it will not be forgiven.

<sup>11</sup>"And when they deliver you over to the synagogues, and to the rulers and to the authorities, do not worry how or what you should defend, or what you should say. <sup>12</sup>For the Holy Spirit will instruct you in that very hour what needs to be said."

False Financial Security

<sup>13</sup>And someone in the crowd said, "Teacher, tell my brother to divide the inheritance with me."

<sup>14</sup>But he said to him, "Man, who appointed me judge or arbiter over you two?"

<sup>15</sup>And he said to them, "Watch out, and be on your guard against every form of covetousness. For the life of one is not from the increase of one's possessions."<sup>501</sup>

<sup>16</sup>And he spoke a parable to them as follows: "The land of a certain rich man yielded abundantly, <sup>17</sup>and he was thinking to himself, 'What shall I do? For I have no place where I can stack my produce.'

<sup>18</sup>And he said, 'This is what I will do. I will pull down my warehouses, and build bigger ones, and there I will stack all my wheat, and all my goods. <sup>19</sup>And I will say to my soul, "Soul, you have much goods sitting there into many years. Relax, eat, drink, be merry." '

<sup>20</sup>But God said to him, 'You fool, this very night they are demanding your soul back from you,<sup>502</sup> and the provisions you have made, whose will they be?'

<sup>21</sup>"Such is the person saving up for himself, and not becoming rich to God."<sup>503</sup>

in him before the angels of God." It is a Semitic principle of, "You do something in my advantage, something 'for' me, and I will do something in your advantage, something 'for' you, in exchange." Blass, §220(2), and Bauer, IV 5, say it means "whoever acknowledges me before men, him also I will acknowledge before the angels of God."

<sup>501</sup> 12:15 Greek: οὐκ ἔστιν ἐκ τῶν ὑπαρχόντων αὐτῷ. The preposition ἐκ -ek (from) is the word posing some difficulty. Bauer, 3 f, says this means, "He does not live because of..." For the whole 3 f section he gives the meaning, "of the reason which is a presupposition for something: by reason of, as a result of, because of. This calls to my mind the verse in Proverbs where it says, "Guard your heart, for out of it are the issues of life."

<sup>502</sup> 12:20 Bauer says this is a figure of speech, found in other writers such as Cicero, and Epictetus, using the concept of a human being's life as a loan. And that now, "they," the creditors, are demanding payment in full, of the loan, "calling in the loan." The Greek verb for "demand back," ἀπαιτέω - apaitéō, is used only twice in the N.T., both times by Luke, one time here, and the other time being in the Sermon on the Mount in Luke 6:30b, "...from the one forcefully taking your things, do not demand them back." It is used nine times in the Septuagint: four times for the demanding of repayment of loans, twice for extortion; once for the demand by Pharaoh for all the gold and silver of the land; and finally, one time in Isaiah 30:33, very much like Luke's use here. That occurrence is also for God's demanding of someone's life prematurely, the life of the king of Assyria. The exact phrase there is Σὺ γὰρ πρὸ ἡμερῶν ἀπαιτηθήσῃ, the same 3rd person, singular, passive inflection on ἀπαιτέω as on the verb ἐκζητέω in Luke 11:50, "so that the blood of all the prophets that has been spilled from the foundation of the world, would be demanded of this generation." However, here in Luke 12:20 we have 3rd person plural, and active voice: "they are demanding." Apart from Bauer's explanation, this reminds me of the place in the prophet Daniel, in chapter 4 verses 13 & 17, where it says, "This sentence is by the decree of the angelic watchers, and the decision is the command of the holy ones, in order that the living may know that the Most High is ruler over the realm of mankind..." It implies in v. 17 that there exists a council of some sort, composed of "holy ones," that is, angels, who make decisions on behalf of God. See also Psalm 82:1, "God stands in the assembly of gods, and in their midst, he judges gods." Sometimes angels are referred to as gods, or "sons of god." But the point I am making is that such a council of angels, like the group who decided when Nebuchadnezzar was to die, are a "they," plural, like when God told the rich man here in Luke, "they are demanding your soul back from you."

<sup>503</sup> 12:21 Though he was rich in his own eyes, and rich to his neighbors, he was not rich to God. To God, he was "wretched, pathetic, poor, blind, and naked," Revelation 3:17-18. It is preposterous for a human being to think he is

True Financial Security

<sup>22</sup>And to his disciples, he said, "Because of this I say to you, do not worry about life, what you will eat, nor about the body, what you will wear. <sup>23</sup>For life means more than food, and the body more than clothes.

<sup>24</sup>"Consider the ravens, that they neither sow nor reap, and God feeds them. How much higher priority you are than birds!

<sup>27</sup>"Consider the lilies, how they grow. They neither labor nor weave. But I tell you, not even Solomon in all his splendor, was bedecked like one of these. <sup>28</sup>Now if God thus clothes the wild grass, which is here this day and the next is thrown into the stove, how much more would he rather clothe you, O you of little faith?

<sup>29</sup>"And you also should not seek after how you will eat, and how you will drink; that is, do not be anxious. <sup>30</sup>Because all these things, the nations of the world are striving for. But your Father knows that you have need of these things. <sup>31</sup>Only seek instead his kingdom, and these things will be included for you.

Be Ready

<sup>35</sup>"You must keep your waists girded and your lamps burning, <sup>36</sup>and you must be like people waiting for their own master, waiting for when he returns from the wedding celebrations, so that when he arrives and is knocking, they may immediately open for him. <sup>37</sup>Happy are those slaves who when the master arrives, he finds watching. Truly I tell you, he will gird himself and bid them recline, and after coming in, he will serve them. <sup>38</sup>Those slaves are happy, whether he arrives and finds them in the second, or even in the third watch. <sup>39</sup>And this you know, that if the manager of the household knew what hour the thief was coming, he would not have allowed his house to be broken into. <sup>40</sup>You also must be the same, because the Son of Man is coming at an hour you would not think he would."

<sup>41</sup>And Peter said, "Lord, are you saying this parable to us, or to everyone else as well?"

rich, when his very life he possesses only as a loan. The Greek word translated "to" in the phrase "to God," is the preposition εἰς - eis, used with the accusative form of the word God. Luke also uses this preposition with the accusative as meaning "in." Thus Tyndale translated this, "and is not rich in God." His rendering may well be right. It is perhaps possible this could alternatively mean, "becoming rich with God as the goal, becoming rich for the sake of God," as opposed to becoming rich for oneself. Scripture elsewhere teaches us that there exists a very rare breed: a rich believer, who makes much money for the purpose of giving it away for the cause of spreading the gospel, or otherwise advancing the kingdom of God. And in the lists of spiritual gifts, there is a gift called "the gift of giving." Certainly, people cannot keep giving as their full-time ministry, unless they keep earning. Though it is naturally impossible for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, with God it is possible.

<sup>504</sup> 12:25 Literally, one cubit. There was an expression in classical Greek, πῆχυον ἐπὶ χρόνον = "only one cubit of time." It is legitimate therefore to translate this as "a single hour to his life."

<sup>42</sup>And the Lord said, "So who is the faithful and sensible steward, whom the master will place over his domestic service, to be giving out rations in due time? <sup>43</sup>Happy will be that slave who when his lord comes, he finds doing so. <sup>44</sup>Truly I tell you, he will place him over all his possessions.

<sup>45</sup>"But if that slave says in his heart, 'My lord is taking his time to come,' and he begins to slap around the workboys and the workgirls, and to eat and drink and get drunk, <sup>46</sup>the lord of that slave will come at an hour he is not expecting, and at a time he does not know, and will cut him in two, and appoint him his inheritance with the unbelieving.

<sup>47</sup>"And that slave, knowing the will of his lord, and not having prepared or done in accordance with his will, he will be lashed many times. <sup>48</sup>Whereas the one not knowing, and having done things deserving of scourgings, he will be lashed few times. So then, anyone to whom much has been given, much will be required of him, and from him to whom much has been entrusted, that much more will be demanded.

Jesus Causes Division

<sup>49</sup>"I have come to cast fire upon the earth, and how I wish it were already kindled! <sup>50</sup>But I have a baptism to be baptized, and how tormented I am until that has been accomplished.

<sup>51</sup>"You think that I have come to provide peace on the earth. Not at all, I tell you, but rather division. <sup>52</sup>For from now on, five in one household will be divided: three against two, and two against three. <sup>53</sup>A father will be divided against the daughter, and the daughter against the mother, a mother-in-law against daughter-in-law, and daughter-in-law against mother-in-law."

Judge For Yourself

<sup>54</sup>And he was also saying to the crowds, "When you see a cloud rising in the west, right away you say, 'A rainstorm is coming,' and it happens so. <sup>55</sup>And when the south wind blows, you say, 'It will be hot,' and it happens. <sup>56</sup>Hypocrites! The face of the earth and sky you know how to interpret, but this present time you do not know how to interpret?

<sup>57</sup>"And why also do you not judge for yourselves what is right? <sup>58</sup>For as you are going with your adversary to court, on the way make every effort to be free of him,<sup>505</sup> lest he drag you before the judge, and the judge hand you over to the officer, and the officer throw you in prison. <sup>59</sup>I tell you, no way will you come out of that place, until you have paid back the very last penny."

Repent or Perish

<sup>1</sup>And some who were present at that time, were reporting to him about the Galileans whose blood Pilate had mingled with the blood of their sacrifices.<sup>506</sup> <sup>2</sup>And in response he said to them, "Do you think that because they suffered these things, those Galileans were sinners, more so than all the rest of the Galileans? <sup>3</sup>Not at all, I tell you; but on the other hand, if you do not repent, you shall all likewise perish. <sup>4</sup>Or those eighteen, on whom the tower in Siloam fell and killed them, do you think they were debtors worse than all the rest of the people living in Jerusalem? <sup>5</sup>Not at all, I tell you; but on the other hand, if you do not repent, you shall all likewise perish."

<sup>505</sup> 12:58 That is, by satisfying him, coming to a settlement with him.

<sup>506</sup> 13:1 Bauer says this means, "whom Pilate ordered to be slain even as they were sacrificing." And so, their own blood would mingle on the ground with the blood of the animal they were sacrificing. A literal rendering of this is a vivid and grabbing figure of speech, and it is a shame to turn this into a bland dynamic equivalent in English.

<sup>6</sup>And he continued with this parable: "A certain man had a fig tree planted in his vineyard. And he came seeking fruit on it, and did not find any. <sup>7</sup>And he said to the vine dresser, 'Look, it has been three years already I have been coming, seeking fruit on this fig tree and not finding it. Cut it down. Why is it still using up the soil?'

<sup>8</sup>"But in answer, he says to him, 'Sir, leave it for this year also, until such time I have dug and put manure around it; <sup>9</sup>and if in the future it does produce fruit, so much the better.<sup>507</sup> But if not, then you would cut it down.'"

A Crippled Woman Healed on the Sabbath

<sup>10</sup>And he was teaching in one of the synagogues during the Sabbath. <sup>11</sup>And behold, a woman having had a spirit of disability for eighteen years. And she was bent over double, and not able to look up at all.<sup>508</sup> <sup>12</sup>And when Jesus saw her, he called to her and said to her, "Woman, be set free from your disability." <sup>13</sup>And he laid hands on her; and she became erect at once, and was praising God.

<sup>14</sup>But in response, the synagogue ruler, being indignant that Jesus had healed during the Sabbath, was saying to the crowd, "There are six days in which you are supposed to work; you should therefore be coming during those to be healed, and not during the day of rest."

<sup>15</sup>But the Lord answered him, and said, "You hypocrites! Who among you on the Sabbath does not free his ox or his donkey from its stall, and after leading it out, give it drink? <sup>16</sup>But this woman, a daughter of Abraham, whom Satan has kept bound to these eighteen years, she should not be freed from this bondage on the day of rest?!"<sup>509</sup>

<sup>17</sup>And with his saying these things, all his opponents were being humiliated, and the whole crowd was cheering, for all the glorious things being accomplished by him.

The Parables of the Mustard Seed and the Yeast

<sup>507</sup> 13:9 The words "so much the better" are not in the Greek text, but we have to put something there. This is a legitimate ellipsis. The Greek says only, "And if indeed in the future it does produce fruit— but if not, then you would cut it down."

<sup>508</sup> 13:11 It is uncertain whether εἰς τὸ παντελὲς modifies ἀνακύντω and thus means "unable to straighten up completely," or whether it modifies μὴ δυναμένη and means "unable at all to straighten up." The various versions throughout the history of the church have differed.

<sup>509</sup> 13:16 The number six signifies human effort, which falls short of seven, God's perfection or completion. This woman was enslaved for eighteen years, three times six, three times the normal human effort. What better day than the seventh, the day of rest, for someone to be set free from the slavery of working six days three times? See Deuteronomy 15:1, "Every seventh year you must cancel debts." And 15:12, "If a fellow Hebrew, a man or a woman, sells himself to you and serves you six years, in the seventh year you must let him go free." This woman was kept in bondage three sets of six years, and not being set free. Yet this synagogue ruler was telling her to keep working six days for the rest of her life! For a fuller discussion of this important concept, see my treatise entitled, "What is Sabbath?"

<sup>18</sup>Then he said, "What is the kingdom of God like? And to what may I compare it? <sup>19</sup>It is like a mustard seed, which a man took and cast into his garden, and it grew and became a tree, and the birds of the sky nested in its branches."

<sup>20</sup>And again he said, "To what may I compare the kingdom of God? <sup>21</sup>It is like yeast that a woman took and folded into three measures<sup>510</sup> of dough until the whole was leavened."

The Narrow Door

<sup>22</sup>And he was going through every city and village teaching, even as he was making his journey toward Jerusalem. <sup>23</sup>And someone said to him, "Lord, are those being saved going to be few?"

And he said to him, <sup>24</sup>"Make every effort to go in through the narrow door. For many, I tell you, will try to enter, and not be able to. <sup>25</sup>Once the master of the house has gotten up and closed the door, after that you may begin to stand outside, and knock on the door, saying, 'Lord, open to us,' and in answer he will say to you, 'I don't know where you are from.' <sup>26</sup>At that time you will begin to say, 'We ate and drank in your presence, and you taught in our streets.' <sup>27</sup>And then at that time he will say to you as follows: 'I don't know where you are from. Get away from me, all you workers of unrighteousness.' <sup>28</sup>In that place there will be weeping, and gnashing of teeth, when you see Abraham and Isaac and Jacob and all the prophets in the kingdom of God, and you are being cast outside, <sup>29</sup>and people will have come from the east and the west, and from the south and the north, and be reclined in the kingdom of God. <sup>30</sup>And behold, there are those who are last, who will be first; and there are those who are first who will be last."

Jesus Laments Jerusalem

<sup>31</sup>In that hour, some Pharisees came up to him, saying to him, "You should move on, and get out of this place, because Herod is trying to kill you."

<sup>32</sup>And he said to them, "Go tell that fox: 'Behold, I am casting out demons and accomplishing healings today and tomorrow, and on the third day I will reach my goal.'<sup>511</sup> <sup>33</sup>Regardless, I would have to be continuing on today and tomorrow and the next day. For it is not possible for a prophet to be killed outside Jerusalem!

<sup>511</sup> 13:32 The Greek for the last phrase, καὶ τῇ τρίτῃ τελειοῦμαι could also possibly be translated, "and on the third day I will be finished." But this saying of Jesus seems related to verse 22 of this same chapter, that he was making his way to Jerusalem. The verb τελειόω - teleiōō can also mean to reach the end of something, like a journey, so it makes sense to translate it that way in view of what he says in verse 33. That verse implies that he will reach Jerusalem in three days. Reaching his goal of arriving in Jerusalem, he says, is essential, because it is not possible for a prophet to be killed outside of Jerusalem.

<sup>512</sup> 13:35a The Greek pronoun for "you" is plural, as also the "you" all three times in this same verse.

Chapter 14

Jesus at a Pharisee's House

<sup>1</sup>And it came about that when he went into the house of a certain ruler of the Pharisees on a Sabbath, to eat bread, they were watching him closely. <sup>2</sup>And behold, a certain man with dropsy was right in front of him.<sup>516</sup>

<sup>3</sup>And in response, Jesus said to the lawyers and Pharisees as follows: "Is it permissible during a Sabbath to heal, or is it not?" <sup>4</sup>But they kept quiet. And after grasping him, he healed him, and dismissed him.

<sup>5</sup>And he said to them, "Who among you whose son or ox should fall into a pit during the Sabbath day, would not immediately pull him out?" <sup>6</sup>And they were not able to rebut these words.

<sup>7</sup>And toward those who had been invited, he was speaking a parable, referring to how they were claiming the most prestigious seats, saying to them as follows: <sup>8</sup>"When you are invited by someone to a banquet, do not recline at the place of honor, in case someone more distinguished than you is invited by him, <sup>9</sup>and the one who invited both you and him comes and says to you, 'Yield place to this person.' And then you would proceed with embarrassment to make for<sup>517</sup> the last seat. <sup>10</sup>Instead, when you are invited, make your way to the least desirable place and recline, so that when the one who invited you comes, he will say to you, 'Friend, move up to a better place.' Then there will be honor for you in front of all your fellow dinner guests. <sup>11</sup>For anyone who exalts himself will be humbled; and the one who humbles himself will be exalted."

<sup>12</sup>And he was also saying to the man who had invited him, "When you make a breakfast or dinner, do not call your friends, or your siblings or relatives or rich neighbors, lest they also invite you back in return, and that would be repayment for you. <sup>13</sup>Instead, when you make a banquet, invite the poor, the crippled, the lame, the blind; <sup>14</sup>and you will be blessed, because word ἔρημος - ērēmos, "desolate." This is quite obviously to harmonize Luke with Matthew 23:38. But this was not necessary, since the word ἀφίημι - aphiēmi, translated "left" in most translations, also can mean "abandon." The meaning seems to be, that their house, whether it means their temple, or their lineage, or their houses, will be abandoned by Jesus, since he tells them they will not see him again until he fulfills Psalm 118:26. Abandoned to them alone without him. What is their temple without the high priest? What is their lineage without the Lion of Judah? What are their homes without the Light of Humankind?

According to the UBS textual commentary, there was apparently an effort to smooth over a very rare usage on Luke's part of ὅτε with the subjunctive mood, as found in Codex D. Or they may have succumbed to the temptation to assimilate Luke to Matthew 23:39. Note that the footnote in the UBS4 Greek New Testament is erroneous in its citation of P<sup>75</sup> and P<sup>45</sup>, having them switched.

<sup>516</sup> 14:2 The sentence opens with καὶ ἰδοὺ - kaì idou, "And behold." Perhaps the "behold" could mean similar to the exclamation, "what do you know." Like this: "And what do you know, there was a man with dropsy right in front of him." At any rate, it was apparently a set-up.

<sup>517</sup> 14:9 The Greek verb κατέχω - katéchō, which I translated "make your way toward," generally means to take, to occupy. But the verb also was a nautical term meaning "head for, make for, steer toward." I chose that shade of meaning here, because the emphasis seems to be the embarrassment you would feel the whole time you are picking your way, in front of everyone, toward the back seat all the way from the front one. The emphasis seems to be on the long, embarrassing process, rather than on the point of taking the seat.

they do not have the means to repay you. For it will be repaid to you, you see, at the resurrection of the righteous."

The Parable of the Great Banquet

<sup>15</sup>And after hearing these things, one of the dinner guests said to him, "Blessed is the person who will eat bread in the kingdom of God."

<sup>16</sup>And Jesus<sup>518</sup> said to him, "A certain man held a great banquet, and invited many people. <sup>17</sup>And at the hour of the banquet, he sent his slave out to tell those who were invited, 'Come, for it is now ready.'

<sup>18</sup>"And they all alike began to ask to be excused. The first one said to him, 'I have bought a field, and I urgently have to go out and see it. I ask you, consider me excused.'

<sup>19</sup>"And another one said, 'I have bought five yoke of oxen, and I'm on my way to try them out. I ask you, consider me excused.'

<sup>20</sup>"And another one said, 'I have married a wife, and for this reason I am not able to come.'

<sup>21</sup>"And when he came back, the slave reported these things to his master. Angered then, the master of the house said to his slave, 'Quick, go out into the boulevards and lanes of the town, and the poor, the crippled, the blind, the lame, lead them here.'

<sup>22</sup>"And the slave said, 'Master, what you have commanded has been done, and still there is room.'

<sup>23</sup>"And the master said to the slave, 'Go out into the trails and the fence lines, and urgently invite them to come in, so that my house will be filled. <sup>24</sup>You can be sure, I tell you, that not one of those men who were invited, will taste of my banquet!'"

Jesus Qualifies the Crowds

<sup>25</sup>And great crowds were going along with him, and he turned around, and said to them, <sup>26</sup>"If someone is coming with me, and does not spurn his father, and mother, and wife, and children, and brothers, and sisters, and yes, even his own life, he cannot be my disciple. <sup>27</sup>Anyone that does not take up his own cross and follow after me, cannot be my disciple.

<sup>28</sup>"For who of you wishing to build a tower, does not first sit down and count the cost, whether he has enough for completion? <sup>29</sup>It would be no good if he lays the foundation, and not being able to finish, all those observing start to ridicule him, <sup>30</sup>saying, 'This fellow began to build, and was not able to finish.'

<sup>519</sup> 14:32 DeBrunner, §155(2), regarding double accusatives, says this phrase ἐρωτᾷ τὰ πρὸς εἰρήνην, with both τὰ and εἰρήνην being accusative case, is equivalent to the Hebrew שָׁאַל לְשָׁלוֹם - šā'al ləšālôm, and that it means "he inquires after his well-being." He says there are several examples in the Septuagint, and refers us to R. Helbing, "Die Kasussyntax der Verba bei den Septuaginta," 40. Another possibility according to DeBrunner, is: "he greets him (and pays homage to him)." He then refers us to Foerster. This translator does not have access to Helbing's or Foerster's works, so looked for LXX examples himself, and the closest thing he found was Psalm 122:6, Ερωτήσατε δὴ τὰ εἰς εἰρήνην Ἱερουσαλὴμ, "Pray now for the things that lead to the peace of Jerusalem."

<sup>33</sup>"In the same way, then, any of you who does not say good-bye to everything that he has, cannot be my disciple.

<sup>34</sup>"Salt then is a good thing; but if the salt itself becomes bland, what will it be spiced with?

<sup>35</sup>It is fit neither for the soil, nor for the manure pile;<sup>520</sup> they throw it out.

"Whoever has ears to hear, hear."

Chapter 15

The Parable of the Lost Sheep

<sup>1</sup>And all the tax collectors and the sinners were coming up next to him, to listen to him.

<sup>2</sup>And both the Pharisees and the Torah scholars were complaining, saying, "This fellow welcomes sinners, and eats with them."

<sup>3</sup>But he spoke this parable to them, as follows: <sup>4</sup>"What man among you who has a hundred sheep and is missing one of them, does not leave behind the ninety-nine in the desert, and go out after the lost one, until he finds it? <sup>5</sup>And when he has found it, he places it on his shoulder, rejoicing. <sup>6</sup>And upon returning home he gathers his friends and neighbors together, saying to them, 'Rejoice with me; for I have found my sheep that was lost.' <sup>7</sup>I tell you, in just the same way, there will be more joy in heaven over one sinner repenting, than over ninety-nine righteous persons having no need of repentance.

The Parable of the Lost Coin

<sup>8</sup>"Or what woman having ten drachmas,<sup>521</sup> if she loses one drachma, does not light a lamp and sweep the house clean, and search diligently until such time she finds it? <sup>9</sup>And when she has found it, she gathers her friends and neighbors together, saying, 'Rejoice with me; for I have found the drachma that was lost.' <sup>10</sup>In just the same way, I tell you, rejoicing breaks out among the angels of God over one sinner repenting."

The Parable of the Lost Son

<sup>11</sup>And he said, "A certain man had two sons. <sup>12</sup>And the younger of them said to the father, 'Father, pay out to me the applicable share of the holdings.' So he divided to them the life savings.

<sup>13</sup>And not many days later, having gathered everything together, the younger son journeyed off, to a far away country, and there he wasted his estate, living indulgently. <sup>14</sup>And

<sup>520</sup> 14:35 For salt at that time, do not picture purely refined, white, fine-grained sodium chloride like we use now. There are many speculations as to what this verse implies about the salt of that day. Bauer says that salt was sometimes used as fertilizer. Another scholar says that salt was sometimes used to make the soil of one's enemies infertile! And why would someone put salt on a dung heap? To preserve it? Or was it to amend it, stretch it? The best explanation I have heard is that the word salt would have been understood to mean any substance that tasted salty, including, say, potassium nitrate, which could be used for fertilizer. And Ben Crick of England says that the word salt would have been used of any chemical salt, which would include a whole range of substances called "halides" (the Greek word for salt here is "halas"), such as fluorine, chlorine, bromine, iodine and astatine. Fortunately, the moral of the parable remains clear: unless you give up all your possessions, and take up your cross and follow like Jesus, you are salt that is not salty, so is not useful for anything.

after he had spent everything he had, a severe famine took place over that whole country, and he himself began to be without. <sup>15</sup>And so going forth, he joined on with one of the citizens of that country, who sent him into his fields to tend swine. <sup>16</sup>And he was craving to be fed of<sup>522</sup> the carob pods<sup>523</sup> that the swine were eating, and no one gave him any.

<sup>17</sup>"And when he came to himself,<sup>524</sup> he was saying, 'How many hired men of my father's have more than enough food, and here I am, perishing with hunger. <sup>18</sup>I will arise and go to my father, and I will say to him, "Father, I have sinned against heaven, and before you. <sup>19</sup>I am no longer worthy to be called your son; make me as one of your hired men." ' "

<sup>20</sup>"And he arose and went to his father. But while he was still a long way off, his father saw him, and was moved with pity. And he ran out, flung his arms around him and kissed him. <sup>21</sup>But the son said to him, 'Father, I have sinned against heaven, and before you. I am no longer worthy to be called your son.'

<sup>22</sup>"But the father said to his servants, 'Quick, bring out the best robe and drape it on him, and put a ring on his hand, and shoes to his feet, <sup>23</sup>and bring the fattened calf, and slaughter it, and let us feast and celebrate; <sup>24</sup>for this my son was dead and is alive again; was lost and has been found!' And they proceeded to celebrate.

<sup>25</sup>"But his elder son was in the fields. And as he was getting close to the house, he heard the sound of music and of dancing. <sup>26</sup>And calling over one of the workboys, he was asking what it was all about.

<sup>27</sup>"And he told him, 'Your brother has returned, and your father has slaughtered the fattened calf, because he has him back safe and sound.'

<sup>28</sup>"Then he was angry, and refused to go inside. And his father, after coming out, was pleading with him. <sup>29</sup>But in response he said to his father, 'All these years I have been serving you, and not once did I ever deviate from your instructions. Yet to me, you have never given so much as a baby goat so I could celebrate with my friends. <sup>30</sup>But when this son of yours comes who ate up your life savings with prostitutes, you slaughter for him the fattened calf!'

<sup>31</sup>"But he said to him, 'Dear child, you are always with me, and everything that is mine is yours. <sup>32</sup>But to celebrate, and be cheered up, is only right; for this your brother was dead and is alive again; was lost, and has been found!' "

<sup>522</sup> 15:16a Some manuscripts, instead of "to be fed of," χορτασθῆναι ἐκ , have "to fill his belly from," γέμίσαι τὴν κοιλίαν αὐτοῦ ἀπό, and Codex Washingtonianus conflates the two readings and says "to fill his belly and be fed from." On the basis of age and diversity of text-type of witnesses, the Editorial Committee for the UBS Greek text preferred the reading χορτασθῆναι ἐκ, and give it a B rating of certainty.

<sup>523</sup> 15:16b Greek, κεράτιον - kerátion, meaning "little horn," so named because of the shape of the pods of the species Ceratonia siliqua, Arabic "kharrubah," meaning bean pod; aka. Cods of Syria, aka. St. John's Bread, alluding to an erroneous notion, based on folk etymological comparisons of the Greek for "husk" and "locust", that the locusts John the Baptizer lived on were instead carob pods; from a leguminous tree having pods 9 inches long and 1 inch broad, once common in the forests of Galilee (Arthur Penrhyn Stanley, Sinai & Palestine in connection with their history, ii 146, 1858), and considered a food grain of lower grade; the pods that the Prodigal Son eyed longingly in the pig pens, Luke 15:16; cf. Lychophron, from 675 to 678, III BC. For further examples showing that "carob pod" was the meaning of the Greek word keration, see Aristotle, Polybius, 26, 1, 4, II BC; Dioscurides 1, 114, I AD; Aëtius, Treatment of Diseases of the Eye, 160, 3, VI AD; F. <sup>524</sup> 15:17 That is, "came to his senses." There was another expression as antonym, "he was beside himself," said of Jesus in Mark 3:21, that is, "he is out of his senses" or "out of his mind."

The Shrewd Money Manager

<sup>1</sup>And then toward his disciples he was saying: "There was a certain rich man, who had a business manager. And accusations were brought to him against this man, that he was wasting his property. <sup>2</sup>So having summoned him, he said to him, 'What is this I am hearing about you? Surrender the records of your management; for you can no longer be manager.'

<sup>3</sup>"And the manager said to himself, 'What will I do, now that my master is taking away the management from me? I am not strong enough to dig. I am ashamed to beg. <sup>4</sup>I know what I will do, so that after I am removed from my management, people will welcome me into their homes.'

<sup>6</sup>"And he said, 'A hundred baths of olive oil.'

"And he told him, 'Take your bill, and sit down quickly and write "fifty."' <sup>7</sup>"Then, to another one he said, 'And you, how much do you owe?'

"And he said, 'A hundred kors of wheat.'

"He says to him, 'Take your bill and write "eighty."'

<sup>8</sup>"And that master gave credit to the unrighteous manager, in that he had acted shrewdly. For the children of this age are more shrewd toward their own generation than are the children of light. <sup>9</sup>And as for me, I say to you, make friends for yourselves by means of the undependable<sup>525</sup> wealth, so that when it fails, they may welcome you into perpetual dwellings.

<sup>10</sup>"The person who is faithful with little, is also faithful with much, and the one who is undependable with little is also undependable with much. <sup>11</sup>If therefore you do not prove faithful with the undependable wealth, who will trust you with the true? <sup>12</sup>And if with someone else's property you have not turned out to be faithful, who will grant you property of your own?

<sup>13</sup>"No house slave is able to serve two masters; for he would either spurn the one and love the other, or devote himself to the one and despise the other. You cannot serve both God and Wealth."

<sup>14</sup>And the Pharisees had been listening to all this and, being moneylovers, were sneering at him.

<sup>15</sup>And he said to them, "You are ones who justify yourselves before human beings, but God knows your hearts. For what is highly esteemed among human beings, is detestable in God's sight.

<sup>525</sup> 16:9 The Greek word "adikos" here is usually rendered "unrighteous, but can also mean "untrustworthy, undependable," as indeed Jesus uses it here and in vv. 10-11 with that meaning. Jesus is also making a play on words, on the word Mammon (here rendered Wealth), which word is based on a Semitic root for "dependable, reliable." The idea of mammon was a wealth to such an extent that one could relax and feel secure and confident financially. But Jesus here is saying that it will fail. Jesus calls it the wealth that is ἀδικίας - adikías, which means "unrighteous, unreliable, fraudulent, false, untrustworthy." When Jesus says "unrighteous Mammon," he is saying something like "insecure security." And this is the same word he used to describe the manager. A false manager, an undependable manager. Another play is the contrast of the undependable property with the "true" or "real" property. Wherever I have the word "undependable," you can substitute the word "false, dishonest" as in whoever is false with little, is also false with much;" and, "false wealth."

<sup>16</sup>"The law and the prophets were<sup>526</sup> until John; from that time on the kingdom of God is being proclaimed, and everyone is pushing their way into it. <sup>17</sup>But it is easier for sky and earth to pass away, than for one serif of the law to fall. <sup>18</sup>Everyone dismissing his wife and marrying another is committing adultery, and he who marries her who has been dismissed by a husband, is committing adultery.<sup>527</sup>

The Rich Man and Lazarus

<sup>22</sup>"Now the beggar came to die, and was carried off by the angels to Abraham's bosom. And the rich man also died, and was buried. <sup>23</sup>And in Hades, when he lifted up his eyes, from being in torment, he sees Abraham far away, and Lazarus in his bosom.<sup>528</sup> <sup>24</sup>So after calling out to him, he said, 'Father Abraham, have pity on me, and send Lazarus to dip the tip of his finger in water, to cool my tongue, because I am in agony in this fire.'

<sup>25</sup>"But Abraham said, 'Son, recall that in your lifetime, you received your good things, while Lazarus likewise received his bad; so now here, he is comforted, and you are suffering. <sup>26</sup>And besides all this, between us and you a great chasm has been fixed, such that those who want to go from here to you are not able to, neither can anyone cross over from there to us.'

<sup>27</sup>"And he said, 'Then I beg you, father, please send him to my father's house, <sup>28</sup>since I have five brothers, so that he can be warning them not to also come to this place of torment.'

<sup>29</sup>"But Abraham says, 'They have Moses and the Prophets; let them listen to them.'

<sup>30</sup>"And he said, 'Hardly, father Abraham; but if someone from the dead goes to them, they will repent.'

<sup>31</sup>"And he said to him, 'If they are not listening to Moses and the Prophets, neither will they be persuaded if someone rises from the dead.'"

Chapter 17

A Brother Who Sins

<sup>1</sup>And he said to his disciples, "It is not possible for there not to come things that cause people to fall. Nevertheless, woe to that person by whom such comes! <sup>2</sup>It would be better for

---

<sup>526</sup> 16:16 There is no verb in this sentence in the Greek. But the only word in Greek customarily allowed to be omitted but implied, is the simple copula. That is, the verb "is." And since it is talking about something that was in the past, and plural, therefore we supply the word "were."

<sup>527</sup> 16:18 Why is this said here, at this time? The context is Jesus scolding the Pharisees for being apparently righteous, but being detestable in God's sight. Therefore I believe that what is happening here is that the Pharisees commonly divorced and remarried, and would justify it somehow. But Jesus was known to have taught a stricter view of divorce than even the strictest school of the Pharisees.

<sup>528</sup> 16:23 Also in v. 22, εἰς τὸν κόλπον Ἀβραάμ "Abraham's side." Compare John 13:23, where John's place at the Passover meal was ἐν τῷ κόλπῳ τοῦ Ἰησοῦ "in the bosom of Jesus," and John 1:18, where Jesus Christ the Son is said to be εἰς τὸν κόλπον τοῦ πατρὸς "in the bosom of the Father."

him if a mill stone is lying around his neck and he is thrown into the sea,<sup>529</sup> than that he cause one of these little ones to fall.

<sup>3</sup>"Watch yourselves. If your brother sins, rebuke him, and if he repents, forgive him. <sup>4</sup>And if he sins against you seven times in a day,<sup>530</sup> and seven times he turns toward you, saying, 'I repent,' forgive him."

Faith and Duty

<sup>5</sup>And the apostles said to the Lord, "Give us more faith."

<sup>6</sup>But the Lord said, "If you have faith as small as a mustard seed, you could say to this mulberry tree, 'Be uprooted and planted in the sea,' and it would obey you.

<sup>7</sup>"Now who of you having a servant plowing or tending the sheep, when he comes in from the field would say to him, 'Come right over here and recline'? <sup>8</sup>Would he not instead say to him, 'Fix something I can eat, and after you have girded yourself, serve me while I eat and drink, and after these things, you shall eat and drink'? <sup>9</sup>Neither does he thank the servant that he has done what he has been told. <sup>10</sup>In the same way, you also, when you have done all the things that were prescribed for you, you should say, 'We are unprofitable servants; we have done what we are supposed to have done.'"

Ten Healed of Leprosy

<sup>11</sup>And it came about that as he was on his way to Jerusalem, he was passing through the middle of Samaria and Galilee. <sup>12</sup>And as he was coming into a village, ten men who had leprosy met him, who stopped and stood at a distance. <sup>13</sup>And they called out loudly, saying, "Jesus, Master, have pity on us!"

<sup>14</sup>And when he saw this, he said to them, "Go show yourselves to the priests." And it came about that as they went, they were cleansed.

<sup>15</sup>And one of them, when he saw that he had been healed, turned and came back, praising God with a very loud voice. <sup>16</sup>And he fell on his face at Jesus' feet, thanking him.

<sup>17</sup>And in response Jesus said, "Were there not ten cleansed? Where then are the other nine? <sup>18</sup>Were none found to have come back to give glory to God, except this foreigner?"

<sup>19</sup>And he said to him, "Get up and go your way; your faith has saved you."

The Coming of the Kingdom of God

<sup>20</sup>And when he was questioned by the Pharisees as to when the kingdom of God was coming, he answered them as follows: "The kingdom of God does not show with careful observation, <sup>21</sup>neither will people say, 'Behold, here,' or 'There.' For behold, the kingdom of God is within you."

<sup>529</sup> 17:2 Or possibly, "a mill stone is lying around his neck and he is lying in [the bottom of] the sea."

<sup>530</sup> 17:4 Or possibly, as some translations say, "seven times a day." This latter reading would be a great deal more forgiving to do. Yet, Jesus in another place said we must forgive someone "seventy times seven" times, or perhaps "seventy-seven times." It seems to me, that the spirit of the teaching would also apply if someone sins against you seven times every day, but does turn to you seven times each day, saying, "I repent." Because really, that about describes our relationship with God, how many times he has to forgive us. And most of us don't even repent that many times a day, though we have need of it.

<sup>22</sup>And he said to the disciples, "Days are coming, when it is one of the days of the Son of Man you will long to see, and you will not have that experience. <sup>23</sup>And people will say to you, 'Behold, there!' 'Behold, here!' Do not go, neither follow after them. <sup>24</sup>For just as lightning shines forth flashing from one end of the sky to the other, so shall it be with the Son of Man. <sup>25</sup>But first he must suffer much at the hands of this generation and be rejected.

<sup>26</sup>"And just as it was in the days of Noah, so shall it be also in the days of the Son of Man. <sup>27</sup>People were eating, drinking, marrying, being given in marriage, up until the day that Noah entered into the ark, and the flood came, and destroyed them all.

<sup>28</sup>"It was just the same in the days of Lot. People were eating, drinking, buying, selling, planting, building, <sup>29</sup>but the day that Lot left Sodom, fire and sulfur rained down from heaven, and destroyed them all.

<sup>30</sup>"Along those lines will be the day in which the Son of Man is being revealed. <sup>31</sup>In that day, if someone is on the roof, and his stuff is in the house, he should not go down to get it, and the one in the field should likewise not turn back around. <sup>32</sup>Remember Lot's wife. <sup>33</sup>Whoever tries to save his life will lose it, and whoever loses it will keep it alive. <sup>34</sup>I tell you, in that night there will be two men on one couch; one will be taken, and the other left. <sup>35</sup>There will be two women together grinding grain; one will be taken, and the other left."<sup>531</sup>

And he said to them, "Where the body is, there also the eagles<sup>532</sup> will be gathered."

Chapter 18

The Parable of the Persistent Widow

<sup>1</sup>And he was speaking a parable to them, with the moral that they ought always to pray, and not to lose heart, <sup>2</sup>as follows: "There was a certain judge in a certain city, who had no fear of God, and no regard for man. <sup>3</sup>But there was a widow in that city, and she kept on coming to him, saying, 'Give me redress from my adversary.'

<sup>4</sup>"And for some time he had been refusing, but after all this, he said to himself, 'Even if I don't fear God, nor have regard for man, <sup>5</sup>just because this widow is causing me trouble, I will avenge her, lest all her coming in the end wears me out.' "

<sup>6</sup>And the Lord said, "Listen to what the unjust kind of judge was saying. <sup>7</sup>So God, would he not bring about the avenging of his elect, who keep crying out to him day and night? And is he

<sup>531</sup> 17:36 The King James Version has verse 36, "Two men shall be in the field; the one shall be taken, and the other left." But if you read an original 1611 King James Version, you will find a marginal note that says that the verse 17:36 was absent from most of their Greek manuscripts. You can view an actual scan of this marginal note, from just such a KJV, at: <http://www.bibletranslation.ws/gfx/luke17-36.jpg>

<sup>532</sup> 17:37 Greek: ὁ ἀετός - ho aetós, a word used for both eagles and vultures. Yet this is apparently a quote by Jesus of the parable in Job 39:30, where the parallel in the Septuagint to ho aetós is ἰέραξ - hiérax, a hawk, v. 26. Both Aristotle and Pliny in their Histories class the vulture among the eagles. Both eagles and vultures are classified as unclean in the law of Moses, Lev. 11:13, Deut. 14:12, in that they both eat carrion (in Job 39:30 ho aetós is eating carrion). Yet generally speaking, where ho aetós is eating carrion, vultures may be assumed to be meant. Now T.W. Manson, in "Sayings of Jesus," says the eagle would emphasize the swiftness of the coming of the Day of the Son of man. It is true that the eagle in passages such as Job 9:26, and Rev. 12:14, is a symbol of swiftness. I also get some amount of meaning in this verse that the eagles are acting as a form of messenger, which again, the eagle sometimes symbolizes, but not vultures as much. But the main emphasis here about the bird is not that of messenger, but that of a clear sign in the sky. Still, either 'eagles' or 'vultures' would be an acceptable rendering here.

slow to respond to them? <sup>8</sup>I tell you, he would bring about justice for them, in short order. However, when the Son of Man comes, will he find any faith on the earth at all?"<sup>533</sup>

The Parable of the Pharisee and the Revenue Agent

<sup>9</sup>And also, to some, who were convinced within themselves that they were righteous, and looking down on everyone else, he told this parable: <sup>10</sup>"Two men went up to the temple to pray, one a Pharisee, and the other a revenue agent. <sup>11</sup>When the Pharisee stood, he was praying inside himself as follows: 'O God, I thank you that I am not like other people, who are swindlers, dishonest, adulterers, or indeed, like this revenue agent. <sup>12</sup>I fast twice a week, I tithe of everything I get.'

<sup>13</sup>"But the revenue agent, standing a distance off, was not even willing to lift his eyes toward heaven, but was beating his breast, saying, 'O God, be merciful to me, a sinner.'

<sup>14</sup>"I tell you, this latter went down to his house justified, rather than the former. For all who exalt themselves will be humbled, and those who humble themselves will be exalted."<sup>534</sup>

The Little Children and Jesus

<sup>15</sup>And people were bringing little children to him, so that he would touch them. But when the disciples saw this, they started rebuking them. <sup>16</sup>But Jesus called them over to him, saying, "Allow the children to come to me, and stop preventing them, for of such is the kingdom of God. <sup>17</sup>Truly I tell you, whoever does not receive the kingdom of God like a child will certainly not enter it."

The Rich Young Ruler

<sup>18</sup>And a certain ruler queried him as follows: "Good teacher, with what done will I inherit eternal life?"

<sup>19</sup>And Jesus said to him, "Why are you calling me good? No one is good, except God alone. <sup>20</sup>The commandments you know: Do not commit adultery, Do not murder, Do not steal, Do not give false testimony, Honor your father and mother."

<sup>21</sup>And he said, "All these I have kept since childhood."

<sup>22</sup>And when Jesus heard this, he said to him, "There is still one thing lacking with you. Everything you have, sell and hand out to the poor, and you will have treasure in heaven, and then come follow me."

<sup>23</sup>But hearing these words made him very sad, for he was extremely wealthy. <sup>24</sup>And when Jesus saw this, he said, "How hard it is for those who have wealth to go into the kingdom of

<sup>533</sup> 18:8 "any at all" is from the Greek ἀρα - ara, a particle not directly translatable, but which indicates irritatedness or impatience or displeasure.

<sup>534</sup> 18:14 Though the Greek pronouns and articles in this sentence are singular, I have felt free to generalize and neuterize to the plural, in view of the fact that the sentence begins with the Greek word πᾶς - pās, which means "all" or "everyone." This is a general and plural subject.

God. <sup>25</sup>Indeed, it is easier for a camel<sup>535</sup> to go through the eye of a needle, than for the rich to enter into the kingdom of God."

<sup>26</sup>And those who heard said, "Who then CAN be saved?"

<sup>29</sup>And he said to them, "Truly I say to you, there is no one who has left house or wife or siblings or relatives or children, for the sake of the kingdom of God, <sup>30</sup>who will not receive back many times as much in this present time; and in the coming age, eternal life."

Jesus Again Predicts His Death

<sup>31</sup>And after having taken the twelve aside, he told them, "Behold, we are going up to Jerusalem, and everything that is written by the prophets about the Son of Man will be carried out. <sup>32</sup>For he will be handed over to the Gentiles, and be made fun of and mistreated and spit upon, <sup>33</sup>and after scourging him they will kill him, and on the third day he will rise again."

<sup>34</sup>And they understood none of these things. Indeed, this statement was hidden from them, and they did not realize the things being said.

An Obnoxious Beggar Gets His Wish

<sup>35</sup>And it came about that when he was drawing near to Jericho, a certain blind man was sitting beside the road, begging. <sup>36</sup>And when he heard the crowd going through, he was inquiring what this was all about. <sup>37</sup>And they informed him that Jesus the Nazarene was passing by. <sup>38</sup>Then he cried out, saying, "Jesus, son of David, have mercy on me!"

<sup>39</sup>And those leading the way were rebuking him, that he should be quiet. But he was shouting that much more, "Son of David, have mercy on me!"

<sup>40</sup>And after stopping, Jesus ordered that he be brought to him. And when he had come near, Jesus asked him, <sup>41</sup>"What do you want me to do for you?"

And he said, "Lord, that I could see again."

<sup>42</sup>And Jesus said to him, "See again; your faith has saved you."<sup>536</sup> <sup>43</sup>And at once he saw again, and he was following him, giving glory to God. And all the people also, when they saw, gave praise to God.

Chapter 19

Zacchaeus the Revenue Officer

<sup>1</sup>And he entered, passing on through Jericho. <sup>2</sup>And behold, there was a man called by the name of Zacchaeus, and he was a revenue officer, and he was rich. <sup>3</sup>And he was trying to see who Jesus was, but being prevented by the crowd, since he was small in stature. <sup>4</sup>And after running on forward ahead, he climbed up onto a sycamore tree, so that he could see him, for he was about to pass that way.

<sup>535</sup> 18:25 Just as it is impossible, humanly speaking, for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, Jesus says in v. 27 that it is "impossible" for a rich man to enter the kingdom of God. Some people teach that Jesus really instead said "rope to go through the eye of a needle," because he was speaking in the Aramaic language, and the Aramaic word for camel was also the word for a kind of rope. Regardless, Jesus would want to invent a simile that was in line with his main point: "something impossible." His illustration must demonstrate something that is impossible, naturally speaking. "Camel" is more impossible than "rope," so at worst, camel works just fine, and at best, camel is the best rendering because it is more impossible.

<sup>536</sup> 18:42 Or, "your faith has healed you." As also in many other places in Luke.

<sup>5</sup>And when Jesus arrived to the place, he looked up and said to him, "Hurry down, Zacchaeus, for today I need to stay at your house."

<sup>6</sup>And he hurried down, and took him in gladly. <sup>7</sup>And all who had seen this were complaining, saying, "He has gone in to stay the night with a sinful man."

<sup>8</sup>And Zacchaeus stood up, <sup>537</sup> and said to the Lord, "Look, one half of all I possess, Lord, I am giving to the poor, and where I have defrauded anyone of anything, I am making restitution threefold."

<sup>9</sup>And Jesus said in reference to him, "Today, salvation has come to this house, in view of the fact that this man too is a son of Abraham. <sup>10</sup>For the Son of Man came to seek and to save the lost."<sup>538</sup>

The Parable of the Ten Servants

<sup>11</sup>And as they were listening to these things, he included and spoke another parable, because he was drawing near to Jerusalem, and they thought that the kingdom of God was about to be appearing shortly. <sup>12</sup>He said therefore, "A certain man well born journeyed off to a far country, to receive for himself a kingdom and then return. <sup>13</sup>Now after calling ten of his servants, he had given to them ten minas,<sup>539</sup> and said to them, 'Do business until such time I return.'

<sup>14</sup>"But his subjects hated him, and they sent ambassadors behind him saying, 'We do not want this man to be king over us.'

<sup>15</sup>"And it came about that when he returned, he had received the kingship. And he ordered his servants to be summoned to him, those to whom he had given the money, in order to find out what they had earned."<sup>540</sup>

<sup>16</sup>"So the first one came, reporting as follows: 'Lord, your mina has grown to ten minas.'

<sup>17</sup>"And he said to him, 'Well done, good servant. Since with a little you have proven faithful, be therefore ruler over ten cities.'

<sup>18</sup>"And the second one came, saying, 'Your mina, Lord, has become five minas.'

<sup>537</sup> 19:8 Some translators interpret ἵστημι here as "stopped," seeing the situation as the grumblers grumbling while Zacchaeus and Jesus were still in their presence. So then Zacchaeus would have stopped and said the things he said in response to those complaining. I do not see it that way. I think that Jesus and Zacchaeus had already gone into Zack's house and were reclined, when Zack stood up to say what he says in verse eight. I could be wrong.

<sup>538</sup> 19:10 Jesus is the Good Shepherd of Ezekiel 34:16, and not a false shepherd of Ezekiel 34:4. The exact same form of the Greek article and noun for "the lost," τὸ ἀπολωλός - τὸ apolōlós, occurs also in the Septuagint in Ezekiel 34:4, 16. Some translations render the words here in Luke as "that which was lost." If you do that, then you should word the Ezekiel passages exactly the same, so that the readers get the connection.

<sup>539</sup> 19:13 That is, he gave the ten servants one mina each. The mina, which was originally a Semitic word that the Greek language had long since borrowed, was equivalent to 100 drachmas. One drachma was not insignificant in purchasing power. Culling Greek literature, you can find quite a variance: some times and places, one drachma could buy you one sheep, but was only one-fifth the price of an ox. Other times, one drachma could buy you an ox. Either way, a mina was worth at least 100 sheep. That is a lot of money. Anyone could take that amount of money and by investing, turn it into more.

<sup>540</sup> 19:15 "what they had earned" is the earlier Greek reading τί διεπραγματεύσαντο, whereas the Textus Receptus reads τίς τί διεπραγματεύσατο, "what each one had earned," which reading the UBS commentary says seems to be the result of scribal efforts to make the narrative more clear. The editorial Committee of the UBS 4th edition give the first reading, τί διεπραγματεύσαντο, a B rating of certainty, that is, "almost certain."

<sup>20</sup>"And the other one<sup>541</sup> came, saying as follows: 'Lord, here is your mina, which I have been keeping laid away in a napkin. <sup>21</sup>For I was afraid of you, since you are a demanding man; you collect what you did not deposit, and reap what you did not sow.'

<sup>22</sup>"He says to him, 'By your own mouth I judge you, you wicked servant. You knew, did you, that I am a demanding man, collecting what I did not deposit, and reaping what I did not sow? <sup>23</sup>Why then did you not put my money on the table of the moneychangers, and I having returned would collect it with interest?' <sup>24</sup>And to some standing there he said, 'Take the mina away from him, and give it to the one who has ten minas.'

<sup>25</sup>"And they said to him, 'Lord, he has ten minas!'

<sup>26</sup>"I tell you, to everyone who has, it will be given, but the one who has not, even such that he has will be taken away from him. <sup>27</sup>But as for my enemies, those who had not wanted me to be king over them, bring them here, and slay them in front of me.'"

The Triumphal Entry

<sup>28</sup>And having said these things, he was pressing his way onward, going up to Jerusalem. <sup>29</sup>And it came about that as he drew near to Bethphage and Bethany at the hill called the Mount of Olives, he sent away two of his disciples, <sup>30</sup>saying, "Go into the village ahead of you, in which as you are entering you will find a colt<sup>542</sup> tethered, upon which no one has ever yet sat, and you are to untie it and bring it. <sup>31</sup>And if someone asks you, 'Why are you untying it,' say this, 'The Lord needs it.'"

<sup>32</sup>And when the ones who were sent went, they found things just as he had told them. <sup>33</sup>And as they were untying the colt, the owners of it said to them, "Why are you untying the colt?"

<sup>34</sup>And they said, "The Lord needs it."

<sup>35</sup>And they brought it to Jesus, and after throwing garments of theirs on the colt, they mounted Jesus upon it. <sup>36</sup>And as he was proceeding along, people were spreading their cloaks in the road beneath.

<sup>37</sup>And having come near now to the descent of the Mount of Olives, the whole company of disciples started rejoicing, to lift God up with a loud voice for all the miracles that they had seen. <sup>38</sup>They were saying,

"Blessed is the king who comes in the name of the Lord!"<sup>543</sup>

<sup>541</sup> 19:20 Or, "another one," or, "a different one." There is a theory that this parable of the Ten Minas is drawn from Matthew's parable of the Ten Talents of 25:14-30, in which there are only three servants, and here Luke has "fatigued" of maintaining his version's uniqueness from Matthew, and reverted back to following Matthew's version exactly. On the other hand, Jesus may well have used modified versions of the parable at various times. Still, there are things about this Lukan version that do not add up, literally. The first servant is given one mina, and then in most translations, he says, "Your mina has made ten minas more." Then Jesus says in verse 24, 'Take the mina away from him, and give it to the one who has ten minas.' But, if he started with one mina, and made ten minas more, wouldn't he have eleven minas, and not ten? So, perhaps the aforementioned theory is true; or else, the phrase usually translated, "made ten minas more," can be translated something like I have it: "increased to ten minas."

<sup>542</sup> 19:30 πῶλος - pōlos, a young mount animal, a word used for the foals of both donkeys and horses. But we know from the other accounts that this was the foal of a donkey.

<sup>543</sup> 19:38 Psalm 118:26

Peace in heaven, and glory in the highest!"

<sup>40</sup>And he in answer said, "I tell you, if these go silent, the stones will cry out."<sup>544</sup>

<sup>41</sup>And as he drew near and saw the city, he wept over it, <sup>42</sup>saying, "If you, yes ironically you,<sup>545</sup> had only known what would bring you peace on this very day!<sup>546</sup> But now it is hidden from your eyes. <sup>43</sup>For the days will come upon you that your enemies will throw a palisade up against you, and encircle you, and press in on you from every side, <sup>44</sup>and throw you to the ground,<sup>547</sup> you and your children within you, and there will not be left within you a stone upon a stone, in retribution for the fact you did not recognize the time of your gracious visitation."<sup>548</sup>

Jesus Clears the Temple

<sup>45</sup>And when he had entered the temple, he proceeded to drive out the vendors, <sup>46</sup>telling them, "It is written, 'And my house shall be a house of prayer,'<sup>549</sup> but you have made it 'a haunt of bandits.'<sup>550</sup>"

<sup>47</sup>And he was teaching daily in the temple. And the chief priests and the Torah scholars, along with the leaders of the people, were trying to kill him. <sup>48</sup>Yet they were not finding any way they could do it, because the entire crowd was hanging on him, listening to him.

<sup>544</sup> 19:40 A few manuscripts (Γ Δ al.) have the verbs "be quiet" and "cry out" in the subjunctive mood, which in English would be, "If these were to keep silent, the stones would cry out." But the original reading is so certainly with the verbs in the future inflection, that this difference is not noted at all in the apparatus of the United Bible Societies' Greek New Testament, nor in their textual commentary. I have been translating the gospels long enough to have seen a trend, that copyists sometimes thought the future awkward, and changed it to the subjunctive. Because indeed the rule was, according to BDF §373, when the clause begins with ἐάν as here, a subjunctive verb is expected. Thus, it is far more likely that copyists would have corrected an original future reading to a subjunctive one, than the other way around. But the future indicative here makes Jesus' statement that much more emphatic.

<sup>545</sup> 19:42a Jesus says, "yes, even you," because of the irony that the city of Jerusalem, whose name includes the Semitic root word for peace, did not recognize what would bring it peace, and did not recognize the Prince of Peace.

<sup>546</sup> 19:42b This exact phrase, τὰ πρὸς εἰρήνην appeared also in Luke 14:32, where I translated it, "the conditions for peace."

<sup>547</sup> 19:44a The Greek verb for "dash to the ground," ἐδαφίζω - edaphízō, in reference to a city, means both "raze to the ground," as in the Septuagint in Isaiah 3:26, and also "dash to the ground," as in Psalm 136:9, Hosea 10:14, 14:1 and others. Here both meanings have to apply for the one instance of the word: you, referring to Jerusalem, the city, will be razed to the ground, and her children will be dashed to the ground.

<sup>548</sup> 19:44b The Greek words usually translated "because," here, "because you did not recognize," are the words, ἀντί - antí followed by the relative pronoun. A literal translation of this would be, "in exchange for the fact that you did not recognize your gracious visitation." For the previously mentioned disasters were also a visitation. A visitation, rendered in Greek by the word ἐπισκοπή - episkopé, could be both a negative one, or a positive one. A gracious visitation was predicted for them and offered many times in the Hebrew scriptures, and earlier in the gospel of Luke, in Zechariah's song in Luke 1:78, where he said "because of the tender feelings of our God with which he Sunrise from on high will look over - ἐπισκέπτομαι - episképtomai - us. Since they forfeited their gracious episkopé, God would give them a calamitous one in exchange, in repayment, in retribution, instead.

The Authorities Question Jesus' Authority

<sup>1</sup>And it came about during one of those days of his teaching the crowd in the temple and preaching the good news, that the high priests and Torah scholars and elders came up, <sup>2</sup>and they said to him as follows: "Tell us, by what authority are you doing these things? Or, who is the one who gave you the authority for these things?"

<sup>3</sup>And in answer Jesus said to them, "I will also ask you something, that you must tell me: <sup>4</sup>John's baptism, was it from heaven, or from human beings?"

<sup>5</sup>So they discussed it among themselves, saying, "If we say, 'From heaven,' he will say, 'Then why didn't you believe him?' <sup>6</sup>But if we say, 'From human beings,' all the people will stone us, because they are convinced that John was a prophet."

<sup>7</sup>And they professed not to know where it was from. <sup>8</sup>And Jesus said to them, "Neither am I telling you by what authority I do these things."

The Parable of the Tenants

<sup>9</sup>And he began to speak this parable to the crowd: "A man planted a vineyard, and leased it out to tenant-farmers, and journeyed away for quite some time. <sup>10</sup>And in the time of harvest, he sent a servant to the tenants, so they could pay him rent out of the fruit of the vineyard. But the tenants, after beating him, sent him away empty-handed. <sup>11</sup>And he proceeded to send a another servant; and that one also, after beating and insulting him, they sent away empty-handed. <sup>12</sup>And he proceeded to send a third; and that one also they threw out, after injuring him.

<sup>13</sup>"So the owner of the vineyard said, 'What should I do? I will send my beloved son; maybe him, they will respect.'

<sup>14</sup>"But when they saw him, the tenants discussed it among themselves, saying, 'This is the heir. Let us kill him, so that the inheritance will be ours.' <sup>15</sup>And they threw him outside the vineyard and killed him. "What then will the owner of the vineyard do to them? <sup>16</sup>He will come, and he will kill those tenants, and he will give the vineyard to others."

And those who heard this said, "May it never be!"

<sup>17</sup>But he, after looking at them, said, "Why then is this written:

'A stone which the builders rejected, this one has become the chief cornerstone'?<sup>551</sup>

<sup>18</sup>Everyone who trips over that stone will be broken into pieces; upon whomever the stone falls, it will turn him into powder."

<sup>19</sup>And at that time, the Torah scholars and high priests wanted to lay their hands on him, yet they were afraid of the people. For they knew that he had spoken this parable in reference to them.

Paying the Tribute Tax to Caesar

<sup>20</sup>And beginning to watch him closely, they sent spies presenting themselves as sincere, in order to catch some statement of his, such that they could hand him over to the jurisdiction and authority of the governor.

<sup>21</sup>And they questioned him as follows: "Teacher, we know that you talk straight, and you teach straight; that is, you do not acknowledge personage, but only on the basis of truth you teach the way of God. <sup>22</sup>Is it permissible for us to pay the tribute<sup>552</sup> to Caesar, or not?"

<sup>23</sup>But he perceived their trickery, and said to them, <sup>24</sup>"Show me a denarius. Whose image does it bear, and whose inscription?"

And they said, "Caesar's."

<sup>25</sup>And he said to them, "Well then, Caesar's things give back to Caesar, and God's things to God."

<sup>26</sup>And they were not able to catch him in a saying in the presence of the people; and having been astonished by his answer, they remained silent.

Marriage at the Resurrection

<sup>27</sup>Then some of the Sadducees approached (Sadducees say there is no resurrection), and they questioned him <sup>28</sup>as follows: "Teacher, Moses wrote for us, 'If a man's brother dies having a wife, and that deceased is childless, that the man should take the wife of his brother, and raise up descendants for his brother.'<sup>553</sup>

<sup>29</sup>"Well, there were seven brothers. And the first one, who had taken a wife, died childless. <sup>30</sup>And the second one <sup>31</sup>took her, and the third one, and in fact, all seven in the same way, left behind no child, and died. <sup>32</sup>Last of all, the woman also died.

<sup>33</sup>"So the woman, in the resurrection, whose wife is she going to be? For all seven had her as wife."

<sup>34</sup>And Jesus said to them, "The children of this age marry and are given in marriage; <sup>35</sup>but those considered worthy to taste of that age and of the resurrection from the dead, will neither marry nor be given in marriage, <sup>36</sup>nor will they be able to die any more, for they will be like the angels and be children of God, since they are children of the resurrection.

<sup>552</sup> 20:22 The Greek word translated "tribute" is phoros. The Roman Caesar would charge a head tax (capita tax) based on a head count or census. The Latin root word for head is cap. Thus, this tax was a per capita tax, or a capitation. It was a flat tax, having no relation to graduated percentages, or ability to pay. It was not an income tax. Every head had to cough up the same amount. Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Ed., defines a Capitation tax thusly: "A poll tax. A tax or imposition upon the person. It is a very ancient kind of tribute, and answers to what the Latins called 'tributum,' by which taxes on persons are distinguished from taxes on merchandise, called 'vectigalia.'" Remember, a census was forbidden by God, and King David incurred God's wrath when he numbered the people. (A census tax or capita tax is also the kind expressly prohibited by the Constitution for the United States of America.) Black's Law Dictionary defines Tribute in turn as: "A contribution which is raised by a prince or sovereign from his subjects to sustain the expenses of the state. A sum of money paid by an inferior sovereign or state to a superior potentate, to secure the friendship or protection of the latter." Now as for coinage, Jesus obviously knew some principles of law. When he said in verse 25, "Caesar's things give back to Caesar," he recognized that every single coin circulated that bore Caesar's portrait and inscription, already belonged to Caesar. The Jewish religious taxes, on the other hand, were paid in weight of silver—shekels, or even drachmas, but not in Roman coins.

<sup>37</sup>"But that the dead are rising, even Moses intimated so, at the part about the bush, the way he says Yahweh is the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob. <sup>38</sup>Now God is not the God of dead people, but of living, for to him all of those are alive."

<sup>39</sup>And one of the Torah scholars said in response, "Teacher, well said."

Whose Son Is the Messiah

<sup>40</sup>Indeed, no longer did any of them dare to question him. <sup>41</sup>So he said in reference to them, "How do they maintain the Messiah to be the son of David? <sup>42</sup>For David himself says in the scroll of the Psalms,

'Yahweh<sup>554</sup> said to my Lord:

"Sit at my right hand

<sup>43</sup>until such time I make your enemies a footstool for your feet."<sup>555</sup>

Jesus Denounces the Torah Scholars

<sup>45</sup>And with the entire crowd listening, he said to the disciples, <sup>46</sup>"Beware of the Torah scholars, wanting to walk around in robes, and loving the greetings in the marketplaces, and chief seats in the synagogues, and places of honor at banquets; <sup>47</sup>they devour the houses of widows, and for a front, make lengthy prayers. These will receive greater condemnation."

Chapter 21

The Widow's Offering

<sup>1</sup>And when he looked up, he saw rich people putting their gifts into the donation chest. <sup>2</sup>Then he saw a certain penniless widow dropping there two lepta,<sup>556</sup> <sup>3</sup>and he said, "Truly I tell you, this poor widow has put in more than all the rest. <sup>4</sup>For they all put in their gifts out of the extra they had, but she out of her lack put in all she had to live on."

Signs of the Times

<sup>5</sup>And as some of them were talking about the temple, how with such beautiful stones and gifts it was adorned, he said: <sup>6</sup>"These things that you are looking at, days will come in which there will not be left a stone upon a stone that will not be thrown down."

<sup>554</sup> 20:42 Εἶπεν κύριος τῷ κυρίῳ, "The LORD said to my Lord," from the Hebrew נָאֻם יְהוָה לְאֲדֹנָי - nə'um Yəhōvah la'dōnōi of Psalm 110:1. In this verse, both the Tetragrammaton יְהוָה (YHVH) and Adonai are found, together. But one could hardly say, "Adonai said to Adonai." In an attempt to avoid this, the Masoretes inserted a paseq in between, one of these: |, to make them be in separate phrases, and thus the Masoretic text reads: נָאֻם יְהוָה | לְאֲדֹנָי.

<sup>7</sup>And they questioned him as follows, "Teacher, so when will these things be, and what sign will happen when they are all about to take place?"

<sup>8</sup>And he said, "See to it that you are not led astray. For many will come in my name, saying, 'I am He,' and, 'The Lord is near.' Do not go off after them. <sup>9</sup>So when you hear of wars and unrest, do not be alarmed; for these things need to happen first, but the end does not come immediately."

<sup>10</sup>Then, he was saying to them, "Nation will rise up against nation, and kingdom against kingdom, <sup>11</sup>and there will be mega-quakes, and famines and epidemics in various places, and frightful and awesome signs from heaven.

<sup>12</sup>"But before all these things, they will lay their hands on you and will persecute you, handing you over to synagogues and prisons, being led all the way up to kings and governors for the sake of my name; <sup>13</sup>it will work out for you to be a testimony. <sup>14</sup>Put it in your hearts therefore, not to be practicing how to answer in defense; <sup>15</sup>for I will give you utterance and wisdom that none of those opposing you will be able to stand against or rebut.

<sup>16</sup>"But you will also be turned in by parents and siblings and relatives and friends, and they will put some of you to death. <sup>17</sup>And indeed you will be hated by everyone because of my name. <sup>18</sup>Yet not a hair of your head will perish: <sup>19</sup>by your enduring, you shall gain your lives.<sup>557</sup>

The UBS editorial committee says it is slightly more probable that the reading of Codex Sinaiticus and many other early witnesses, is the correct one, which have the verb κτάομαι - ktáomai in the imperative mood. That would be a command to the disciples to preserve their lives. The committee says it would be more likely that copyists would have changed this verb to conform it to the future tense of the rest of the verbs in the context, more likely than the other way around. Note that the other gospels have the same idea in the future indicative. In some languages the difference between the two readings would not be translatable. I note that in the UBS4 apparatus, the reading of the Syriac is not given. (Is there a translatable difference between "you will gain your lives" and "you shall gain your lives"?) There is also discrepancy as to the reading of it<sup>q</sup>.

<sup>558</sup> 21:20 The Greek word for "know" here, γινώσκω - ginóskō, is in the form of γνῶτε - gnōte, which could be either imperative or subjunctive mood, since in this case the form would be identical. Imperative would be in English, "when you see Jerusalem surrounded by armies, then know - or then you should know,- that her desolation is near." Subjunctive would be in English, "when you see Jerusalem surrounded by armies, then you know - or would know - or will know, - or should know, that her desolation is near."

<sup>559</sup> 21:22 In the Greek, the word for "day" is anarthrous here, that is, without the article. You will see some translations saying "the days" or "the time," and others saying "days," or "a time." This question regarding the Greek definite article is one of the translation issues most revealing of the translators' doctrinal preconceptions. Here, for example, it can reveal whether you believe that the prophecies will have a double fulfillment, or only one fulfillment. That is, are these prophecies partially fulfilled in the time and deeds of Titus in 70 A.D., and more fully fulfilled in the tribulation? Or are they solely fulfilled during the time of Titus? Or solely or primarily fulfilled in the tribulation? And prior to the time of Titus, some of God's people no doubt believed that these prophecies had been fulfilled during the time and deeds of Antiochus Epiphanies, either partially or primarily. I have 24 English translations on hand, and they split down the middle; half say "the days" and half say "days" or equivalent. We must interpret this passage by the rest of scripture, and do it in reliance on the anointing of the Holy Spirit, which leads us into all truth. We also must use common sense in light of the context here. This passage, in light of v. 24, seems to and the ones giving milk during those days! For it will be a great calamity upon the land,<sup>560</sup> and wrath toward this people. <sup>24</sup>And they will fall by the edge of the sword, and be taken captive to all the nations; and Jerusalem will be trampled over by Gentiles, until the times of the Gentiles are played out.

<sup>25</sup>And there will be signs in the sun, the moon and the stars, and on earth anxiety of the nations, in uncertainty over the roar and surge of the sea, <sup>26</sup>people holding their breath in fear and anticipation because of the things overtaking the world; for the forces of space will be shaken.

<sup>27</sup>"And then at that time they will see the Son of Man coming in a cloud, with power and great glory. <sup>28</sup>So when these things are beginning to take place, stand yourselves tall and lift up your heads, because your redemption is drawing near."

<sup>29</sup>And he spoke a parable to them: "Consider the fig tree, indeed all the trees. <sup>30</sup>When they are now putting forth leaves, you see for yourselves and know that summer is now near. <sup>31</sup>So also you, when you see these things taking place, you know that the kingdom of God is near. <sup>32</sup>Truly I tell you: this age will by no means pass away until this all has taken place. <sup>33</sup>Sky and earth will pass away, but my words will certainly not pass away.

<sup>34</sup>"But watch yourselves, that your hearts not be held back<sup>561</sup> by over-indulgence and drunkenness, and by ordinary concerns of this mortal life, and that day come upon you suddenly <sup>35</sup>like a trap. For it will come upon everyone who lives on the face of the whole earth. <sup>36</sup>So you must be watchful at all times, praying that you might manage to avoid all these things about to come to pass, and stand before the Son of Man."

<sup>37</sup>And he was spending the days teaching in the temple, and the nights he was going out and lodging on the hill called the Mount of Olives. <sup>38</sup>And all the people would get up early to come to the temple and hear him.

Chapter 22

The Contract on Jesus

<sup>1</sup>And the Festival of Unleavened Bread, called Passover, was approaching, <sup>2</sup>and the chief priests and the Torah scholars were still yet looking for a way to put him to death, because they were still yet fearing the people.<sup>562</sup> be including the destruction of the temple in 70 A.D. Therefore, we must say in v. 22 about the Great Tribulation, that those are "days" of tribulation, not the only ones.

<sup>560</sup> 21:23 Or, "upon the earth"

<sup>561</sup> 21:34 Or, "desensitized." The Greek word is βαρέω - baréō, which normally means "weighed down." But this is a metonymous meaning, as is the word for heart. The heart is not literally weighed down. The spiritual strength, alertness, sensitivity, sharpness, and passion might be lessened by the things mentioned.

<sup>562</sup> 22:2 This verse makes no sense unless you take into consideration the imperfect aspect of the Greek verbs for 'trying' and 'fearing.' Imperfect here means just that: incomplete and ongoing action. They had been trying to kill him already since Luke 19:47-48, and 20:19. The reason they still had not accomplished killing him, was because they were STILL YET fearing the people. So if someone tells you that the aspect (continuous vs. punctiliar) of N.T. Greek verbs is unimportant, don't believe them, no matter how big a name they are. Those big names are the ones who came up with the nonsensical mainstream rendering, as follows: "And the chief priests and the scribes were seeking how to kill him, for they feared the people." This makes it sound like the reason they wanted to kill Jesus was that they were afraid of the people. But that is not the case. The exact opposite is true: their fear of the people was what was still preventing them killing Jesus. See Endnote #4, at the end of this document, which discusses this more fully.

<sup>3</sup>Then Satan entered into Judas, the one called Ish Keriot, who was one of their number, of the Twelve. <sup>4</sup>And he went away, and discussed with the chief priests and the commanders of the temple guard how he might hand him over to them. <sup>5</sup>And they were delighted, and contracted to give him money. <sup>6</sup>And he accepted, and was looking for the best time for handing him over to them, without the crowd.

The Passover Supper

<sup>9</sup>And they said to him, "Where do you want us to prepare it?"

<sup>10</sup>And he told them, "Behold, at the point of your arriving into the city a man carrying a water jar will encounter you. Follow him to whatever house he goes into. <sup>11</sup>And say to the owner of the house, 'The teacher says to you, "Where is the guest room where I may eat the Passover with my disciples?"' " <sup>12</sup>And that person will show you a large upstairs room all furnished. You shall prepare it there." <sup>13</sup>So when they went, they found things just as he had told them; and they prepared the Passover.

<sup>14</sup>And when the hour had come, he reclined, and the disciples along with him. <sup>15</sup>And he said to them, "It is with great longing and anticipation I have wanted to eat this Passover with you before my suffering. <sup>16</sup>For I tell you: I will certainly not eat it again<sup>564</sup> until such time it has been fulfilled in the kingdom of God."

<sup>17</sup>And after taking hold of the cup, he gave thanks, and said, "Take this, and share it among yourselves; <sup>18</sup>for I tell you: By no means will I drink of the fruit of the vine from this point on until such time the kingdom of God has come."

<sup>19</sup>And after taking the bread and giving thanks, he broke it and gave it to them, saying, "This is my body, being given for you. This you should do as a commemoration of me."<sup>565</sup>

<sup>20</sup>And the cup after the meal<sup>566</sup> in the same way, saying: "This cup is the new covenant in my blood, being poured out for you.

<sup>21</sup>"But lo, the hand of the one betraying me is with mine on the table. <sup>22</sup>Therefore indeed the Son of Man is going out exactly as is planned. Even so, woe to that man through whom he is betrayed!"

<sup>23</sup>And they began to debate with each other which of them therefore might be the one about to do this.

<sup>24</sup>Then there also arose another dispute among them, as to which of them was considered to be greater.

<sup>563</sup> 22:7 Greek: θύω - thúō. It could also be translated "to sacrifice," or, "to celebrate" the Passover. But the meaning "celebrate" only applied when the celebration included the slaughtering of something.

<sup>564</sup> 22:16 The word "again" is not in the Greek, but implied. Thus, later copyists apparently felt obliged to add the Greek word οὐκέτι - oukéti, to both clarify the meaning, and also to harmonize Luke with Mark 14:25, and perhaps also with Matthew 26:29, which says, "from now on."

<sup>565</sup> 22:19 "This you should do" is referring to the Passover. From now on, they and we should do the Passover in commemoration of Jesus' death on our behalf. Both the unleavened bread and the Passover lamb or kid are His body figuratively. Note that Codex D has a much shorter reading of vss. 19-20, but it is alone in this, and is notoriously unreliable. So no serious consideration should be given it when it is all alone.

<sup>25</sup>And he said to them, "The kings of the nations lord it over them, and those exercising authority over them are called 'benefactors.' <sup>26</sup>But not so with you. Rather, the greatest among you should be like the youngest,<sup>567</sup> and the leader as the one who serves. <sup>27</sup>For who is greater: the one reclining, or the one serving? Is it not the one reclining? Among you though, I am as the one serving.

<sup>28</sup>"But you are the ones who have stuck with me through my trials; <sup>29</sup>and I am assigning to you a kingdom, just as my Father did to me, <sup>30</sup>such that you will eat and drink at my table in my kingdom,<sup>568</sup> and sit upon thrones, judging the twelve tribes of Israel.

Jesus Predicts the Disciples' Crisis of Faith

<sup>31</sup>"Simon, Simon, behold, Satan has obtained permission to have you all, to sift you all like wheat.<sup>569</sup> <sup>32</sup>But I have prayed for you, that your faith will not completely die. And you, when you have come back around, strengthen your brothers."

<sup>33</sup>But he said to him, "Lord, I am prepared to go with you both to prison and to death."

<sup>34</sup>But Jesus said, "I tell you, Peter: the rooster will not crow this day, until you have denied three times that you know me."

<sup>35</sup>And he said to them, "When I sent you without purse, knapsack and sandals, did you lack anything?"

And they said, "Nothing."

<sup>36</sup>Then he said, "But now, he who has a purse should bring it, or a knapsack likewise, and he who does not have a sword, should sell his cloak and buy one. <sup>37</sup>For I tell you, this which is written has to be fulfilled in me:

'And he was considered one of the outlaws.'<sup>570</sup>

Yes indeed, that about me is reaching fulfillment."

<sup>38</sup>So they said, "Lord, look. There are two swords here."

And he said to them, "That is enough."

Gethsemane

<sup>39</sup>And after going out, he proceeded as was his custom to the Mount of Olives; and his disciples followed him also. <sup>40</sup>And coming upon the place he said to them, "Pray not to come into temptation." <sup>41</sup>And he withdrew from them, about a stone's throw away. And having dropped his knees, he was praying, <sup>42</sup>as follows: "Father, if you are willing, remove this cup from me. However, not my will, but yours be done." [[<sup>43</sup>And an angel from heaven appeared to

<sup>45</sup>And after rising from prayer and returning to the disciples, he found them sleeping, out of sorrow. <sup>46</sup>And he said to them, "Why are you sleeping? Get up and pray, that you not go into temptation."

Jesus Arrested

<sup>47</sup>While he was yet speaking, behold, a crowd, and the one called Judas, one of the Twelve, was leading them. And he came up to Jesus, and kissed him.<sup>572</sup> <sup>48</sup>But Jesus said to him, "Judas, with a kiss you betray the Son of Man?"

<sup>51</sup>But in response Jesus said, "Let that be enough of that." And he touched his ear and healed him.

<sup>52</sup>Then, toward those coming against him, the chief priests, temple officers and elders, Jesus said, "As though after a bandit, you have come out with swords and clubs? <sup>53</sup>Every day with me being next to you in the temple you didn't lay your hands on me. But this is the hour for you, and the authority of darkness."

Peter's Denials

<sup>54</sup>And after seizing him, they took him and led him into the house of the high priest; and Peter was following at a distance. <sup>55</sup>And since people had lit a fire in the middle of the courtyard and were all sitting together, Peter was sitting among them. <sup>56</sup>But a certain maidservant noticed him sitting toward the fire, and after studying him, she said, "This man also was with him."

<sup>57</sup>But he denied it, saying, "I don't know him, woman."

<sup>58</sup>And shortly thereafter, another person who saw him was saying, "You are also one of them."

And Peter was saying, "Man, I am not."

<sup>59</sup>And after about an hour had passed, someone else was affirming, saying, "Definitely, this man was also with him; he is also Galilean."

<sup>60</sup>But Peter said, "Man, I do not know what you are talking about." And immediately as he was still speaking, a rooster crowed. <sup>61</sup>And the Lord turned and looked at Peter, and he remembered the statement of the Lord, how he had said to him, "Before the crowing of the rooster today, you will have denied me three times." <sup>62</sup>And he went off outside, and bitterly wept.

<sup>571</sup> 22:43-44 The words in these verses may be an extra-canonical tradition which got added to the gospel of Luke. They are absent in very early and geographically widespread manuscripts and witnesses. See Endnote #3 at the end of this document which discusses this.

<sup>572</sup> 22:47 The Greek literally says, "And he came up to him, to kiss him." But this is probably a Semitism, called "the infinitive of result."

Before the Sanhedrin

<sup>63</sup>And the men guarding Jesus were making fun of him as they beat him up. <sup>64</sup>After blindfolding him, they were asking him, "Prophecy, who is it that hit you?" <sup>65</sup>And they were saying many other insulting things against him.

<sup>66</sup>And as the day broke, the elders of the people and the high priests and the Torah scholars were assembled, and they brought him over into their Sanhedrin, <sup>67</sup>saying, "Tell us whether you are the Christ."

And he said to them, "If I told you, you would certainly not believe, <sup>68</sup>and if I asked questions, you would certainly not answer. <sup>69</sup>Nevertheless, from now on, the Son of Man will be sitting at the right hand of the power of God."

<sup>70</sup>So they all said, "You are the Son of God then?"

And he was saying to them, "You are saying that I am."<sup>573</sup>

<sup>71</sup>And they said, "What more need do we have for witnesses? For we ourselves have heard from his own mouth."

Chapter 23

Jesus Before Pilate and Herod

<sup>1</sup>And the whole assembly of them got up, and they took him before Pilate. <sup>2</sup>And they began to accuse him, as follows. "We found this man misleading our nation and forbidding to give tribute to Caesar, and claiming to be a king himself, the Christ."

<sup>3</sup>So Pilate examined him, saying, "Are you the king of the Jews?"

And he in answer to him was saying, "You are the one saying that."<sup>574</sup>

<sup>4</sup>And Pilate said to the chief priests and the crowds, "I find no causa capitalis in this man."<sup>575</sup>

<sup>5</sup>But they were getting more insistent, saying, "He incites the people, teaching throughout the entire land of the Jews, starting from Galilee and all the way to here."

<sup>6</sup>And when Pilate heard this, he asked, "Is the man a Galilean?"<sup>576</sup> <sup>7</sup>And when he had confirmed that he is in fact from Herod's jurisdiction, he referred him to Herod, who was in Jerusalem too for those days.

<sup>573</sup> 22:70 "You are saying that I am" is literally what the Greek says, and this expression comes from the Semitic word "amarta." It is neither a yes nor a no. This was a Jewish idiom, and you can find some Rabbinic examples where it was understood as a Yes, and some where it would obviously NOT be understood as a yes. Therefore, we have to conclude that it is not a yes of any kind. At the same time, it is not a denial. Which sometimes some people might take as a yes. But as for translation, it should be translated literally, and left at that. No helper words should be added that might imply an affirmative answer. See the endnote on this topic at the end of my translation of Mark's gospel. The Sanhedrin would not be satisfied with anything less than a vehement denial from Jesus. Thus the Sanhedrin's reaction, of needing no more witnesses or evidence. But even what Jesus had already said here earlier, in 22:69, that Jesus would be seated at the right hand of God, that would be offense enough. What is different about Luke here, is that he uses ἔφη, the imperfect form of φημί - phēmí here, which I translated "kept saying." Luke does not use the continuous aspect indiscriminately or insignificantly.

<sup>574</sup> 23:3 The Greek says literally, "You are saying." See footnote on 22:70, and on Mark 15:3. It is not a "yes" answer.

<sup>575</sup> 23:4 That is, basis for capital punishment. It was understood that the only reason the Jewish authorities would bring a criminal to Pilate, was for adjudication of the death penalty and execution. The Jewish authorities otherwise were allowed to execute judgment with their own courts and laws, short of execution; see John 18:31.

<sup>8</sup>Now Herod was very glad when he saw Jesus. He had been wanting for quite some time to meet him, because of hearing about him, and he hoped to see something miraculous happening through him. <sup>9</sup>So he was plying him with a considerable amount of questions; but Jesus never gave any response at all. <sup>10</sup>And the chief priests and the Torah scholars were standing there throughout, vehemently accusing him.

<sup>11</sup>Then Herod, together with his soldiers, after treating him with contempt and mocking him by draping a splendid robe around him, sent him back to Pilate. <sup>12</sup>Which caused Herod and Pilate to become friends with each other that same day (for they had previously always been hostile toward each other).

<sup>13</sup>And Pilate summoned the high priest, together with the rulers and the people, <sup>14</sup>and he said to them, "You have brought this man up to me as someone inciting the people to treason, and here now is my finding after trying him in your presence. I have found in this man no basis for the charges you are bringing against him. <sup>15</sup>And neither has Herod, for he has sent him back to us. So you see, nothing being done by him is worthy of death. <sup>16</sup>Therefore, having scourged him, I will release him." [[<sup>17</sup>Now he was obligated by custom according to the festival to release one person to them.]]<sup>577</sup>

<sup>19</sup>(He was someone who had been thrown in prison because of a certain uprising and murder that took place in the city.)

<sup>20</sup>But Pilate, wanting to release Jesus, called out to them again. <sup>21</sup>But they cried out, saying, "Crucify him, crucify him!"

<sup>22</sup>But a third time, he said to them, "Why? What crime has this man committed? Having scourged him therefore, I will release him."

<sup>23</sup>But with loud shouts the crowd kept urgently demanding that he be crucified. And their shouts prevailed, <sup>24</sup>and Pilate decided to grant their request. <sup>25</sup>And he released the man who had been thrown into prison for insurrection and murder, the one whom they had asked for, and Jesus he handed over to their will.

The Crucifixion

<sup>26</sup>And as they led him away, they seized a certain Cyrenian who was returning from the country, and they placed the cross on him, to carry it behind Jesus. <sup>27</sup>And a great multitude of the people were following him, and women who were mourning and lamenting him.

<sup>28</sup>But Jesus turned to them, and he said, "Daughters of Jerusalem, do not weep for me, but weep for yourselves, and for your children. <sup>29</sup>For behold, days are coming in which they will say, 'Blessed are the barren, and the wombs that never bore, and the breasts that never nursed.'

<sup>30</sup>At that time they will begin to say to the mountains, 'Fall on us,' and to the hills, 'Cover us.'<sup>578</sup>

object to which something happens. So this could also possibly be translated, "...if they do these things to a green (healthy, sap-filled) tree, what will happen to the dry?" It could mean "if these things happen to a righteous, fruitful person, what will happen to the unfruitful?" And it could also mean, "if they do these things in good and prosperous times, what will they do in bad times?" Perhaps this is a proverb current at that time, but no one knows for sure.

<sup>580</sup> 23:32 The Greek syntax here may be more properly translated, "Now two other criminals were also being taken with him to be executed." Later Greek manuscripts were possibly modified to take away this possibility. But Jesus had predicted in Luke 22:37 that he would be considered one of the outlaws.

The phrase with ἐκλείπω could be translated, "from an eclipse of the sun." The Classical Greek writers Thucydides, Herodotus and Aristophanes used this word, when referring to the sun or moon, as meaning "suffer eclipse." But the event in this passage, Jesus' crucifixion, took place during Passover, which was always during a full moon, so an eclipse of the sun by the moon was not possible. Neither are there any astronomical records of the moon eclipsing the sun during that time. So the only rendering that is truly incorrect, would be "eclipse." To most people, an eclipse of the sun would mean that the sun was eclipsed by the moon. I imagine it is theoretically

And the curtain of the temple was torn in two. <sup>46</sup>And crying out with a loud voice, Jesus said, "Father, into your hands I commit my spirit." And after he had said this, he expired.

Jesus' Burial

<sup>50</sup>And behold, there was a council member named Joseph, who was a good and righteous man <sup>51</sup>(he was not going along with their decision and actions), from Arimathea, a city in Judea, who was looking forward to the kingdom of God. <sup>52</sup>This man went to Pilate and asked for the body of Jesus. <sup>53</sup>And when he had taken it down he wrapped it in linen, and laid it in a hewn-out tomb, which no one was lying in yet. <sup>54</sup>And it was the day of Preparation, and the Sabbath was coming on.

<sup>55</sup>Now some women had followed close behind, which were the ones who had come with him from Galilee; they observed the tomb, and how his body was interred. <sup>56</sup>Then when they returned home, they prepared spices and perfumes. And for the Sabbath though, they did rest, in keeping with the commandment;

Jesus Appears to the Women

<sup>3</sup>And when they went inside, they did not find the body of the Lord Jesus. <sup>4</sup>And it happened that as they stood hesitating about this, behold, two men appeared to them, in gleaming robes.

<sup>5</sup>And when terror came over them, such that they had bowed their faces down to the ground, the men said to them, "Why are you looking for the living among the dead? <sup>6</sup>He is not here, but is risen! possible for some other kind of heavenly body to have eclipsed the sun, but I know of no astronomical records of such. Regardless, the rendering "eclipse" is just too misleading, since that word almost always means eclipse by the moon. The Majority text reads "καὶ ἐσκοτίσθη ὁ ἥλιος," "and the sun was darkened." But this textual variance need not make any difference, since the lexical authorities say that, in the passive voice, in which both ἐκλείπω and σκοτίζω are, either one of them can mean "was obscured."

<sup>585</sup> 23:49 Tatian's Diatessaron: "the wives of those who had followed with him." In Syriac the difference between "women" and "wives" was the letter dalath. With it meant "wives."

<sup>8</sup>And they did recall his statements. <sup>9</sup>And when they returned from the tomb, they related all these things to the Eleven and to all the rest.

<sup>10</sup>Now it was the Magdalene Mary, and Joanna, and Mary the mother of James, and the others with them who were telling these things to the apostles; <sup>11</sup>and these statements appeared to them as nonsense, and they did not believe them.

<sup>12</sup>But Peter got up and ran to the tomb, and after stooping down, he sees only the linen bandages. And he went away, wondering to himself what had happened.

On the Road to Emmaus

<sup>13</sup>And behold, that same day, two of them were on their way to a village named Emmaus, which was seven miles<sup>586</sup> from Jerusalem. <sup>14</sup>And these two were conversing with each other about the outcome of all these things.

<sup>15</sup>And it came about, that they are in conversation, and Jesus himself has come up, walking along with them. <sup>16</sup>Their eyes, however, were being restrained, so as not to recognize him.

<sup>17</sup>And he said to them, "What is this discussion you are having with each other as you walk along?" And they came to a stop, looking dismal.

<sup>18</sup>And in response, the one named Cleopas said to him, "Are you just visiting Jerusalem,<sup>587</sup> and unaware of the things happening in her during these days?"

And they said to him, "The things concerning Jesus the Nazarene, who was a prophet powerful in deed and in word, in the eyes of both God and all the people; <sup>20</sup>how the chief priests and our rulers handed him over for the sentence of death, and how they crucified him. <sup>21</sup>And here we had been hoping he was the one who was going to redeem Israel. And what is more, he is already spending his third day in the grave since when these things took place."<sup>588</sup>

<sup>22</sup>And not only that, now some of our women have confounded us. They were at the tomb early this morning, <sup>23</sup>and not finding his body, they came back, claiming also to have seen a vision of angels, which were maintaining that he was alive. <sup>24</sup>So some of our number went to the tomb, and found it just as the women had said; but him they did not see."

<sup>25</sup>And he said to them, "O you thick headed, and slow of heart to believe on all the things the prophets have spoken! <sup>26</sup>Were not these things required for the Christ to suffer in order to go on into his glory?" <sup>27</sup>And beginning with Moses, and through all the prophets, he interpreted for them the things in all the writings that were about himself.

<sup>587</sup> 24:18 Or possibly, "Are you the only one living near Jerusalem who is unaware of the things happening..." But this is less likely, because in the Greek, the word for "living," παροικέω - paroikéō, is in the present indicative, not a participle, neither a noun. It seems to be a transitive verb expecting an object. Such as "visiting Jerusalem," or "living IN Jerusalem." And the phrase "who is not aware" would be a stretch. Moreover, the Greek does not say "in Jerusalem," but rather just "Jerusalem." The word παροικέω - paroikéō generally meant "living as a stranger, a pilgrim, living as a visitor," and only rarely meant just "live or inhabit next to" without the connotation of being an alien or stranger.

<sup>588</sup> 24:21 DeBrunner says in §129 that rather than the impersonal "it is the third day," that this phrase τρίτην ταύτην ἡμέραν ἄγει ἀφ' οὗ ταῦτα ἐγένετο means "he is already spending the third day" [in the tomb]. Bauer agrees with this as well. The Greek does not supply a subject here, but some third person singular subject is implied, and the verb ἄγω in phrases about time, means "spend."

<sup>28</sup>And they came near to the village to which they were going, and he pretended to go on farther. <sup>29</sup>And they urged him insistently, saying, "Lodge with us, because it is near evening, and the daylight is almost gone." And he went inside, to lodge with them.

<sup>30</sup>And it came about that as he reclined with them, he took bread, gave thanks and broke it, and was distributing it to them. <sup>31</sup>Then their eyes were opened, and they recognized him. And he disappeared from them.

<sup>32</sup>And they said to each other, "Weren't our hearts burning within us as he talked to us on the road, as he explained the scriptures to us?" <sup>33</sup>And after rising up that very hour, they returned to Jerusalem, and found the Eleven and those with them all gathered together, <sup>34</sup>who were saying that the Lord really was risen, and had appeared to Simon. <sup>35</sup>And then the former were recounting the events on the road, and how he was made known to them in the breaking of the bread.

Jesus Appears to the Apostles

<sup>36</sup>And while they were speaking these things, he stood in the midst of them, and he is saying to them, "Peace be with you."

<sup>37</sup>But alarmed they were, and terrified, thinking they were seeing a ghost. <sup>38</sup>And he said to them, "Why are you troubled? And for what reason are doubts arising in your hearts? <sup>39</sup>Behold my hands and my feet, that I am me. Touch me, and know, because a ghost does not have flesh and bones as you see me having." <sup>40</sup>And when he had said this, he showed them his hands and his feet.

<sup>41</sup>But, since they were still not believing, out of joy and astonishment, he said to them, "What do you have to eat in this place?" <sup>42</sup>So they handed him a piece of broiled fish. <sup>43</sup>And he took it, and ate it in front of them.

The Ascension

<sup>44</sup>And he said to them, "These are the words which I spoke to you while I was still with you, how all the things written about me in the law of Moses and the prophets and the psalms must be fulfilled." <sup>45</sup>Then at that time he opened their minds to understand the scriptures.

<sup>46</sup>And he said to them, "This is what is written: the Christ was to suffer, and to rise from the dead the third day, <sup>47</sup>and repentance for forgiveness of sins is to be preached in all the nations, beginning from Jerusalem. <sup>48</sup>You are witnesses of these things. <sup>49</sup>And I am sending my Father's promise down upon you. So you are to stay put in the city until such time you are endued with power from on high."

<sup>50</sup>And he led them outside, as far as Bethany. And after lifting up his hands, he blessed them. <sup>51</sup>And it came about that as he was blessing them, he parted from them, and was taken up into heaven.

<sup>52</sup>And they, after worshiping him, returned back to Jerusalem with great rejoicing. <sup>53</sup>And throughout those days they were continually at the temple, praising God.

It should be noted that though Matthew states in 1:17 that there are three sets of 14 generations, there are only 13 generations in his 3rd set. He also left out two generations from the second set which would have made that set 16 generations. After Josiah came Jehoiakim and Jehoiachin, according to 2 Kings 23:34 – 24:6. Thus it seems Matthew made these sets for some purpose such as to be a memorization aid or teaching aid.

Following is taken from an article on the Internet: <http://www.carm.org/diff/2genealogies.htm>

Both Matthew 1 and Luke 3 contain genealogies of Jesus. But there is one problem. They are different. Luke's Genealogy starts at Adam and goes to David. Matthew's Genealogy starts at Abraham and goes to David. When the genealogies arrive at David, they split with David's sons: Nathan (Mary's side) and Solomon (Joseph's side).

There is no discrepancy because one genealogy is for Mary and the other is for Joseph. It was customary to mention the genealogy through the father even though it was clearly known that it was through Mary.

First, realize that the Bible should be interpreted in the context of its literary style, culture, and history. Breaking up genealogies into male and female representations was acceptable in the ancient Near East culture since it was often impolite to speak of women without proper conditions being met: male presence, etc. One genealogy is of Mary and the other of Joseph, even though both mention Joseph. In other words, the Mary was counted "in" Joseph and under his headship.

Second, do any critics actually think that those who collected the books of the New Testament, and who believed it was inerrant, were unaware of this blatant differentiation in genealogies? Does anyone actually think that the Christians were so dense that they were unaware of the differences in the genealogy lists, closed their eyes and put the gospels into the canon anyway hoping no one would notice? Not at all. They knew the cultural context and had no problem with it knowing that one was of Joseph and the other of Mary.

Third, notice that Luke starts with Mary and goes backwards to Adam. Matthew starts with Abraham and goes forward to Joseph. The intents of the genealogies were different which is seen in their styles. Luke was not written to the Jews, Matthew was. Therefore, Matthew would carry the legal line (from Abraham through David) and Luke the biological one (from Adam through David). Also, notice that Luke's first three chapters mention Mary eleven times; hence, the genealogy from her. Fourth, notice Luke 3:23, "And when He began His ministry, Jesus Himself was about thirty years of age, being supposedly the son of Joseph, the son of Eli," This designation "supposedly" seems to signify the Marian genealogy since it seems to indicate that Jesus is not the biological son of Joseph.

Finally, in the Joseph genealogy there is a man named Jeconiah. God cursed Jeconiah (also called Coniah), stating that no descendant of his would ever sit on the throne of David, "For no man of his descendants will prosper sitting on the throne of David or ruling again in Judah," (Jer. 22:30). But Jesus, of course, will sit on the throne in the heavenly kingdom. The point is that Jesus is not a biological descendant of Jeconiah, but through the other lineage -- that of Mary. Hence, the prophetic curse upon Jeconiah stands inviolate. But, the legal adoption of Jesus by Joseph reckoned the legal rights of Joseph to Jesus as a son, not the biological curse. This is why we need two genealogies: one of Mary (the actually biological line according to prophecy), and the legal line through Joseph.

Again, the early church knew this and had no problem with it. It is only the critics of today who narrow their vision and require this to be a "contradiction" when in reality we have an explanation that is more than sufficient.

Luke Endnote #2

Did Jesus send out seventy, or seventy-two?

( ἑβδομήκοντα or ἑβδομήκοντα ὀδύο?)

Luke 10:1, 17; Diatessaron 18:10, 15

There are witnesses both ample and ancient to both readings, though somewhat favoring "seventy-two." Both the Nestle-Aland 26th Edition and the UBS 4th Edition of the Greek text put the δύο, the "two," in square brackets, and the UBS editorial committee gives it a [C] rating of certainty. This means that they decided on "72," but had difficulty in deciding to do so, and therefore placed the δύο in brackets to indicate the great degree of doubt that it has a right to be there.

Since the manuscript consideration is almost a stand-off, interpreters then discuss what stronger or more likely numerological symbolism there is for one reading over the other. Discussion invariably leads to Genesis chapter 11, where God broke up the single world language into many nations. There, one can count seventy nations in the Hebrew text. Yet, in the Septuagint, the Greek translation of the Hebrew scriptures made by Jewish translators in Egypt before the time of Christ, one can count seventy-two nations. If it were only Alexandrian witnesses which read "72" in Luke 10:1, an argument might be made that they were overly influenced by the Septuagint, which was also produced in Alexandria. But this is not the case, since the chief representatives of both the Alexandrian, as well as the Western groups of Greek manuscripts, read "72," along with most of the Old Latin and the Sinaitic Syriac. And on the other hand, Codex Sinaiticus, one of the primary Alexandrian manuscripts, reads "70."

The implication some interpreters see, is that by appointing 70, Jesus drew on the Jewish tradition of there being 70 nations in the world, to show that his message was intended for everyone in the whole world. And that that was intended to be in contrast to when he sent the Twelve out earlier, and forbade them to go into any Samaritan village; whereas here in the case of the 70 / 72, there is no such prohibition. Paul says, "the gospel is to the Jew first, and also to the Gentile." (Romans 1:16) The Lord himself said in John 10:16, "Other sheep I also have, which are not of this fold; those also I am to bring, and my voice they will hear, and the result will be one flock, one shepherd."

Regarding the above-mentioned decision by the Editorial Committee of the United Bible Societies' Greek New Testament to include the "-two" in square brackets, one of the members of the committee disagreed with that decision, for he regarded "72" as undoubtedly the original reading. That member was the late Kurt Aland. His written dissent, as published in the book, A Textual Commentary on the Greek New Testament, Metzger, Bruce M., on behalf of and in cooperation with the Editorial Committee of the United Bible Societies' Greek New Testament: Kurt Aland, Matthew Black, Carlo M. Martini, Bruce M. Metzger, and Allen Wikgren (Stuttgart, United Bible Societies, Corrected Edition, 1975), is worthy of being printed below, as follows.

The concept of "70" is an established entity in the Septuagint and in Christian tradition. The number of examples of "70" in the Old Testament is overwhelming: there are always 70 souls in the house of Jacob, 70 elders, sons, priests, and 70 years that are mentioned in chronological references to important events. The number 72 appears only once, where, amid many other numbers, 72 cattle are set aside for a sacrificial offering (Num 31:38). If 72 occurs in the Letter of Aristeas (as the number of translators of the Septuagint) as well as in III Enoch, these sporadic instances are not to be compared in significance with the tradition involving 70. Consequently it is astonishing that the reading ἐβδομήκοντα δύο appears at all in [Luke] 10:1 and 17, and that it has such strong support. A reading that in the Gospels has in its support  $\mathfrak{P}^{75}$  B D, the Old Syriac, the Old Latin, etc., etc., is ordinarily regarded at once as the original reading. If in addition the opposing reading lies under the suspicion of ecclesiastical "normalizing," the testimony becomes irrefutable. The opposing witnesses represent entirely an ecclesiastical normalizing. That they are in the majority is altogether understandable; if they are ancient, this only proves how early the normalizing process began to operate. For these reasons ἐβδομήκοντα δύο should be printed without square brackets. K.A.

In other words, why would some copyists change the number away from the symbolically significant "seventy" to a symbolically insignificant "seventy-two"? It is more likely that the copyists who did the changing of the originals were the ones who changed it to "seventy" in order to make it line up with the strong tradition of 70 in the Bible and Jewish tradition. (This latter is part of what Kurt Aland calls "normalizing." There are many instances in the Greek New Testament where the original reading is very obscure, or is poor grammar, or is a very unpopular teaching. Later copyists tended to smooth over these passages, or "normalize" them.)

There may be no symbolism at all involved in the number "seventy-two." Unless there is significance that it is divisible by twelve. Six times.

Well then, since the messengers were sent out two by two, let's examine how each number is divisible by two. If Jesus sent out seventy, that means there were 35 pairs of them. If Jesus sent out seventy-two, that means there were 36 pairs of them.

There may be no symbolism at all in what number of emissaries Jesus sent out. Yes, it is possible that he did intend some symbolism. But we should beware lest we change original holy writ just because we want a symbolism in it. It is possible Jesus did not intend any symbolism.

I also wonder how the proximity of the other questionable δύο in 10:1 affected the copyists. See Luke 10:1 written out below in both Greek and English.

Μετὰ δὲ ταῦτα
 And after these things, ἀνέδειξεν ὁ κύριος καὶ ἑτέρους ἑβδομήκοντα [δύο]
 the Lord appointed another seventy-two, καὶ ἀπέστειλεν αὐτοὺς ἀνὰ δύο [δύο] and sent them two by two πρὸ προσώπου αὐτοῦ
 before his face, εἰς πᾶσαν πόλιν καὶ τόπον οὗ ἤμελλεν αὐτὸς ἔρχεσθαι into every town and place where he himself was about to go.

(FYI: in the third line of the verse above, in N.T. Greek one could say "two by two" either as ἀνὰ δύο without the second δύο, or one could say "two by two" as just δύο δύο, without the ἀνὰ. But the latter, called "distributive doubling," is either a Semitic idiom or a Greek vulgarism not expected of the educated and more literate Luke. As for the mixed expression, ἀνὰ δύο δύο it is found only later, in Mediaeval Greek.)

Here is a breakdown of some English translations I have checked. Those reading "70" are: Tyndale, KJV, NKJV, ASV, RSV, NRSV, NASB, CBW, JNT, ISV, HCSB, WEB, GW, Phillips, Recovery, Darby, Weymouth, Recovery, The Message. Those reading "72" are: JB, NIV, TNIV, REB, NLT, NCV, CEV, NET, ESV; and the NAB reads "seventy[-two]", and says "seventy-two" in the section heading.

Here is what the Editorial Committee of the United Bible Societies' Greek New Testament says about the passage in "A Textual Commentary on the Greek New Testament, corrected edition, 1975

"The absence of these verses in such ancient and widely diversified witnesses as  $\Phi^{(69\text{vid})}, 75$   $\aleph$  A B T W  $\text{syr}^s$   $\text{cop}^{\text{sa,bo}}$   $\text{arm}^{\text{mss}}$   $\text{geo}$  Marcion Clement Origen al, as well as their being marked with asterisks or obeli (signifying spuriousness) in other witnesses ( $\Delta^*$   $\Pi^c$  892<sup>c</sup>  $\text{mg}$  1079 1195 1216  $\text{cop}^{\text{bo,mss}}$ ) and their transferral to Matthew's gospel (after 26:39) by family 13 and several lectionaries (the latter also transfer ver. 45a), strongly suggests that they are no part of the original text of Luke. Their presence in many manuscripts, some ancient, as well as their citation by Justin, Irenaeus, Hippolytus, Eusebius and many other Fathers, is proof of the antiquity of the account. On grounds of transcriptional probability it is less likely that the verses were deleted in several different areas of the church by those who felt that the account of Jesus overwhelmed with human weakness was incompatible with his sharing the divine omnipotence of the Father, than that they were added from an early source, oral or written, of extra-canonical traditions concerning the life and passion of Jesus. Nevertheless, while acknowledging that the passage is a later addition to the text, in view of its evident antiquity and its importance in the textual tradition, a majority of the Committee decided to retain the words in the text but to enclose them within double square brackets.

In the 5th edition of their Greek New Testament, the committee gives the absence of these verses in the original text an A rating of certainty.

Luke Endnote #4

Is the saying, "Father, forgive them, for they do not know what they are doing," original scripture?

Luke 23:34

The saying attributed to Jesus while on the cross, "Father, forgive them, for they do not know what they are doing" is not found in most of the earliest (pre-5th century) Greek manuscripts. Neither is it found in the earliest translations of Luke's gospel into other languages.

"The absence of these words from such early and diverse witnesses as  $\mathfrak{P}^{75}$  B D\* W  $\Theta$  it<sup>a,d</sup> syr<sup>s</sup> cop<sup>sa,bo</sup><sup>mss</sup> is most impressive and can scarcely be explained as a deliberate excision by copyists who, considering the fall of Jerusalem to be proof that God had not forgiven the Jews, could not allow it to appear that the prayer of Jesus had remained unanswered. At the same time, the logion, though probably not a part of the original Gospel of Luke, bears self-evident tokens of its dominical origin, and was retained, within double square brackets, in its traditional place where it had been incorporated by unknown copyists relatively early in the transmission of the Third Gospel."

When I pondered what reasons could have possibly prompted copyists to add this passage to the gospel, it occurred to me that elements in the early church might not have wanted the Lord himself to be outshined by Stephen. For Stephen in Acts 7:60 said something similar. Yet Jesus himself predicted in John 14:12, "The person who believes in me, truly, truly I say to you, the works that I do, that one also shall do, and even greater than these shall do, because I am going to the Father." (DRP) On the other hand, Stephen may have done what he did because he was following Christ's known example.

Luke Endnote #5

The Linear Aspect in the Gospel of Luke

The primary semantic content of a New Testament Greek verb, other than its lexical definition, was its "aspect" or "kind of action." Of these, there were three primary categories: the punctiliar aspect, the linear aspect, and the combined aspect. See Sections 318 through 356, in the book entitled, "A Greek Grammar of the New Testament and Other Early Christian Literature," by Blass and DeBrunner, and translated and edited by Funk, the University of Chicago Press, Chicago and London (1961).

Luke used the linear aspect much more discriminatingly than did Mark for example. Because of this, we should pay that much more attention to the linear aspect in Luke, and in fact, this makes all the difference for a proper understanding of several passages, some of which are shown and discussed below.

Luke 1:34 εἶπεν δὲ Μαριάμ πρὸς τὸν ἄγγελον· Πῶς ἔσται τοῦτο, ἐπεὶ ἄνδρα οὐ γινώσκω;
<sup>34</sup>And Mary said to the angel, "How will this happen, since I am not knowing a man?"

Mary asks how she could have a baby nine months from then, since she was not having sex with a man at the time, nor in the near future.

Luke 5:33
 Οἱ δὲ εἶπαν πρὸς αὐτόν· Οἱ μαθηταὶ Ἰωάννου νηστεύουσιν πυκνὰ καὶ δεήσεις ποιοῦνται, ὁμοίως καὶ οἱ τῶν Φαρισαίων, οἱ δὲ σοὶ ἐσθίουσιν καὶ πίνουσιν.
<sup>33</sup>They then said to him, "The disciples of John are often fasting and making prayers, and likewise those of the Pharisees, but yours go on eating and drinking."

Luke 6:46 Τί δέ με καλεῖτε· Κύριε κύριε, καὶ οὐ ποιεῖτε ἃ λέγω;
<sup>46</sup>"And why do you keep calling me 'Lord, Lord,' and yet not do the things which I say?"

Luke 11:9

Κἀγὼ ὑμῖν λέγω, αἰτεῖτε, καὶ δοθήσεται ὑμῖν· ζητεῖτε, καὶ εὕρήσετε· κρούετε, καὶ ἀνοιγήσεται ὑμῖν·

<sup>9</sup>So I say to you: ask, and it will be given to you; seek, and you will find; knock, and it will be opened to you.

Luke 11:10 πᾶς γὰρ ὁ αἰτῶν λαμβάνει, καὶ ὁ ζητῶν εὕρίσκει, καὶ τῷ κρούοντι ἀνοιγήσεται.

<sup>10</sup>For everyone who keeps asking, receives; and the person who keeps seeking, finds; and to the one who keeps on knocking, it will be opened.

The moral of that story is the virtue of brash persistence.

Luke 16:21

καὶ ἐπιθυμῶν χορτασθῆναι ὁ ἀπὸ τῶν πιπτόντων ἀπὸ τῆς τραπέζης τοῦ πλουσίου· ἀλλὰ καὶ οἱ κύνες ἐρχόμενοι ὁ ἐπέλειχον τὰ ἕλκη αὐτοῦ.

<sup>21</sup>and he kept longing in vain to eat the scraps dropping from the table of that rich man. In contrast, even the dogs at least would come and lick his sores.

In this passage, the contrast Jesus is making between the rich man and the dogs, would be lost, unless our translations show the linear aspect. The point is that the beggar kept on longing to eat what was falling from the rich man's table, but never did. His longing never ceased, or ended. The imperfect was not named that for no reason; imperfect means ongoing, uncompleted action in the past. In contrast, the dogs would at least come and lick his sores.

Luke 18:3

χήρα δὲ ἦν ἐν τῇ πόλει ἐκείνῃ καὶ ἤρχετο πρὸς αὐτὸν λέγουσα· Ἐκδίκησόν με ἀπὸ τοῦ ἀντιδίκου μου.

<sup>3</sup>But there was a widow in that city, and she kept on coming to him, saying, 'Give me redress from my adversary.'

The linear aspect, the continuousness of the widow's coming, is the whole moral of the story. There are not Greek words in the Greek text specifically meaning "kept on" coming. That "kept on" aspect is indicated by the markers affixed to the verb stem, that is, the inflection.

Luke 18:7

ὁ δὲ θεὸς οὐ μὴ ποιήσῃ τὴν ἐκδίκησιν τῶν ἐκλεκτῶν αὐτοῦ τῶν βοῶντων αὐτῷ ἡμέρας καὶ νυκτός, καὶ μακροθυμεῖ ἐπ' αὐτοῖς;

<sup>7</sup>So God, would he not bring about the avenging of his elect, who keep crying out to him day and night? And is he slow to respond to them?

Again, as in the previous example, the moral of the parable of the persistent widow, is to come "continually" and "persistently" and "habitually" with the same request, until you get it.

Luke 22:2

καὶ ἐζήτουν οἱ ἀρχιερεῖς καὶ οἱ γραμματεῖς τὸ πῶς ἀνέλωσιν αὐτόν, ἐφοβοῦντο γὰρ τὸν λαόν.

<sup>2</sup>and the chief priests and the Torah scholars were still yet looking for a way to put him to death, because they were still yet fearing the people.

This is the passage most dependent on the linear aspect. The passage does not make much sense without it. First, observe how various translations have rendered it. I have put them in groups according to how they rendered the Greek causal coordinating conjunction, γὰρ – γὰρ.

KJV And the chief priests and scribes sought how they might kill him; for they feared the people.

ASV And the chief priests and the scribes sought how they might put him to death; for they feared the people.

Darby and the chief priests and the scribes sought how they might kill him; for they feared the people.

YLT and the chief priests and the scribes were seeking how they may take him up, for they were afraid of the people.

WEB The chief priests and the scribes sought how they might put him to death, for they feared the people.

CBW So the high priests and the scribes continued to seek how they might put Him to death, for they were afraid of the people.

Phillips Now as the feast of unleavened bread, called the Passover, was approaching, fear of the people made the chief priests and scribes try desperately to find a way of getting rid of Jesus..

NASB and the chief priests and the teachers of the law were looking for some way to get rid of Jesus, for they were afraid of the people.

JB and the chief priests and the scribes were looking for some way of doing away with him, because they mistrusted the people.

RSV And the chief priests and the scribes were seeking how to put him to death; for they feared the people.

NKJV And the chief priests and the scribes sought how they might kill Him, for they feared the people.

NIV and the chief priests and the teachers of the law were looking for some way to get rid of Jesus, for they were afraid of the people.

TNIV and the chief priests and the teachers of the law were looking for some way to get rid of Jesus, for they were afraid of the people.

Recov. And the chief priests and the scribes were seeking a way to do away with Him, for they feared the people.

NAB and the chief priests and the scribes were seeking a way to put him to death, for they were afraid of the people.

REB and the chief priests and the scribes were trying to devise some means of doing away with him; for they were afraid of the people.

NRSV The chief priests and the scribes were looking for a way to put Jesus to death, for they were afraid of the people.

JNT and the head cohanim and the Torah-teachers began trying to find some way to get rid of Yeshua, because they were afraid of the people.

NCV The leading priests and teachers of the law were trying to find a way to kill Jesus, because they were afraid of the people.

CEV The chief priests and the teachers of the law of Moses were looking for a way to get rid of Jesus, because they were afraid of what the people might do.

ISV So the high priests and the scribes were looking for a way to put him to death, for they were afraid of the crowd.

NET The chief priests and the experts in the law were trying to find some way to put Jesus to death; for they were afraid of the people.

ESV And the chief priests and the scribes were seeking how to put him to death; for they feared the people.

HCSB The chief priests and the scribes were looking for a way to put Him to death, because they were afraid of the people.

Tyndl and the high Priests and Scribes sought how to kill him, but they feared the people.

Wey and the High Priests and the Scribes were contriving how to destroy Him. But they feared the people.

Mess The high priests and religion scholars were looking for a way to do away with Jesus but, fearful of the people, they were also looking for a way to cover their tracks.

BBE And the chief priests and the scribes were looking for a chance to put him to death, but they went in fear of the people.

NLT The leading priests and teachers of religious law were actively plotting Jesus' murder. But they wanted to kill him without starting a riot, a possibility they greatly feared.

GW The chief priests and the scribes were looking for some way to kill Jesus. However, they were afraid of the people.

I have found no grammatical or lexical authority for a purely adversative meaning. The closest thing to an adversative use is said to be one passage in Matthew where γὰρ – γὰρ is used in combination with other conjunctions; but here in this Luke passage it is used by itself. The Matthew passage:

ἡ δὲ εἶπεν, Ναί, κύριε, καὶ γὰρ τὰ κυνάρια ἐσθίει ἀπὸ τῶν ψυχίων τῶν πιπτόντων ἀπὸ τῆς τραπέζης τῶν κυρίων αὐτῶν.

<sup>27</sup>But she said, "True, Lord; yet the dogs certainly eat of the crumbs falling from their master's table."

But if there is any adversative meaning here at all, it would be contained in the conjunction καὶ, not in γὰρ – gâr.

Perhaps The Message and the New Living Translation see an ellipsis implied in the Luke passage. Perhaps that is why they supply so many English words that are not indicated in the Greek. I don't see an ellipsis.

I note that none of the above translations except the BBE conveys the imperfect aspect of the Greek verb for "fearing," that is, the leaders were still fearing the people; their fear was "imperfect," that is, ongoing.

The Gospel According to

JOHN

Chapter 1

The Word Became Flesh Among Us

<sup>1</sup>In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God.

<sup>3</sup>Through him all things were made, and without him not one thing was made that has been made. <sup>4</sup>In him was life, and that life was the light for humankind. <sup>5</sup>And the light shines in the darkness, and the darkness has not mastered it. <sup>589</sup>

<sup>6</sup>There came a man sent from God; his name was John. <sup>7</sup>He came as a witness to testify about that light, so that through him all people might believe. <sup>8</sup>He himself was not the light; he came rather to bear witness to the light. <sup>9</sup>The true light, which gives light to every human being, was coming into the world.

<sup>10</sup>He was in the world, and though the world was made through him, the world did not recognize him. <sup>11</sup>He came to that which was his own, and his own did not receive him. <sup>12</sup>But to all who did receive him, to those believing on his name, he gave the right to become children of God — <sup>13</sup>children generated, not from bloods, nor from body desire, nor from a man's decision, but born of God.

<sup>14</sup>And the Word became flesh, and moved his tent in among us; and we beheld his glory, the glory as of an only begotten from a Father, full of grace and truth.

<sup>15</sup>John testifies concerning him, and he cries out, saying: "This is he of whom I said, 'The one coming after me has outranked me, because he existed before me.'"

<sup>16</sup>And out of his fulness we have all received, yes, grace upon grace. <sup>17</sup>For the law was given through Moses; grace and truth came through Jesus Christ. <sup>18</sup>No one has ever seen God; but the Only Begotten Son,<sup>590</sup> who is in the bosom of the Father, he has made him known.

<sup>589</sup> 1:5 The Greek verb is καταλαμβάνω - katalambáno. There is a double meaning to the Greek word. It conveys both the idea of to understand, and to overpower and seize. But the same duplicity is found in our English words. For example, the word apprehend can mean both to catch & seize, or also to understand; the word grasp can mean to catch and seize, or also to understand; the English verb, to master, can mean both to overcome, or also to understand. The darkness has never caught up to the light or enveloped it or swallowed it up, so has never been able to comprehend it, or overcome it, or extinguish it.

(The above list accounts for all Papyri and uncials containing at least a portion of gosp. of John) The variant μονογενὴς θεὸς, has been translated by some as God the Only Son, and God the only begotten, and, the only son who is God, as opposed to the rest of God's children, who, though also sired by God, are not God. In the UBS textual commentary, the editorial committee gave the reading “μονογενὴς θεὸς” a B rating of certainty. Their main reasons were that this was the earliest reading, and that this was the most difficult reading (one of the canons of textual criticism is that the more difficult reading be preferred, since copyists would tend to smooth over or simplify, rather than the other way around.) The testimony to the NA27 reading is impressive, and it is over 200 years earlier than the Majority Text reading, since the earliest MT reading is supported by the old Italic manuscript No. 3 (it<sup>a</sup>), which is IV century, and the NA27 has support Papyrus 66, the year 200. But there are those who say that the reading “μονογενὴς θεὸς” is far too difficult to be genuine. I understand this point of view, since it is very hard to translate. Just witness the widely divergent renderings of this reading in current English Bible translations. Alan Wikgren dissented from the UBS committee majority, and said, “It is doubtful that the author would have written μονογενὴς θεός, which may be a primitive, transcriptional error in the Alexandrian tradition (γς / θς). At least a D decision would be preferable.” Bart Ehrman says the θεός “God” reading is an “orthodox corruption,” a reading introduced by orthodox scribes in order to make this scripture a more clear refutation of the Adoptionists. This idea has merit, especially since the same early manuscripts  $\mathfrak{P}^{66}$   $\mathfrak{P}^{75}$  and B contain the seeming orthodox corruption in John 7:8, “I am not YET going up to this feast.” On the other hand, I propose we examine the “orthodox corruption” idea from a different angle, as follows. Today, there are many Byzantine Text advocates who argue that the θεός reading here was introduced by Egyptian Gnostics, (others say semi-Arians), that is, introduced by the NON-orthodox. The Byzantine advocates say that the idea of a “begotten God” is Gnostic or Arian and heretical. If that is so, then the Byzantine reading could be the “orthodox corruption” of sorts, in order to more clearly refute the heretics. Whether or not it was Gnostics, or semi-Arians, who introduced the θεός reading, and whether or not a semi-Arian type rendering is the only possible rendering of the Alexandrian reading, the θεός reading may be taken advantage of by Gnostics, and thus the later change to the seemingly more orthodox υἱὸς “Son” reading.

The Liddell and Scott lexicon defines μονογενής as follows:

1. The only member of a kin or kind; hence generally, “only, single” παῖς, Hesiodus: Opera et Dies 376 (3rd cent. B.C.), Herodotus: Historicus 7.221, cf. Ev. John 1:14, Ant. Lib. 32.1; of Hecate, Hes. Th. 426
2. “unique.” of τὸ ὄν, Parmeno 8.4 (3rd cent. B.C.); εἷς ὅδε μ. οὐρανὸς γεγονώς Pl. Ti.31.b, cf. Procl. Inst. 22; θεός ὁ μ. Sammelb. 4324.15. [Note “God the μονογενής” here, from Proclus: “Institutio Theologica” 5th century A.D.]
3. μ. αἷμα “one and the same” blood, dub. 1 in E. Hel. 1685
4. Gramm., having one form for all genders, A.D. Adv. 145.18
5. Name of the foot _ _ _ u, Heph. 3.3

The Bauer-Arndt-Gingrich Lexicon 2nd Ed. defines μονογενής as follows:

(Hesiodus +; LXX; Josephus; loanword in rabbinical lit.) “ONLY” (so mostly, incl. Judges 11:34; Tobit 3:15; 8:17) of children: of Isaac, Abraham's only son (Josephus, Ant. 1, 222) Hb 11:17. Of an “only” son (Plut., Lycurgus 31, 8; Josephus, Ant. 20, 20) Lk 7:12; 9:38. Of the daughter (Diod. S. 4, 73, 2) of Jairus 8:42. --Also “unique” (in kind) of something that is the only example of its category (Cornutus 27 p. 49, 13 εἷς κ. μονογενὴς ὁ κόσμος ἐστὶ. μονογενὴ κ. μόνᾳ ἐστίν=‘unique and alone’; Pla., Timaeus 92c). Of the mysterious bird, the Phoenix 1 Cl 25:2.--In the Johannine lit. μονογενής is used only of Jesus. The meanings “only, unique” may be quite adequate for all its occurrences here (so M-M., RSV et al.; DMoody, JBL 72, '53, 213-19; FCGrant, ATR 36, '54, 284-87). But some (e.g. WBauer, Hdb.) prefer to regard μονογενής as somewhat heightened in meaning in John and 1 John to “only-begotten” or “begotten of the Only One,” in view of the emphasis on γέννασθαι ἐκ θεοῦ (Jn 1:13 al.); in this case it would be analogous to πρωτότοκος (Ro 8:29; Col 1:15 al.). τὸν υἱὸν μ. ἔδωκεν Jn 3:16 (Philo Bybl. [100 AD] in Euseb., Pr. Ev. 1, 10, 33: Cronus offers up his μονογενὴς υἱός) ὁ μονογενὴς υἱὸς τοῦ θεοῦ v. 18; cf. Jn 1:34 variant reading τὸν υἱὸν τὸν μ. ἀπέσταλκεν ὁ θεός 1 Jn 4:9; cf. Dg 10:2. ### The Pharisees Question John

<sup>19</sup>And this is the testimony of John, when the Jews sent<sup>591</sup> priests and Levites from Jerusalem in order to ask him, "Who are you?" <sup>20</sup>And he confessed, and did not resist; but confessed, "I am not the Anointed One."

<sup>21</sup>And they asked him, "Who then? Are you Elijah?"

And he says, "I am not."

"Are you the Prophet?"<sup>592</sup>

And he answered, "No."

<sup>22</sup>They said therefore to him, "Who are you? So we may give an answer to those who sent us, what do you say about yourself?"

<sup>23</sup>He said, "I am just as Isaiah the prophet said: 'the voice of one calling in the wilderness, "Prepare the way for the Lord." ' "<sup>593</sup>

<sup>24</sup>And those who were sent were of the Pharisees. <sup>25</sup>And they questioned him and said to him, "Why then do you baptize, if you are not the Anointed One, nor Elijah, nor the Prophet?"

Since Christ is both God and man, he can explain God to men. There is also an Eastern concept of the firstborn son which we Westerners do not fully appreciate. The firstborn son received the greater inheritance of all the father has and is. This glory would be compounded by being the only son from a father.

<sup>593</sup> 1:23 Isaiah 40:3 Or, "He said just what the prophet Isaiah said: ..." A matter of interpretation here is how to place the quotation marks. Is John the Baptizer the one saying, "just as Isaiah the prophet said"? (NASB, NAB, NKJV, CBW, JB, JBP) Or is it John the apostle narrating who said it? (NIV, NRSV, NCV, CEV, NLT, JNT, REB) It is reasonable to think that John the Baptizer was aware of how the Isaiah passage pertained to himself, and that he so stated. Verse 20 says that he confessed and did not resist. In other words, he communicated openly and freely about what he believed he was. On the other hand, it may be well to leave it such that the Isaiah prophecy is applicable to both John the Baptizer and to the two witnesses in Revelation 11:3-12, one of which is Elijah.

Behold the Lamb of God

<sup>29</sup>The next day he sees Jesus coming toward him, and says, "Behold! The lamb of God, who takes away the sin of the world! <sup>30</sup>This is he of whom I said, 'After me will come a man who has outranked me because he existed before me.' <sup>31</sup>And I myself did not know him, but the reason I came baptizing in water was that he might be revealed to Israel."

<sup>32</sup>Then John testified, saying: "I have seen the Spirit come down from heaven like a dove, and it remained upon him. <sup>33</sup>And I myself had not known him, but the one who sent me to baptize in water, he told me, 'On whomever you see the Spirit coming down and remaining upon, this is the one who will baptize in the Holy Spirit.' <sup>34</sup>And now I have seen, and now<sup>597</sup> I have testified, that this is the Son of God."<sup>598</sup>

John and Andrew Have Found the Messiah

<sup>35</sup>The next day, again, John was standing with two of his disciples.<sup>599</sup> <sup>36</sup>And seeing Jesus walking, he says, "Behold, the Lamb of God!"

<sup>37</sup>The two disciples heard him saying this, and they followed Jesus. <sup>38</sup>And Jesus turned around; and seeing them following, says to them, "What do you want?"

And they said to him, "Rabbi," (which when translated is Teacher), "where are you staying?"

<sup>39</sup>He says to them, "Come, and you will see."

They went therefore, and saw where he was staying, and spent the rest of that day with him, it being about 10 a.m.

<sup>42</sup>He led him to Jesus.

<sup>43</sup>The next day Jesus decided to go forth into Galilee; and he finds Philip. And Jesus says to him, "Follow me."

Water Into Wine

<sup>1</sup>And on the third day a wedding took place at Cana in Galilee. Jesus' mother was there, <sup>2</sup>and both Jesus and his disciples had been invited to the wedding. <sup>3</sup>And when wine was lacking, Jesus' mother says to him, "They have no wine."

This phenomenon of Ἰωνᾶ as a shortened substitute for Ἰωάν(ν)ης is also found in Septuagint manuscripts. Ἰωάν(ν)ης is also shortened to Ἰωανάν or Ἰωανᾶμ as in Luke 3:30, the ancestor of Christ. Compare 1 Esdras 9:23 with its variant reading. My electronic copy of the LXX there has Ἰωανᾶς. The King James Version in 1 Esdras 9:23 renders that name as Jonas, while the RSV says Jonah there.

<sup>6</sup>And there were six stone water jars lying there, for the ceremonial washing of the Jews, each holding from two to three measures.<sup>603</sup>

<sup>7</sup>Jesus says to them, "Fill the jars with water." So they filled them to the brim.

<sup>8</sup>And he tells them, "Now draw some out, and take it to the master of the banquet." And they took some.

<sup>9</sup>When the master of the banquet tasted the water become wine, not knowing where it had come from, but the servants having drawn the water knowing, the master of the banquet calls the bridegroom, <sup>10</sup>and says to him, "Everyone sets out the good wine first, and the cheaper after they have become drunk. You have kept the good wine till now."

<sup>12</sup>After this he went down to Capernaum, he and his mother, and brothers, and his disciples, and there they stayed for a few days.

Jesus Cleanses the Temple

<sup>13</sup>And the Passover of the Jews was near, and Jesus went up to Jerusalem. <sup>14</sup>And in the temple he found those selling cattle, sheep and doves, and the money changers sitting. <sup>15</sup>And having made a whip out of ropes, he expelled all from the temple, including the sheep and the cattle, and he poured out the coins of the money changers, and overturned the tables, <sup>16</sup>and he said to those selling the doves, "Take these out of here! Do not make the house of my Father a house of commerce!"

<sup>17</sup>His disciples remembered that it is written: "The zeal for your house will consume me."<sup>604</sup>

<sup>18</sup>The Jews<sup>605</sup> responded therefore and said to him, "What sign are you showing us, that you can do these things?"

<sup>19</sup>Jesus answered and said to them, "Destroy this temple, and in three days I will raise it."

<sup>20</sup>Then the Jews said, "This temple was built in forty-six years, and you in three days will raise it?" <sup>21</sup>But he had spoken of the temple of his body. <sup>22</sup>When therefore he was raised from the dead, his disciples remembered that he had said this, and they believed the scripture, and the word that Jesus had spoken.

<sup>23</sup>And while he was in Jerusalem at the Passover during the Festival, many believed in his name— seeing the miraculous signs he was doing. <sup>24</sup>But Jesus on his part did not commit himself to them, because he knew all people, <sup>25</sup>and because he had no need that anyone testify about a person, for he knew what was in the person.

Chapter 3

You Must Be Born Again

<sup>1</sup>And there was a man of the Pharisees<sup>606</sup> named Nicodemus, a ruler of the Jews. <sup>2</sup>He came to Jesus by night, and said to him, "Rabbi, we know that you are a teacher who has come from God. For no one would be able to do these miraculous signs you are doing, unless God were with him."

<sup>3</sup>Jesus answered and said to him, "Truly, truly I say to you, Unless one is born again, from above, it is not possible to see the kingdom of God."

<sup>4</sup>Nicodemus says to him, "How is it possible for someone who is old, to be born? Can he enter a second time into his mother's womb, and be born?"

<sup>5</sup>Jesus answered, "Truly, truly I say to you, unless one is born from water and spirit, it is not possible to enter into the kingdom of God. <sup>6</sup>That born from flesh is flesh, and that born from Spirit is spirit. <sup>7</sup>You should not be surprised that I said to you, 'You<sup>607</sup> must be born from above.' <sup>8</sup>The wind blows where it will, and the sound of it you hear, but you do not know where it is coming from, and where it is going. Such is everyone born from the Spirit."<sup>608</sup>

<sup>10</sup>Jesus answered and said to him, "You are Teacher for Israel, and not familiar with these things?<sup>609</sup> <sup>11</sup>Truly, truly I tell you, we are saying what we know, and testifying to what we have seen, and you people do not accept our testimony. <sup>12</sup>If I have told you earthly things and you do not believe, how will you believe if I tell you heavenly things? <sup>13</sup>And no one has gone up into heaven except the one who came down from heaven, the Son of Man.<sup>610</sup> <sup>14</sup>And as Moses lifted up the snake in the desert, in like manner the Son of Man must be lifted up, <sup>15</sup>so that everyone who believes in him may have eternal life.

<sup>16</sup>"For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, so that everyone who believes in him would not perish, but have everlasting life. <sup>17</sup>For God did not send his Son into the world to condemn the world, but that the world might be saved through

<sup>608</sup> 3:8 Or possibly also: "So it is with everyone born from the Spirit." The question is, whether Jesus is likening the people themselves, what they are like after they have been born of the Spirit, or likening the process of how they become born of the Spirit. The Greek verb "is," could mean either here. It would not be very assuring if Jesus is saying the process is so mysterious. He must be saying that those who are born of the Spirit, are strange and inscrutable to those who are only born of the flesh. Just as God and his Spirit are strange and inscrutable to the natural man. Still, the process of second birth would also seem strange and mysterious to the natural man.

<sup>609</sup> 3:10 Nicodemus should have known these concepts from I Samuel 10:6,7,9,11; Ezekiel 11:19,20; 18:31,32; 36:26,27; Isaiah 26:11-19 him. <sup>18</sup>The person who believes in him is not condemned. The person who does not believe, is condemned already, because he has not believed in the name of God's only begotten Son.

<sup>19</sup>And this is the condemnation:

The light
has come into the world.
And human beings loved the darkness
more than the light, because their works were continually evil.

<sup>20</sup>For everyone practicing evil things, hates the light, and does not come toward the light, so that his works may not be exposed. <sup>21</sup>But one doing the truth comes toward the light, so that his works may be manifest, that they have been accomplished in God."<sup>611</sup>

"He Must Increase; I Must Decrease"

<sup>22</sup>After these things, Jesus and his disciples went into the Judean territory, and there he was spending time with them, and baptizing. <sup>23</sup>And John also was baptizing at Aenon near Salim, because there was plenty of water there, and they were coming and getting baptized. <sup>24</sup>For John was still not yet thrown into prison.

<sup>25</sup>Then a dispute arose between the disciples of John and a certain<sup>612</sup> Jew<sup>613</sup> about ceremonial washing. <sup>26</sup>And they came to John and said to him, "Rabbi, he who was with you on the other side of the Jordan, about whom you testified, behold, that man is baptizing, and everyone is moving to him."

<sup>27</sup>John answered and said, "A human being is not able to receive a thing that is not given to him from heaven. <sup>28</sup>You yourselves bear me witness that I said, 'I am not the Anointed One, but am sent ahead of him.' <sup>29</sup>The one possessing the bride is bridegroom, and the one standing and hearing him, the friend of the bridegroom, who rejoices with a joy on account of the voice of the bridegroom. That joy, my joy, is therefore fulfilled. <sup>30</sup>He must increase, and I must decrease.

<sup>611</sup> 3:21 Some interpreters end the quotation at the end of verse 15; they believe John is speaking in verse 16 on, and not Jesus.

<sup>612</sup> 3:25a Some manuscripts: "some Jews." Both the plural and the singular are evenly well attested in the best manuscripts. John always used the plural, other than perhaps in this passage. For this reason, it is more likely that copyists changed the singular to conform it to John, than that they changed it from the plural to something unique in John.

<sup>613</sup> 3:25b Since this passage is in John, and John customarily refers to himself in an anonymous way, in the third person, there is a good possibility that such is the case here also. An argument would not be out of character for John. Jesus named John and his brother James "the sons of thunder," (Mark 3:17; Diatess. 9:2) which seems to indicate that John was hotheaded and judgmental. See also Luke 9:49 & 54 (Diatess. 17:31 & 18:2) for other examples of John's former attitude to people who differed from his own circle.

The Samaritan Woman at the Well

<sup>4</sup>But he had to pass through Samaria.<sup>615</sup> <sup>5</sup>Thus it is he comes to a town in Samaria called Sychar, near the plot of ground Jacob had given to his son Joseph. <sup>6</sup>And Jacob's well was there. So there Jesus was, sitting down by the well, tired from the journey. It was about 6 p.m.

<sup>7</sup>A woman of Samaria comes to draw water. Jesus says to her, "Give me a drink."

<sup>9</sup>Then the Samaritan woman says to him, "How is it you, being a Jew, are asking a drink from me, a Samaritan woman?" (For Jews do not use dishes in common with Samaritans.)

<sup>10</sup>Jesus answered and said to her, "If you knew the gift of God, and who it is saying to you, 'Give me a drink,' you would have asked him, and he would have given you living water."

<sup>11</sup>She says to him, "Sir, you do not have a bucket, and the shaft is deep. Where then do you hold the living water? <sup>12</sup>Are you greater than our forefather Jacob, who gave us the well, and drank from it himself, and also his sons and his animals?"

<sup>13</sup>Jesus answered and said to her, "Everyone who drinks from this water will thirst again, <sup>14</sup>but whoever drinks from the water which I will give him will by no means ever thirst again. Indeed, the water I give him will become in him a fountain of water springing up into life without end."

<sup>15</sup>The woman says to him, "Sir, give me this water. Then I wouldn't get thirsty, and neither would I have to keep coming over here to draw."

<sup>615</sup> 4:4 Samaria was the district north of Judea and south of Galilee. For Jesus to get to Galilee from where he was (Judea), he had to pass through Samaria in between; either that or go all the way around the east side of the Jordan River and Sea of Galilee, as some Jews would actually do, wanting so much to avoid Samaria. See the endnote at the end of this document, entitled, "The meaning of the phrase, 'The Jews' in the Gospel of John," which discusses this situation.

<sup>17</sup>The woman answered and said, "I do not have a husband."

Jesus says to her, "Commendably, you said, 'I do not have a husband.' <sup>18</sup>For you have had five husbands, and he you now have is not your husband. This you have said honestly."

<sup>19</sup>The woman says to him, "Sir, I am perceiving that you are a prophet. <sup>20</sup>Our ancestors worshiped on this mountain, and you Jews say that the place where one must worship is in Jerusalem."

<sup>21</sup>Jesus says to her, "Believe me, woman, a time is coming when you<sup>616</sup> will worship the Father neither on this mountain nor in Jerusalem. <sup>22</sup>You Samaritans worship what you do not know. We worship what we know, for salvation is of the Jews. <sup>23</sup>Nevertheless, a time is coming, and is now come, when the true worshipers will worship the Father in spirit and in truth, for indeed that is the kind the Father seeks as those worshiping him. <sup>24</sup>God is spirit, and those worshiping him, must worship in spirit and in truth."

<sup>25</sup>The woman says to him, "I do know that Messiah" (called Christ) "is coming. When he comes, he will teach us everything."

<sup>26</sup>Jesus says to her, "I, the one speaking to you, am he."

Lift Your Eyes, See My Food and My Harvest

<sup>27</sup>And at this point his disciples came, and they were surprised that he was talking with a woman. Still, no one said, "What do you want?" or, "Why are you talking with her?"

<sup>28</sup>Then, the woman left her water jar, and went away into the town. And she says to the people, <sup>29</sup>"Come, see a man who told me everything I ever did. Could he be the Messiah?"

<sup>30</sup>They were proceeding out of the town and coming toward him. <sup>31</sup>In the meantime, his disciples were pleading with him, saying, "Rabbi, eat."

<sup>32</sup>But he said to them, "I have food to eat that you do not know about."

<sup>33</sup>His disciples therefore were saying to each other, "Has someone brought him something to eat?"

<sup>34</sup>Jesus says to them, "That I may do the will of him who sent me, is food to me,<sup>617</sup> and that I may finish his work. <sup>35</sup>Do you not say,<sup>618</sup> 'There is four months yet,<sup>619</sup> and then

<sup>617</sup> 4:34 Ἐμὸν βρῶμά ἐστιν ἵνα ποιήσω - emòn brōma estin hína poiēsō, literally, "My food is that I may do." The hína in this passage is usually translated like an infinitive, "to do," and rightly enough, see BDF §393 and BAG p. 377, II. This is very much like the hína in I Corinthians 4:3—ἐμοὶ δὲ εἰς ἐλάχιστόν ἐστιν ἵνα ὑφ' ὑμῶν ἀνακριθῶ ἢ ὑπὸ ἀνθρωπίνης ἡμέρας· ἀλλ' οὐδὲ ἑμαυτὸν ἀνακρίνω - "It is a very small thing to me that I might be judged by you..." See also I Cor. 9:18, "My reward is that I may make the gospel free of charge..." As for the pronoun "ἐμὸς" in the text above in John 4:34, most interpreters apparently consider it a non-reflexive one, and meaning the same as μου and simply meaning "my." Blass, § 285(1), says "ἐμὸς" is used as a reflexive for ἑμαυτοῦ - emautoū. I think that considering the context, "I have food you do not know about," and the pre-position of ἐμὸς here (emphasis), that this means something like, "For me, that I can do the will of him who sent me, is food, and that I can finish his work." You think I have no food, but for me, this is food:..."

<sup>618</sup> 4:35a Most interpreters claim this is a proverb, and they translate this as above. But I have not seen them give evidence that there was any such proverb. Perhaps instead the disciples had just recently been remarking, as they traveled through grain fields, that harvest time was four months away, and Jesus used comes the harvest'? Behold, I say to you, lift up your eyes, and look upon the fields. For they are white even now<sup>620</sup> for harvest. <sup>36</sup>The one harvesting is taking his wages, and gathering fruit resulting in eternal life, so that the one sowing and the one harvesting may rejoice together. <sup>37</sup>For the saying, 'One is the sower and another is the reaper,' is true in this: <sup>38</sup>I have sent you to harvest what you have not worked. Others have done the hard work, and you have joined in their labor."

The Woman's Talk Bears Fruit

<sup>39</sup>And many of the Samaritans from that town had believed in him because of the woman's word testifying, "He told me everything I ever did." <sup>40</sup>When therefore the Samaritans came to him, they asked him to remain with them, and he remained two days. <sup>41</sup>And, because of his word, many more believed.

<sup>42</sup>And to the woman they said, "No longer because of your talk do we believe; for we have heard for ourselves, and we know that this man truly is the Savior of the world."

The Official's Son Stays Alive

<sup>43</sup>And after the two days he departed from there into Galilee. <sup>44</sup>(Now Jesus himself testified, that in his own native place a prophet has no honor.) <sup>45</sup>When then he arrived in Galilee, the Galileans welcomed him— having seen all the things that he had done in Jerusalem at the festival, for they also had gone to the festival.

<sup>46</sup>He came again therefore to Cana in Galilee, where he had made the water wine. And there was a certain royal official there whose son lay sick at Capernaum. <sup>47</sup>When this man heard that Jesus was coming out of Judea into Galilee, he went to him and asked that he would come and heal his son, for he was about to die.

<sup>48</sup>Jesus therefore said to him, "Unless you people see miraculous signs and terrifying omens, you will never believe."

<sup>49</sup>The royal official says to him, "Sir, come down before my child dies."

The man believed the word that Jesus had said to him, and departed. <sup>51</sup>And even as he was going back down, his servants met him saying that his boy was living. <sup>52</sup>He therefore ascertained from them the exact time in which he had gotten better. They therefore said to him, "The fever left him yesterday at 7 p.m."

<sup>53</sup>Then the father realized: that was the hour in which Jesus had said to him, "Your son stays alive." And he and his whole household believed.

their remark as a segue. So maybe one should translate this, "Were you not saying, 'There is four months yet, and then comes the harvest?'" This event could have actually taken place a month or two after the Passover, and so this was actually happening four months before harvest time.

Thus there are two possible renderings; one is as I have it in my English text above, and the other is as follows: "For they are white for harvest. <sup>36</sup> The one harvesting is already taking his wages,..."

<sup>54</sup>Again, this second miraculous sign Jesus performed while coming out of Judea into Galilee.

Chapter 5

Jesus Heals in the Spa on the Sabbath

<sup>621</sup> 5:2a A gate in the north which allowed the sheep destined to be sacrificed to access the temple.

<sup>622</sup> 5:2b It is possible that the word "Hebrew" is meant to mean the language of the Hebrews, as opposed to Greek. By that time the language of the Jews was mostly Aramaic, the language of their former conquerors to the north. Indeed, parts of the Old Testament were originally written in Aramaic. In the words of Bruce Metzger, "Aramaic was the mother tongue of the great majority of Jews at that time. Though the rabbis and learned scribes still had fluent command of the classical Hebrew of the Old Testament, it was approaching the status of a dead language for the ordinary Jewish population. During the exile in the sixth century B.C. the Jews had begun to use Aramaic, a Semitic language related to Hebrew somewhat as Spanish is related to Portuguese. At the beginning of the Christian era, in the synagogues of Palestine as well as of Babylon, the text of the Old Testament was read not only in the original Hebrew but also in an Aramaic paraphrase (called a Targum) for the benefit of those who knew little or no Hebrew. At least two dialectal forms of Aramaic were current in Palestine. The dialect used in Galilee was recognizably different in pronunciation from the southern dialect spoken in and around Jerusalem (Matt. 26:73 or Diatessaron 30:11). It is altogether probable that Jesus grew up in his home at Nazareth using Aramaic as his mother tongue. In later life he doubtless acquired some facility in speaking Greek and in reading Hebrew. His teaching and preaching to the common people would have been carried out in Aramaic; his debates with the learned teachers of the law may have been conducted in Hebrew. When he occasionally conversed with non-Jewish persons (for example, the Roman centurion and the Syro-Phoenician woman), he probably used Greek, the lingua franca of the Greco-Roman world." It has been suggested by Milik that Bethzatha is from an Aramaic intensive plural of the original for Bethesda. Bethesda, though widely supported by later manuscripts of several text types, is suspect in the eyes of some as a scribal alteration originally introduced because of its edifying etymology: בֵּית חֶסֶד - "Beyt Chesda," "House of [Divine] Mercy." Though the UBS textual commentary states that the Copper Scroll discovered at Qumran (one of the "Dead Sea Scrolls") contains a reference to a pool at Betheshdathayim, this has subsequently been disproven. It states that this word, the termination of which signifies the Hebrew dual number, appears to be connected with the Aramaic for "to pour out." Thus, perhaps therefore, בֵּית עֵשְׂדָא - "Beyt Eyshda," or "Place of out-pouring [water]." In a new paper by Reinhart Ceulemans, "The Name of the Pool in Joh 5,2. A Text-Critical Note Concerning 3Q15" ZNW 99 (2008) 112-15, he says, "one of the reasons for the fact that this reading BETHESDA is embedded that much, can be found in one verse from the Copper Scroll (3Q15), discovered at Qumran. This scroll contains a reference to a certain pool (viz. 3Q15 11,12), which is often linked to the pool mentioned in Joh 5,2. Equally often this verse has been interpreted as "corroborating the reading BETHESDA. The reason for this was the reading of the 3Q15 verse as edited in the standard edition, provided by J.T. Milik in 1962. Very recently, a new impressive two-volume restoration of the Copper Scroll appeared, the first volume of which contains a new edition (Le Rouleau de cuivre de la grotte 3 de Qumrân (3Q15). Expertise – Restauration – Epigraphie I, par D. Brizemeure et alii (STDJ 55.1), Leiden 2006). The Qumran text does not feature a dalet or res with waw, but only a cursive waw in the form of a res. Thus, according to the new edition, this line only mentions some sort of installation (building) with two reservoirs, and contains no proper name. This directly contradicts the assertions of Milik, who drew a parallel to the place name BETHESDA, which he lie, the blind, the lame, the paralyzed.<sup>624 625</sup> <sup>5</sup>And one man was there who had had a disability thirty-eight years. <sup>6</sup>When Jesus saw him lying there and learned that he had had his condition now for a long time, he says to him, "Do you want to get well?"

<sup>7</sup>The invalid answered him, "Sir, I have no one to put me into the pool when the water is stirred, and while I am going, someone else goes down ahead of me."

<sup>8</sup>Jesus says to him, "Stand up. Pick up your mat and walk." <sup>9</sup>And immediately the man became well, and he picked up his mat and walked. And that day was during a Sabbath.

<sup>10</sup>The Jews therefore said to the man who had been healed, "It is a Sabbath, and not lawful<sup>626</sup> for you to carry your mat."

<sup>11</sup>He answered them, "The man who made me well, he told me, 'Pick up your mat and walk.' "

<sup>12</sup>They asked him, "Who is the man telling you to pick up and walk?"

<sup>13</sup>But the man who was healed had not known who it was, for Jesus had slipped away, a crowd being in the place.

<sup>14</sup>After these things Jesus finds him at the temple and said to him, "Behold, you are well. Do not sin any longer, or something worse might happen to you." <sup>15</sup>The man went away and reported to the Jews that Jesus was the one who had made him well.

regarded the text of Joh 5:2. This means that the Copper Scroll cannot be of any use when trying to answer the text-critical questions concerning this Johannine passage. Thus the reason for supporting the reading BETHESDA is significantly weakened; in the future this variant should not deserve the maximum momentum which it received in the past." This "Bethesda" may well have been the same place as the twin pools near the present-day St. Anne's Church. There would have been a colonnade on each of the four sides and another between the pools, holding up a covering under which the people would lie. As for the name Bethzatha, it has eclectic textual support, along with Eusebius. It was the name of the northern extension of the city of Jerusalem. I Maccabees 7:19 mentions a "great cistern" at Bethzaith. Bethsaida is suspect as an assimilation to the town of Bethsaida on the Sea of Galilee, as mentioned in John 1:44.

<sup>626</sup> 5:10 The Greek word translated "lawful" is the impersonal participle "ἔξεστιν" - éxestin, which is derived from the same root as ἐξουσία - exousia, the word for authority. If an activity was "ἔξεστιν," that means it was "loosed," or ruled by the rabbis to be something "allowed" by the Torah. If something was not ἔξεστιν, as is the case here, that means it was "bound," that is, the rabbis had adjudged that it was forbidden by the Torah.

Hear the Voice of the Son and Live

<sup>16</sup>And for this reason the Jews persecuted Jesus, and looked for a way to kill him,<sup>627</sup> because he was doing these things on the Sabbath. <sup>17</sup>But he answered them, "My Father is working continuously up to now, so I also am working." <sup>18</sup>For this reason the Jews tried all the more to kill him, because not only was he breaking the Sabbath,<sup>628</sup> but he was also saying God was his own father, making himself equal to God.

<sup>19</sup>Therefore Jesus responded and said to them, "Truly, truly I say to you, the Son is not able to do anything of himself,<sup>629</sup> but only what he sees the Father doing; for whatever things that One does, these things also the Son does likewise. <sup>20</sup>For the Father loves the Son, and shows him every thing that he does. And indeed, greater works than these he will show him, such that you will be constantly amazed. <sup>21</sup>For just as the Father raises the dead and makes them alive, in this way also the Son makes alive those whom he wishes. <sup>22</sup>Moreover, the Father judges no one, but instead has given all judgment to the Son, <sup>23</sup>that all may honor the Son just as they honor the Father. The person who does not honor the Son is not honoring the Father who sent him.

<sup>24</sup>"Truly, truly I say to you, the person who hears my word and believes the One who sent me, has eternal life, and is not going into judgment, but has crossed over out of death into life. <sup>25</sup>Truly, truly I say to you, a time is coming, and is now come, when the dead will hear the voice of the Son of God,<sup>630</sup> and the ones who hear will live. <sup>26</sup>For just as the Father has life in himself, so he has granted to the Son to have life in himself. <sup>27</sup>And to him he has given authority to do the judging, because he is the son of a human.<sup>631</sup>

<sup>628</sup> 5:18 The Greek verb translated "breaking" here, is λύω - lúō. Bauer says it here means "abolish," that in John Jesus is presented as abolishing the Sabbath. The Bagster / Moulton lexicon agrees with this also. The meaning would depend on whose point of view the statement is taken from. That is, whether John is stating what "the Jews" saw Jesus as doing, or whether John is stating his own view of what Jesus was doing. Certainly, from the Pharisees' point of view, Jesus was both violating the Sabbath, and since he was a Rabbi, by his example, also abolishing the Sabbath. It seems obvious that it would not be John's view that Jesus violated the Sabbath, for it is the teaching of the New Testament, and of Christ himself, that Jesus Christ kept the law. It is agreed by all, however, that Jesus definitely set aside the prevailing Jewish concept of the Sabbath day. It may also be safely asserted that the majority of Christ's followers understand the New Testament to teach that subsequent to Pentecost the 7th day Sabbath observance is no longer a requirement. There is ample evidence in the N.T. of this. As for the apostle John, he wrote this his gospel relatively a long time after the life of Christ, and thus by the time of its writing, the Christian non-observance of the Sabbath day was already well established. See my treatise entitled, "What is Sabbath."

You have neither heard his voice at any time nor seen his form. <sup>38</sup>And his word, you do not have living in you, because the one he has sent, him you do not believe. <sup>39</sup>You diligently study the Scriptures, because you think that in them you have eternal life. And these are the ones that testify about me. <sup>40</sup>Yet you refuse to come to me that you may have life.

<sup>41</sup>"I do not accept praise from human beings; <sup>42</sup>but I know you, that you do not have the love of God in yourselves. <sup>43</sup>I have come in my Father's name, and you do not accept me; if someone else comes in his own name, him you will accept. <sup>44</sup>How is it possible for you to believe, accepting honor from one another, and not seeking the praise from the only God?

Jesus Feeds the Five Thousand

<sup>1</sup>After these things, Jesus went across to the other side of the Sea of Galilee (the Sea of Tiberias). <sup>2</sup>And a large crowd followed him, because they had seen the miraculous signs he had been performing on the sick.

<sup>3</sup>Jesus went up on the mountain, and there he was sitting, with his disciples. <sup>4</sup>And the Passover was near, the festival of the Jews. <sup>5</sup>Then, lifting up his eyes and seeing that a large crowd was coming toward him, Jesus says to Philip, "Where might we buy loaves so that these people can eat?" <sup>6</sup>But he said this testing him, for he himself had known what he was about to do.

<sup>8</sup>One of his disciples, Andrew the brother of Simon Peter, said to him, <sup>9</sup>"There is a youth here who has five barley loaves and two fish, but what are they in the face of so many?"

<sup>10</sup>Jesus said, "Get the people to recline." Now there was plenty of green grass in the place. The men therefore reclined, the number about five thousand. <sup>11</sup>Then Jesus took the loaves, and after giving thanks, he distributed to those reclining,<sup>634</sup> and likewise from the fish, as much they wanted.

<sup>14</sup>Then the people, having seen the miraculous sign he had done, were saying, "This surely is the Prophet who was to come into the world."<sup>636</sup> <sup>15</sup>Jesus therefore, knowing that they were about to come and take him by force to try to make him king, withdrew again into the mountain, himself alone.

Jesus Walks on the Water

<sup>16</sup>And when evening had come, his disciples had gone down to the lake, <sup>17</sup>and gotten into a boat, and were proceeding across the lake toward Capernaum. And now darkness came, and Jesus had not yet come to them, <sup>18</sup>and as a great wind was blowing, the lake was becoming very rough. <sup>19</sup>Then, after having rowed about twenty-five or thirty stadia,<sup>637</sup> they behold him walking on the lake, and getting close to the boat, and they were afraid.

<sup>21</sup>Then they willingly took him into the boat. And immediately the boat was at the shore to which they were headed.

<sup>22</sup>The next day, the crowd that had stayed on the other side of the lake realized that no other boat had been there except one,<sup>638</sup> and that Jesus had not gotten into the boat with his disciples, but his disciples had gone away alone. <sup>23</sup>(Other boats, from Tiberias, arrived near the place where they had eaten the loaves, where the Lord had given thanks.) <sup>24</sup>When therefore the crowd saw that neither Jesus nor his disciples were there, they got into the boats and went to Capernaum in search of Jesus.

<sup>25</sup>And finding him across the lake, they said to him, "Rabbi, when did you get here?"

<sup>26</sup>Jesus answered them, and said, "Truly, truly I say to you, you are looking for me, not because you saw miraculous signs but because you ate the loaves and were satisfied. <sup>27</sup>Do not work for food that perishes, but for food that abides, resulting in eternal life, which the Son of Man will give you. For him God the Father has sealed."

<sup>28</sup>They therefore said to him, "What should we do in order to be working the works of God?"

<sup>29</sup>Jesus answered, and said to them, "This is the work of God, that you believe in that one whom he has sent."

<sup>30</sup>So they said to him, "What miraculous sign then are you performing, so that we may see, and believe you? What works are you working? <sup>31</sup>Our forefathers ate the manna in the desert; as it is written: 'He gave them bread out of heaven to eat.'<sup>639</sup>"

<sup>34</sup>They said therefore to him, "Sir, give us that bread evermore."

<sup>35</sup>Jesus said to them, "I am the bread of life. <sup>642</sup> 6:39 Note all the neuters. This is said to be an example of the phenomenon of 'anacoluthon.' This would mean that the inflections have 'followed suit,' so to speak; that is, they have been attracted to or assimilated by the neuter gender and singular number of the relative pronoun, which in turn had been attracted to those same traits of its antecedent, τὸ θέλημα - τὸ thélēma, that is, 'the will' in verse 39. (And the relative pronoun was used in a Hebraistic construction, "παν...μη.") {Look up §§ 293-297 in Blass} But I am not convinced of anacoluthon here. For I have seen John deliberately use the neuter relative pronoun, and other neuter pronouns, in other passages as well, where the subject is people. See 6:37, 39, 17:2, 24, and, I believe also

<sup>41</sup>Then the Jews started grumbling about him, because he said, "I am the bread having come down out of heaven." <sup>42</sup>And they were saying, "Isn't this the Jesus son of Joseph whose father and mother we know? How can he now say, 'I have come down out of heaven'?"

<sup>43</sup>Jesus answered and said to them, "Stop grumbling among yourselves. <sup>44</sup>No one can come to me unless the Father who sent me draws him, and I would raise him up at the last day. <sup>45</sup>It is written in the Prophets: 'And they shall all be taught by God.'<sup>643</sup> Everyone who has heard and learned from the Father, comes to me. <sup>46</sup>Not that anyone has seen the Father except the one who is from God; he has seen the Father. <sup>47</sup>Truly, truly I say to you, the person who does believe in me<sup>644</sup> has eternal life. <sup>48</sup>I am the bread of life. <sup>49</sup>Your forefathers ate the manna in the desert, and they died. <sup>50</sup>But this is bread coming down out of heaven such that one may eat of it and would not die. <sup>51</sup>I am the living bread come down out of heaven. If someone eats of this bread, he will live for ever. Namely, the bread is my flesh, which I will give for the life of the world."

<sup>52</sup>Then the Jews began to argue sharply among themselves, saying, "How can this man give us his flesh to eat?"

<sup>53</sup>Jesus therefore said to them, "Truly, truly I say to you, unless you eat the flesh of the Son of Man and drink his blood, you have no life in you. <sup>54</sup>The person eating my flesh and drinking my blood has eternal life, and I will raise him up at the last day. <sup>55</sup>For my flesh is true food,<sup>645</sup> and my blood is true drink. <sup>56</sup>The one eating my flesh and drinking my blood abides in me, and I in him. <sup>57</sup>Just as the living Father has sent me, and I live by means of the Father, so also that one eating me will live by means of me. <sup>58</sup>This bread coming down out of heaven is not like the bread the forefathers ate and then died. 17:11-12, where I go against the trend which has been to interpret the Father's gift to the Son as "the name," rather than the disciples. John sometimes refers to people collectively as a gift and as a neuter thing. This sounds strange to our ears. But people are a "thing" when they are something given; especially since most of the Greek words for gift, the substantive forms of the verb John uses for give, are of the neuter gender. John six times uses a neuter singular pronoun for the collective unity of human beings that compose the gift that the Father has given him, in 6:37, 39, 17:2, 11, 12, 24. Though some say this is an instance of what is called "attraction of the relative," where the relative pronoun is neuter because it followed suit after a neuter noun before it, in this case the word for "will," yet, the circumstances for that are not present in all of the six instances mentioned earlier, and to me it is significant that John uses a neuter pronoun construction six times, when the number of the flesh in Biblical number symbolism is six. John uses the neuter pronoun construction as interchangeable with "flesh" in 17:2, and with "humans" in 17:6. The word "flesh" is a common Hebraistic way to refer to mortal humanity. Furthermore, it is interesting how reminiscent this phrase is of Job 19:25-26, where he says of the last day, "in my flesh shall I see God." Jesus uses this phrase, "I will not lose any of the flesh He has given me, but raise it up at the last day." Moreover, the flesh the Father gives him, is quickened by means of eating the living flesh of the Son of Man, Ch. 6 v. 54: "The one eating my flesh and drinking my blood has eternal life, and I will raise him up at the last day."

<sup>644</sup> 6:47 Jesus is referring back to verse 29, where he says "This is the work of God, that you believe in that one whom he has sent." There is a Greek textual difference here, in that later manuscripts added the words "in me" to verse 47. That is understandable, yet not necessary, since the idea "in me" was implied anyway. The reader is expected to have a long enough attention span to remember the previous context given in verse 29.

<sup>645</sup> 6:55 He is the real bread out of heaven, John 6:32, 55; Diatess. 13:39, 45; while the bread during Moses was the type or shadow of the real. (Colossians 2:17; Hebrews 8:5; 10:1) person eating this bread will live for ever." <sup>59</sup>These things he said while teaching in the synagogue at Capernaum.

A Teaching Too Scandalous for Some

<sup>60</sup>Then many of his disciples hearing said, "This is a hard teaching. Who can listen to it?"

<sup>61</sup>But knowing in himself that his disciples were grumbling about this, Jesus said to them, "This is shocking you? <sup>62</sup>Then what if you were seeing the Son of Man ascend to where he was before?<sup>646</sup> <sup>63</sup>Spirit is what makes alive; flesh counts for nothing. The words that I have spoken to you are spirit, and they are life. <sup>64</sup>Yet some of you are not believing." For Jesus had known from the beginning who the ones not believing were, and who the one was, who would betray<sup>647</sup> him. <sup>65</sup>He went on to say, "This is why I told you that no one has the ability to come to me, unless it is given to him from the Father."

<sup>67</sup>Jesus therefore said to the twelve, "You are not thinking of leaving too, are you?"

<sup>68</sup>Simon Peter answered him, "Lord, to whom shall we go? You have the words of eternal life. <sup>69</sup>And we have believed and have come to know that you are the Holy One of God."<sup>649</sup>

<sup>70</sup>Jesus responded to them, "Have I not chosen you, the Twelve, for myself? Yet one of you is a devil."<sup>650</sup> <sup>71</sup>He was speaking of Judas, son of Simon of Kerioth; for he, one of the Twelve, was going to betray him.

<sup>646</sup> 6:62 According to Friedrich Blass, this is a weak NT version of the Classical Greek "aposiopesis." For the interrogative word "what" is not present in the Greek, leaving this sentence with the feeling of incompleteness. Aposiopesis in the strict sense is a breaking off of speech due to strong emotion or to modesty, generally thought not to occur in the NT. On the other hand, a NT form of aposiopesis takes the form of the omission of the apodosis to a conditional subordinate clause (the protasis), which is also classical. If such were the case here, then the implied apodosis would be something like, "would you then still take offense, or be shocked?" Then the whole sentence would be, "If you were observing the Son of Man ascending to where he formerly existed, would you then still be shocked?" What therefore is the sense here? What is Jesus asking? If they would be more shocked watching him ascend to his former state of non-flesh? Or would they be less shocked watching him ascend to his former state of convincing majesty and authority, and therefore see that he is entitled to put forward a teaching (eating human flesh) so shocking to the Jewish sense of a ceremonially clean diet?

It means "slanderer, accuser, adversary." Jesus is probably not calling Judas "the devil," although the devil did later enter inside Judas, John 13:2, 27; Diatess. 28:22, 44. This can be translated that Judas was a devil, because he was a son of the devil, a fact proven by his deeds, John 8:41, 44; Diatess. 15:38, 40. It could be that Jesus

Jesus' Brothers Judge Him Falsely

<sup>1</sup>And after these things, Jesus was walking around in Galilee, for he was not wanting to walk in Judea, because the Jews were seeking to kill him. <sup>2</sup>But the Jewish Festival of Booths was near. <sup>3</sup>So his brothers said to him, "Remove yourself from here and go to Judea, so that your disciples there also may see the miracles you are doing. <sup>4</sup>For no one who wants to become famous, acts in secret. If you really are doing these things, show yourself to the world." <sup>5</sup>For even his own brothers did not believe in him.

<sup>6</sup>Jesus therefore said to them, "The time for me has not yet come. But for you the time is always suitable. <sup>7</sup>The world cannot hate you, but me it hates, because I testify about it, that its works are evil. <sup>8</sup>You go up to the festival. I am not<sup>651</sup> going up to this festival, because for me the time is not yet fully come." <sup>9</sup>And having said these things, he remained in Galilee.

Jesus Goes Up for Sukkot

<sup>10</sup>And when his brothers had gone up to the festival, then he also went up, not openly, but in secret. <sup>11</sup>The Jews therefore were looking for him in the festival, and saying, "Where is that fellow?"

<sup>12</sup>And there was much whispering about him in the crowds. Some were maintaining, "He is a good man."

"No," others would say. "He is misleading the people." <sup>13</sup>Though none would speak about him openly, for fear of the Jews.

The currently dominant theory about the reading "not yet going up" is that it was introduced early in the transmission of the text (ϣ<sup>66</sup>, about the year 200), to alleviate the seeming inconsistency between verse 8 and what Jesus actually did in verse 10. It is understandable if copyists wanted to defend Jesus, to keep him from appearing to be a liar. Yet I say, that if that was their goal, they did not accomplish it, one, because Jesus was still deceptive, in that he "went up, not openly, but in secret," v. 10. Even without the word "yet" added, Jesus still deceived his brothers, and also those in Jerusalem who were trying to kill him. It is ethically permissible to lie to those trying to kill you. And two, the presence of the word οὐπω is not necessary for a third time in this context for the purpose of defending Jesus from deception, seeing that Jesus already said it two other times: in verse 6 and verse 8, so he still basically did not actually deny altogether that he would go up to this feast ever. On the other hand, since the reading "not yet" is found in the earliest manuscripts, including the ones currently thought to be the most reliable, and included in the vast majority of manuscripts, it is understandable why the UBS editorial committee gives their reading only a C rating of certainty. As for me, I have not seen any convincing argument as to why the copyists who produced those manuscripts not containing the word "yet," why they might have deleted it. It is much easier to explain why copyists might add the word "yet," than why they might delete it.

<sup>14</sup>And when it was already the middle of the festival, Jesus went up to the temple, and was teaching. <sup>15</sup>The Jews then were marveling, saying, "How does this man know letters, not having received instruction?"<sup>652</sup>

<sup>16</sup>Jesus therefore answered them and said, "My teaching is not mine, but rather his who sent me. <sup>17</sup>If someone is inclined to do His will, he will find out about the teaching, whether it is from God, or I am speaking from myself. <sup>18</sup>One who speaks from himself is seeking his own glory. But one seeking the glory of Him who sent him, such a one is true, and there is no unrighteousness in him. <sup>19</sup>Has not Moses given you the law? Yet none of you performs the law. Why are you trying to kill me?"

<sup>652</sup> 7:15 Normally the only source of Hebrew literacy (literacy meaning reading and writing in the Alphabet – liter = letter), and of advanced knowledge of the religion, was by being a formal disciple of a Rabbi. Such instruction was very repetitious, rote, and had to be reproduced exactly by the disciple, with exactly the same words, the exact same method of delivery. And the disciple was absolutely never to ad lib, or improve on, or make a new application of, or omit any minutiae received from his Rabbi. Thus when a man was teaching, it could be immediately detected which Rabbinical school he was a disciple of. But Jesus' teaching must have been unrecognizable as to its Rabbinical source, yet knowledgeable of Hebrew and the scriptures, and well said, to cause the leaders of Judaism to marvel. Jesus appealed to these scruples, in John 12:50, when he described his own discipleship under his Father, when he says, "And I know, that his commandment means eternal life. Therefore, what things I speak, just as the Father has said them to me, I speak them just so."

<sup>653</sup> 7:21 They were still indignant that he had worked on the Sabbath, healed the cripple on the Sabbath the last time he was in Jerusalem, in John 5:8-10; Diatessaron 8:3-4.

<sup>654</sup> 7:22a The Greek words I translated "Why is it," are "διὰ τοῦτο." Remember, the verse numbers are very late additions to the text. Some translations include these words, "διὰ τοῦτο," with the beginning of the sentence that starts in verse 22, others with the tail end of the sentence of verse 21: "I did one work, and you are all amazed about it." Some translations even leave these words untranslated.

<sup>655</sup> 7:22b It was commanded that when a male child was born, he be circumcised on the eighth day. (Gen. 17:12; Ex. 22:30; Lev. 12:3) If the eighth day happened to fall on a Sabbath, no matter; they had to cut part of the boy off on the Sabbath, even though that was working on the Sabbath. But now there is the question of how to translate the Greek word ἄνθρωπος - ánthrōpos here in vv. 22 & 23, which is generally translated "human being," or, "person," as distinguished from God, angels, demons, and animals. But it is not "human beings" that were circumcised on the eighth day, but only male infants. Thus we have translations like the NIV that render "ἄνθρωπος" as "child," or the NCV, as "baby," or the NLT and CEV as "son," or the JNT as "boy," and CBW as "male child." But adult males were also circumcised; for example, an adult male slave that an Israelite purchased, or also, an adult gentile convert to Judaism. (Gen. 17:12; Josh. 5:2-8; Acts 16:3) Thus the REB translates "ἄνθρωπος" here as "someone." But were such adult males circumcised on the eighth day? Eighth day from what? Their conversion? For the eighth day requirement would seem to be the only compelling reason for performing the rite on a Sabbath day. But I can find no mention in the scriptures of the eighth day involving the circumcision of adults. Therefore it seems reasonable to use the word "son," or "male child." Yet, because of the comparison Jesus makes in v. 23 with the grown man he had healed, "if a man receives circumcision on the Sabbath...why are you incensed at me that I have made the whole man whole on the Sabbath." For a male baby is still a "man" in broad terms.

<sup>656</sup> 7:23 Circumcision involves cutting off part of a man, so what Jesus is asking, is, "You cut off part of a man on the Sabbath, so how can you be upset with me if I made the whole man whole on the Sabbath?"

<sup>657</sup> 7:24 τὴν δικαίαν κρίσιν κρίνετε – tēn dikaíān krísin krínete; "judge the righteous judgment." The definite article in this use may well be "anaphoric," in that it is meant to refer back to something with which they are already familiar: that judgment commanded in Deuteronomy 16:18. The Greek there in the Septuagint is

Is Jesus the Anointed One?

<sup>25</sup>Then some of the Jerusalemites were saying, "Is this not the man they are trying to kill? <sup>26</sup>And behold he is speaking openly, and they say nothing to him. Could it be the authorities have actually come to know that this is the Christ? <sup>27</sup>Except this man, we know where he is from; but the Christ, when he comes, no one will know where he is from."

<sup>28</sup>Then Jesus cried out in the temple, teaching and saying, "Yes, me you know, and you know where I am from. Yet I have not come of myself. True rather is the One who sent me; him you do not know. <sup>29</sup>I know him, because I am from him, and that One has sent me."

<sup>30</sup>Then they were trying to seize him, yet no one laid a hand on him, because his hour had not yet come. <sup>31</sup>But many of the crowd put trust on him, and they were saying, "When the Christ comes, will he perform more signs than this man has done?" <sup>32</sup>The Pharisees heard these whisperings of the crowd about him, and the chief priests and the Pharisees sent officers<sup>658</sup> to arrest him.

<sup>33</sup>Jesus continued and said, "Just a short time more I am with you, and then I am going away, to the One who sent me. <sup>34</sup>You will look for me, and will not find me, and where I am, you are not able to come."

<sup>35</sup>The Jews therefore said among themselves, "Where is this man about to go, that we will not find him? Is he about to go into the Dispersion among the Greeks, and teach the Greeks? <sup>36</sup>What is the meaning of this statement that he said, 'You will look for me and will not find me, and where I am you are not able to come'?"

<sup>37</sup>And in the great and final day of the festival, there stood Jesus. And he cried out, saying, "If anyone is thirsty, he should come to me; and drink, <sup>38</sup>he who believes on me. As the scripture has said, streams of living water will flow from His belly."<sup>659</sup> <sup>39</sup>Now this κρίνοῦσι ... κρίσιν δικάϊαν - "they shall judge a righteous judgment," without the article. For indeed, those Jesus was probably talking to were judges. The scribes "γραμματεῖς" also sat in judgment, being one component of the Sanhedrin, and the subjects of Deuteronomy 16:18 were "κριτὰς καὶ γραμματοεισαγωγεῖς" - "judges and clerks."

<sup>658</sup> 7:32 Probably temple police officers or guards. Rome did authorize the Sanhedrin to have a company of guards with powers of arrest.

<sup>659</sup> 7:38 Or, some other interpreters would punctuate this as follows: "If anyone is thirsty, he should come to me and drink. The person who believes on me, as the scripture has said, 'streams of living water will flow from his belly.' They interpret this as saying that the streams of living water will flow from the believer's belly. Whereas the way I have it worded, the water flows from Christ, and the believer drinks of Him, the Living Water, the Rock in the desert, which Moses struck, Exodus 17:6, Numbers 20:8, Psalm 78:15,16. See also Zechariah 14:8; Joel 3:18; Psalm 147:18; Isaiah 48:21; Isaiah 30:25; 32:2; John 15:26; Revelation 22:1. The river flows out of His core, not ours. We drink of Him; I Cor. 10:4, "they all drank the same spiritual drink. For they drank from the spiritual rock that followed them, and that rock was Christ." The gospel of John contains several allusions to Exodus, such as the Passover lamb, the manna from heaven, the snake up on the pole, and here is another one: Moses striking the rock and water coming forth from the rock. But if you interpret this as meaning streams of living water will come out of OUR, the believers' bellies, then you must find the scripture in the Hebrew Bible which says anything even similar to this. But there is none, except perhaps Isaiah 58:11. But based on my exposure to the Bible, the word κοιλία, which is the Greek word here for "belly" or "core," also in places has the connotation of "the core of the earth," or the core of a huge rock or mountain. For example, there are scriptures that liken the belly to the heart of the earth. Matthew 12:40, "For as Jonah was three days and three nights in the belly- κοιλίᾳ of the huge sea creature, so he said in reference to the Spirit, whom those believing in him were about to receive. For the Spirit was not yet present, because Jesus had not yet been glorified.

<sup>40</sup>Some in the crowd therefore who heard these words were saying, "Surely this man is the Prophet."<sup>660</sup>

The former<sup>661</sup> were then saying, "What? The Christ comes from Galilee? <sup>42</sup>Didn't the scripture say that the Christ comes from the seed of David and from Bethlehem, the village where David lived?" <sup>43</sup>A split therefore occurred in the crowd because of him. <sup>44</sup>And some of them wanted to arrest him, but no one laid a hand on him.

Unbelief of the Jewish Authorities

<sup>45</sup>Then the officers went to the chief priests and Pharisees, and those said to them, "Why have you not brought him?"

<sup>47</sup>The Pharisees therefore answered them, "Have you also been deceived? <sup>48</sup>Has anyone of the authorities or of the Pharisees believed on him? <sup>49</sup>As for this crowd, cursed are they, not understanding the law."

<sup>50</sup>Nicodemus, the one who had come to him previously, who was one of them, says to them, <sup>51</sup>"Our law does not judge the man unless it first hears from him, and knows what he is doing, does it?"

the Son of Man will be three days and three nights in the heart of the earth." Or Isaiah 8:19, "And if they should say to you, Seek those who have in them a divining spirit, and them that speak out of the earth, them that speak vain words, who speak out of their belly -κοιλίας: shall not a nation diligently seek to their God? Why do they seek to the dead concerning the living?" (Brenton) On the other hand, I concede that a great many of the occurrences of κοιλία in the Septuagint are about reproduction (from men also), the issue from one's body. This can be made analogous to being "Born of water" as opposed to "born of the Spirit." In other words, could Jesus be saying here in John chapter 7 that those who believe in him, will reproduce spiritually? Are we able to give the Living Water to others, and cause them to be born? In the very next verse, 7:39 John says, "Now this he said in reference to the Spirit, whom those believing in him were about to receive." So how would the Holy Spirit flow out of our bellies? How would that be so? This would be a teaching not found anywhere else in the Bible. We can give others the Bread, the Word, but I have not seen any scripture that says we can give others the Living Water of Life. The emphasis of this passage in John seems to be the quenching of OUR thirst, by receiving the Spirit. It is not a passage speaking of us quenching the thirst of others. Verse 38 makes sense only as following an invitation to drink from God, not a promise that others will drink from us. There is simply no contextual relevance for that idea. Jesus is the rock, and our wellspring. He is the Living Water, as he said to the Samaritan woman at the well. The BDF grammar discusses this passage in §466(4) under Anacoluthon, "The resumption of a suspended case by a pronoun in another case (the suspended subject [or object] is a construction belonging to the popular idiom.)" Then the section specifically about this passage, section (4), states, "Anacoluthon (without a relative clause) following an introductory participle (nearly always in the nominative) is common: Jn 7:38. This construction is Semitic, but a comparable usage is found in classical Greek; cf. K.-G. II 106f.; Mlt. 225 [356].— Mayser II 3, 189ff.; Ursing 65ff.; M.-H. 423ff.; Rob. 435-7."

<sup>661</sup> 7:41 οἱ δὲ; the δὲ supposedly complementary to an earlier "ghost" μέν at the beginning of verse 40. Verse 40 starts out Ἐκ τοῦ ὄχλου, "of the crowd," with no μέν present and the subject only implied. Granted it is a typical situation for a μέν / δὲ combination. But the fact remains that there is no μέν there, so an anaphoric use of the article here is at least as likely, in my truly humble opinion.

<sup>52</sup>They answered and said to him, "You aren't from Galilee too, are you? Investigate and see, that no prophet arises out of Galilee."<sup>662</sup>

Chapter 8

<sup>1</sup>But Jesus went to the Mount of Olives. <sup>2</sup>And at dawn he showed up in the temple again, and all the people were coming toward him. And having sat down he was teaching them. <sup>3</sup>And the Torah scholars and the Pharisees are bringing toward him a woman caught in adultery. And after they stood her in the midst, <sup>4</sup>they say to him, "Teacher, this woman was caught in the act of adultery. <sup>5</sup>In the Law, Moses charged us to stone such women. What then do you say?" <sup>6</sup>But this they were saying tempting him, in order that they might obtain basis to accuse him.

But Jesus bent down and was writing on the ground with his finger, [taking no notice].<sup>664</sup> <sup>7</sup>And after they kept on questioning him, he straightened up and said to them,

The reading of ϣ<sup>66</sup> and the Sahidic Coptic, and possibly also ϣ<sup>75</sup>, is, "the Prophet does not arise out of Galilee." Papyrus 66 is our earliest or second earliest of all the Greek manuscripts of the gospels. The other manuscripts do not have the article, "the." And the Majority Text says, no prophet "has arisen." A prophet had in fact come out of Galilee before. According to II Kings 14:25, the prophet Jonah was from Gath Hopher, in Galilee, in the territory of the tribe of Zebulun (Joshua 19:13), only one hill over from Nazareth, if not the same hill. This is yet another way in which Jonah was a sign of Christ.

Eusebius (EH III.39.17) indicates that the passage was in the Gospel According to the Hebrews. The advocates of the Byzantine text argue that because of markings on ancient copies that indicated boundaries for lectionary readings, some copyists mistook those markings for edit marks meaning "delete," and so did not include the pericope in their copies. "The one among you who is sinless should be first to throw a stone at her." <sup>8</sup>And after bending down again, he continued writing on the ground.

<sup>9</sup>And after they heard this, they went away, one by one, starting with the oldest, until he alone was left, and the woman still in the midst. <sup>10</sup>And Jesus straightened up, and said to her, "Woman, where are they? Has no one condemned you?"

<sup>11</sup>And she said, "No one, sir."

And Jesus said, "Neither am I condemning you. Go, and sin no more."

The Validity of Jesus' Testimony

<sup>12</sup>Jesus then spoke to them again, saying, "I am the light of the world. The person who follows me will not walk around in the darkness, but on the contrary, he will have for himself the light of life."

<sup>13</sup>The Pharisees therefore said to him, "You are testifying about yourself. Your testimony is not valid."

<sup>14</sup>Jesus answered and said to them, "Even if I testify about myself, my testimony is valid, because I know where I came from, and where I am going. But you do not know where I am coming from, or where I am going. <sup>15</sup>You judge by the flesh; I judge no one. <sup>16</sup>But even if I judge, my judgment is valid, because I am not alone: it is I and the one who sent me. <sup>17</sup>Now even in your law it is written, that the testimony of two persons is valid.<sup>665</sup> <sup>18</sup>I am one testifying about myself, and the one who sent me is testifying about me, the Father."

<sup>19</sup>Then they were saying to him, "Where is your father?"

Jesus answered, "Neither me nor my father do you know. If you knew me, you would know my father also." <sup>20</sup>These statements he spoke in the treasury, teaching in the temple, and no one seized him, because his hour had not yet come.

<sup>21</sup>Continuing, he said to them, "I am going; and you will seek me, and you will die in your sins. Where I am going, you are not able to come."

<sup>22</sup>So the Jews were saying, "Is he going to kill himself, that he says, 'Where I am going, you are not able to come'?"

<sup>23</sup>And he said to them, "You are from below, I am from above; you are of this world, I am not of this world. <sup>24</sup>I said to you that you will die in your sins. For if you do not believe that I am who I am,<sup>666</sup> you will die in your sins."

<sup>25</sup>Therefore they were saying to him, "Who are you?"

Jesus said to them, "Why am I even speaking to you at all?<sup>667</sup> <sup>26</sup>I have many things to say about you, and to judge. But the one who sent me is true, and I, what things I hear from him, those are the things I speak in the world."

<sup>666</sup> 8:24 ὅτι ἐγὼ εἰμι – hoti egō eimi; literally, "that I am." This could also be translated "that I am he," meaning, the expected one, the Messiah. But that does not make as much sense, because his listeners responded to this by asking "Who are you?" If they had understood Jesus to be saying he was the Messiah, they would not have asked that question. It could be that when Jesus said this, it was meant to remind them of Exodus 3:14, where God told Moses his name was "I am the one who is," or something to that effect, like here, "I am who I am," or "I am who I will be," etc. Or, another possible good rendering could be, "Unless you believe who I am..."

<sup>27</sup>They did not understand that he was speaking to them of the Father. <sup>28</sup>Then Jesus said, "When you lift up the Son of Man, then you will find out that I am he,<sup>668</sup> and of myself<sup>669</sup> I do nothing, but rather exactly as the Father has taught me, those things I speak. <sup>29</sup>And the one who sent me is continually with me. He has not left me alone, because I always do the things pleasing to him." <sup>30</sup>As he was speaking these things, many believed in him.

The Children of Abraham

<sup>31</sup>Jesus was therefore saying to the ones who had believed in him, "If you continue in my word, you are true disciples of mine, <sup>32</sup>and you will know the truth, and the truth will make you free."

<sup>33</sup>They responded to him, "We are seed of Abraham, and to no one have we ever been enslaved. How do you mean, that we will become free?"

<sup>34</sup>Jesus answered them, "Truly, truly I say to you, everyone doing sin is a slave of sin. <sup>35</sup>And the slave does not abide in the house in perpetuity; the Son abides in perpetuity. <sup>36</sup>If therefore the Son should make you free, you will be free indeed. <sup>37</sup>I know that you are seed of Abraham; yet you are trying to kill me, because my word has no room in you. <sup>38</sup>The things that I have seen with the Father I speak, and you then the things you have heard from your father you are doing."<sup>670</sup>

Jesus says to them, "If you were children of Abraham, you would be doing the works of Abraham. <sup>40</sup>But as it is, you are trying to kill me, someone who has spoken to you the truth he has heard from God. This, Abraham did not do. <sup>41</sup>You are doing the works of your father."

They said to him, "We were not conceived in fornication. <sup>671</sup> We have one father: God."

<sup>667</sup> 8:25 Or possibly, "I am saying to you what I also said originally, " or, "What have I been saying to you from the beginning?" There is a Greek textual ambiguity, discussed in a note at the end of this document.

<sup>668</sup> 8:28a ὅτι ἐγὼ εἰμι - hoti egō eimi; literally, "that I am." Possibly meaning, "I am he," meaning, the expected one, the Messiah. Or it could simply mean, "You will find out who I am." But it could also be that when Jesus said this, he was saying merely "I am," and it was unclear what he was claiming to be. Or that he meant to remind them of Exodus 3:14, where God told Moses his name was "I am the one who is," or something to that effect, like here, "I am who I am," or "I am who I will be," etc.

<sup>669</sup> 8:28b According to Bauer, ἀπ' ἐμαυτοῦ is an expression known in Classical Greek using the preposition "ἀπό" to indicate the originator or authorizer of the action.

<sup>670</sup> 8:38 Some manuscripts have "and you then the things you have heard from the father..." And there is an ambiguity in the verb "you do." The indicative inflection is in this case the same inflection used for the imperative. Consequently, the two readings in the widest spread of possibility are either as I have it in the text of John above, or, "and you therefore the things you have heard from the Father you should be doing."

<sup>671</sup> 8:41 What is the train of thought? If two different gods were their father, they would be conceived in fornication? Or is it, if both a god and a human were their father, they would be conceived in fornication? And is there a god that commits fornication? The only interpretation that makes sense here is that they are taking a dig at Jesus' conception, that he was conceived before Mary was married. In the Greek, the pronoun "we" is emphatic. The meaning is: "We are not the mamzers here. We, unlike you, were not conceived in fornication." The Greek here for "We were not conceived in fornication" is Ἡμεῖς ἐκ πορνείας οὐ γεγεννήμεθα. The Septuagint Greek in Deut. 23:2 (v. 3 in some ed.) is οὐκ εἰσελεύσεται ἐκ πόρνῃς εἰς ἐκκλησίαν κυρίου, "one born of a whore shall not enter into the assembly of the Lord." This is an idea close to what is here in John, and it was rendered from the Hebrew word מְמַזְרֵר - mamzēr, which is also used in Zechariah 9:6 for a "mongrel" people. Thus there is alternatively a remote possibility that the Judeans could

The Children of the Devil

<sup>42</sup>Jesus said to them, "If God were your father, you would love me, for I went out from God and have arrived here. For neither did I come of myself, but that One sent me. <sup>43</sup>What is the reason you do not understand my speech? Because you are not able to tolerate<sup>672</sup> my word. <sup>44</sup>You are of your father, the Devil, and the yearnings of your father you want to do. That one has been homicidal from the beginning, and in the truth he has never stood still, because there is no truth in him. When he speaks a lie, he is speaking from his own things,<sup>673</sup> for he is a liar, and the father of the lie.<sup>674</sup> <sup>45</sup>So I, because I am saying the truth, you do not believe me. <sup>46</sup>Who of you is convicting me of a sin? If I am saying the truth, why is it you do not believe me? <sup>47</sup>The ones who are of the Father hear the statements of the Father. This is why you do not hear; you are not of God."

The Authorities Attempt Stoning for Claim of Pre-Eminence of Abraham

<sup>48</sup>The Jews answered and said to him, "Do we not rightly say that you are a Samaritan, and have a demon?"

<sup>49</sup>Jesus answered, "I do not have a demon. Quite the opposite, I am honoring my Father. And you are dishonoring me. <sup>50</sup>It is not me seeking my glory. There is One seeking, and judging. <sup>51</sup>Truly, truly I say to you, If someone follows my word, death he will by no means see, into all time."

be making a slur on Galileans and Jesus as one, an attitude they in fact held in their hearts toward them, since "Galilee of the Gentiles" were a result of more intermarriage with Gentiles than were Judeans.

<sup>672</sup> 8:43 The Greek verb translated "tolerate" is the infinitive form of "ἀκούω," which primarily means "to hear." But here John is using the word similarly to how he used it in chapter 6 verse 60, where some of Jesus' disciples said, "This is a hard teaching; who can hear it?" In other words, who can bear to hear it, or more specifically, who can "stay and listen" to it. They could not bear to listen to it, so they walked away. (This is also in line with what Jesus says in v. 37, "My word has no room in you.") This must be the meaning here, for Jesus compares them in this trait, to their father, the Devil, who does not "stand in the truth." In other words, he does not stick around to hear it. When the truth is being spoken, he is shiftily and restless and unable to stand. He cannot bear to hear it. He leaves, and that is sometimes what the Greek word for "stand" means, to be still. To be still while someone is speaking, is a form of submission and openness. So, Jesus says, "like father, like son." The Devil is a liar, and the father of same. In Greek, the word for "hear" is also the word for "listen." The only distinction is whether the context indicates will on the part of the person hearing.

<sup>673</sup> 8:44a Is this a contrast to verse 42 where Jesus says about himself, that he did not come of himself? It is not totally identical wording in the Greek. Different translations supply various nouns here, such as "from his own nature," or "his own inventions," or "his own resources," or, "his own language."

<sup>674</sup> 8:44b The Greek word translated "the lie" at the end of verse 44, is αὐτός, and in an oblique case; that is, the 3rd person pronoun is here used without concord in number, gender, and case, to any noun present in its context. Thus, different translations supply various words. The BDF grammar, for John 8:44b, refers you to section 282(3), which says that αὐτοῦ is an attributive genitive, in a seemingly oblique case, (not in formal number/gender/case concord with any immediate noun or referent) which here is to be referred through ψεύστης τοῦ ὅταν λαλῇ τὸ ψεῦδος, in other words, "the lie." But it also says that an interpretation such as that of the YLT is possible—"because he is a liar — and also his father." The BAGD lexicon says, "The oblique cases of αὐτός very often (in a fashion customary since Homer) take the place of the 3rd person personal pronoun; in particular the genitive case replaces the missing possessive pronoun." It says, in this case referring to a noun to be supplied from the context.

<sup>52</sup>The Jews said to him, "Now we know that you have a demon. Abraham died, and also the Prophets, and you say, 'If someone follows my word, death he will by no means experience, into all time.' <sup>53</sup>Are you greater than our forefather Abraham, who died? And the Prophets also died. What sort of man do you reckon yourself?"

<sup>54</sup>Jesus answered, "If I glorify myself, that glory of mine is worthless. My Father is the one glorifying me, the one that you say is your God. <sup>55</sup>And you have never known him, but I know him. Now if I were to say that I do not know him, I would be a liar like you. But I do know him, and his word I am following. <sup>56</sup>Abraham, your forefather, made exultation yearning to see my day. And he saw it, and was thrilled."

<sup>57</sup>The Jews therefore said to him, "You are not yet fifty, and you have beheld Abraham?" <sup>675</sup>

<sup>58</sup>Jesus said to them, "Truly, truly I say to you, before Abraham was, <sup>676</sup>I am." <sup>677</sup> <sup>59</sup>Then they picked up stones to throw at him. But Jesus hid himself, and went forth from the temple. <sup>678</sup>

Chapter 9

Jesus Heals a Man Born Blind

<sup>1</sup>And as he was going along, he saw a man blind from birth. <sup>2</sup>And his disciples queried him, saying, "Rabbi, who sinned, this man or his parents, that he would be born blind?"

<sup>3</sup>Jesus answered, "Neither that this man sinned, nor his parents, but that the works of God might be displayed in him. <sup>4</sup>We must be working at the works of him who sent me,

<sup>675</sup> 8:57 Several early witnesses say Ἀβραὰμ ἑώρακέν σε, "Abraham has seen you?" But other early witnesses say Ἀβραὰμ ἑώρακας - 'Abraàm heōrakas, "you have seen Abraham?" It is understandable why copyists might have thought the latter less sensible, since Jesus had just said that Abraham had seen Jesus' day. So they corrected it to "Abraham has seen you." The UBS committee said the reason the Jews would say "You have seen Abraham" rather than "Abraham has seen you" is that the former assumes the superiority of Abraham, which they would have held. The sense I got, before I read the UBS commentary, of what the Jews were actually saying, was that the Jews wondered, "How do you know that Abraham was thrilled? How do you know what Abraham's emotions were? Did you behold his countenance? See the expressions on his face?"

<sup>676</sup> 8:58a γενέσθαι - genésthai, punctiliar infinitive of γίνομαι - gínomai. This word can mean "to become," or "to come into existence," or "to appear," or simply, "to be." The rendering "before Abraham was born, I am" makes it sound like Jesus was born before Abraham. But rather than birth, the emphasis is on existence, and this includes pre-eminence.

<sup>677</sup> 8:58b ἐγώ εἰμι - egō eimi; literally, "I am." The basic meaning is that Jesus existed before Abraham. But many interpreters, in view of the reaction of the hearers, maintain that Jesus meant to remind them of Exodus 3:14, where God told Moses his name was "I am the one who is," or something to that effect, like here, "I am who I am," or "I am who I will be," etc. These interpreters ask, "Why else would they want to stone him?" This interpretation is certainly possible, and has merit. But they could also still have wanted to stone him just for saying he was alive before Abraham, thus making himself immortal, and also greater than their hero, Abraham.

while it is day. Night is coming, when no one can work. <sup>5</sup>As long as I am in the world, I am the light of the world."

<sup>6</sup>When he had said these things, he spit on the ground, and made mud with the saliva, and rubbed the mud on the man's eyes. <sup>7</sup>And he said to him, "Go, wash in the pool of 'Siloam' " (which when translated is "Sent"). He went therefore and washed, and came back seeing.

<sup>8</sup>His neighbors therefore, and those who had previously observed him being a beggar, were saying, "Isn't this the man usually sitting and begging?"

<sup>9</sup>Some were saying, "This is the same man."

Others were saying, "No; he only looks like him."

He himself kept saying, "I am the one."

<sup>10</sup>They were saying therefore to him, "How were your eyes opened?"

<sup>11</sup>He answered, "The man named Jesus made mud and rubbed my eyes with it, and he told me, 'Go to Siloam and wash.' So when I went and washed, I saw."

<sup>12</sup>And they said to him, "Where is that man?"

He says, "I don't know."

The Authorities Investigate the Healing

<sup>13</sup>And they take him to the Pharisees, the man who had once been blind. <sup>14</sup>And the day on which Jesus had made mud and opened his eyes had been a Sabbath. <sup>15</sup>So again, the Pharisees also asked him how he came to see. And he told them, "He put mud on my eyes, and I washed, and now I see."

<sup>16</sup>Some of the Pharisees therefore were saying, "This man is not from God, because he does not keep the Sabbath."

But others were saying, "How can a sinful man do such miracles?" So there was a split among them.

<sup>17</sup>Then they are talking to the blind man again: "What do you say about him? For it was your eyes he opened."

And he said, "He is a prophet."

<sup>18</sup>The result was the Jews did not believe about him that he used to be blind and then saw; until they summoned the parents of the one who had received his sight. <sup>19</sup>And they questioned them, saying, "Is this your son, the one you say was born blind? And if so, how does he now see?"

<sup>20</sup>His parents therefore answered and said, "We know that this is our son, and that he was born blind. <sup>21</sup>But how he now sees, we do not know. Or who opened his eyes, we do not know. Ask him; he has majority. He will speak for himself." <sup>22</sup>His parents said these things because they were fearing the Jews. For the Jews had already decided that anyone who acknowledged Him to be the Christ would be put out of the synagogue. <sup>23</sup>This is why his parents said, "He has majority; ask him."

<sup>24</sup>Then the man who had been blind they summoned a second time. And they said to him, "Give credit to God. We know that this man is sinful."<sup>679</sup>

<sup>679</sup> 9:24 Literally, "Give glory to God." Or give credit to God, that he knows the truth anyway, so you might as well admit that this man is sinful. Give up on trying to hide the truth from God.

<sup>25</sup>He then answered, "Whether he is sinful, I do not know. One thing I know: Whereas I used to be blind, now I see."

<sup>26</sup>They said therefore to him, "What did he do to you? How did he open your eyes?"

<sup>27</sup>He answered them, "I told you already, and you didn't listen. Why do you want to hear it again? Do you want to become his disciples too?"

<sup>28</sup>And they ridiculed him and said, "You are the disciple of that one. We are disciples of Moses. <sup>29</sup>We know for sure that God has spoken to Moses; but this fellow, we don't know where he comes from."

<sup>30</sup>The man answered and said to them, "Well, there certainly is something strange in this, that you don't know where he comes from, and he opened my eyes. <sup>31</sup>We know that God does not hear the sinful. But if someone is God-fearing, and practicing his will, this kind he hears. <sup>32</sup>Since time began, reports have not been heard that someone opened the eyes of one born blind. <sup>33</sup>If this man were not from God, he would not have been able to do a thing."

<sup>34</sup>They answered and said to him, "You were born totally in sin, and you are teaching us?" Then they threw him out.

Spiritual Blindness

<sup>35</sup>Jesus heard that they had thrown him out, and finding him, he said, "Do you believe in the Son of Man?"<sup>680</sup>

<sup>36</sup>That one answered and said, "And who is he, sir,<sup>681</sup> so that I may believe in him."

<sup>37</sup>Jesus said to him, "Not only have you seen him, but he is the one talking with you."

<sup>38</sup>And he said, "I believe, Lord." And he worshipped him.<sup>682</sup>

Chapter 10

The Good Shepherd

<sup>1</sup>"Truly, truly I say to you, someone not entering the sheep fold through the door, but instead climbing up another way, that one is a thief and a bandit. <sup>2</sup>But the one entering through the door, is the shepherd of the sheep. <sup>3</sup>The doorkeeper opens for this one, and the sheep hear his voice. And he calls his own sheep by name, and leads them forth. <sup>4</sup>When he has brought out all his own, he goes on before them, and the sheep follow him, because they know his voice. <sup>5</sup>But a stranger they will not follow, but will flee from him, because they do not know the voice of strangers."

<sup>6</sup>This parable Jesus told them, but they did not understand what the principles were that he was speaking to them.

<sup>7</sup>Again therefore Jesus said to them, "Truly, truly I say to you, I am the door of the sheep. <sup>8</sup>All who came before me are thieves and bandits; but the sheep did not hear them. <sup>9</sup>I am the door. If anyone enters through me, he will be saved, and will go in and go out, and find pasture. <sup>10</sup>The thief does not come, except to steal, and to kill, and to ruin. I have come so they might have life, and have it more.

<sup>11</sup>"I am the good shepherd. The good shepherd lays down his life for the sheep. <sup>12</sup>The wage earner, not being a shepherd, and for whom the sheep are not his own, sees the wolf coming and abandons the sheep and flees, and the wolf seizes them and scatters them. <sup>13</sup>For he is a wage earner,<sup>683</sup> and it matters not to him about the sheep.

<sup>14</sup>"I am the good shepherd, and I know mine, and mine know me. <sup>15</sup>Just as the Father knows me, and I know the Father. And I lay down my life for the sheep. <sup>16</sup>Other sheep I also have, which are not of this fold; those also I am to bring, and my voice they will hear, and the result<sup>684</sup> will be one flock,<sup>685</sup> one shepherd. <sup>17</sup>For this my Father loves me, that I

Or is the plural even more awkward: "they shall be...one shepherd," resulting in the copyists changing it to the singular? <sup>21</sup>Others were saying, "These are not the expressions of someone demonized. Can a demon open the eyes of the blind?"

The Authorities Attempt Stoning for Claim of Equality With God

<sup>22</sup>Then came the Festival of Dedication<sup>686</sup> at Jerusalem. It was winter, <sup>23</sup>and Jesus was walking in the temple, in the Portico of Solomon. <sup>24</sup>Then the Jews surrounded him, and were saying to him, "How long are you keeping our souls in suspense? If you are the Christ, tell us clearly."

<sup>25</sup>Jesus answered them, "I told you, and you do not believe. The works that I am doing in the name of my Father, these testify for me. <sup>26</sup>Yet, you are not believing, because you are not of my sheep. <sup>27</sup>My sheep hear my voice, and I know them, and they follow me. <sup>28</sup>And I give to them eternal life, and they will by no means perish, into all time, and no one will snatch them out my hand. <sup>29</sup>My Father, the one who gave them to me, he is greater than all,<sup>687</sup> and no one is able to snatch them out of the Father's hand. <sup>30</sup>I and the Father are one."

<sup>31</sup>Again, the Jews lifted up stones in order to stone him. <sup>32</sup>Jesus responded to them, "Many good works I have shown you from the Father. For which work of them are you stoning me?"

<sup>33</sup>The Jews answered him, "Not for good works are we stoning you, but for blasphemy, because you, being a human, are making yourself God."<sup>688</sup>

<sup>685</sup> 10:16b The King James Version and most of the English translations before it, read "one fold," even though not one single Greek manuscript says that. The KJV followed the reading of the Latin Vulgate instead of the Greek, as is often the case in the Textus Receptus.

He and his descendants are called the Seleucid kings) one of the rulers, Antiochus Epiphanes, ransacked Jerusalem, and made observance of the Sabbath, circumcision, and possession of Hebrew scriptures capital offenses. He abolished Jewish worship, and pagan altars were erected in many cities of Judea. His edicts were enforced by the utmost cruelty, and the climax of his sacrilege was when in December of 167 B.C. a female pig was sacrificed on the great altar of burnt offering in the temple area. After Antiochus died, his successor made an agreement with Judas Maccabaeus that included the purification and proper use of the temple. The rededication of the temple took place in December, 164 B.C., exactly three years after it was defiled by the swine's flesh. A feast to celebrate this restoration was instituted, and was kept annually from then on. This was the Feast of Dedication, today called the festival of Hanukkah.

It might also be translated, "you are deeming yourself God," or, "you are calling yourself God."

<sup>34</sup>Jesus answered them, "Is it not written in your law, 'I have said, "You are gods"'"?<sup>689</sup>
<sup>35</sup>Why, since he called those to whom the word of God came 'gods,' and the scripture cannot be voided, <sup>36</sup>do you say to the one the Father has consecrated and sent into the world, 'You are blaspheming,' because he said, 'I am the Son of God'? <sup>37</sup>If I am not doing the works of my Father, do not believe me. <sup>38</sup>And if I am doing them, even if you do not believe me, believe the works, so that you may acknowledge and know<sup>690</sup> that the Father is in me, and I in the Father." <sup>39</sup>And again they were trying to arrest him. And he got out of their grasp.

<sup>40</sup>And he went back to the other side of the Jordan, to the place where John had earlier been baptizing, and he stayed there a while. <sup>41</sup>And many came to him. And they were saying, "Though John performed no miraculous sign, everything John said about this man was true." <sup>42</sup>And many there believed in him.

The Death of Lazarus

<sup>4</sup>And when he heard, Jesus said, "This sickness is not to death, but rather for the glory of God, in order that the Son of God be glorified through it." <sup>5</sup>(But Jesus loved Martha, and her sister, and Lazarus.) <sup>6</sup>When then he heard that he was ailing, at that time he actually<sup>691</sup> remained in the place in which he was, for two days. <sup>7</sup>Only then, after this, he says to the disciples, "Let us go back to Judea."

Some interpreters take "gods" as figurative speech ascribing god-like power to human judges and rulers, as in Psalm 58:1. It was widely held in the ancient world that the universe was judged by a college of gods. So it is said that the Psalmists simply made use of the familiar figure of speech.

John uses two different aspects of the same word for "know," γινώσκω - ginōsko, the first, γνῶτε, being punctiliar in aspect, and the second, γινώσκητε - ginōskēte, being linear or continuous in aspect. Later copyists appear to have considered the second ginōsko to be redundant, and either replaced it with "believe," or they omitted any second word entirely. It is easy to sympathize with them, for this earlier reading is hard to interpret. Consult all the English translations, and you will see quite a variety of renderings. The first, punctiliar 'know,' may be thought of as the point that you turn to know, i.e., 'acknowledge or decide or want,' and the second, linear 'know' would be what you do from that point on. The punctiliar form is generally just the unmarked, that is, unremarkable form, and the linear form is the one needing interpreting. The punctiliar in the subjunctive mood here just means that you come to know at some point.

<sup>691</sup> 11:6 Here is the particle μὲν - mèn, supposedly anacoluthic, that is, not following through to its expected conclusion, which in the case of μὲν means without its usual complementary δὲ following. However, I see it as complemented by the word ἔπειτα – épeita at the beginning of verse 7. If this épeita were not complementary to μὲν, then the phrase ἔπειτα μετὰ τοῦτο, "thereupon after this," would be redundant, a

<sup>8</sup>The disciples are saying to him, "The Jews were just now trying to stone you, and you are going back there?"

<sup>9</sup>Jesus answered, "Are there not twelve hours of day? If someone walks around in the day, he does not stumble, because he sees the light of this world. <sup>10</sup>But if someone walks around in the night, he stumbles, because the light is not with him."

<sup>11</sup>He said these things. And after this, he is saying to them, "Our friend Lazarus has fallen asleep, but I am going in order to wake him up."

<sup>12</sup>The disciples therefore said to him, "Lord, if he has fallen asleep, that will help him."
<sup>13</sup>But Jesus had spoken of his death, whereas they thought he was speaking of the repose of sleep.

<sup>14</sup>So then, Jesus said to them plainly, "Lazarus died. <sup>15</sup>And for your sakes I am glad I was not there, so that you may believe. But let us go to him."

<sup>16</sup>Then Thomas, the one called the Twin, said to the rest of the disciples, "Let us go also, and die with him."

"I Am the Resurrection and the Life"

<sup>17</sup>Arriving therefore, Jesus found him already in the tomb four days since. <sup>18</sup>Now Bethany was close to Jerusalem, about fifteen stadia apart,<sup>692</sup> <sup>19</sup>and many of the Jews had come to Martha and Mary, to console them regarding their brother. <sup>20</sup>When therefore Martha heard that Jesus was coming, she went to meet him; but Mary stayed put in the house.<sup>693</sup>

<sup>21</sup>Martha therefore said to Jesus, "Lord, if you had been here, my brother would not have died. <sup>22</sup>Even now, I know that whatever things you ask God for, God will grant you."

<sup>24</sup>Martha says to him, "I know that he will rise again in the resurrection at the last day."

<sup>25</sup>Jesus said to her, "I am the resurrection, and the life. The person who believes in me, even though he dies, will live; <sup>26</sup>and everyone who is living and believes in me, will never die. Do you believe this?"

<sup>27</sup>She says to him, "Yes, Lord. I have come to believe that you are the Christ, the Son of God, the one expected to come into the world."

<sup>28</sup>And having said this she went off, and discreetly invited her sister Mary, as follows, "The Teacher is here, and is asking for you." <sup>29</sup>That one then, when she heard, quickly got up and was coming toward him. <sup>30</sup>(Jesus had not yet come into the village, but was still at the place where Martha had met him.) <sup>31</sup>The Jews therefore who were with Mary in the house and consoling her, when they saw how she quickly got up and went out, they followed her, thinking, "She is going to the tomb, to grieve there."

"pleonasm." But that is not the sense I get. I get the sense that a contrast is meant relative to the timing, in order to confirm the unexpected behavior of Jesus.

<sup>693</sup> 11:20 The Greek literally says, "But Mary was in the house sitting down." This is said to be an idiom, meaning "Mary stayed put in the house." If this is true, then whether she was standing, or pacing, or sitting down, is not the issue. This is similar to how the word for "stand" sometimes means to "stop," or "stay still."

<sup>32</sup>Mary therefore, when she arrived where Jesus was, fell at his feet when she saw him, saying to him, "Lord, if you had been here, my brother would not have died."

<sup>33</sup>Then Jesus, when he saw her weeping, and the Jews who had come with her weeping, he heaved with deep emotion,<sup>694</sup> and churned inside himself. <sup>34</sup>And he said, "Where have you laid him?"

They are saying to him, "Lord, come and see."

<sup>37</sup>But some of them said, "Shouldn't he who opened the eyes of the blind man, also have been able to make it so this man would not have died?"

Jesus Raises Lazarus from the Dead

<sup>38</sup>Then Jesus, again heaving inside himself, arrives at the tomb. And a cave it was, and a stone was there, covering over it. <sup>39</sup>Jesus says, "Take away the stone."

Martha, the sister of the one who was dead, says, "Lord, by now he smells; it is the fourth day."

<sup>40</sup>Jesus says to her, "Did I not tell you, that if you believed, you would see the glory of God?"

<sup>41</sup>They therefore took away the stone.<sup>695</sup> And Jesus lifted his eyes aboveward, and said, "Father, I thank you, that you have heard me. <sup>42</sup>But I already<sup>696</sup> knew that you always hear me; only for the sake of the crowd standing around did I say this, so that they may believe that it was you who sent me."

Jesus says to them, "Untangle him and allow him to go."

---

<sup>694</sup> 11:33 Greek: ἐνεβριμήσατο τῷ πνεύματι - "snorted in his spirit." The verb is ἐμβριμάομαι - embrimáomai, of which there is a relatively small sampling in all of Greek literature. In classical literature it was used a few times for the snorting of horses. Bible occurrences are limited to Daniel 11:30 in some editions of the Septuagint, for "angered;" Matt. 9:30 and Mark 1:43 for "sternly admonish;" and Mark 14:5 for "scold;" and other than those, these two instances here in John 11:33, 38. I can well envision how a scolding or stern warning can be a snorting of sorts. But how do you snort or scold in your spirit? The main lexicons like Lidell & Scott; and Bauer; and the back of the UBS Greek text, say here it means "be deeply moved." Bagster/Moulton says "to be greatly fretted or agitated." As for snorting, humans are known to snort when heaving in crying and at the same time trying to suppress the sobs. Snorts happen. It is significant to me that for the crying that Jesus did in v. 35, John used the verb δακρύω - dakrúō, instead of one of the more usual words for weeping or crying. With δακρύω there is more emphasis on the secretion or exuding of fluid, than on the sound or other considerations like with the other verbs. I get the impression that Jesus was holding his strong emotions in. I notice that Weymouth also, in his translation, rendered this, "curbing the strong emotion of His spirit." Certainly, the simple fact that John twice says the emotion was inside, "in his spirit," and "inside himself," gives this credibility. There is somewhat of a trend in the most recent translations to render this something more pertaining to anger. I do not agree with that. Still, my rendering, "heaved with deep emotion" leaves room for that possibility.

Sanhedrin Decides Jesus Must Die

<sup>45</sup>Many of the Jews therefore, of those who had come to Mary and seen what he did, believed in him. <sup>46</sup>But some of them went to the Pharisees, and told them what things Jesus had done. <sup>47</sup>So the chief priests and the Pharisees assembled a Sanhedrin.

And they were saying, "What are we doing, that this man is performing so many signs? <sup>48</sup>If we leave him alone like this, everyone will believe in him, and the Romans will come, and take away both our place<sup>697</sup> and our nation."

<sup>49</sup>But one of them, Caiaphas, who was high priest that year, said to them, "You people know nothing. <sup>50</sup>Neither are you considering how it is expedient for you that one man<sup>698</sup> die for the people, and not the whole nation perish."

<sup>51</sup>But this, from himself he did not say. But rather, being high priest that year, he prophesied, that Jesus was about to die for the nation. <sup>52</sup>And not for the nation only, but such that the children of God scattered about, he would gather also, into one people.<sup>699</sup>

<sup>53</sup>Thus from that time on they were resolved that they would kill him. <sup>54</sup>Therefore, Jesus no longer walked openly among the Jews, but departed from there to an area next to the desert, to a town called Ephraim, and there he stayed, along with his disciples.<sup>700</sup>

<sup>55</sup>But then the Passover of the Jews was near, and many went up to Jerusalem from out of the country before the Passover, to purify themselves. <sup>56</sup>They were watching for Jesus therefore, and speaking with one another, as they stood in the temple, "How does it seem to you? That he is not coming to the festival at all?" <sup>57</sup>Now the chief priests and the Pharisees had given orders, that if anyone knew where he was, he should report it, so that they might arrest him.

Chapter 12

Jesus Anointed at Bethany

<sup>1</sup>Then, six days before the Passover, Jesus came to Bethany, where Lazarus was, whom Jesus had raised from the dead. <sup>2</sup>So they made a supper for him there, and Martha was serving, and Lazarus was one of those reclining with him. <sup>3</sup>Then Mary, having taken a

<sup>698</sup> 11:50 Greek ἄνθρωπος - ánthrōpos, the primary meaning of which is "human being," such that the primary meaning here is that "one human being in our nation die on behalf of the whole nation." Yet, the goat which was to be sacrificed on behalf of the whole people, to make atonement for the whole nation, to which John is connecting this passage, was to be a goat male of sex, Leviticus 16:5-10, as was also the scapegoat, and the sin offering was a ram, a male sheep. See also Leviticus 9:3, 15. The Passover lamb or kid, also, was to be male in sex, Exodus 12:5. Therefore, it did not seem appropriate to change the traditional reading over to a gender neutral one.

<sup>699</sup> 11:52 Ephesians 3:6; 2:15; John 10:16; I John 2:2; Romans 4:9,12; 11:25,26; Gal. 3:26-29; 6:16; Eph. 2:19,20; Rev. 21:9-14

<sup>700</sup> 11:54 This verse is another indication that the author of this gospel sometimes uses the term "the Jews" as referring to the Judeans, or the inhabitants of Judea and Jerusalem. See the endnote at the end of this document discussing the term "the Jews."

litre<sup>701</sup> of expensive ointment of pure oil of nardroot, anointed the feet of Jesus, and with her hair, she wiped his feet. And the house was filled with the smell of the ointment.

<sup>4</sup>But Judas the Keriothite, one of his disciples, the one about to betray him, says, <sup>5</sup>"Why was this ointment not sold for three hundred denarii<sup>702</sup> and given to the poor?" <sup>6</sup>But he said this not because it mattered to him about the poor, but because he was a thief, and having charge of the moneybag, he would lift from what was put in.

<sup>7</sup>Jesus said therefore, "Leave her alone. It was that she kept it for the day of my burial. <sup>8</sup>For the poor you always have with you, but me, you do not always have."

<sup>9</sup>Then the<sup>703</sup> great crowd of the Jews found out that he was there, and they came, not only because of Jesus, but also that they might see Lazarus, whom he had raised from the dead. <sup>10</sup>So the chief priests resolved that they would kill Lazarus also, <sup>11</sup>for many of the Jews were going out because of him, and then believing in Jesus.

The Triumphal Entry

<sup>12</sup>The next day, the great crowd that had come for the festival, hearing that Jesus is arriving into Jerusalem, <sup>13</sup>took the fronds of palm trees, and went out into a merging with him. And they were crying out:

"Hosha na!" <sup>704</sup>

"Blessed is he who comes in the name of the Lord,<sup>705</sup>
the king of Israel!"

<sup>14</sup>And Jesus, having found a young donkey, took his seat upon it, just as it is written:

<sup>15</sup>"Fear not, O daughter of Zion;
Behold, your king is coming sitting on the foal of a donkey."<sup>706</sup>

<sup>16</sup>These things the disciples did not know at first, but once Jesus was glorified, then they remembered that these things had been written in reference to him, and that these things they had done to him.

<sup>704</sup> 12:13a Ὠσαννά = Aramaic הוֹשִׁיעָה נָא - hōša' nā', similar to the Hebrew הוֹשִׁיעָה נָא - hōšî'āh nā', an expression reminiscent of the הוֹשִׁיעָה נָא in Psalm 118:25 meaning "Help" or "Save, I pray," an appeal that became a liturgical formula, and as part of the Hallel (Ps. 113-118), it was familiar to everyone in Israel. The Septuagint Psalm 117:25 has ὦ Κύριε, σῶσον δὴ - Ō Kúrie, sōson dē, "O Lord, save now!" or "Save indeed!" No doubt some in the crowd accompanying him expected him, as the Messiah ben David, to literally "save now," and deliver them from the Romans and set up the kingdom of David.

<sup>17</sup>The crowd therefore, the one that had been with him when he called Lazarus from the tomb and raised him from the dead, had been bearing witness. <sup>18</sup>Because of this the crowd had come out to join him, that they had understood him to have done this sign. <sup>19</sup>Then the Pharisees said to each other, "Observe, that you are not prevailing at all. Behold, the world has gone after him!"

Jesus Ponders Crucifixion

<sup>20</sup>And among those going up to worship at the festival, were some Greeks. <sup>21</sup>These, then, came up to Philip, he from Bethsaida, Galilee. And they beseeched him, saying, "Sir, we wish to see Jesus." <sup>22</sup>Philip comes and tells Andrew; Andrew and Philip come and tell Jesus.

<sup>23</sup>And Jesus responds to them as follows: "The hour has come, that the Son of Man should be glorified. <sup>24</sup>Truly, truly I say to you, if a kernel of wheat does not fall to the ground and die, it remains only one; but if it dies, it bears much fruit. <sup>25</sup>The person who loves his life loses it, and the one who hates his life in this world will preserve it into eternal life. <sup>26</sup>If someone is serving me, he must follow me; and where I am, there also my servant will be. If someone is serving me, my Father will honor him.

<sup>27</sup>"Now, my soul has become troubled. And what shall I say— 'Father, save me from this hour?' No, for this very thing I have arrived to this hour."

Then a voice came from heaven: "I both have glorified it, and will glorify again." <sup>29</sup>The crowd therefore standing and hearing was maintaining thunder to have happened. Others were saying, "An angel spoke to him."

<sup>30</sup>Jesus answered and said, "Not for my sake has this voice happened, but for you. <sup>31</sup>Now comes judgment of this world. Now the ruler of this world will be thrown out. <sup>32</sup>And I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will attract all mankind to me." <sup>33</sup>Now this he was saying signaling what manner of death he was about to die.

<sup>34</sup>The crowd then responded to him: "We have heard out of the law that the Christ remains for ever, so how is it you are saying that the Son of Man is to be lifted up? Who is this Son of Man?"

<sup>35</sup>Jesus therefore said to them, "The light is among you a little while longer. Walk, while you have the light, so that darkness does not overtake you. For the person walking in darkness does not know where he is going. <sup>36</sup>While you have the light, believe in the light, so that you may be children of light."

Jesus spoke these things, then went away and was hidden from them.

The Authorities Continue in Unbelief

<sup>37</sup>But, though having done so many signs right in front of them, they were not believing in him, <sup>38</sup>so that the word of Isaiah the prophet would be fulfilled, which said,

"Lord, who has believed our report?
And the arm of the Lord,

to whom has it been revealed?"<sup>707</sup>

<sup>39</sup>Because of this they were not able to believe: that again, Isaiah said, <sup>40</sup>"He has blinded their eyes, and he has hardened their hearts, so that they would neither see with their eyes,

nor understand with their hearts,
nor look back around,
such that I would heal them."<sup>708</sup>

<sup>41</sup>(Isaiah said these things, because he saw Jesus' glory, so he spoke about him.)

<sup>42</sup>Even so, many even of the rulers believed in him. But, because of the Pharisees, they were not confessing it, for fear they would be put out of the synagogue. <sup>43</sup>For:

They loved the approval of human beings over and above
the approval of God.<sup>709</sup>

<sup>44</sup>But Jesus cried out, and said, "The person believing in me, is not believing in me but in the one who sent me, <sup>45</sup>and the one looking upon me, is looking upon the one who sent me. <sup>46</sup>I have come into the world as a light, so that everyone believing in me may not abide in darkness.

<sup>47</sup>"And if someone hears my sayings and does not keep them,<sup>710</sup> I do not judge him. For I did not come in order to judge the world, but to save the world. <sup>48</sup>The person rejecting me and not believing my statements, has what judges him: the word which I spoke, that will judge him at the last day. <sup>49</sup>For I from myself have not spoken; rather, the Father who sent me, he has given me commandment, what I should say, and how I should speak. <sup>50</sup>And I know, that his commandment means eternal life. Therefore, what things I speak, just as the Father has said them to me, I speak them just so."

We have several variants here: If anyone hears my words and does not keep them, hears my words and does keep them, hears my words and does not believe, hears my words and does believe, does not hear my words and does believe(!). It appears to me that the φυλάξῃ was changed on purpose or accidentally, to πιστεύσῃ in order to make it agree with the subsequent verse, "the person rejecting me and not believing my statements..." On the other hand, perhaps this passage was harmonized to Luke 11:28. Wieland Willker says, 'πιστεύσῃ has very probably been inserted as a conformation to the previous mentioning of ὁ πιστεύων in verses 44 and 46 (so also Weiss). With λόγος John uses τηρέω, which is not used here. ῥήμα and πιστεύω are used twice together (5:47 and 17:8). φυλασσω is used with ψυχή once in the previous context (12:25). It also appears in the Lukan "parallel."

Chapter 13

The Passover Supper

<sup>1</sup>And before the Festival of Passover, Jesus, aware that the hour had come for him to pass on from this world to the Father, and having loved those of his own in the world, loved them to the end. <sup>2</sup>And supper having started, with the devil having already put it in the heart of Judas son of Simon of Kerioth to betray him, <sup>3</sup>and aware that the Father had given all things into his hands, and that he had come forth from God and to God he was going, <sup>4</sup>Jesus rises from the supper and lays down his clothing, and taking a towel, he fastened it around himself. <sup>5</sup>Then, he is putting water into a basin. And he began to wash the feet of the disciples, and to wipe them off with the towel in which he was girded.

<sup>6</sup>Thus he comes to Simon Peter. Who says to him, "Lord, You are washing my feet?"

<sup>7</sup>Jesus answered, and said to him, "What I am doing, you do not know yet, but after these things, you will know."

<sup>8</sup>Peter says to him, "No way will you ever wash my feet."

Jesus answered him, "Unless I wash you, you have no place with me."

<sup>9</sup>Simon Peter says to him, "Lord. Not just my feet, but my hands and my head as well."

<sup>10</sup>Jesus says to him, "One who is bathed has no need, except for the feet, to wash, but is clean on the whole. And you men are clean; though not all of you." <sup>11</sup>For he already knew of the one betraying him; for this reason he said, "Not all of you are clean."

<sup>12</sup>When therefore he had washed their feet and taken his clothes and reclined again, he said to them, "Do you know what I have done for you? <sup>13</sup>You call me 'Teacher' and 'Lord,' and rightly you say so, for I am. <sup>14</sup>If therefore I, the Lord and the Teacher, have washed your feet, you also ought to wash the feet of one another. <sup>15</sup>For I have given an example for you, so that just as I have done, you also might do. <sup>16</sup>Truly, truly I say to you: A servant is not greater than his lord, neither an emissary greater than the one who sent him. <sup>17</sup>Since these things you are knowing, blessed are you if you do them.

<sup>18</sup>"I am not speaking about all of you; I know whom I have chosen; but, so that the scripture is fulfilled, 'Someone eating my bread has lifted up his heel against me.'<sup>711</sup>

<sup>19</sup>"Yes indeed:<sup>712</sup> I am telling you before it happens, so that when it happens, you may believe who I am.<sup>713</sup> <sup>20</sup>Truly, truly I say to you, The person who accepts whomever I send, is accepting me; and the person who accepts me, is accepting the One who sent me."

<sup>712</sup> 13:19a Greek: ἀπάρτι - aparti. Most Greek NT editions (TR HF RP NA27) have ἀπ' ἄρτι – ap' arti, which if it were two separate words, would mean, "from now." (The original Greek manuscripts were all-capital letters, and there were no punctuation marks or spaces, so APARTI could be understood as either one word APARTI, or AP' ARTI, a contraction for APO ARTI.) If however as DeBrunner says, it was originally one word, "ἀπάρτι," before the diacritics and spaces were added, then it could mean something similar to "amen." Or, it could also mean adverbially, "exactly," as in "I am telling you exactly before it happens, so that..." As for the rendering, "from now on," this would seem a strange juncture at which to say that, since Judas was only a few hours away from doing it. How many times "from now on" in the next hour or so was he going to predict it? The awkwardness of this "from now on" idea is reflected by the various translations' attempts to get around it. Some (Weymouth, JB Philips, CB Williams, Beck) got around the problem of predicting the one event "from now on," by pluralizing and generalizing it, i.e., "from now on I will tell you

<sup>21</sup>When he had said these things, Jesus was disturbed in his spirit, and he testified, and he said, "Truly, truly I say to you: One of you will betray me."

<sup>26</sup>Jesus replied, "It is that one for whom I shall dip and give the piece of bread." After dipping the piece of bread therefore, he takes it and gives it to Judas, the son of Simon of Kerioth.

<sup>27</sup>And after the bread transaction, at that time Satan entered into that one. Then Jesus says to him, "What you are doing, do quickly."

<sup>28</sup>But none of those reclining knew why he said this to him. <sup>29</sup>For some thought that since Judas was in charge of the money bag, Jesus was telling him, "Buy things we need for the festival," or, that he should give something to the poor. <sup>30</sup>When therefore that one had taken the piece of bread, he immediately went out. And it was night.

Where Is Jesus Going?

<sup>31</sup>Then after he had gone out, Jesus says, "Now is the Son of Man glorified, and in him God is glorified. <sup>32</sup>If God is glorified in him,<sup>715</sup> God will also glorify the Son in himself, and glorify him at once.

<sup>33</sup>"Children, I am with you only a little while longer. You will seek me, and just as I said to the Jews, I now say to you also: 'Where I am going, you are not able to come.'

<sup>34</sup>"A new commandment I give to you, that you love one another. Just as I have loved you, so you also should love one another. <sup>35</sup>By this will everyone know that you are my disciples: if you have love among one another."

Jesus replied, "Where I am going, you are not able to follow now, but you will follow later."

<sup>37</sup>Peter says to him, "Why am I not able to follow you now? I will lay down my life for you."

things ahead of time, so that when they happen..." Others (KJV, NKJV, Darby, RSV, ESV, JB, NIV, NLT, JNT, REB, NRSV) coped with it by dropping out the "from" of ἀπό altogether. These rendered it something like, "I am telling you now before it happens..." And thirdly, there are the translations (Young's, ASV, Recovery, NASB, NAB) that left it, "from now on," and also singular as the Greek says, awkward as it may be. See also Rev. 14:13, where DeBrunner says it was originally one word, ἀπαρτί, and it would make sense that ναί (yes) was added by later copyists as a replacement for the same idea.

<sup>713</sup> 13:19b Or, "you may believe that I am he," or, "may believe that I AM," or, "may believe that I am who I am."

<sup>714</sup> 13:24 Other manuscripts (B C L X 068) read: Simon Peter therefore nods to this one, and says to him, "Say who it is." Codex Sinaiticus has a longer variation of the latter.

Otherwise, would I have told you that I am going to prepare a place for you?<sup>716</sup> <sup>3</sup>And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come back and take you in with myself, so that where I am, there you may be also. <sup>4</sup>And where I am going, you know the way."

<sup>5</sup>Thomas says to him, "Lord, we don't know where you are going— how is it we know the way?"

<sup>6</sup>Jesus says to him, "I am the way, and the truth and the life. No one comes to the Father except through me. <sup>7</sup>If you have come to know me, you will come to know my Father as well; indeed, from now on you know him, and have seen him."

<sup>8</sup>Philip says to him, "Lord, show us the Father, and that will satisfy us."

<sup>9</sup>Jesus says to him, "All this time I have been with you, and you have not come to know me, Philip? The person who has seen me has seen the Father; how is it you say, 'Show us the Father'? <sup>10</sup>Do you not believe that I am in the Father and the Father is in me? The statements which I say to you I do not speak from myself, but the Father abiding in me is doing his works.<sup>717</sup> <sup>11</sup>Believe me that I am in the Father and the Father is in me. But if not, believe because of those works. <sup>12</sup>The person who believes in me, truly, truly I say to you, the works that I do, that one also shall do, and even greater than these shall do, because I am going to the Father. <sup>13</sup>Indeed, whatever you shall request in my name, this I will do, so that the Father may be glorified in the Son. <sup>14</sup>If you ask me<sup>718</sup> for something in my name, I will do it.

"I Am the Vine, You Are the Branches"

<sup>1</sup>"I am the true vine, and my Father is the farmer. <sup>2</sup>Every branch in me bearing no fruit, he removes, and every branch bearing the fruit, he cleans, so it may bear more fruit. <sup>3</sup>You are now clean, because of the word which I have spoken to you. <sup>4</sup>Abide in me, and I in you. Just as the branch is not able to bear fruit from itself, unless it abides in the vine, in the same way neither are you, unless you abide in me.

<sup>5</sup>"I am the vine; you are the branches. The one who abides in me and I in him, this one bears much fruit, for without me you can produce nothing. <sup>6</sup>If someone does not abide in me, he is thrown aside like the branch that<sup>721</sup> is withered; they gather such and put them

<sup>721</sup> 15:6 Greek: καί, as substitute for ὅτι - hótī, "that." A colloquialism drawn from Hebrew. As for "the branch," the article must be anaphoric, referring back to something either previously mentioned or that is in the fire; and it is burned. <sup>7</sup>If you abide in me, and my sayings abide in you, ask whatever you will, and it will happen for you. <sup>8</sup>In this my Father is glorified, that you bear much fruit, and show to be my disciples.<sup>722</sup>

<sup>9</sup>"Just as the Father has loved me, I also have loved you; abide ye in my love. <sup>10</sup>If you keep my commandments, you are abiding in my love, just as I have kept my Father's commandments and am abiding in his love. <sup>11</sup>These things I have spoken to you, so that my joy may be in you, and that your joy may be full. <sup>12</sup>This is my commandment: that you love one another, as I have loved you. <sup>13</sup>Greater love has no one than this: that one lay down one's life for one's friends. <sup>14</sup>You are my friends, if you practice the things I am commanding you. <sup>15</sup>No longer do I call you servants, for the servant does not know what his lord is doing. But you I have called friends, because all things that I have heard from my Father, I have made known to you. <sup>16</sup>You have not chosen me, but I have chosen you, and appointed you, that you go and bear fruit, and that your fruit might abide, so that whatever you ask the Father in my name, it may be granted to you. <sup>17</sup>These instructions I am giving you, so that you will love one another.<sup>723</sup> otherwise familiar to the reader. It is said that vine growers when they pruned would hang the trimmings aside and dry them, for later use as fuel in their fires. Another reference of the anaphoric article could be to the principle as in Isaiah 56:3, where the eunuch says, "I am only a dry tree." For "dry" is an antonym of "fruitful." Contrast this to Psalm 1:3, where a tree with plenty of water produces fruit in season, and its leaves do not wither. The anaphoric article could also be referring back to John 15:2, to "the unfruitful branch." (Psalm 80:15-16 as well.) The dry branch became dry in the first place because it did not abide in the vine. At the same time, one could gather from this that the branch dried up AFTER it was pruned off. The simple language of John can lead you in many directions, and this may be intentional on the part of God. Whether a branch can be "on the vine" and yet not be "abiding in the vine" is the question. This does seem to be the case here. For every branch starts out "on the vine," but Jesus says that some are cut off for the very fact that they are unfruitful. Certainly, in nature a branch can still be connected, and yet be unfruitful or wither, if something has interrupted the flow of the sap from the trunk, or if something has diseased only that branch. Now, changing the subject, there are difficulties here with lack of agreement as to number. In the Greek, the word "branch" is singular, and so is the verb "it is burned." On the other hand, in the phrase "they gather αὐτὰ," the topic is neuter plural, which can take a singular verb. But I translated αὐτὰ as "such" because I insist the topic is still generally "the" unfruitful branch of 15:2. By the way, FYI, in the phrase "that is dry," the aorist is a "gnomic" aorist. So also in the phrase, "he is thrown aside." A gnomic aorist expresses an action that is valid for all time; either because it fills the void left by the non-existent perfective present, or because the author had some real example in mind when he is telling a parable narrative. And we do have a mini parable here. See also Ps. 80:15-16; Ez. 15:4-6; Matt. 3:10.

<sup>722</sup> 15:8 Compare the parable of the wheat and the tares, Matt. 13:26, Diatessaron 11:27, where the species of plant was not evident until they bore fruit. Until the seed heads appeared, the wheat and zizania plants looked exactly alike.

<sup>723</sup> 15:17 The subjunctive mood is so often interchangeable with the imperative and future, and the subjunctive also took the place of the optative mood. This subjunctive here could be an optative meaning, an attainable wish on Jesus' part. It would be sad if we only got a picture of Jesus issuing commands, and miss the pathos of Jesus' heart, that he yearns to see us loving one another.

me, they will persecute you also. If they took my word to heart, they will take yours to heart also. <sup>21</sup>But all these things they will do against you because of my name, for they do not know the One who sent me. <sup>22</sup>If I had not come and spoken to them, they would have no sin; but now, they have no excuse for their sin. <sup>23</sup>One who hates me also hates my Father. <sup>24</sup>If I had not done works among them which no one else has done, they would have no sin; but now they have both seen and hated both me and my Father. <sup>25</sup>But so that the word written about them in the law might be fulfilled, 'They hated me without a cause.'<sup>725</sup>

<sup>1</sup>"These things I have spoken to you so that you may not fall away. <sup>2</sup>They will cause you to be put out of the synagogue; but an hour is coming such that everyone who kills you will reckon to be offering up religious service to God. <sup>3</sup>And these things they will do, because they have not known the Father, neither me. <sup>4</sup>But these things I have spoken to you, so that when the hour of them comes, you might remember them, that I told you.

The Holy Spirit Will Finish My Work

"And I have not told you these things from the beginning, because I was with you. <sup>5</sup>But now, I am going to the one who sent me, and none of you is asking me, 'Where are you going?' <sup>6</sup>Instead, because I have spoken these things to you, sorrow has filled your heart. <sup>7</sup>But I am telling you the truth: it works out better for you that I go away, for if I were not to go away, the Counselor would not come to you. Whereas if I go, I will send him to you. <sup>8</sup>And when he has come, that one will refute<sup>726</sup> the world concerning sin, and concerning righteousness, and concerning judgment; <sup>9</sup>concerning sin, because they do not believe in me; <sup>10</sup>concerning righteousness, because I am going to the Father and you will be observing me no longer; <sup>11</sup>and concerning judgment, because the ruler of this world has been judged.

<sup>726</sup> 16:8 It is hard to choose an English word to render the Greek word here, ἐλέγχω. For example, if you chose the word "convict," it sounds odd that the Holy Spirit convict the world of righteousness. Our word "convict" we use only when convincing someone regarding something bad; but the Greek word has a bigger semantic range. But "convince" is not wide enough in range either, because "ἐλέγχω" means more than that; it means to convince someone they are wrong about something. But no matter which word you chose, it is necessary to add various helper words at various places, since one English word is not enough. I suggest you look up all verses that use ἐλέγχω and then you will have a more complete sense of what it means.

<sup>16</sup>"A little while, and you will be observing me no longer; and another little while, and you will see me."

The Disciples' Pain Will Be Turned to Joy

<sup>17</sup>Then some of his disciples said to one another, "What is this that he is saying to us, 'A little while, and you will not be observing me; and another little while, and you will see me'? And, 'because I am going to the Father'?" <sup>18</sup>They kept saying therefore, "What is this 'little while'? <sup>728</sup> We don't know what he is saying."

<sup>19</sup>Jesus knew that they were wanting to query him, and he said to them, "Is it this you are deliberating among yourselves about, that I said, 'A little while and you will not be observing me, and another little while and you will see me'? <sup>20</sup>Truly, truly I say to you, You will weep and lament, and the world will be cheered. You will be in pain. But your pain will be turned into joy. <sup>21</sup>In the case of the woman about to give birth, she has pain, because for her the hour has come. But when she has delivered the child, no longer is she mindful of the distress, because of the joy that a human being is brought forth into the world. <sup>22</sup>Thus you also, now you do have pain; but I will see you again, and your hearts will be cheered, and your joy, no one is taking away from you. <sup>23</sup>And in that day you will not query me at all. Truly, truly I say to you, whatever you will ask the Father in my name, he will grant it to you. <sup>24</sup>Up to now you have not asked anything in my name; ask, and you will receive, so that your joy may be full.

<sup>25</sup>"These things I have spoken to you in allegories; an hour is coming when I will no longer speak to you in allegories, but I will tell you about the Father plainly. <sup>26</sup>In that day you will make requests in my name, and I am not saying to you that I will make request of the Father on your behalf. <sup>27</sup>For the Father himself likes you, because you have liked me, and have believed that I came forth from God. <sup>28</sup>I went forth from the Father and have come into the world; I am taking leave of the world, and going my way back to the Father."

<sup>29</sup>His disciples are saying, "There, now you are talking with clarity and not speaking any allegory. <sup>30</sup>Now we know that you know all, and with you there is no need that someone query you. By this we believe that you have come forth from God."

IN the vine." On the other hand, "ἐν" is sometimes used with verbs of motion and direction, with the dative, where εἰς with the accusative would be expected, and still indicating motion in a direction. Yet the main verb here, "ὁδονεω", itself contains the root word for "way or path or road," ὁδός, and with ἐν could mean simply "he will conduct you along the road of truth." For He is "the Spirit of Truth," and his road is "the Way of Truth." So that translation is viable, as are also, "lead you into all truth," and "guide you through all truth," or "guide you with all truth."

<sup>33</sup>"These things I have spoken to you, that in me you may have peace. In the world you do have tribulation; but be of good cheer: I have overcome the world."

Chapter 17

Jesus Prays for Himself

<sup>1</sup>Jesus spoke these things, and when he had lifted up his eyes to heaven, he said:

"Father, the hour has come; glorify your Son, so that the Son may glorify you; <sup>2</sup>inasmuch as to him you have granted jurisdiction of all flesh, so that to all flesh that<sup>729</sup> you have given him, he may grant eternal life. <sup>3</sup>And this is eternal life: to know you, the only true God, and the one whom you have sent, Jesus Christ. <sup>4</sup>I have glorified you upon the earth, having finished the work which you have given me to do. <sup>5</sup>And now, Father, glorify thou me, along with yourself, with the glory which I used to have along with you, before the existence of the world.

Jesus Prays for His Disciples

<sup>6</sup>"I have made known your name to the humans of the world that you have given to me. They had been yours, and you gave them to me, and they have taken your word to heart. <sup>7</sup>Now they are persuaded that all the things you have given to me are indeed from you; <sup>8</sup>for the sayings which you gave to me I have given to them, and they accepted and knew for sure that I came forth from you, and they believed that you had sent me. <sup>9</sup>I am making request concerning them; not concerning the world am I making request, but only concerning those whom you have given to me. For they are yours; <sup>10</sup>indeed everything of mine is yours, and of yours is mine. And I am glorified in them; <sup>11</sup>yes, no longer am I to be in the world, yet they are in the world, and I am coming to you. O holy Father, keep them in your name, that flesh that<sup>730</sup> you have given to me, so that they may be one, just as we are one. <sup>12</sup>While I was with them,<sup>731</sup> I kept them in your name, that flesh that<sup>732</sup> you have given to me, and I stood guard, and not one of them met destruction, except the Son of Destruction,<sup>733</sup> so that the scripture may be brought to completion.

<sup>730</sup> 17:11 This is not referring to "your name," but to those the Father has given him; see John 18:9. See the footnote on 6:39.

<sup>733</sup> 17:12c ὁ υἱὸς τῆς ἀπωλείας – ho huios tēs apōleias. Jesus is referring to Judas Iscariot. The appellation "Son of Destruction" is full of meaning. Destruction personified is "Ἀπολλύων," Apollyon, another name for the Destroyer demon, who is king over the demons in Abaddon, or the Abyss, Revelation 9:11. The word "son" here means both one who is like his father, and one who is "heir" of his father's station. See as another example of this use of "son," the "sons of the kingdom" or "heirs of the kingdom," in Matthew 8:12;

<sup>13</sup>"But now I am coming to you, and I am speaking these things in the world, so that they may have in them my joy brought to completion. <sup>14</sup>I have given them your word, and the world has hated them, because they are not of the world, just as I am not of the world. <sup>15</sup>I am not asking that you take them out of the world, but that you keep them from the evil one. <sup>16</sup>They are not of the world, just as I am not of the world. <sup>17</sup>Sanctify<sup>734</sup> them in the truth; your word is truth. <sup>18</sup>Just as you sent me into the world, I also have sent them into the world. <sup>19</sup>And on their behalf I sanctify myself, so that they also may be ones sanctified in truth.

Jesus Prays for All Believers

<sup>20</sup>"And not concerning these only am I making request, but also concerning the ones who through their word believe in me, <sup>21</sup>that they all may be one. Just as you, Father, are in me and I in you, so let them also be in us, so that the world might believe that you sent me. <sup>22</sup>The glory which you have given to me, I also have given to them, so that they may be one, just as we are one: <sup>23</sup>I in them, and you in me, so that they may become fully developed into one,<sup>735</sup> that the world may know that you sent me, and that you have loved them just as you loved me.

<sup>24</sup>"O Father, that flesh that<sup>736</sup> you have given to me, I desire that where I am, they might also be along with me, so that they may behold that glory of mine, which you have given to me, for you loved me before the foundation of the world.

<sup>25</sup>"O righteous Father, indeed the world has not known you, but I have known you, and these have known that you sent me. <sup>26</sup>And I have made known to them your name, and will do so in the future, so that the love with which you have loved me might always be in them, and I also in them."

Chapter 18

Gethsemane

<sup>1</sup>After he said these things, Jesus went forth with his disciples to the other side of the wadi Kidron, where there was a garden, into which he himself went, and also his disciples. <sup>2</sup>And Judas, the one betraying him, knew the place, because Jesus had often met there with his disciples.

---

Diatessaron 10:21. Another thing one must take note of is that the Antichrist is also called the Son of Destruction, in 2 Thessalonians 2:3. Certainly, two things that Judas and the Antichrist have in common are, One, that Satan dwelt in their hearts, and Two, that scripture long ago predicted their destiny and their inheritance, to be in that place that God has reserved for the eternal destruction of such as they.

<sup>734</sup> 17:17 ἁγιάζω - hagiázō; dedicate or set something apart for God's holy purposes.

<sup>735</sup> 17:23 This is the way the apostle Paul understood it; see Ephesians 4:11-16. Paul says that God gave the apostles and other offices so that someday the believers will be fully developed into one, in unity with God and with one another. Apparently, neither Jesus nor Paul expected such oneness to occur in his own lifetime. Just as with the individual new birth, maturity is a process and not instantaneous at birth, so also it is with the corporate man, that maturity is a process, and not instantaneous at its creation. But, if you believe that Jesus was asking that this unity take place at once, then surely you must admit that Jesus' prayer has gone ungranted, up to and including this present day.

Jesus Arrested

<sup>3</sup>Judas therefore, after taking the cohort<sup>737</sup> and some guards, from the high priests and from the Pharisees, comes there, with lamps and torches and weapons. <sup>4</sup>Then, aware of all the things coming upon him, Jesus went forward, and he says to them, "Whom are you seeking?"

<sup>5</sup>They answered him, "Jesus the Nazarene."

He says to them, "I am he."

And Judas the one betraying him is also standing there with them. <sup>6</sup>When therefore he said, "I am he," they moved away backward, and fell to the ground. <sup>7</sup>Again therefore, he asked them, "Whom are you seeking?"

And they said, "Jesus the Nazarene."

<sup>8</sup>Jesus answered, "I told you that I am he. If therefore it is me you are seeking, allow these to go their way." <sup>9</sup>In order that the word which he had said would be fulfilled: "Of those you have given me, I have not lost even one."

<sup>10</sup>Then Simon Peter, having a sword, drew it and struck the servant of the high priest, and cut off his right ear. And the name of the servant was Malchus. <sup>11</sup>Jesus therefore said to Peter, "Put the sword in the sheath. The cup which the Father has given me, am I not to drink it?"

Jesus Taken to Hananiah

<sup>12</sup>Then the cohort and its chiliarch and the guards from the Jews took Jesus prisoner and bound him, <sup>13</sup>and they led him to Hananiah first, for he was father-in-law of Caiaphas, who was high priest for that year. <sup>14</sup>And Caiaphas was the one having advised the Jews that it was expedient that one man die instead of the people.

Peter's First Denial

<sup>15</sup>And Simon Peter was following Jesus, along with another disciple. And that other disciple was known to the high priest, and he entered with Jesus into the courtyard of the high priest, <sup>16</sup>but Peter had stopped outside, at the door. The other disciple therefore, who was known to the high priest, went out and spoke to the doorman, and brought Peter in. <sup>17</sup>Then the maidservant, the doorkeeper, says to Peter, "You are not also one of this man's disciples, are you?"

He says, "No I am not."

<sup>18</sup>And the servants and the guards stood by a fire they had made, for it was cold, and they were warming themselves. So Peter also was with them, standing and warming himself.

---

<sup>737</sup> 18:3 A cohort, if a complete one including reserves, was a thousand soldiers, (one tenth of a legion) commanded by ten centurions, who commanded a hundred men each. The number here was probably the lesser, about 600 soldiers, but could have been up to 1,000.

The High Priest Questions Jesus

<sup>19</sup>The high priest, then, questioned Jesus, about his disciples and about his teaching.

<sup>20</sup>Jesus answered him, "I have spoken openly to the world. I always taught in a synagogue or in the temple, where all the Jews come together. <sup>21</sup>Why ask me? Ask the ones who have heard what I spoke to them. You see, they know what things I said."

<sup>22</sup>As he was saying these things, one of the guards standing by gave Jesus a whack, saying, "Is that how you answer the high priest?"

<sup>23</sup>Jesus answered him, "If I spoke wrongly, testify to the wrong; but if acceptably, why are you hitting me?" <sup>24</sup>(Now Hannaniah had sent him to Caiaphas the high priest bound.)

Peter's Second and Third Denials

<sup>25</sup>And Peter was standing and warming himself. They said therefore to him, "Are you not also one of his disciples?"

He denied it and said, "No I am not."

<sup>26</sup>One of the servants of the high priest, who was a relative of him whose ear Peter had cut off, says, "Did I not see you with him in the garden?" <sup>27</sup>Again therefore, Peter denied it, and immediately a rooster crowed.

Jesus Before Pilate and Herod

<sup>28</sup>They then are leading Jesus away from Caiaphas toward the Praetorium; and it was very early. And they entered not into the Praetorium, so that they would not be defiled but rather might eat the Passover. <sup>29</sup>So Pilate came outside to them. And he says, "This man? You are bringing what kind of charge against him?"

<sup>30</sup>They answered, and said to him, "If he were not doing wrong, we would not have brought him over to you."

<sup>31</sup>Pilate therefore said to them, "You take him, and you judge him according to your law."

The Jews said to him, "For us it is not lawful to execute anyone." <sup>32</sup>So the word of Jesus would be fulfilled, which he had spoken indicating by what means of death he was going to die.

<sup>33</sup>So Pilate went back into the Praetorium, and summoned Jesus, and he said to him, "You are the king of the Jews?"

<sup>34</sup>Jesus answered, "From yourself are you saying this, or have others spoken to you about me?"

<sup>35</sup>Pilate answered, "Am I a Jew? It was your people and your chief priests who handed you over to me. What have you done?"

<sup>36</sup>Jesus answered, "My kingdom is not of this world. If my kingdom were of this world, my servants would have fought so that I not be handed over to the Jews. But in fact<sup>738</sup> my kingship is not from here."

---

<sup>738</sup> 18:36 The Greek words for "but in fact" are vûn δὲ, "but now." Usually the particle "vûn" is an indicator of present time. But sometimes it is a transitional or contrastive particle. Another possible translation of this here would be, "But at the present time, my kingship is not from this place." But would this make any

<sup>37</sup>Pilate therefore said to him, "So then you ARE a king."

Jesus answered, "You are saying that I am a king; I, for this reason have been born, and for this reason have come into the world: to testify to the truth. Everyone on the side of truth hears my voice."

<sup>38</sup>Pilate says to him, "What is truth?" And with that said, he went out again to the Jews, and says to them, "I find in him no causa capitalis.<sup>739</sup> <sup>39</sup>But there is a custom with you that I release to you one prisoner during the Passover. Would you therefore have me release to you the king of the Jews?"

<sup>40</sup>They then shouted back, saying, "Not this man, but Barabbas!" Now Barabbas was a bandit.

Chapter 19

<sup>1</sup>At that time therefore, Pilate took Jesus and scourged him. <sup>2</sup>And the soldiers, after weaving a wreath of thorns, set it on his head, and threw a purple robe around him. <sup>3</sup>Then they were approaching him and saying, "Hail, O king of the Jews," and giving him slaps in the face.

<sup>4</sup>And Pilate went outside again, and says to them, "Look, I am bringing him out to you, so that you will know that I find no causa capitalis in him." <sup>5</sup>Jesus came outside therefore, wearing the crown of thorns and the purple robe. And Pilate says to them, "Behold the man."

<sup>6</sup>When therefore the chief priests and their officers saw him, they shouted out, saying, "Crucify! Crucify!"

Pilate says to them, "You take him yourselves and crucify him. As for me, I do not find causa capitalis in him.

<sup>7</sup>The Jews answered him, "We have a law, and according to that law, he deserves to die because he called himself the son of God."

<sup>8</sup>When therefore Pilate heard this information, he was more afraid, <sup>9</sup>and he entered the Praetorium again, and says to Jesus, "Where are you from?" But Jesus did not give him an answer.

<sup>10</sup>Pilate then says to him, "To me you are not speaking? Do you not know, that I have authority to free you, and I have authority to crucify you?"

<sup>11</sup>Jesus answered, "You would have no authority over me if it had not been given you from above. Because of this, the one who handed me over to you has the greater guilt."

<sup>12</sup>From this point on Pilate tried to free him; but the Jews shouted out, saying, "If you release this man, you are no friend of Caesar! Everyone calling himself a king is opposing Caesar."

<sup>13</sup>When therefore Pilate heard these words, he brought Jesus outside, and he sat down on the judgment seat, at a place called The Pavement, but in Hebrew called Gabbatha.

<sup>14</sup>And it was Preparation for the Passover, about 6:00 am. And he says to the Jews, "Behold, your king."

difference theologically? It would not change the fact that at the time Jesus is saying it, his kingship was not from this place. Unless the fact is that Jesus' kingdom never will, at any time, be "from here." Will humans from here anoint him king in the future? Or is his kingship in fact granted to him from heaven?

<sup>739</sup> 18:38 Basis for capital punishment.

Pilate says to them, "Shall I crucify your king?"

The chief priests responded, "We have no king but Caesar."

<sup>16</sup>At that time therefore he handed him over to them, to be crucified.

The Crucifixion

They took Jesus therefore.<sup>740</sup> <sup>17</sup>And carrying the cross by himself, he proceeded forth, to what is called the Skull Place, which in Hebrew is pronounced Golgotha, <sup>18</sup>where they crucified him, and with him, two others, one on this side and one on the other, and Jesus in the middle. <sup>19</sup>And Pilate also wrote a notice and put it on the cross, and it was inscribed: "JESUS THE NAZARENE, THE KING OF THE JEWS." <sup>20</sup>Many of the Jews therefore read this notice, because the place where Jesus was crucified was close to the city, and it was written in Hebrew, in Latin, and in Greek.

<sup>21</sup>The chief priests of the Jews therefore were saying to Pilate, "Do not write 'The King of the Jews,' but rather: 'He SAID, I am King of the Jews.'"

<sup>23</sup>The soldiers then, when they crucified Jesus, took his garments and made four shares, a share for each soldier, plus the tunic. For the tunic was seamless, woven continuously from the top through the whole. <sup>24</sup>They said therefore to one another, "We should not tear it, but cast lots as to whose it shall be." So that the scripture would be fulfilled,

"They divided my garments
among them;
and cast lots
over my clothing,"<sup>741</sup>

those things therefore the soldiers did.

<sup>25</sup>And near the cross of Jesus stood his mother, and his mother's sister; and the Mary belonging to Clopas, and the Magdalene Mary. <sup>26</sup>Jesus therefore, seeing his mother and the disciple whom he loved standing near, says to his mother, "Dear woman, behold your son."

<sup>27</sup>Then he says to the disciple, "Behold, your mother." And from that time on, that disciple took her into his own home.

Jesus' Death

<sup>28</sup>Jesus, knowing that after these things, all things were now completed, next says, "I am thirsty," so that the scripture would be fulfilled.<sup>742</sup> <sup>29</sup>A container full of vinegar<sup>743</sup> was sitting there, so after sticking a sponge full of the vinegar around a hyssop stem, they held it out to his mouth. <sup>30</sup>When therefore he had received the vinegar, Jesus said, "It is finished." And after he bowed his head, he gave up his spirit.

"Not a bone of it shall be broken."<sup>747</sup>

<sup>37</sup>And again, another scripture says:

"They shall look upon him whom they have pierced."<sup>748</sup>

Jesus' Burial

<sup>38</sup>And after these things, Joseph from Arimathea, who was a disciple of Jesus, but secretly because of the fear of the Jews, made request of Pilate that he might take the body of Jesus; and Pilate consented. He went therefore, and took his body. <sup>39</sup>And Nicodemus, the one who earlier had come to Him by night, came as well, carrying a mixture of myrrh

(There is no word "day" in the Greek here.) "Preparation Day" does not mean the 24 hours leading up to the evening that starts the Sabbath. Instead it means simply "Friday."

<sup>745</sup> 19:31b Or, "That day of sabbath was higher." Sabbath days at the beginning of a festival week were higher Sabbaths. The Saturday of Passover week was called the Great Sabbath. ## Chapter 20

The Empty Tomb

<sup>1</sup>And on the first day of the week, very early while still dark, Mary the Magdalene is coming to the tomb; and she sees the stone having been removed from the tomb. <sup>2</sup>She runs therefore, and goes to Simon Peter and to the other disciple, the one whom Jesus loved, and she says to them, "They have taken the Lord out of the tomb, and we<sup>750</sup> don't know where they have put him."

<sup>3</sup>Peter therefore went out, and the other disciple also, and they were going toward the tomb. <sup>4</sup>And the two were running together; and the other disciple ran faster ahead, and came to the tomb first. <sup>5</sup>And after stooping down, he sees the linen cloths lying there. He did not enter inside, however. <sup>6</sup>Then comes Simon Peter also, following behind him. And he entered into the tomb, and he observes the linen cloths lying there, <sup>7</sup>and also the sweat cloth which used to be on his head, except not lying with the linen cloths, but folded up in one place apart. <sup>8</sup>Then at that time the other disciple entered, the one who had arrived to the tomb first; and he saw and believed.<sup>751</sup> <sup>9</sup>For they did not yet understand the scripture that he had to rise from the dead.

Jesus Appears to Mary of Magdala

<sup>10</sup>The disciples then went back to their own homes. <sup>11</sup>But Mary stayed with the tomb, and there she stands, outside, weeping. <sup>12</sup>As she thus was weeping, she stooped down into the tomb, and she beholds two angels in white, one sitting at the head and one sitting at the foot of where the body of Jesus had been lying.

<sup>13</sup>And they say to her, "Woman, why are you weeping?"

She says to them, "They have taken my Lord away, and I don't know where they have put him."

<sup>749</sup> 19:39 Greek, "a hundred litras," a loan-word from the Latin, libra. The libra was the Roman pound, which was comprised of 12 ounces, so when translated to 16-ounce pounds, it comes to about 75 pounds, or 34 kilograms.

<sup>750</sup> 20:2 Some people make much of the fact that John mentions only Mary the Magdalene by name, as if she were the only woman who went to the tomb, as a contradiction of the other gospels, like the gospel of Mark, which names three women. But this view reflects a very shallow, careless, and probably prejudiced reading of John. For here in John, Mary the Magdalene says "We" don't know where they have put him, indicating that she was not alone. And so also, most other so-called contradictions between the four gospels may be resolved by those truly wanting to know the truth, and not coming to it with prejudice.

<sup>751</sup> 20:8 Believed what? Not that Jesus had risen from the dead. We know they did not believe he was risen from the dead, because later when the women came to them and told them they had seen Jesus walking around, none of the eleven apostles believed the women. Here it is saying that John believed Mary's report that the body of Jesus was missing.

<sup>14</sup>When she had said these things, she looked toward the rear, and beholds Jesus having been standing; and she did not realize that it was Jesus.

<sup>15</sup>Jesus says to her, "Woman, why are you weeping? Who are you looking for?"

She, thinking he is the gardener, says to him, "Sir, if it is you who took him, tell me where you put him, and I will get him.

She when she turned around, says to him in Hebrew, "Rabbouni!" (which means Teacher).

<sup>17</sup>Jesus says to her, "Do not cleave to me, for I have not yet ascended to the Father; but go to my brothers, and tell them: 'I am ascending to my Father and your Father; to my God and your God.'"

<sup>18</sup>Mary goes, announcing to the disciples, "I have seen the Lord," and also announcing those things he had said to her.

Jesus Appears to the Ten Apostles

<sup>19</sup>Then, when it was evening on that first day of the week, with the doors locked where the disciples were, because of the fear of the Jews, Jesus appeared, and stood in their midst. And he says to them, "Peace be with you." <sup>20</sup>And when he had said this, he showed them both his hands and his side. Therefore the disciples rejoiced, seeing the Lord.

<sup>21</sup>Then Jesus again said to them, "Peace be with you. As the Father has sent me, so also I send you." <sup>22</sup>And having said this, he blew,<sup>752</sup> and says to them, "Receive the Holy Spirit. <sup>23</sup>Whose ever sins you forgive, they are forgiven them; whose ever you retain, they are retained."

Jesus Appears to Thomas

<sup>24</sup>But Thomas, one of the Twelve, the one who was called the Twin, was not with them when Jesus came. <sup>25</sup>So the other disciples were telling him, "We have seen the Lord."

But he said to them, "Unless I see in his hands the mark of the nails, and put my finger into the place from the nails, and put my hands into his side, there is no way I will believe."

<sup>26</sup>And after eight days, his disciples again were inside, and Thomas with them. Jesus is appearing, even though the doors were locked. And he stood in the midst, and said, "Peace be with you." <sup>27</sup>Thereupon he says to Thomas, "Bring your finger here, and see my hands, and bring your hand and put it into my side, and do not be unbelieving, but believing."

<sup>28</sup>Thomas responded and said to him, "My Lord and my God."

<sup>752</sup> 20:22 ἐμφυσάω - emphusáō, breathe out or blow; the same verb used in Genesis 2:7 to translate the Hebrew verb נָפַח, used for how God breathed into the nostrils of the dust-man the breath of life, causing the man to become a living being. Here in John, there is no object for the verb; I do not believe we are to imagine that Jesus approached each of the ten individually, and breathed upon each of them in turn.

<sup>29</sup>Jesus says to him, "Because you have seen me, you have believed. Blessed are those believing<sup>753</sup> without having seen."

<sup>30</sup>While<sup>754</sup> therefore Jesus did also do many other signs in the sight of his disciples which are not written in this book, <sup>31</sup>these have been written so that you might believe that Jesus is the Christ,<sup>755</sup> the Son of God, and that believing, you might have life through his name.

Chapter 21

Resurrection Fish & Bread

<sup>1</sup>After these things, Jesus revealed himself another time to his disciples, on the Sea of Tiberius. And this is how he revealed himself. <sup>2</sup>Simon Peter, and Thomas called the Twin, and Nathaniel from Cana of Galilee, and the sons of Zebedee, and two other disciples of his, were together. <sup>3</sup>Simon Peter says to them, "I am going to fish."

They say to him, "We are also coming with you."

They went, and embarked in the boat. And throughout that night, they caught nothing. <sup>4</sup>And now that it is turning morning, Jesus had stood at the shoreline. However, the disciples have not realized that it is Jesus. <sup>5</sup>Jesus therefore says to them, "Children, have you no fish?"<sup>756</sup>

They answered, "No."

<sup>6</sup>And he said to them, "Cast the net into the area to the right of the boat, and you will find something." They cast it therefore, and they were not strong enough to retrieve it, because of a fullness of fish.

<sup>7</sup>So that disciple whom Jesus loved says to Peter, "It is the Lord." When therefore Simon Peter heard that it is the Lord, he fastened his cloak around himself, for he was stripped for work,<sup>757</sup> and he threw himself into the lake <sup>8</sup>(for they were not far from shore, but only about two hundred cubits<sup>758</sup> away), while the other disciples came in the boat, towing the fish net. <sup>9</sup>As they get down therefore onto the beach, they see a fire of coals established, and fish lying on it, and bread.

<sup>753</sup> 20:29 The Greek word translated "believing" here is a linear participle, and not in the indicative mood, and therefore it does not indicate past, present or future time. Quite often in Greek, the linear aspect in a situation like this means a near future event. In other words, "Blessed are those who are going to be believing, without having seen."

<sup>754</sup> 20:30 There is a μέν - men here, complemented by a δὲ at the beginning of verse 31, which accomplishes the setting off for the purpose of contrast, of the signs mentioned in v. 30, and what was done with them, compared to the signs mentioned in v. 31, and what was done with them.

<sup>758</sup> 21:8 Equivalent to 100 yards, or 92.4 meters.

<sup>10</sup>Jesus says to them, "Bring some of the fish which you have now caught." <sup>11</sup>Simon Peter therefore got up, and dragged the net to the beach, very full of fish, 153 of them; and though there were so many, the net was not torn.

<sup>12</sup>Jesus says to them, "Come, eat breakfast." And not one of the disciples got up the courage to challenge him, "Who are you?" For they knew it was the Lord. <sup>13</sup>Jesus comes, and he takes the bread and distributes to them, and the fish likewise. <sup>14</sup>This was now the third time Jesus had revealed himself to the disciples after having risen from the dead.

Jesus Reappoints Peter

<sup>15</sup>When therefore they had eaten breakfast, Jesus says to Simon Peter, "Simon son of John, do you love me more than these?"

He says to him, "Yes, Lord, you know that I love you."

He says to him, "Feed my lambs."

<sup>16</sup>Again, he says to him a second time, "Simon son of John, do you love me?"

He says to him, "Yes, Lord, you know that I love you."

He says to him, "Pastor my sheep."

<sup>17</sup>He says to him the third time, "Simon son of John, do you love me?"

Peter was hurt that he said to him the third time, "Do you love me." And he says to him, "Lord, you know all. You know that I love you."

Jesus says to him, "Feed my sheep."<sup>759</sup> <sup>18</sup>Truly, truly I say to you: When you were younger, you would dress yourself, and walk around where you wanted; but after you have become old, you will stretch out your hand, and someone else will dress you, and lead you somewhere you will not want." <sup>19</sup>This he said signifying by what kind of death he would glorify God. And having said this, he says to him, "Follow me."

And What About John?

<sup>20</sup>Peter turned around, and sees the disciple whom Jesus loved following, that is, the one who in the supper had leaned back onto His chest and said, "Lord, who is the one betraying you?" <sup>21</sup>So when he saw this one, Peter says to Jesus, "Lord, and what about him?"

<sup>22</sup>Jesus says to him, "If I want him to remain until I come, what is that to you? You follow me." <sup>23</sup>This therefore is the word that got out to the brothers: that that disciple would not die. But Jesus had not said to him that he would not die; rather, "If I want him to remain until I come, what is that to you?"

<sup>24</sup>That disciple is the one who is bearing witness to these things, and the one who wrote these things; and we know that his testimony is true.

<sup>25</sup>And there are also many other things that Jesus did, which if written in detail, I reckon not even the world itself would be able to hold the books that would be written.

<sup>759</sup> 21:17 Up until the time we see the Lord, it will continue to be the topic of discussion, the meaning of why Jesus used the verb ἀγαπάω in vv. 15 and 16, but φιλέω in v. 17; and why Peter used the verb οἶδα in vv. 15 and 16, but γινώσκω in v. 17; and whether the reason Peter was hurt was that Jesus asked him three times, or that Jesus changed the verb the third time, etc.

Note that NO textual witnesses later than 8th century are cited, and ALL witnesses 8th century or earlier ARE cited. I have done this is because so many readers have objected that critical apparatuses cherry-pick the manuscripts. So I have made it very simple with this one very objective criterion. If the words are God's words, they will show up prior to the 9th century surely.

The General Epistle of James

Chapter 1

<sup>1</sup>James, a servant of God and the Lord Jesus Christ, to the twelve tribes that are in the Diaspora, Greetings. <sup>2</sup>Consider it pure joy, my brethren, when you fall into all sorts of trials, <sup>3</sup>because you know that the testing of your faith produces endurance. <sup>4</sup>But you must allow endurance its finished job to the end so you will be complete and faultless, deficient in nothing.

<sup>5</sup>And if any of you lacks wisdom, he should request it from God, who gives to everyone cheerfully without complication or lecturing, and it will be given to him. <sup>6</sup>Only he must ask with faith, not doubting at all. For he who doubts is like a wave of the sea driven back and forth by the wind. <sup>7</sup>That kind of person should most certainly stop thinking he will receive anything from the Lord. <sup>8</sup>A double-minded man is unstable in all his ways.

<sup>9</sup>And the brother of the lower class should boast about his lifting up, <sup>10</sup>and the rich one about his lowering, how like a flower of the grass he will drop. <sup>11</sup>For the sun has come up, with scorching heat to dry the grass, and the flower of it has fallen off, and the glory of its face<sup>760</sup> has perished. So also the rich in their goings will be faded in importance.

<sup>12</sup>The man is blessed<sup>761</sup> who withstands temptation, for when he has stood the test, he will receive the crown of life, which the Lord has promised<sup>762</sup> to those who love Him. <sup>13</sup>No one who is being tempted should say, "I am being tempted by God." For God is unskilled<sup>763</sup> in the bad and he does not tempt anyone. <sup>14</sup>Rather each person is tempted through his own desires, which get lured out and enticed; <sup>15</sup>and then after the

<sup>760</sup> 1:11 That is, personage. As also "face" in the phrase "respecting of faces" means personages, treating important people better than unimportant people. The meaning here is that while in the Old Testament, it used to be if you were rich, you were a personage, but now in the New Testament, that will fade in importance.

<sup>761</sup> 1:12c This blessedness is set off in contrast to the Old Testament concept that if you were rich you were blessed by God, as treated in the verses just previous.

Yes, Didymus is cited for two different readings. He used two different forms of the text.

<sup>763</sup> 1:13 "unskilled," The Greek word means "inexperienced," thus, unskilled. God has never experienced being tempted by the bad, so thus has no skill in tempting others with the bad.

desire is fertilized, it gives birth to a sin, and the sin when finished developing produces death. <sup>16</sup>Do not be deceived, my beloved brethren.

<sup>765</sup> 1:17c This is a dig against the gods of the gentiles, the planets. When the earth or other planets turn around or spin, it becomes dark on the other side, the shadow side, where it once was light. This back and forth between light and dark is pervasive in nature. All plants and animals have rhythm with that change between light and dark. But God invented light, he is the father of lights, and in him is no darkness at all, 1 John 1:5. In his city, the New Jerusalem, there will be no more night, Revelation 21:25, 22:5. "And the city has no need of either a sun or a moon to shine in it, for the glory of God has illumined it, and its lamp is the Lamb." Revelation 21:23.

<sup>766</sup> 1:19b "You know this, but..." See also II Peter 1:12, Jude 5, etc. The textual variant δὲ in this verse must come hand in hand with the indicative mood of οἶδα which is ἴστε. See also Hebrews 12:17 where ἴστε is used. We should already know the things taught in this verse, from reading Proverbs 17:27, 28 and other parts of the Bible.

<sup>769</sup> 1:23a "was contemplating." This is a linear participle; participles tell no time tense because they are not in the indicative mood. It is continuous action, relative time. The time is past tense, according to the indicative mood phrases coming after it.

<sup>770</sup> 1:23b The point is, It's the face he was born with, and what he had always been looking at, but he still forgot when he walked away. It can be the same with reading the Bible. You've read the things before, and they are not new to you, but you still go away without remembering to do what you just read.

man he was. <sup>25</sup>But he who focuses intently into the perfect law, the law of liberty, and stays with it, not being<sup>771</sup> a forgetful hearer but a doer of the deed, this person will be blessed in his deed that he will do.<sup>772</sup>

<sup>772</sup> 1:25b I get the definite impression that James is saying that one cause of failure is lack of focus on something specific to do. The Greek words here for deed and do, are singular. If you think in generalities, how do you know you did it? How do you know your deed is blessed? And what kind of man you are, can determine what kind of deed God has for you specifically. If I know God, I know he is not maddeningly vague like the Devil is. God knows you cannot obey something unless you know what it is. The Devil condemns you in generalities and vagueness, a shotgun approach, hoping an accusation will stick. God is the opposite. But you can't go wrong checking on the needs of the orphan and the widow, and maintaining difference from the world.

The Robinson-Pierpont text here is just as old a reading, and also is the more difficult reading which might lead scribes to try to clarify. The phrase τῷ θεῷ καὶ πατρὶ, "our God and Father" is easier to translate than θεῷ καὶ πατρὶ. On the other hand the Greek manuscript evidence for inclusion of the article is very impressive. The two words τῷ θεῷ end similarly, and so homoioteleuton could explain the dropping of the article. Especially similar would be the Nomina Sacra abbreviation for θεῷ to the article τῷ, and also very similar might be the oral dictation of the two words by the reader thereof to the scribe. Here is Dr. Maurice A. Robinson's commentary on this variant: "First of all, the phrase PARA TW QEW is not all that common (only 9x in the entire NT, 5x of these in Paul, and none in the General Epistles (assuming the Byz reading in Jas 1:27). Similarly, even PARA QEW is rare, occurring only 10x in the entire NT, with 3 other General Epistle occurrences (1Pe 2:20; 2Pe 1:17; 2Jn 1:3), 2 occurrences in Paul (1Co 7:24; 2Th 1:6), and the remainder in Mk, Lk, and Jn. Further, and more importantly: in Jas, QEW only occurs here as the object of a preposition; the other 3 occurrences of QEW in Jas occur as objects of finite verb forms (Jas 2:23; 4:7; 4:8 ). In fact, nowhere else in James does occur QEOS with the article as the object of any preposition. On the other hand, in James 1:13 we find the only other instance of QEOS as object of a preposition in that book, and guess what? -- it is APO QEOU without an article, just as in the construction of Jas 1:27 !"

Chapter 2

<sup>14</sup>What good is it, my brethren, when someone claims to have faith, but he has no works? ### Chapter 3

<sup>1</sup>Not many should be<sup>791</sup> teachers, my brethren, knowing we will get ourselves more judgment. <sup>2</sup>For we all stumble on many occasions. If someone does not stumble in speech, he is a perfect man, able to bridle the whole rest of his body. <sup>3</sup>Now if<sup>792</sup> we place bits in the mouths of horses to make them obey us, we are also steering the whole rest of their body. <sup>4</sup>And consider ships. As large as they are and driven by fierce winds, they are turned around by a small rudder wherever the will of the one steering it wishes. <sup>5</sup>In the same way also, our tongue is a small member, and boasts great feats. See how a small flame sets ablaze such a large forest. <sup>6</sup>The tongue also is a flame, a world of damage.<sup>793</sup> The tongue<sup>794</sup> is situated among our members as

<sup>791</sup> 3:1 The verb for "be" or "become" is second person plural, and the verb for "stumble" is first person plural. This is why some translations felt the need to add the phrase "of you," but I am loathe to do that, since the Greek contains no such genitive prepositional phrase. Even though the verb "be" is 2nd person plural, the writer is talking about a 1st person plural issue over all.

So also the noun form as here can mean damage, injury. It can also mean more like "injustice, unrighteousness," depending on the context. But here the context is James comparing the damage a little flame can do to a large forest, compared to the tongue how it can do a whole world of damage. James is saying the tongue is something more harmful than a fire that can burn a forest. The tongue can inflict a world of hurt.

<sup>799</sup> 3:12 The NA28 Greek text does not repeat the word πηγὴ, spring, but it is implied as still the topic in mind being compared to the mouth. The Byzantine and other later texts may all be explanatory, scribes having felt the need to clarify. The Greek words πικρόν and ἀλυκὸν both mean bitter; James is mixing it up vocabulary-wise. Yes, ἀλυκὸν also can mean salty, but since the context here is a spring, we are still talking about bitter. Thus we see why some early scribes felt the need to clarify and revise the text. The Robinson-Pierpont text would be translated: "Thus neither is it possible for a spring to produce both bitter water and sweet." This is very appealing as more smooth and more clear. But it departs from the pattern of the verse: one thing producing a foreign product; not one thing producing two different kinds of product. In other words, we don't have "It is not possible for a fig tree to produce both figs and olives, or a grapevine to produce both grapes and figs." But then suddenly the Byzantine text changes the pattern of the verse.

<sup>802</sup> 3:17b Or, "without showmanship." This Greek word ἀνυπόκριτος, the usual translation of which is "without hypocrisy," has the root word usually translated hypocrite. But hypocrite is one of the most mis-used English words from the Bible. In ancient Greek it meant "stage actor," or "play-acting," and in Jesus' teaching, it meant doing things for appearances' sake, outward show. Here in James the negative of it means "sincere," in the sense of not play-acting. One ancient Greek writer (Demetr. Eloc. 194) used this word ἀνυπόκριτος to mean "without drama." The BDAG lexicon, 3rd edition, says for ἀνυπόκριτος here, "pert. to being without pretense, genuine, sincere, lit. 'without play-acting'..."

<sup>803</sup> 3:18b Debrunner in BDF §191(4) in the section about Dative of Agent, says, "καρπὸς...σπείρεται τοῖς ποιούσιν εἰρήνην is a dat. commodi; cf. Lk 18:31, 1 P 5:9 (§188(1))". This means he is saying that the harvest of peace comes as a benefit, reward, convenience, for or to, those who made peace. Yet those who are making peace, are also the ones planting; they are planting for themselves their reward. So it is difficult to convey all that meaning in concise English Bible text.

(1 John 2:16) "If the world hates you, be assured that it hated me first, before you. If you were of the world, the world would like its own; but because you are not of the world, and indeed rather I have chosen you out of the world, for this the world hates you." (John 15:18,19)

Two factors make some witnesses indeterminate: 1, itacism made the two words sound alike, and 2, the languages of the early translations could not easily convey the causative meaning of κατόκισεν. Which latter also is the only instance of the verb κατοικίζω in the New Testament. So, copyists were more likely to unconsciously replace the rarer word with the more common, than vice versa.

The BDAG lexicon defines διὸ as: "inferential conjunction, therefore, for this reason." I am writing this footnote because someone objected that I had used the English word "thus" to render the Greek word διὸ. But Webster's Dictionary says the definition of "thus" includes: "because of this or that : hence, consequently, accordingly." But I love my critics for caring about the accuracy of my work, and I did conclude that it would be more accurate to render διὸ as "accordingly" here, even though I like the brevity of the word "thus." I do not think it accurate to render it "therefore" here.

I think the verb is simply referring to the already mentioned topic, gold and silver. Something else to take note of in light of James' practice of using the same word two different times in two different contexts, is his use of the word ἰὸς here, translated usually in this verse as "corrosion" or "rust" but in 3:8 usually as "poison." Both poison and corrosion are chemical processes upon something. Fire is as well.

<sup>823</sup> 5:6 Or also possibly, "He does not meet you face to face." The word ἀντιτάσσω literally means to place himself opposite you. It can be literal, that is, stand across from you facing you, or it can be figurative, place himself in opposition to you, working against you. If we insist that this is a double entendre referring both to Christ and to other righteous people in general, then "face to face" is not suitable, since Christ did meet those condemning him face to face.

<sup>828</sup> 5:12b The phrase ὑπὸ κρίσιν πέσητε here as in the NA28 text, rendered "fall under judgment" means to "fall under the category of," those who are judged. The Byzantine reading εἷς ὑπὸ κρίσιν πέσητε means "so that you not fall into hypocrisy." The NA28 reading is the more difficult one. I wonder if it was an idiom that perhaps had become obsolete. The only difference between the two readings in the all-caps, no spaces and no punctuation format of the uncial manuscripts, is the presence or absence of the word εἷς. The NA28 reading is ΥΠΟΚΡΙΣΙΝ and the Byzantine reading is ΕΙΣΥΠΟΚΡΙΣΙΝ.

will raise him. And if he has committed sin, it will be forgiven him. <sup>16</sup>Confess your sins<sup>829</sup> then<sup>830</sup> one to another, and pray for one another, so you may be healed. The fully operating prayer<sup>831</sup> of a righteous person is able to accomplish much. <sup>17</sup>Elijah was a mortal human subject to the same frailties that we are. And he prayed the prayer for it not to rain, and no rain fell on the land for a period of three years and six months. <sup>18</sup>And he prayed again, and the sky gave rain, and the land sprouted up its fruit.

<sup>19</sup>My brethren,<sup>832</sup> if any among you wanders away from the truth and someone turns him back around, <sup>20</sup>he should<sup>833</sup> know that he who turns a sinner from the error of his way will save a soul<sup>834</sup> from death and cover a multitude of sins.

<sup>831</sup> 5:16d Prayer would not be "fully operating" if one or some of the following conditions exist: 1.) the one praying is "doubting at all," James 1:6 and many other passages of scripture; (2) the one praying has unconfessed sin, as it says in many scripture passages such as Psalm 66:18; (3) a married man's prayers may be hindered if he is not treating his wife like it is layed out in 1 Peter 3:7. This is not a complete list, but are some examples of what might cause prayer to not be "fully operating."

I like the reading without αὐτοῦ because it eliminates the ambiguity of who the referent is- the one turning the sinner, or the sinner. But the evidence also indicates the spuriousness of αὐτοῦ because of the various places it is found in the manuscripts. On the other hand, the very reason I like it without αὐτοῦ may have been the motive for editing for clarification at some point in the transmission of the text. Allen Wikgren prefers the reading ἐκ θανάτου αὐτοῦ "from death itself," saying, "Non-recognition of the intensive use of αὐτός could explain the omission or transposition. In this position, also, omission might easily be accidental in some witnesses." The majority of the UBS committee thought the reading of Σ P best explained the rise of the others, for the reason I had already thought of before I read their commentary, that is, to clarify the ambiguity.

A Few Comments

My brethren, you can find great pleasure studying the Epistle of James.

The Epistle of James contains many instances of its author using the same Greek word twice or multiple times. See if you can find these, for starters:

Lifting / raising

Lowering replete accomplish

face

The Epistle of James also contains many instances where its author contrasts two different things. For example:

Bad giving; i.e., temptation

Good giving corrupt wealth

eternal wealth

changing light

steady light

Very informative is to do a word study of some of the Greek words James uses multiple times. For example, 3 times he uses these words that have the same root:

James 1:8 A double-minded man is ἀκατάστατος - unstable in all his ways

James 3:8 The tongue is a ἀκατάστατον κακόν - volatile menace.

James 3:16 Where there is envy and rivalry, there is ἀκαταστασία – disorder

- 1 Peter, an apostle of Jesus Christ, to the elect who are sojourners of the Diaspora in Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Asia and Bithynia,<sup>835</sup>
- 2 elect according to the foreknowledge of God the Father by sanctification of the Spirit for obedience and the sprinkling of the blood of Jesus Christ; may grace and peace be multiplied to you.
- 3 Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who according to the greatness of his mercy has given us second birth, into the hope of salvation, because of the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead,
- 4 into an inheritance that is incorruptible, unimpaired, and unfailing, reserved in heaven for you,
- 5 who are being guarded by the power of God, through faith, for the salvation made ready to be revealed in the end time,
- 6 in which you exult, though you still have distress<sup>836</sup> for a little while if necessary in various trials,
- 7 which happen so that the testing of your faith, much more valuable than gold which perishes, but is tested through fire, may be found out to result in praise and glory and honor<sup>837</sup> when Jesus Christ is revealed,
- 8 whom you love without having seen;<sup>838</sup> in whom you believe, still not having looked upon; yet you exult<sup>839</sup> with a joy that is indescribable and full of glory,
- 9 obtaining for yourselves the goal of your faith: the salvation of your<sup>840</sup> souls.
- 10 About which salvation the prophets, who prophesied about the grace that was coming to your benefit, sought out and researched, <sup>835</sup> 1:1 There is a complete absence of the Greek definite article in this whole verse. With place names, the article is used only for special reasons. Here in 1:1 the addressees are being characterized and are the focus. The fact that they are sojourners is the emphasis, the focus is on their being aliens to, their not belonging, in these places being mentioned.

<sup>845</sup> 1:13b While most interpreters read this phrase ἐν ἀποκαλύψει Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ as "the grace being brought to you when Jesus Christ is revealed" (as a future event), some read it as "the grace being offered to you with the revelation of Jesus Christ," such as the Darby translation, and Tyndale. Tyndale says "the grace brought unto you by the declaring of Jesus Christ." The reason I went with a future event, is because that is how Peter uses this same phrase ἐν ἀποκαλύψει Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ earlier in this epistle, at 1:7, "may be found out to result in praise and glory and honor when Jesus Christ is revealed."

<sup>848</sup> 1:19 I have realized that my American readers do not understand this rendering, though in the rest of the English speaking world, the word "dear" is a synonym of "expensive" or "precious." For example, my math teach in 3rd grade,

20 foreknown before the foundation of the world, but manifested in the latter of times<sup>849</sup> for your sakes,

21 who by way of him are believers in God, the one who has raised him from the dead and given him glory; so your faith and hope are in God.

22 Having purified your souls by obedience to the truth<sup>850</sup> toward brotherly love, love one another earnestly from a pure<sup>851</sup> heart,

23 having been regenerated, not by corruptible seed but by incorruptible, through the living and abiding<sup>852</sup> word of God;

24 because all flesh is like<sup>853</sup> grass, and all its<sup>854</sup> glory like the flower of grass. The grass dries up, and its flower falls off,<sup>855</sup>

25 but the word of the Lord abides for ever. And this is the word that was announced to you.

Chapter 2

1 Putting away therefore all malice, and all guile and pretenses,<sup>856</sup> and envies and all slanders,

2 as newborn babes, desire the pure spiritual milk, so you may grow by it to salvation,<sup>857</sup>

4 To whom approaching, a living stone, by humans on the one hand rejected, on the other hand chosen by God as precious,
 5 you yourselves also as living stones are being built as a spiritual house for<sup>859</sup> a holy priesthood, to offer spiritual sacrifices acceptable to God through Jesus Christ;
 6 because it is contained in scripture:<sup>860</sup> "Behold I lay in Zion a chosen precious corner foundation stone, and the person believing on it will by no means be disappointed."
 7 To you therefore who believe, value, but to those refusing to believe,<sup>861</sup> it is a stone the builders rejected. This one turns out to be for the head of the corner,
 8 yet also a stone of stumbling, and a rock of downfall for those who stumble at the word by disobeying, to which in fact they were appointed.<sup>862</sup>
 9 But you are a chosen race, a royal priesthood, a holy nation, a people for a treasured possession, so you may proclaim the virtues of him who called you out of darkness into his marvelous light;
 10 who were not ever a people, but now are a people of God; ones who were not pitied, but now are pitied.

11 Brethren, I exhort you: as sojourners and aliens, abstain<sup>863</sup> from fleshly lusts, which war against the soul;
 12 having your conduct good among the gentiles, in order that while they denounce you as evil-doers, by observing<sup>864</sup> your good works they may glorify God in the day of visitation.
 13 Submit<sup>865</sup> to every human authority for the Lord's sake, whether to a king as he is highly placed,
 14 or to governors; as they are the Lord's agent for vengeance on evil-doers and praise of well-doers;
 15 because so is the will of God: by doing good to silence the ignorance of foolish people;

 20 For what glory is it if when sinning and buffeted for it you endure? But if when doing good and suffering for it you endure, this gains favor with God.
 21 For you were called to<sup>867</sup> this, because Christ also suffered, on your behalf, leaving for you<sup>868</sup> an example that you should follow in his steps;

The word ἡ πτόησις can mean both "how" one is fearing, that is, fearing "with" hysteria, or it can mean fearing "what causes" the hysteria, i.e., terrifying people, terrifying events or terrifying reports. The only other time this word is used in the Bible is in the Septuagint in Proverbs 3:25, where it is the latter use- do not be afraid of the thing that causes terror.

<sup>879</sup> 3:7b This is what the BDAG lexicon says τιμὴν means in this context. Τιμή is the word for "value," here as in careful handling, like how you would hold a fragile and valuable vase when you are carrying it.

The added possessive pronouns here and in the previous variant may be a conformation to the Septuagint Psalm 33:14 which says παῦσον τὴν γλῶσσάν σου ἀπὸ κακοῦ καὶ χεῖλη σου. But in Koine Greek the definite article could serve as a possessive pronoun. The first translations of the Greek New Testament,

- 11 and<sup>885</sup> he must turn aside from evil, and do good, and seek peace, and pursue it.
 12 For the eyes of the Lord are on the righteous, and his ears open to their petition; but the face of the Lord is against those who do evil."
 13 And who is going to harm you if you become devotees<sup>886</sup> of good?
 14 But, if you do suffer indeed because of righteousness, you become blessed ones. And do not fear their intimidations, or be troubled.
 15 Instead, dedicate in your hearts Christ<sup>887</sup> as Lord, always prepared<sup>888</sup> for a speech in response to anyone who asks you the reason for the hope that is in you;
 16 only<sup>889</sup> with gentleness and respect,<sup>890</sup> having a good conscience, in order that while you are spoken against,<sup>891</sup> the ones abusing you may be shamed by your good conduct in Christ.
 17 For it is better while doing good to suffer, if the will of God wills, than while doing evil.
 18 Because indeed Christ already died once for sins,<sup>892</sup> the righteous on behalf of the unrighteous, that he might bring you<sup>893</sup> to God, being put to death in the flesh, but made alive in the spirit, into Latin, Coptic, and Peshitta Syriac, would add the possessive pronoun in order to accurately render the meaning of the Greek definite article.

19 in which also he<sup>894</sup> preached, when he went to the spirits that were in prison,
 20 to people who disobeyed long ago when the patience of God was waiting in the days of Noah while an ark was being prepared, in which a few, that is, eight souls, were saved through water.
 21 Which<sup>895</sup> is a shadow of the baptism that saves us now also,<sup>896</sup> not the removing of dirt off the flesh, but the response toward God of a good conscience, through the resurrection of Jesus Christ,
 22 who is at the right hand of God, having gone into heaven, with angels and authorities and powers made subordinate to him.

Chapter 4

1 Therefore Christ having suffered<sup>897</sup> in the flesh, you also arm yourselves of the same mind, that someone who has suffered in the flesh<sup>898</sup> is finished with sin,<sup>899 900</sup>
 2 to the result that, the time he still has left in the flesh he lives not for human desires any longer, but rather for the will of God.

<sup>900</sup> 4:1d Peter does not here mean to imply that Jesus had “stopped sinning” or had ever sinned, but rather that he had “dealt with sin once for all,” that he had finished taking care of the problem of sin, by means of his suffering and death; see 3:18.

3 For enough is the time lost away for you<sup>901</sup> to have carried out<sup>902</sup> the goal<sup>903</sup> of the Gentiles, having gone on in promiscuity, lusts, debaucheries, carousals, drinking bouts, and serving idols.

4 In which since you are not joining them running in the same excess of indulgence, they think it strange,<sup>904</sup> denigrating you.

5 They will have to give an explanation to the one that is about to judge<sup>905</sup> the living and the dead.

6 It is for that reason as well the gospel is preached<sup>906</sup> to the dead.<sup>907</sup> On the one hand so they might be judged according to humans in the flesh; on the other hand in the hope they might live according to God in the Spirit.

7 Now the end of all things has drawn near. Be soberminded therefore, and be sober for prayers.

8 Above<sup>908</sup> all else have fervent love between each another, because love covers<sup>909</sup> a multitude of sins.

I think the phrase τοῦ βίου possibly arose from an ad-lib or paraphrasing from memory by Clement, or also possibly by a misunderstanding of, then conflation/accertion of the Latin ambulaverunt or ambulantes in the phrase following.

<sup>906</sup> 4:6a Surely this εὐηγγελίσθη is a “gnomic aorist,” as Peter also uses perhaps in 1:24 for “dries up,” and “falls off,” and elsewhere.

<sup>907</sup> 4:6b The term “the dead” here, in context, means people who are not born again. The same way Jesus used it when he said, “Let the dead bury their own dead.” The unbelievers mentioned in 4:4 will have to give an account for how they interacted with you- that is the connection to the previous verse. Your interaction with a non-believer may accomplish for God one of two things: either help God be justified in condemning them (because they heard the gospel from you and have absolutely no excuse), or on the other hand it may help God in saving them. The idea that the gospel can be preached to those in Hades and either condemn them or save them, is contrary to the rest of scripture. Here, the gospel is being preached in the hope they might be saved. But there is no such hope for someone to be saved who is already in Hades. Romans 6:23 says “it is appointed unto man once to die, and after that the judgment.” In the story of the Rich man and Lazarus in Luke 16, the rich man was in the partition of Sheol / Hades that was for the condemned, and Lazarus was in the partition for the righteous. Abraham rebuffed the rich man’s request for relief. That man got no more chances. Of course you are going to believe in the gospel once you are burning in hell. But the deal from God is that you have to repent and believe before you die, while you are still alive in the flesh. You don’t get any more chances after you die. This applies to Old Testament era people like the rich man and Lazarus, as well as New Testament era people.

10 According to how each person has received a gift, minister it to each other as good stewards of the manifold grace of God:

11 if anyone speaks, as the oracles of God; if anyone serves, as<sup>911</sup> by the power that God supplies; such that in everything God will be glorified, through Jesus Christ, whose is the glory and the power for ever and ever. Amen.<sup>912</sup>

The UBS textual commentary: “Although it is possible that the words [κατὰ μὲν αὐτοὺς βλασφημεῖται κατὰ δὲ ὑμᾶς δοξάζεται] may have been accidentally omitted because of parablepsis (-εται . . . -εται), the Committee thought it far more probable that they were added as an explanatory gloss on the preceding reference to the spirit of glory. Of the several forms of the verb, the perfect tense and the forms compounded with ἐπ- appear to be secondary developments, arising from a desire to strengthen and clarify the form ἀναπαύεται ( $\aleph^*$  B 056 0142 1739 ah).”

Both of these variant readings actually mean something similar, along the lines of “in this behalf.” For example, when a prophet speaks “in the name” of God, he is speaking “in behalf” of God.

17 Because the time<sup>916</sup> has come for judgment to begin, starting with the household of God. And if firstly with us, what will be the fate of those disobeying the gospel of God?

18 And if the righteous person is barely saved, where will the ungodly and the sinner appear?

19 So then those suffering according to the will of God should commit their souls over to a faithful<sup>917</sup> creator, all the while doing good.<sup>918</sup>

Chapter 5

1 Being a co-elder, and a witness of the sufferings of Christ, and a sharer also of the glory about to be revealed, the elders among<sup>919</sup> you therefore I exhort:

2 shepherd the flock of God among you, overseeing<sup>920</sup> not from compulsion but voluntarily for God,<sup>921</sup> not from greed for money, but from amateur zeal;

3 not as exercising lordship over your charges, but being examples for the flock.

4 And when the chief shepherd appears, you will receive the unfading crown of glory.

5 Likewise, young people, submit yourselves to the older people. And everyone,<sup>922</sup> tie on the apron of humility toward one another, because God<sup>923</sup> opposes the proud and gives grace to the humble.

6 Be humbled therefore under the mighty hand of God, so he may exalt you in his time,

7 casting every worry of yours onto him, because it matters to him about<sup>924</sup> you.

8 Be sober, be alert. Your adversary,<sup>925</sup> the devil, is like a lion walking about, seeking someone to devour;<sup>926</sup>

Endnotes to 1 Peter

1 Peter Endnote #1 Unwritten Implications

In this epistle, Peter sometimes leaves the reader to supply the finish of a thought, particularly an unspoken object of a verb.

3:2 when they observe your pure conduct is with reverence for them.

4:4 they think it's weird, denigrating you.

4:10 according to how each person has received a gift, minister it to each other...

5:6 so he may exalt you in his time.

1 Peter Endnote #2 Peculiar Aorists

The First Epistle of Peter contains several of what some have called "peculiar aorists." Yet, they seem peculiar only to us of modern times or other languages, since the primary meaning of the ancient Greek tense was not time- past, present or future, but instead, "kind of action." These instances of aorist below by Peter, do not mean past or present or future, and I suppose what may be peculiar about them, is they do not even express "kind of action," but simply that they happen. Though the English words "dries up" and "falls" sound like present time to us, that is not what is conveyed. What is conveyed is simply that it happens at some point. It is the same with the gospel "is preached" to the dead. The focus is not at what time it is preached, or how often or continuously it is preached, but simply that it gets preached to the dead, for the reasons Peter then states.

1Pe 1:24 διότι πᾶσα σὰρξ ὡς χόρτος, καὶ πᾶσα δόξα αὐτῆς ὡς ἄνθος χόρτου· ἐξηράνθη ὁ χόρτος, καὶ τὸ ἄνθος ἐξέπεσεν·

<sup>24</sup>because all flesh is like grass, and all its glory like the flower of grass. The grass dries up, and its flower falls off,

1Pe 3:6 ὡς Σάρρα ὑπήκουσεν τῷ Ἀβραάμ, κύριον αὐτὸν καλοῦσα· ἧς ἐγενήθητε τέκνα ἀγαθοποιοῦσαι καὶ μὴ φοβούμεναι μηδεμίαν πτόησιν.

<sup>6</sup>like how Sarah obeyed Abraham, calling him Lord; whose daughters you have become, doing good, and not fearing any terror.

(Many translators render this aorist ἐγενήθητε as "whose daughters you are." Or, "whose daughters you will become.")

1Pe 4:6 εἰς τοῦτο γὰρ καὶ νεκροῖς εὐηγγελίσθη ἵνα κριθῶσι μὲν κατὰ ἀνθρώπους σαρκὶ ζῶσι δὲ κατὰ θεὸν πνεύματι.

<sup>6</sup>It is for that reason as well the gospel is preached to the dead. On the one hand so they might be judged according to humans in the flesh; on the other hand in the hope they might live according to God in the Spirit.

2 Peter

Chapter 1

<sup>1</sup>Simon Peter, a servant and an apostle of Jesus Christ, to those who have obtained along with us equally precious faith by means of the righteousness of our God and Savior Jesus Christ, <sup>2</sup>grace and peace be multiplied to you, through the knowledge of God and of Jesus our Lord, <sup>934</sup> <sup>3</sup>as his divine power has given to us all things pertaining to life and godliness, through the knowledge of him who called us to his own glory and virtue, <sup>935</sup> <sup>4</sup>through which he has given to us precious and very great promises, <sup>936</sup> in order that through these you might become partakers of the divine nature, having escaped the corruption that is in the world from lust. <sup>937</sup>

<sup>5</sup>But especially for that very reason, <sup>938</sup> bringing to bear all diligence, add to your faith virtue, and to virtue knowledge, <sup>6</sup>and to knowledge self-control, and to self-control endurance, and to endurance godliness, <sup>7</sup>and to godliness brotherly friendship, and to brotherly friendship add love. <sup>8</sup>For these things abounding in you make you not barren or unfruitful in the knowledge of our Lord

Jesus Christ. <sup>9</sup>For someone in whom these things are not present is blind, being short-sighted, forgetful of receiving the cleansing of his sins in the past. <sup>939</sup> <sup>10</sup>Therefore instead, brethren, be diligent to make your calling and choice firm, for by doing these things you will never fail. <sup>11</sup>For so will be richly supplied to you entry into the eternal kingdom of our Lord and savior Jesus Christ.

<sup>12</sup>Wherefore I intend<sup>940</sup> to remind you always about these things, even though you know them and are confirmed in the truth that has come. <sup>13</sup>And I deem it right, as long as I am in this tent, to rouse you by a reminder, <sup>14</sup>knowing that soon is the putting off of my tent, as indeed our Lord Jesus Christ has made clear to me, <sup>15</sup>but I will strive to have you also after my departure always make mention of these reminders.

<sup>16</sup>For it is not after the fashion of skillfully fabricated stories we have made known to you the power and coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, but we were eye-witnesses of that majesty. <sup>17</sup>For after receiving honor and glory from God the Father, what a voice was brought for him by that majestic glory: “This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased.” <sup>18</sup>And we heard this voice, produced from heaven, when we were with him on the holy mountain. <sup>19</sup>And we have a more sure word of prophecy, to which you would do well to take heed, as to a lamp shining in a dismal place, until the daylight shines through, and the Light Bearer dawns in your hearts, <sup>20</sup>knowing this first of all, that no prophecy of scripture arises from personal illumination,<sup>941</sup> <sup>21</sup>for no prophecy was ever brought by the will of a human being, but rather men spoke from God as they were carried along by the Holy Spirit. <sup>942</sup>

Chapter 2

<sup>1</sup>But false prophets have also arisen among the people, as there will be false teachers among you as well. Such people will introduce destructive personal beliefs,<sup>943</sup> and contradicting the master who purchased them, bring upon themselves swift damnation. <sup>2</sup>And many will follow their loose ways, because of whom, the way of truth will be disparaged. <sup>3</sup>And through materialism<sup>944</sup> they will

<sup>941</sup> 1:20 The Greek word means “explanation,” but prophecies do not start with explanation; they have to arise first. I think this means “Illumination,” for example, in the sense of how Joseph or Daniel were able to understand dreams, so as to tell and explain the meaning. It is what must happen before interpretation, and that is why I did not use the word interpretation.

<sup>943</sup> 2:1 This Greek word αἱρέσεις, from which we get the transliterated word “heresies,” means “personal choices,” goes along with the “personal illumination” in 1:20. It means people making up their own beliefs, based not on the authority of God-inspired prophets and apostles, but based on their own personal choice, or on their own “spiritual revelation.” Another source of such destructive beliefs is a person being inspired by Satan. There is such a thing as “doctrines of demons.” Peter himself right here gives us a good definition of such destructive personal beliefs or heresies: any belief which contradicts our master Jesus Christ and his apostles.

<sup>944</sup> 2:3 Material discontentment, covetousness. It is not clear whom this clause is describing, whether the deceivers or the deceived, but Jesus Christ himself says in his parables that many people will be deceived and led astray because of their own materialism, and the seductiveness of wealth. In modern American Christianity, materialism certainly must be the most socially accepted sin. Indeed, Christian men are chastised if they are not materialistic enough, as if there is a Christian obligation that they provide so much for their families that their family becomes richer than 99% of all families that existed in the history of the planet. Regarding whose materialism is being spoken of, I notice that most current translations have no problem adding the word “their” without italics, even though that is not what the Greek says. I say, How would the false teachers’ greed be a factor, unless the followers are paying them for something? It is more likely that the followers, our own materialism and greed, is what is being talked about. Another problem with most peoples’ understanding, is the word ἀσελγείας, which I rendered “loose ways.” Unfortunately, most people limit their understanding of this word to only sexual connotations. But it includes lacking self-constraint in running after not only unrestrained sex, but also soft living, fine food, excessive comfort, extravagance in all the senses. In short, a life devoted to self-indulgence and doing whatever we want.

<sup>945</sup> 2:3 Lidell & Scott: II.4.- make gain of, overreach, cheat you; Bauer, p. 324, 3: in the sense of misrepresenting merchandise, they exploit you; BDF §148(1) defraud you. (They will exploit your greed and materialism. Exploiting would make no sense if it was their own greed and materialism they were exploiting. Jesus himself warned in his parables that desires for things, materialism, would choke out the seed and fruit from our lives.) James tells us that temptation only works because of our own desires, which get led out and enticed.

<sup>951</sup> 2:6b Re. “wanting to” be ungodly. In my electronic copy of the Septuagint, there are 36 occurrences of μέλλω with an infinitive verb following, like we have here. In Brenton’s English translation of those thirty-six, 11 are rendered something like “about to”; 6 are rendered a simple future; 5 are rendered something like “wanting to” or “intending to”; 5 are rendered something like “expected to”; 5 are rendered “going to”; and 4 are rendered “ready to.” Sodom and Gomorrah should give pause to someone contemplating living like those cities did. Someone intending to be ungodly, or wanting to be ungodly. They haven’t done it yet. There are 3 instances of μέλλω by itself without an infinitive following, that Brenton renders: “lingering,” 4 Maccabees 6:23, “delaying,” 4 Macc 9:1; and “rising,” Prov 15:18.

The value of some of these variants is that we know the scribes had in mind the “agape feasts,” which in fact may be the scene here. (There is some question as to whether those were ever held in the daytime, or only in the evening.) The reading ἀπάταις means deceptions, which I interpret as self-deceptions, or delusions. This is one of the known usages of the word. See also that mss. 1241 and 1739 read ἀγνοίας, which is also more related to delusion.

<sup>958</sup> 2:13c Regarding this Greek word τρυφή (truphe), it is a word of eating. We must remember that the form of Greek with which the apostles were familiar was that of the Greek Old Testament, the Septuagint, or LXX. This word τρυφή was used for “Dainties, delicacies” in Gen. 49:20; “fatness,” in Psalm 36:8, etc. There are many more, but the picture we get is “living it up with food, indulging in luxurious meals and delicacies.” This is why I rendered it “partying.” If you look at all the uses of the word in the LXX, a majority of them have to do with feasting. This is another strong clue that Peter is describing the subjects’ attitude toward the communal meal or agape feast mentioned in the same verse.

<sup>959</sup> 2:13d cf. Jude 12, “feasting without reverence.” They think the fellowship feasts or “agape” feasts are “partying in the daytime for pleasure.” The parallel passage in Jude helps us understand what Peter is saying. The point of the phrase ἡδονὴν ἡγούμενοι τὴν ἐν ἡμέρᾳ τρυφὴν is surely to describe their attitude toward the communal meal or perhaps the breaking of bread / communion. See previous footnote on the meaning of the word τρυφή.

<sup>963</sup> 2:15c The elders of Moab and Midian came to Balaam offering to pay a fee, (Numbers 22:7) or payment, an “honor” (24:11) to be paid to Baalam if he would come with them and curse the Israelites. Balaam inquired of God, and God told him not to go with the men, and not to curse Israel. But Balaam kept re-inquiring of God, in prayer that is wicked, (wicked prayer, because he already had received the answer, but did not like the answer), Balaam kept inquiring of God, even looking for omens (24:1) by sacrificing at different places, apparently hoping that God might change his mind, and then Balaam could earn the fee after all. Certainly, that fee would be a payment from unrighteousness. The thing to note is, that Balaam was a true prophet of Yahweh, and he rightly spoke only what Yahweh told him to speak; yet he is eternally damned because of his heart, because his heart kept hoping to earn some money that was wrong to earn. Motives count to God, not just deeds. Balaam’s heart loved money too much.

The presence or absence of the possessive pronoun ἡμῶν does not necessarily make a difference in translation of this phrase into English, since the definite article τοῦ can also be translated as “our.” The reading of Codex Vaticanus is probably original. I own the ECM1, so that is why these variants are arranged like this; but I adopt the reading of ECM2.

Chapter 3

<sup>1</sup>This now, beloved, is the second epistle I write to you in which<sup>976</sup> I rouse your sincere minds by a reminder, <sup>2</sup>to recall the statements spoken in the past by the holy prophets, and the direction from the Lord and Savior through your<sup>977</sup> apostles, <sup>3</sup>knowing this first of all, that there will come in the last days<sup>978</sup> mockers, conducting themselves according to their own desires, <sup>4</sup>and saying with scorn,<sup>979</sup> “Where is the promise of his coming? Because from the time our fathers passed away, everything continues like it was from the beginning of creation.”

<sup>5</sup>For this escapes them on purpose, that the heavens existed long ago, and the earth from water and through water was put together by the word of God, <sup>6</sup>by which<sup>980</sup> also the then world perished when it was flooded with water,<sup>981</sup> <sup>7</sup>and the present heavens and earth by the same<sup>982</sup> word are reserved for fire, kept until the day of judgment and destruction of ungodly people.

<sup>8</sup>But this one thing must not escape you, beloved, that with the Lord, one day is like a thousand years, and a thousand years like one day. <sup>9</sup>The Lord of that promise is not loitering, as some <sup>975</sup> 2:22c The verb κυλισμὸν “rolling” was used of the dung beetle how it rolled a ball of dung. In turn, the word usually rendered “mire” or mud, means more exactly, “sullied mud, filth.” That is, mud that has dung in it. There is a nuance here that is supposed to revulse the Jewish sense of cleansing; and for this, presence of dung is required. Moreover, there is a parallelism intended with the vomit of a dog, to mention another bodily secretion this time of the pig; again, to revulse the Jewish cleanness. And both dogs and pigs are unclean and despised animals; so much more their secretions.

<sup>976</sup> 3:1 The “in which” is plural, so what follows applies to both epistles.

Perhaps the shorter reading is from scribal familiarity with Jude 18. Note that all the versions (early translations into other languages), except one lone Bohairic manuscript, attest to the longer reading. One factor that could have contributed to this phrase getting lost is Peter’s style of having his modifying phrases frequently being separated by a large distance in the text from their referents.

<sup>981</sup> 3:6b Peter is saying the scoffers know perfectly well that everything has not stayed the same way it was at the beginning of creation. They are intentionally passing over how the earth was radically changed by the flood. (e.g., only after the flood were there 4 seasons, and only after the flood was there rain and erosion, and only after the flood, as a result of rains, erosions, and shorter growing seasons, was man given permission to eat animals. Before the flood, man was allowed only to eat plants. The scoffers are willfully ignoring the book of Genesis.

I now quote Jan Krans from Facebook: Gerd Mink discusses the conjecture in “Problems of a Highly Contaminated Tradition: the New Testament. Stemmata of Variants as a Source of a Genealogy for Witnesses,” in Studies in Stemmatology II (ed. Pieter van Reenen and August A. den Hollander; Amsterdam: Benjamins, 2004), pp. 13-85, p. 27: “... the ECM records the witnesses of erroneous readings as witnesses for the variants which they represent, albeit defectively. There is even an example where the best witnesses omit a negation (1 Peter 3:10/48-50). Although the preceding passage speaks of the passing away of the heavens, and the dissolution of the elements, and the following verses presuppose the dissolution of heaven and earth (for a new heaven and a new earth are waited for), quite superior witnesses here have the reading ‘the earth and all the works that are therein will be found (εὑρεθήσονται [sic; εὑρεθήσεται])’, when logic demands ‘will not be found (οὐχ εὑρεθήσονται [sic])’. The meaning, as a result, is extremely problematic; to my mind the reading does not make sense and must therefore be erroneous. Unquestionably, the hyparchetype of all these witnesses did not have the negation. Now, there are two variants (ἀφανισθήσονται ‘they will disappear’, and κατακαήσεται ‘they will be burned up’), which presuppose and express more graphically a text containing the negation: οὐχ εὑρεθήσονται [sic] ‘they will not be found’. Although it is not preserved in any Greek manuscript, it is probable that the initial text had the negation. Even if these variants which indirectly confirm the negation did not exist, the assumption should still be that the initial text contained the negation required by the sense of the text, even though the negation is not in the graphemic representation of the archetype. To my mind, this is an almost unavoidable conjecture.” Now this was not the first emendation proposed for this verse; according to the BDAG lexicon, the emendation was proposed of “καὶ γῆ κατὰ (for καὶ γῆ καὶ τὰ) ἐν αὐτῇ ἔργα εὑρεθήσεται (cp. PsSol 17:8) ‘and the earth will be judged according to the deeds done on it’ (FDanker, ZNW 53, 62, 82-86).” Many current translations in rendering the NA26/SBL reading τὰ ἐν αὐτῇ ἔργα εὑρεθήσεται interpret the verb εὑρεθήσεται (εὐρίσκω) as “discover, expose.” That is probably the main objection I have seen from people to this emendation; that is: “why not translate the text without the negation as ‘be exposed’? The reason why not is covered in Gerd Mink’s statement above: because the previous material in the text had already said that the earth and heaven would no longer exist. If the earth doesn’t exist at all, how are the works of the earth exposed? They just don’t exist. Exposed as temporary maybe? Perhaps scribes had in mind 1 Cor. 3:10-15, where Paul says everyone’s works will be tried by fire, whether gold, silver, precious stones, wood, hay or stubble. If the works are good, they will last through the fire. But that is not what we have here. The works will vanish. This is more the idea of the humbling of man’s pride- the towers he has built, and the seven wonders of the world, they will be found no more. Like Babylon in Rev. 18:21: Βαβυλῶν ἡ μεγάλη πόλις, καὶ οὐ μὴ εὑρεθῇ ἔτι - great city Babylon will be thrown down, and never more be found. Or, Psalms of Solomon 13:11 ἀμαρτωλοὶ δὲ ἀρθήσονται εἰς ἀπώλειαν, καὶ οὐχ εὑρεθήσεται μνημόσυνον αὐτῶν ἔτι- but sinners shall be taken away into destruction, and their memorial shall never be found.

which it is all melted, the heavens to be dissolved by fire and the elements by burning up? <sup>13</sup>And we are looking forward, according to his promise, to a new heaven and a new earth, in which righteousness is at home.

<sup>14</sup>Wherefore, beloved, looking forward to these things, be diligent to be found by him at peace, from being pure and blameless. <sup>15</sup>And consider the patience of our Lord to be salvation,<sup>989</sup> just as also our beloved brother Paul has written to you according to the wisdom given to him, <sup>16</sup>as also in all his epistles, talking in them about these things, in which<sup>990</sup> are some things hard to understand, which untaught and unstable persons distort,<sup>991</sup> as they do also the rest of the scriptures, to their own destruction.

<sup>17</sup>You therefore, beloved, knowing this ahead of time, guard yourselves so that you not be led away by the error of unprincipled persons and fall from your own firm conviction, <sup>18</sup>but grow<sup>992</sup> in grace and in the knowledge of our lord and savior Jesus Christ. ## Chapter 1

<sup>1</sup>That which existed from the beginning, which we have heard, which we have seen with our eyes, which we have looked at and our hands have examined, talking about the word of life, <sup>2</sup>even that life has been revealed, and we have seen it, and we are bearing witness and announcing to you eternal life, which was with the Father and has been revealed to us. <sup>3</sup>What we have seen and heard we are declaring to you also, so you too may have fellowship with us. And<sup>994</sup> that fellowship of ours is with the Father, and with his son Jesus Christ. <sup>4</sup>And these things we<sup>995</sup> write,<sup>996</sup> so our mutual<sup>997</sup> joy may be full.

<sup>5</sup>And this is the message<sup>998</sup> that we have heard from him and announce to you: that God is light, and in him is no darkness at all. <sup>6</sup>If we say we are in fellowship with him, and are walking in darkness, we are lying, and not doing the truth. <sup>7</sup>If<sup>999</sup> we walk in the light, as he is in the light, we have fellowship with one another, and the blood of Jesus Christ his son<sup>1000</sup> cleanses us from all sin. <sup>8</sup>If we say we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth<sup>1001</sup> is not in us. <sup>9</sup>If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse

(The ECM editors consider the two major Greek readings to be of equal weight.) In the Greek (ἡμῶν), "our" joy here means the shared joy of both the apostles declaring the things and the joy of the recipients; shared together. The sharing of the joy is made possible by the declaration herein of the apostles to the readers. Thus we need to supply a word like "mutual," or it would not be an accurate English rendering, and may sound selfish on John and the apostles' part- "our" in English sounds like only the apostles.

For those who believe that the Greek New Testament was translated from the Syriac/Aramaic Peshitta, please explain how the Greek translator got either only ἡμῶν "our" or ὑμῶν "your" out of the Peshitta's "our joy in you may be complete." It appears far more likely that the Peshitta reading was an attempted conflation of the two Greek readings, and that therefore the Peshitta was a translation from the Greek.

us from all unrighteousness. <sup>10</sup>If we say we have not sinned, we are calling him a liar,<sup>1002</sup> and his word is not in us.

Chapter 2

<sup>1</sup>My children, these things I am writing to you so that you will not sin. And if anyone sins, we have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous; <sup>2</sup>and he is the appeasement for our sins; and not for ours only, but also for the sins of the whole world.

<sup>3</sup>And by this we know that we have known him: if we keep his commandments. <sup>4</sup>Someone who says, “I know him,” and does not keep his commandments, is a liar, and the truth is not in him. <sup>5</sup>But whoever keeps his word, that is the person in whom the love of God really is accomplished. By this we know that we are in him. <sup>6</sup>Someone who claims to abide in him ought also to walk just as<sup>1003</sup> he walked.

<sup>7</sup>Beloved,<sup>1004</sup> I am not writing to you a new commandment, but an old commandment that you have had from the beginning. The old commandment is the word that you have heard.<sup>1005</sup> <sup>8</sup>Yet, it is a new commandment I am writing to you, which is true in him and in you, since the darkness passes away and the true light keeps shining even now.<sup>1006</sup> <sup>9</sup>Someone who claims to be in the light, and hates his brother, is in darkness as of now. <sup>10</sup>Someone who loves his brother is abiding in the light, and there is no cause of stumbling in him.<sup>1007 1008</sup> <sup>11</sup>But someone who hates his brother is in the darkness, and walks in the darkness, and does not know where he is going, because the darkness has blinded his eyes.

<sup>1002</sup> 1:10 The traditional rendering, “make him a liar” is unacceptable, because God cannot be a liar, and he cannot be made a liar. To make someone a liar, means to turn him into a liar. But we cannot turn him into a liar. This sense of “call” for the Greek word ποιέω is the only rendering that makes sense in some other verses as well, eg, “Either call a tree good and its fruit good, or call the tree bad and its fruit bad...” In a mathematical sense, we could render this, “If we say we have not sinned, that amounts to him being a liar.” The TNIV says “we make him out to be a liar,” which rendering does work, because that means “as if to be, but he isn’t. But, “make him out to be a liar” is really a longer way of saying “call him a liar.” Some might object that we are not actually “saying” the word “liar” about him, so we are not “calling” him a liar. That is technically true, but not true in effect. We are in effect calling him a liar.

<sup>1009</sup> 2:12 This is the pattern in 1 John for the use of γράφω ὅτι – It is about WHAT he is writing to them, thus, “I am writing to tell you that...” or “I am writing to you as follows...” not “I am writing to you because...”. John explained in the opening few verses why he is writing. The first epistle of John is meant to be assuring, and give us joy and confidence before Him. John is telling them WHAT things to know FOR CERTAIN, and is assuring his readers that they CAN KNOW some things for certain, and he tells them HOW TO KNOW some things for certain. Young men, you HAVE conquered the evil one. (Much like Ephesians says in chapters 1-3 what God has done for you and where you now stand by his grace; and chapters 4-6 says now therefore walk in light of that which you are told you are, in the first 3 chapters.)

The two subsequent “I have writtens” John had clearly written in the verses previously, but not this first one. But what John is referring to is what he has written in the epistle as a whole. to you that you don't know the truth, but that you do know it. And that every lie is not of the truth.

<sup>22</sup>Who is the liar, if not someone denying as follows, "Jesus is not the Anointed One"? This is antichrist, someone denying the Father and the Son.<sup>1019</sup> <sup>23</sup>Everyone who denies the Son, does not have the Father either. Someone who confesses the Son, has the Father as well.<sup>1020</sup>

<sup>24</sup>You,<sup>1021</sup> what you have heard from the beginning, let it abide in you. If what you heard from the beginning abides in you, you also in the Son and in the Father will abide. <sup>25</sup>And this is the message that He announced to us:<sup>1022</sup> eternal life. <sup>26</sup>These things I have written to you because of those deceiving you.

<sup>27</sup>And you, the anointing that you received from him, it abides in you, and you have no need that someone teach you. But rather, as that anointing from him<sup>1023</sup> has taught you concerning all things,<sup>1024</sup> and is true and is not a lie, so also, just as it has taught you, you be of equal weight. I suspect L. 2 may be an "orthodox corruption," meant to prevent a gnostic interpretation, as the UBS textual commentary also discusses.

<sup>1018</sup> 2:20b Or, perhaps another rendering may be: "19They came out from us, but were not of us. For had they been of us, they would have remained with us. But, so they may be made apparent, that they all are not of us, 20you also have an anointing from the Holy One, and know all people." This would be reminiscent of John's statement about Jesus in the gospel of John 2:24,25, that Jesus knew all people, and did not need to have someone testify about a person, because he knew what was in the person. Thus, this is why John here says "you also have..." because Jesus did, and you also have it. The apostles did, and you also have it. But, the traditional rendering of this is an ellipsis [BDF § 448(7)] as follows: "but, they went out from us, so that they might be exposed that they all are not of us. And you have an anointing from the Holy One and know all things." (There are no actual words in the Greek for the English words I put in italics here.) It isn't any harder to "know all people" than to "know all things." Indeed, there are fewer people than there are things. In the previous verse, v. 19, again the word "all" is problematic: "but so they may be made apparent, that they all are not of us." What good does "going out" do as a sign, if only some of them are thereby shown to be "not of us"? How still would you know who is who? For that "leaving" to be valuable, you would have to render this, "that they be made apparent, that NONE of them are of us." And then can John really be saying that ANYONE who leaves us is not of us? If so, what of Jesus' warning to the disciples that just because someone does not "follow along with us," does not mean they are not with us? (Luke 9:49,50 etc.)

<sup>1019</sup> 2:22 An example of such a denial is found in the Qu'ran: [9.30] And the Jews say: Uzair is the son of Allah; and the Christians say: The Messiah is the son of Allah; these are the words of their mouths; they imitate the saying of those who disbelieved before; may Allah destroy them; how they are turned away! [9.31] They have taken their doctors of law and their monks for lords besides Allah, and (also) the Messiah son of Marium and they were enjoined that they should serve one God only, there is no god but He; far from His glory be what they set up (with Him).

Chapter 3

<sup>1</sup>Behold what manner of love the Father has given to us, that we should be called children of God. And we are! <sup>1029</sup> The reason the world does not know us<sup>1030</sup> is this: it has not known him. <sup>2</sup>Beloved, now we are children of God, though it is not yet revealed what exactly we will be. We<sup>1031</sup> do know that when he is revealed, we will be like him. For we will see him just as he is. <sup>3</sup>And everyone who has this hope on Him purifies himself, just as that one is pure.

<sup>4</sup>Everyone practicing sin is also practicing lawlessness, and sin is lawlessness. <sup>5</sup>And you know that he was revealed so that sins<sup>1032</sup> be taken away, and there is no sin in him. <sup>6</sup>Everyone abiding in him does not sin. Everyone who keeps sinning has not seen him, neither known him.

<sup>7</sup>Children, let no one deceive you: someone who practices righteousness is righteous, just as that one is righteous. <sup>8</sup>Someone who practices sin is of the devil, for the devil has been sinning from the beginning. For this purpose the son of God has been revealed: to destroy the works of the devil. <sup>9</sup>Everyone born of God does not practice sin, because His seed abides in him, and it is not able to sin, because it is born from God.<sup>1033</sup> <sup>10</sup>By this the children of God are evident versus the children of the devil: everyone who does not practice righteousness is not of God, and also someone who does not love his brother.

<sup>1033</sup> 3:9 It is a problem here for most Bibles, which say that a person born of God is not able to sin. The above is the only sensible and possible rendering of the Greek of this verse. John is in unity with Paul, in that he teaches there is a new

<sup>11</sup>Because this is the message which you have heard from the beginning: that we should love one another. <sup>12</sup>Not like Cain, who was of the evil one, and killed his brother. And what was the reason he killed him? Because his own works were evil, and those of his brother were righteous.

man in us and an old man. Also in unity with Paul that we must continually make the decision to "put off the old man, and put on the new." The new is that part that came from the Father, just as we physically were born from our earthly father's sperm. That sperm was wholly our father, and not us. That sperm, that seed, was no part of us, but is from outside us. It cannot sin; our old man can.

<sup>21</sup>Beloved, when our<sup>1047</sup> heart does not accuse us,<sup>1048</sup> we have confidence with God, <sup>22</sup>and whatever we ask, we receive from him, because we are keeping his commandments, and doing the things that are pleasing in his sight.

<sup>23</sup>And this is his commandment: that we believe<sup>1049</sup> in the name of his son Jesus Christ, and that we love one another, just as he gave us<sup>1050</sup> commandment. <sup>24</sup>And someone keeping his commandments is abiding in Him, and He in that person. And by this we know that we abide in him: by the Spirit which he has given to us.

Chapter 4

<sup>1</sup>Beloved, do not believe every spirit, but test the spirits, whether they are of God; because many false prophets have gone out into the world. <sup>2</sup>By this you know<sup>1051</sup> the spirit of God: every spirit that confesses that Jesus Christ has come in the flesh, is of God, <sup>3</sup>and every spirit that does not confess<sup>1052</sup> Jesus [Christ has come in the flesh],<sup>1053</sup> is not of God. And this is antichrist, which you have heard that he<sup>1054</sup> was coming, and now is in the world already. <sup>4</sup>You are of God, children, and have overcome him, because greater is he that is in you than he that is in the world. <sup>5</sup>They are of the world; therefore speak they of the world, and the world hears them. <sup>6</sup>We are of God. Someone who knows God hears us; someone who is not of God does not hear us. From this<sup>1055</sup> we recognize the spirit of truth versus the spirit of error.<sup>1056</sup>

<sup>7</sup>Beloved, let us love one another; for love is of God, and everyone who loves is born of God, and knows God. <sup>8</sup>Someone who does not love has not known God, for God is love. <sup>9</sup>To us the love of God was made known in this: that God sent his only begotten son into the world so we might be saved through him. <sup>10</sup>Herein is love, not that we loved<sup>1057</sup> God, but that he loved us, and sent his Son as the appeasement for our sins.

<sup>11</sup>Beloved, if that is how God loved us, we ought also to love<sup>1058</sup> one another.<sup>1059</sup> <sup>12</sup>No one has ever seen God. When we love one another, God abides in us, and his love is accomplished in us. <sup>13</sup>By this we know that we are abiding in him and he in us: because he has given to us of his Spirit.

<sup>14</sup>And we have seen, and we bear witness, that the Father has sent the Son as savior of the world. <sup>15</sup>Whoever<sup>1060</sup> confesses that Jesus is the son of God, God abides in that person, and that person in God. <sup>16</sup>And we have known and believed the love that God has in us. God is love; and someone who abides in love is abiding in God, and God in him.<sup>1061</sup> <sup>17</sup>In this, love is accomplished with us, so that in the day of judgment we may have confidence that just as that one is, we in this world also are.<sup>1062</sup> <sup>18</sup>There is no fear in love, but perfect love casts out fear. Because fear has to do with punishment, and someone who is afraid is not accomplished in love. <sup>19</sup>We can love,<sup>1063</sup> because he first loved us.

<sup>20</sup>If anyone says, "I love God," and he hates his brother, he is a liar. For someone who does not love his brother whom he has seen, cannot love God whom he has not seen.<sup>1064</sup> <sup>21</sup>And this commandment we have from him: that he who loves God must also love his brother.

<sup>1087</sup> 5:18c Or, “does not touch it.” I don’t see this as the believer keeping himself (I agree that ὁ γεννηθεὶς is elsewhere not used of the believer, -in fact it is not used at all anywhere else in the Greek Bible, and I agree that it is not referring to the believer here), but more along the lines of Paul’s teaching in Romans 7:15-25, that when I sin, it is not “I” who is sinning, but sin that dwells within me. Thus the idea that the new man, the new creation, the new generation in me born from God, does not sin, but the former man does, and is still present in me, trying to control my body, at war with the new man in me that was generated by God. The new generation, that part of me that was born from God cannot sin; everything born of God does not sin. It is correct to expect the two different apostles to be in harmony with each other in their teachings, as they had the same teacher and the one and the same Holy Spirit. As in fact they are in agreement.

<sup>1088</sup> 5:19 The Greek phrase ἐν τῷ πονηρῷ κεῖται hints at helplessness and powerlessness or passivity of some kind, “in” the evil one. Something like “lies helpless, lies asleep, or lies dead.” These were some of the meanings of the word κεῖμαι, according to the Liddell and Scott lexicon. But the word can also mean “situated in, exist.” The word for “in” would indicate limits of the subjects’ universe. There is a connotation of captivity and limitation. It is problematic to phrase this as simply “the whole world lies in the evil one,” since today’s schools, at least in the USA, allow students and English speakers to fail to understand the distinction between the intransitive form of the word, “lie,” versus the transitive form, “lay.” A great many Americans know English so poorly, that they might mis-understand the phrase “the whole world lies in the evil one” to mean, “the whole world ‘tells lies,’ ‘deceives’ in the evil one.”

Endnote on 1 John 2:12-14

There is a significant variation between the NA28 text and the Robinson/Pierpont text here, as follows.

First the NA28:

γράφω ὑμῖν τεκνία, ὅτι ἀφέωνται ὑμῖν αἱ ἁμαρτίαι διὰ τὸ ὄνομα αὐτοῦ.
γράφω ὑμῖν πατέρες, ὅτι ἐγνώκατε τὸν ἀπ' ἀρχῆς.
γράφω ὑμῖν νεανίσκοι, ὅτι νενικήκατε τὸν πονηρόν.

ἔγραψα ὑμῖν παιδία ὅτι ἐγνώκατε τὸν πατέρα.
ἔγραψα ὑμῖν πατέρες ὅτι ἐγνώκατε τὸν ἀπ' ἀρχῆς.
ἔγραψα ὑμῖν νεανίσκοι ὅτι ἰσχυροὶ ἐστε καὶ ὁ λόγος τοῦ θεοῦ ἐν ὑμῖν μένει καὶ νενικήκατε τὸν πονηρόν.

Now the RP text:

γράφω ὑμῖν τεκνία, ὅτι ἀφέωνται ὑμῖν αἱ ἁμαρτίαι διὰ τὸ ὄνομα αὐτοῦ.
γράφω ὑμῖν πατέρες, ὅτι ἐγνώκατε τὸν ἀπ' ἀρχῆς.
γράφω ὑμῖν νεανίσκοι, ὅτι νενικήκατε τὸν πονηρόν.
γράφω ὑμῖν παιδία ὅτι ἐγνώκατε τὸν πατέρα.

ἔγραψα ὑμῖν πατέρες ὅτι ἐγνώκατε τὸν ἀπ' ἀρχῆς.
ἔγραψα ὑμῖν νεανίσκοι ὅτι ἰσχυροὶ ἐστε καὶ ὁ λόγος τοῦ θεοῦ ἐν ὑμῖν μένει καὶ νενικήκατε τὸν πονηρόν.

The NA28 has two sets of 3 sayings. The RP has sets of 4 and 2, and begins verse 14 at the 5th saying rather than the 4th saying as the NA28 does. The NA28 says "to you I write" 3 times, and "to you I have written" 3 times. The RP text says "to you I write" 4 times, and "to you I have written" 2 times.

I propose the reason for this is some scribe changed the first "I have written," (ἔγραψα) to, "I write," (γράφω) because he saw this one "I have written" as a false statement. Since he was understanding the word ὅτι as a quotation mark, and not as meaning "because" like almost all English translations do.

I will show it in English as he understood ὅτι, so you can clearly see what I mean:

To you children, I write: "Your sins are forgiven you for his name's sake."
To you fathers, I write: "You know him who existed from the beginning."
To you young men, I write: "You have overcome the evil one."

I have written to you children that you have known the Father.
I have written to you fathers that you have known him who existed from the beginning.
I have written to you young men that you are strong and the word of God abides in you and you have overcome the evil one.

The scribe saw the statement, "I have written to you children that you have known the Father," and thought it was false, since John had not stated such in the previous 3 sayings. So he changed it to "I write." (γράφω) Whereas all the other "I have writtens" match two previous "I write" statements.

As for me, I take the word ὅτι as a quotation mark, rather than meaning "because." And the seeming false statement is no problem to me, because John is simply previewing what he will write in the epistle as a whole, not limiting what he is referring to to just the few previous verses.

Second Epistle General of John

2 John

<sup>1</sup>The Elder, to the elect lady,<sup>1095</sup> and to her children; whom I love in the truth; and not only I, but also everyone who knows assuredly the truth, <sup>2</sup>by means of the truth that dwells<sup>1096</sup> within us, and will stay with us for eternity. <sup>3</sup>Grace and mercy and peace shall follow us,<sup>1097</sup> from God the Father and from Jesus Christ<sup>1098</sup> the Father's Son, in truth and love.

<sup>4</sup>It cheered me greatly that I have found children of yours walking in the truth, in accordance with the commandment we received from the Father. <sup>5</sup>And now I beseech you, Lady, not as writing a new commandment to you, but one which we have had from the beginning: that we should love one another. <sup>6</sup>And this is love: that we walk according to his commandments. This commandment is just as you have heard from the beginning, so that<sup>1099</sup> you would walk in it.

<sup>7</sup>For many deceivers have gone out<sup>1100</sup> into the world, who do not confess Jesus Christ as coming in the flesh. This is the Deceiver and Antichrist. <sup>8</sup>Watch yourselves, so that you not lose<sup>1101</sup> the things we have worked for,<sup>1102</sup> but receive your full reward.

<sup>1095</sup> v. 1 There is much discussion in the reference books about the meaning of the word κυρία here. Most translations render it "lady," which does not communicate the fact that this word is the feminine inflection of the word "lord." Its primary meaning is of a woman who directs slaves or servants, i.e., a woman wealthy enough to own a home with servants. One of the main alternative interpretations is that this κύρια is figuratively the church, and her "children" are the people of the church. I do not consider this one a valid possibility, since I follow one of the maxims of hermeneutics, which states that when the plain sense of scripture makes common sense, seek no other sense. Though the Bauer Lexicon under εκλεκτός says "personification of the assembly," I do not buy it. A third possibility discussed is that Κυρία was someone's name. But the Bauer Lexicon says that that use was "rare and late." I think the use here is simply a term of respect for a woman whom John has disciplined, who is noble and influential, and who has many children. John could be speaking of either her natural children, or her spiritual children.

The ECM editors consider the readings μένουσαν and ἐνοίκουσαν to be of equal value. I think even though they are two different words, that readers and scribes both, are so used to hearing John use the word μένω as meaning "indwelling," or abiding IN something, so that some scribes uncounsciously replaced μένουσαν with ἐνοίκουσαν. In other words, people familiar with John's writings equated the two in this kind of saying. Note that with the preposition ἐν following as it does in most all MSS, ἐνοίκουσαν is redundant. As for the third reading, with ουσαν in the continuous aspect, the meaning is really close to the same as the μένουσαν- continuing to be in us. staying in us, abiding in us.

There is not much difference in meaning between γενέσθαι and ελθεῖν in this context. But between ἀλλὰ and γὰρ there is. Either way, however, John is giving a reason why he did not write to them all the things he wants to communicate, since he intends to come to them. This variant footnote combines what are usually two footnotes, including Teststelle # 81 in Text und Textwert, which treats only the latter part, and does not include the ἀλλὰ ἐλπίζω portion. I did it this way because it gives a good picture of what the manuscript groupings are for 2 John.

It only makes sense as being part of liturgy. The word Ἀμήν was a common liturgical addition which got confused as real text. The textual evidence that John did not write the word Amen in this epistle is absolutely overwhelming. It is this kind of clearly spurious addition to the word of God that makes me lose respect for Codex K and the Byzantine text type, no matter how great the number of minuscules that follow it. Also, the fact that Byzantine text advocates will not budge even on this kind of variant, makes me lose respect for those people.

3 John

<sup>5</sup>Dear friend, you do commendably whatever you labor at<sup>1110</sup> for the brothers, that is, for those travelers,<sup>1111 1112</sup> <sup>6</sup>who have testified before the church about your love. Whom you will do well to supply for their journeys in a manner worthy of God. <sup>7</sup>Because, you see, for the sake of the Name they have gone forth, accepting nothing from the Gentiles.<sup>1113 1114</sup>

<sup>8</sup>We therefore ought to take them who are like this under our roof,<sup>1115</sup> so we will become co-laborers with them in the truth. <sup>9</sup>Which<sup>1116</sup> I have written to your church; but Diotrephes, who wishes to be the leader over them,<sup>1117</sup> does not welcome us.<sup>1118</sup> <sup>10</sup>For which

The result is clean, and very clear.

The ECM editors consider the readings with and without γὰρ to be of equal weight. The word γὰρ here connects the idea in verse 2, that Gaius' soul is prospering, connects that with the report in verse 3 that John has received, that Gaius is walking in the truth.

<sup>1109</sup> v. 3b See BAGD in nr. 5, that after words of saying, like the word "testify" is here, καθὼς means "how, that." (After all, it is a contraction of κατὰ ὥς.)

(A few Gk mss read ξενούς instead of ξένους, and the Latin & Syriac witnesses are not useful as to the Greek case inflection thereof.) The reading with τοῦτο is the most difficult one. In fact, the whole verse 5 is the most difficult verse in 3 John to translate. For some translators have had difficulty with the fact that there are two verbs in the verse, ποιεῖς and ἐργάσῃ. Indeed, some copyists conformed the subjunctive of ἐργάσῃ to the present indicative of ποιεῖς. I get the impression that the term "the brothers" refers to one set of known traveling brothers. And not to "the brethren" generally, or the congregation in Gaius' church.

<sup>1112</sup> v. 5d Classically the word "stranger" meant "alien, traveler, sojourner." Both Zeus, the God of the Greeks, and Yahweh, the God of the Jews, warn us to be sure to be hospitable to "strangers." This use here of strangers probably means someone that Gaius did not previously know. Still, most Greek speakers would be aware of the classical connotation of the word.

The ECM editors consider the NA28 and RP readings to be of equal weight. The word τι is an indefinite pronoun, with many meanings, depending on context and construction. It is also used as a relative pronoun, which I believe it is here.

<sup>1117</sup> v. 9b This is the first example of the error of the idea of one leader who is over all the other leaders. This idea is contrary to the teachings of the apostles, who deliberately appointed multiple, co-equal pastors in each church. The apostles as well, were co-equal to each other. In fact, I think the primary purpose of this third epistle of John is to combat reason when I come, I will bring up the works that he has been doing, making frivolous charges against us with oppressive words. And not satisfied with this, neither does he welcome those brothers. And the ones that try to, he prevents, even throws them out of the church.

<sup>11</sup>Dear friend, do not imitate the bad, but rather the good. Someone<sup>1119</sup> practicing the good is of God. Someone practicing the bad, has not seen God.

<sup>12</sup>Demetrius is borne witness to by all, and by the truth itself. And we also bear witness, and you know<sup>1120</sup> that our testimony is true.

the arising error of Diotrephes, the error of the idea of one supreme leader. God has been against this idea throughout the whole Bible. Israel had multiple judges and prophets, but the people wanted a king. God warned them against that. Do a study of how leadership was structured in the New Testament. Start with these passages:

When they had ordained elders in every church, Acts 14:23.

Elders of the church in Ephesus, Acts 20:17

Ordain elders in every city, Titus 1:5

Let him call for the elders of the church, James 5:14.

I Peter 5:1,2, "The elders among you I exhort, overseers of the flock..." Here Peter equates elders, presbuteroi, with overseers, episkopoi "bishops."

Acts 20:28, (see 20:17, elders of the church of Ephesus, 20:28, Paul now calls them overseers, episkopoi, so Paul also equates presbuteroi with episkopoi.

Philippians 1:1, the church there has plural overseers.

Titus 1:5, 7 Paul says appoint elders...for an overseer is... Paul again equates an elder with an overseer.

We can say that the office of elder and the office of overseer are the same office. The overseers should naturally be somewhat elder, especially elder in the faith (I Timothy 3:6, he must not be a recent convert) and one of their main functions is to both oversee and to visit; both meanings of episkopew.

Here in 3 John, there were some traveling brothers mentioned, who possibly had some supervisory function. That would make them, taking from the lists of offices and/or gifts, one of the following: apostles, prophets, or teachers.

<sup>1118</sup> v. 9b Or, "does not approve of us." Also in v. 10 in reference to "the brothers."

Some might have been suspicious of how the phrase σοι γράφειν is in this verse twice in some form. If the Byzantine text is right, it would be less redundant, and read as follows: "I had many things to write, but to YOU I do not wish to write by paper and ink." In other words, "you are too special, I would rather see you face to face." Cf. 2 John 12, which has no such redundancy. Yet perhaps that comparison is the very thing that caused some scribes to unconsciously or consciously be averse to the redundancy. The fact that the reading with σοι comes in two different word sequences, also makes it somewhat suspect.

<sup>1122</sup> v. 14-15 The Westcott & Hort and the ECM GNT editions assign a verse number 15 at this point. This makes a lot of sense. But it has resulted in the situation that some translations have a verse 15 and some do not. The TR, the Robinson-Pierpont, and the NA28 editions do not have a v. 15, but continue the same text as that v. 15, but only as a longer v. 14. I do have a v. 15, because the ECM edition is the most current state of the Greek New Testament.

Note on 3 John 5

Ἀγαπητέ, πιστὸν ποιεῖς ὃ ἐὰν ἐργάσῃ εἰς τοὺς ἀδελφοὺς καὶ τοῦτο εἰς τοὺς ξένους,
 Dear friend, you do commendably whatever you labor at for the brothers, and this for strangers.

I get the impression that the term "the brothers" refers to one set of known traveling brothers. And not to "the brethren" generally, or the congregation in Gaius' church. Especially if the Byzantine reading in red is the correct one, which I would translate, "for the brothers, that is, the strangers [the traveling brothers]."

If it did refer to the congregation and Christian brothers in general, then perhaps this instead would be the correct rendering:

"Dear friend, it is commendable, whatever you labor at for the brethren, this you are doing even for strangers."

For some translators have had difficulty with the fact that there are two verbs in the verse, ποιεῖς and ἐργάσῃ. Indeed, some copyists conformed the subjunctive of ἐργάσῃ to the present indicative of ποιεῖς.

The Epistle General of

Jude

<sup>1</sup>Jude, a servant of Jesus Christ, and brother of James, to those who are called, beloved to God the Father, and kept by Jesus Christ, <sup>2</sup>mercy and peace and love be multiplied to you.

<sup>3</sup>Beloved, as I was making all speed to write to you concerning our shared salvation, I felt a need to write to you exhorting that you earnestly contend for the faith that was once delivered to the saints. <sup>4</sup>For a certain type have crept in, already designated for this fate, ungodly people, turning the grace of our God into licentiousness, and thus contradicting our only Master and Lord, Jesus Christ.

<sup>5</sup>But I want to remind you, though you have known all this at one time, how even though Jesus delivered the people from the land of Egypt, he later nevertheless destroyed the ones who did not believe. <sup>6</sup>And the angels that did not preserve their high position, but deserted their proper home, those he has held under heavy darkness with eternal chains, for the judgment of the great day. <sup>7</sup>In the same way, Sodom and Gomorra and the surrounding towns, who engaged in sexual debauchery and went after abnormal flesh, they are set forth as an example of people undergoing the punishment of eternal fire.

<sup>8</sup>Yet despite all that, these people, deluded, not only defile the flesh, but discount authorities, and insult higher powers. <sup>9</sup>In contrast Michael the archangel, during a dispute with the Devil, when he was arguing over the body of Moses, he dared not make a disparaging accusation, but said, "The Lord rebuke you." <sup>10</sup>But this type, what things they don't understand, they denigrate, and things instinctive, like what unreasoning animals understand, by those things they are destroyed.

<sup>12</sup>This type are the unseen obstacles<sup>1127</sup> in your communal meals, feasting without reverence; shepherding only themselves,<sup>1128</sup> clouds without water, driven on by the winds; trees turned color<sup>1129</sup> without fruiting, doubly dead, uprooted; <sup>13</sup>wild waves of the sea

<sup>1126</sup> Jude 11 The elders of Moab and Midian were offering a fee, (Numbers 22:7) or payment, an "honor" (24:11) to be paid to Balaam if he would curse the Israelites. Balaam inquired of God, and God told him not to go with the men, and not to curse Israel. But Balaam kept re-inquiring of God, in prayer that is wicked, (wicked prayer, because he already had received the answer, but did not like the answer), Balaam kept inquiring of God, even looking for omens (24:1) by sacrificing at different places, apparently hoping that God might change his mind, and then Balaam could earn the fee after all. Certainly, that would be a payment from unrighteousness. The thing to note is, that Balaam was a true prophet of Yahweh, and he rightly spoke only what Yahweh told him to speak; yet he is eternally damned because of his heart, because his heart kept hoping to earn some money that was wrong to earn. Motives count to God, not just deeds. Balaam's heart loved money too much.

frothing up their disgrace; planets off course; for whom absolute blackness of darkness is reserved for ever.

<sup>14</sup>But even Enoch, the seventh from Adam, prophesied these things, saying, "Behold, the Lord has come, with myriads<sup>1130</sup> of his holy ones, <sup>15</sup>to pass judgment against all, and to convict all the ungodly<sup>1131</sup> concerning all their ungodly acts which they have godlessly done, and concerning all the harsh words which ungodly sinners have spoken against him." <sup>16</sup>These are grumblers, blamers, proceeding according to their own desires,<sup>1132</sup> yet their mouth speaks swelling things admiring important people to gain favor.

<sup>17</sup>But you, beloved, recall the matters foretold by the apostles of our Lord Jesus Christ, <sup>18</sup>how they told you that in latter times there would be imitators,<sup>1133</sup> who proceed according to their own impious desires. <sup>19</sup>These are the separators; natural,<sup>1134</sup> not having the Spirit.

<sup>20</sup>But you, beloved, building yourselves up in your most holy faith, praying in the Holy Spirit, <sup>21</sup>keep yourselves in the love of God, anticipating the mercy of our Lord Jesus Christ, into eternal life.

<sup>22</sup>And on some you should have mercy, who are doubting; <sup>23</sup>others, save like snatching them from the fire; and others, have the mercy with fear, hating even the garment defiled by their flesh.

<sup>24</sup>Now to Him who has the power to keep you from stumbling, and to stand you in the presence of his glory blameless and exulting, <sup>25</sup>to the only God our savior through Jesus

<sup>1130</sup> Jude 14 A myriad is ten thousand, but pluralized- multiple 10 thousands. But in this kind of literature it just means a huge number.

<sup>1131</sup> Jude 15a "Every soul" or "all the ungodly"? In the passage Jude is quoting, Enoch 1:2-9, everyone, all people, even the Watchers, tremble in fear at his coming, and the judgment that follows, includes judgment upon the righteous. Enoch 1.5 "And all will be afraid, and the Watchers will shake, and fear and great trembling will seize them, up to the ends of the earth." Enoch 1.7 "And the earth will sink, and everything that is on the earth will be destroyed, and there will be judgment upon all, and upon all the righteous." Then v. 9 is where it says, "And behold! He comes with ten thousand Holy Ones; to execute judgment upon them and to destroy the impious, and to contend with all flesh concerning everything that the sinners and the impious have done and wrought against Him." Quotation of Enoch is from A Modern English Translation of the Ethiopian Book of Enoch with introduction and notes by Andy McCracken.

<sup>1132</sup> Jude 16 Also v. 18, "proceeding according to their own desires" in contrast to Romans 8:14, "For as many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God"

<sup>1133</sup> Jude 18 The basic meaning of ἐμπαίζω is mimicing in order to trick, counterfeit or defraud; this was foretold. We forget that the word "mock" means to mimic, imitate. Though the renderings "scoffers" or "mockers" are also possible, that fits better with the 2 Peter 3 context, whereas Jude is talking of people who are attending the communion meals with us, and have an appearance of spirituality. And when speaking of the Old Testament, they were people who were in among the people of God as well. They are not scoffers of religion, but pretenders among us. The gnostics were some. Many interpreters think Jude is borrowing concepts from the gnostics in order to mock them. The chief counterfeiter will be the antichrist. But there are many antichrists.

<sup>1134</sup> Jude 19 ψυχικός classically is about the unseen, vs. the seen body. It is indeed "spirituality" in the sense that it is not the seen physical matters of the body. Yet it is a spirituality that is natural and commonplace, (even animals have it) and does not require the Holy Spirit from above. This counterfeit spirituality is often only about emotions; and it even sometimes thinks it is superior to genuine, sober, self-controlled spiritual people. These are "spiritual" people, but not having the Sprit. They are imitators, pretenders, fakes, counterfeits.

Christ our Lord, to him are multiplied glory, rule and authority, in all ages before, and now, and all ages to come. Amen.

The Revelation of John

Chapter 1

Prologue

<sup>1</sup>The Revelation of Jesus Christ, which God gave to him, to show to his servants what things must soon take place, and which he communicated when he sent it via his angel to his servant John, <sup>2</sup>who has confirmed as the word of God and the testimony of Jesus Christ, what all things<sup>1135</sup> he saw.<sup>1136</sup>

<sup>3</sup>How fortunate the one reading and those listening to the words of the prophecy, and keeping the things written therein, for the time is near.

<sup>4</sup>John, to the seven churches in Asia, grace to you, and peace, from Him<sup>1137</sup> who is, and who was, and who is to come, and from the seven spirits before his throne, <sup>5</sup>and from Jesus Christ, the faithful witness,<sup>1138</sup> the firstborn from the dead, and ruler over the kings of the earth. To him who loves us, and freed<sup>1139</sup> us from our sins with<sup>1140</sup> his blood, <sup>6</sup>and made us into a kingdom of priests<sup>1141</sup> for his God and Father— to him be glory and power, for ever and ever. The TR reading is based on about eight late and unimportant mss. The first reading preserves the formula for the divine name that had arisen from rabbinical exegesis of Exodus 3:14 ἐγὼ εἰμι ὁ ὢν (יהוה אלהי אברהם אברהם).

<sup>1138</sup> 1:5a Or, "the faithful martyr." The Greek word translated witness here is martyr, and there is good reason it came to have the connotation of one who is killed for his witness. For that is what happened to Jesus Christ, and also to Antipas, mentioned later in this book in 2:13, where he is also called a faithful witness/martyr.

The "freed" reading is reminiscent of λέλυται αὐτῆς ἡ ἁμαρτία in Isaiah 40:2, and it fits better with the preposition ἐν, see other footnote on this verse.

<sup>1140</sup> 1:5c This is a Hebraistic use of the preposition "en" meaning "with" in the sense of what item or money you use to pay for something. For example, "I bought the camera with the money you gave me." Jesus' blood was the thing of value exchanged for our freedom. This use of this preposition is a pointer in favor of the "freed" reading versus the "washed" reading, according to the Textual Commentary on the Greek New Testament. That copyists, not understanding this, thought that "washed in" made more sense than "freed in."

<sup>1141</sup> 1:6c See Mussies, G., "The Morphology of Koine Greek, as used in the Apocalypse of St. John: A Study in Bilingualism," Leiden, Brill Academic Pub. Novum Testamentum, Suppl. 27 (1971), "This line, as Charles has pointed out, is a quotation from Symmachus' and Theodotion's rather literal versions of Exodus 19:6, 'a kingdom of priests'. The LXX-version has βασιλειον ιεράτευμα (quoted in 1 Peter 2:9), and Aquila translated by βασιλείαν ιερέων. Editors should therefore not place a comma after βασιλείαν, as ιερείς is not an apposition, but represents a more grammatical ιερέων." (genitive plural)

<sup>7</sup>Behold, he is coming with the clouds, and every eye shall see him, including of those who pierced him. And all the peoples of the earth shall beat their breasts over him.<sup>1142</sup> Let it be so, amen.

<sup>8</sup>"I am the Alpha and the Omega,"<sup>1143</sup> says the Lord God, "the one who is, and who was, and who is to come, the Almighty."

Someone Like a Son of Man

<sup>9</sup>I, John, your brother and fellow in the oppression and kingdom and endurance in Jesus, was on the island called Patmos because of the word of God and the testimony of Jesus.<sup>1144</sup> <sup>10</sup>I was in the Spirit during the Lord's day, and I heard behind me a loud voice, like of a trumpet, <sup>11</sup>saying,<sup>1146</sup> "What you see, write in a book, and send it to the seven churches— to Ephesus, and to Smyrna, and to Pergamum, and to Thyatira, and to Sardis, and to Philadelphia, and to Laodicea."

<sup>12</sup>And I turned around to see the voice that was speaking with me. And when I turned, I saw seven golden lampstands, <sup>13</sup>and in among the lampstands<sup>1147</sup> was someone like a son of man,<sup>1148</sup> dressed in a cloak reaching down to his feet, and gird around at the pecks<sup>1149</sup> with a golden sash, <sup>14</sup>except his head and his hairs were white like wool, as white as snow, and his eyes like flames of fire, <sup>15</sup>and his feet like bronze as if made to glow in a furnace, and his voice like the sound of many waters, <sup>16</sup>and he was holding in his right hand seven stars, and out of his mouth was coming a sharp two-edged sword, and his face was like the sun shining in the strength of it.

<sup>1148</sup> 1:13a It is customary to render this phrase as "like a Son of Man," so that it reminds the reader of this phrase in the prophets Ezekiel and Daniel, etc. But it would be more accurate to translate it "like a human," because that is what seems to be the emphasis here in contrast to later given non-human traits. John first gives traits of him that are human, and then he begins verse 14 with "but," and proceeds in the next several verses to tell us traits that are not human.

<sup>1149</sup> 1:13e Literally, "breasts,"- mastoîs but that would be very unidiomatic for English, and it essentially means chest, as in 15:6, where the seven angels also have a golden sash around their chest, and there the Greek word used is stêthos, "chest." But I didn't want to translate mastoîs as a singular word like chest, when the Greek is plural, so I used "pecs" which is short for pectorals.

<sup>4</sup>"But I have against you that you have left your first love. <sup>5</sup>Remember therefore from where you have fallen, and repent and do your first works; otherwise I am coming to you<sup>1152</sup> and will remove your lampstand from its place, unless you repent.

<sup>6</sup>"But this you have, that you hate the deeds of the Nicolaitans, which I also hate. <sup>7</sup>He who has an ear should listen to what the Spirit is saying to the churches. To him who overcomes, I will grant to eat from the tree of life, which is in the paradise of God.

To the Church in Smyrna

<sup>11</sup>He who has an ear should listen to what the Spirit is saying to the churches. He who overcomes will certainly not be harmed by the second death.

To the Church in Pergamum

<sup>12</sup>"And to the angel of the church in Pergamum, write: 'These things says He who has the sharp two-edged sword: <sup>13</sup>I know where you live,<sup>1153</sup> where Satan's throne is; yet you hold fast to my law and have not denied my faith, even<sup>1154</sup> in the days of Antipas my faithful witness<sup>1155</sup> who was put to death near you, where Satan lives.

<sup>14</sup>"But I have a few things against you, that you have some there who hold to the teaching of Balaam, who taught Balak to put a stumbling block before the children of Israel, to eat idol sacrifices and to commit sexual immorality. <sup>15</sup>So also in the same way you have some who hold to the teaching of the Nicolaitans.<sup>1156</sup> <sup>16</sup>Repent therefore. Otherwise I am coming to you soon, and will fight against them with the sword of my mouth.

<sup>17</sup>"He who has an ear should listen to what the Spirit is saying to the churches. He who overcomes, I will give to him from the hidden manna, and I will also give him a white stone, and on the stone a new name is written, which no one knows except the one receiving it.

To the Church in Thyatira

<sup>18</sup>"And to the angel of the church in Thyatira, write: 'These things says the Son of God, he who has his eyes like flames of fire and his feet like glowing bronze: <sup>19</sup>I know your works and love and faith and service, and your perseverance, how your last works are greater than your first.<sup>1157</sup>

I think that the addition of ὃ μισῶ was from scribes thinking of 2:6, and that ὁμοίως is the original text. The omission however, also commends itself as a possibility.

<sup>1157</sup> 2:19 The five traits in this list are not stated as one clause, but two clauses. The trait perseverance is set apart into a separate phrase and new train of thought by the possessive pronoun "sou" appearing with it again after it not being present with the previous three traits. Then the καὶ following it is meant to connect the next phrase with it in a Semitic "and" of explanation, where better Greek would have used a different word such as ὅτι, that is, "and I know your perseverance, how your last works are greater than your first." There are several, and possibly many, other examples of this in the apocalypse.

<sup>20</sup>“But I have against you<sup>1158</sup> that you tolerate that woman<sup>1159</sup> Jezebel, who calls herself a prophetess and teaches, and leads my servants astray, to commit sexual immorality and to eat things sacrificed to idols. <sup>21</sup>And I have given her time to repent, and she is not willing to repent of her sexual immorality. <sup>22</sup>Behold, I am casting her onto a bed, along with the ones committing adultery with her, for an affliction of great magnitude, unless they repent of her works.<sup>1160</sup> <sup>23</sup>And her children I will destroy in death; and all the churches will know that I am He who searches minds<sup>1161</sup> and hearts, and that I will pay to each of you according to your works.

<sup>24</sup>“And to the rest of you in Thyatira I say, as many as do not hold to these teachings– the ones<sup>1162</sup> who have not known ‘the deep things of Satan,’ as they say, I am not laying any further burden upon you. <sup>25</sup>Except what things you have, hold on to them until I come. <sup>26</sup>And he who overcomes and keeps my works to the end, I will give him authority over the nations, <sup>27</sup>and he will rule them with a rod of iron, shattering them to pieces like pots of clay, <sup>28</sup>even as I also have received from my Father;<sup>1163</sup> and I will give to him the morning star.

<sup>1161</sup> 2:23 The Greek says νεφροὺς, kidneys. Different languages and cultures use varying body parts for designating the seat of desire and affection. This use of "kidneys" isn't any less reasonable than how we use the heart for some things. The heart of course is really just a muscle. The tribe I was raised with in Papua New Guinea used several body organs. They would say, "God cleansed my stomach, and came in to live in my liver." This use of the kidneys came from the Hebrew culture, and the King James Version and older English translations render it "reins." (When you look at a picture in a medical book of the tubes coming down from the kidneys to the bladder, it does look like reins on a horse.) And according to Diodorus, the kidneys and the heart were the only organs left in the body cavity by Egyptian embalmers. See also Jeremiah 11:20; 17:10; 20:12.

<sup>1162</sup> 2:24 The Textus Receptus is very faulty in this verse; it adds two instances of the Greek word καί, "and," which are not in the Greek manuscripts. Thus the KJV erroneously reads the extra "and"s.

<sup>1163</sup> 2:28 Jesus is saying that he will give to us who overcome, the same authority that he himself has been given according to Psalm 2:9. See also Psalm 149:4-9.

The Throne in Heaven

<sup>1</sup>After these things I looked, and behold, an open door in heaven, and a voice speaking with me, the voice like a trumpet I had heard at first; and it was saying, "Come up here, and I will show you what things must take place after this." <sup>2</sup>Immediately I was in the Spirit; and behold, there was situated in heaven a throne, and on the throne someone sitting. <sup>3</sup>And the one sitting was like <sup>1173</sup> jasper stone and carnelian <sup>1174</sup> in appearance. And in between the throne and the circle around the throne are four living beings, <sup>1180</sup> full of eyes, front and back. <sup>7</sup>And the first being is like a lion, and the second being like an ox, and the third being has a human face, and the fourth being is like an eagle in flight. <sup>8</sup>And the four beings, every one of them has six wings each, which are covered completely around with eyes, even inward. There is a passage in Ezekiel containing many similarities to this passage, Ezekiel 1:26-28, and there the throne is described as looking like stones similar to here. One wonders if some copyists conformed this passage to the one in Ezekiel. It seems more appropriate to describe a throne in terms of stones rather than a person. Yet the one seated is not human. So was the situation instead that some copyists were trying to clarify that it was the one sitting that was like that in appearance. At any rate, the stone carnelian is flesh-colored. One could understand either reading as referring to the one sitting. On the one hand, the rule of "lectio brevior lectio potior" favors the shorter reading here. The shorter reading makes fine sense, by simply putting a comma between verses 2 and 3. It seems reasonable that the longer reading is an added explanatory phrase. On the other hand, the seeming redundancy of the NA27 reading, after v. 2 having just said, "someone sitting" already, is very Johannine in style.

<sup>1174</sup> 4:3b Greek, sárdion. Some also render this as Sardius. The English word carnelian is derived from the Latin root carn, from which we get carnal and carnivore and carne, and was named that because the stone was flesh-colored. The Oxford dictionary defines carnelian as a flesh-colored, deep red, or reddish-white variety of chalcedony.

<sup>1175</sup> 4:3c This is from the Greek word íris, which can mean rainbow or halo. Webster's second definition of aura is: "a luminous radiation: Nimbus." I didn't like rainbow, since the rainbow by definition includes the whole spectrum of colors, whereas this phenomenon is only green. Halo is possibly suitable; it's just that the English reader is accustomed to it being only something around the heads of holy people or saints in art. But halo is also used in astronomy.

Who is Worthy to Open the Scroll?

<sup>1</sup>And I saw upon the right hand of the one sitting on the throne a scroll, written on, inside and back,<sup>1183</sup> sealed up with seven seals. <sup>2</sup>And I saw a powerful angel, heralding in a loud voice: "Who is worthy to open the scroll, and to break the seals of it?"

<sup>3</sup>And no one was able, not in heaven, nor on the earth, nor under the earth, to open the scroll, or even to look at it. <sup>4</sup>And I was weeping greatly, that no one worthy was found to open the scroll, or even to look at it. <sup>5</sup>Then one of the elders is saying to me, "Do not weep. Look, the Lion of the tribe of Judah, the Root of David, he has overcome, so as to open the scroll and the seven seals of it."

<sup>6</sup>And I saw in between the throne and the four living beings and the elders, a lamb, postured as though slain, having seven horns and seven eyes, which are the [seven] spirits<sup>1184</sup> of God sent forth into all the earth.<sup>1185</sup> <sup>7</sup>And he went and took the scroll from the right hand of the One sitting on the throne. <sup>8</sup>And when he had taken the scroll, the four living beings and the twenty-four elders fell down before the Lamb, each one holding a lyre<sup>1186</sup> and a golden bowl filled with incenses, which are the prayers of the saints,

The Online Encyclopedia Britannica defines it as follows: "Large lyre of Classical antiquity, the principal stringed instrument of the Greeks and later of the Romans. It had a box-shaped resonating body from which extended two parallel arms connected by a crossbar to which 3–12 strings were attached. It was held vertically and plucked with a plectrum; the left hand was used to stop and damp the strings. It was played by singers of the Greek epics, as well as by later professional accompanists and soloists." The lyre was an intermediate transition step from the harp to the guitar and viol which have finger boards. The English word "harp" is no more accurate a rendering here

6.) hiat: ϕ<sup>115</sup> C P?. The TR reading in v. 10 of "us" and "we will reign" is supported by only a few late Greek manuscripts. According to the UBS Textual Commentary, the reading of Codex A and the Ethiopic best explains the origin of the others: copyists wanted to supply an object for the verb. But when they added the ἡμᾶς, "us," they created a conflict with v. 10 where it says "you have made αὐτοὺς - "them" into a kingdom and priests, and βασιλεύσουσιν "they" will reign. As the text stands in the/RP editions, it at first seems you have the 24 elders saying they themselves were purchased by His blood, but then in v. 10 they exclude themselves from the group that will reign on the earth. But it is likely that the 24 elders will indeed be among those who reign on the earth, since they sit on 24 thrones and have golden crowns. Whereas, when you have the elders word it as in the NA27, they can be including themselves in the "some" who were purchased and will reign. However, Dr. Maurice A. Robinson says the solution probably lies in the fact that there are multiple groups who are singing this song, and they are taking turns singing different parts; i.e., the Elders sing the "us" part, and the Four Living Beings sing the "them" part. (See endnote in my longer edition for Dr. Robinson's exact words.) H. C. Hoskier explains the omission of ἡμᾶς in Codex A as follows: "the word was 'lost' in the transition from one column to the next." (You can view the pertinent page of Codex A for yourself at the Center for the Study of New Testament Manuscripts, find Codex A, Codex Alexandrinus, MS. nr. GA02, page image 129b.) But since Revelation says Christ himself will reign on the earth (11:15; 20:6), the idea that the 24 elders will not reign on the earth is preposterous. Their 24 thrones surround the throne of the Lamb, and they will reign with Him on the earth. The New Jerusalem will be on the earth. That city has 12 foundations, and 12 gates, with the names of the 12 apostles and 12 tribes respectively; thus a total of 24 elders.

These are not Greek manuscripts in the normal sense, because they are handwritten copies of printed editions. In other words, they do not bolster the Textus Receptus as sources for the Textus Receptus, because they ARE the Textus Receptus. See where Hoskier states this in Text Volume 2, p. 156, lines 26,27, where he says "Negl. 57 et 141 ex ed. typ. exscripti." (This means, "Disregard 57 and 141 since they are handwritten copies of printed editions.") So yes, only one Greek manuscript reads with the TR here. "Manuscript" means "hand written." If we are going to say that 57 and 151 are Greek manuscripts, then someone could fairly make 10,000 handwritten copies of the Nestle-Aland 27th edition New Testament, and then claim that the NA27 is the majority text.

<sup>7</sup>And when the fourth seal was opened, I heard the voice of the fourth being saying, "Come."<sup>1196</sup> <sup>8</sup>And I looked, and behold, a pale green horse, and the one who is sitting on<sup>1197</sup> it, his name is Death, and Hades is trailing after him; and authority is given them<sup>1198</sup> over one fourth of the earth, to kill them with war, and famine, and death, and by the wild animals of the earth.

<sup>9</sup>And when the fifth seal was opened, I saw beneath the altar, the souls of those slain for the word of God and for the witness that they were bearing. <sup>10</sup>And they cried out with a loud voice, saying, "Until when, O Master, holy and true, are you refraining from adjudicating and avenging our blood from those who dwell on the earth?"

<sup>11</sup>And they were given each a white robe, and it was prescribed for them that they would take rest a little while longer, until the number of their fellow-servants and brethren was also complete, those about to be killed even as they.

The Sixth Seal

<sup>12</sup>And I watched as he opened the sixth seal, and a mighty earthquake took place, and the sun became black like animal hair sack-cloth, and the full moon became like blood, <sup>13</sup>and the stars of heaven fell to the earth, as a fig tree shaken by a strong wind casts its unripe figs, <sup>14</sup>and the sky retreated like a scroll being rolled up, and every mountain and island was removed from its place.

<sup>15</sup>And the kings of the earth, and the great people and the generals and the rich and the powerful, and everyone, slave and free, hid themselves in the caves, and among the rocks of the mountains, <sup>16</sup>and they are saying to the mountains and to the rocks, "Fall on us, and hide us from the face of the One sitting on the throne, and from the wrath of the Lamb; <sup>17</sup>for the great day of their wrath has come, and who shall be able to stand?"

The 144,000 Sealed

<sup>9</sup>After these things I looked, and behold, a great multitude, which no one could count, from every nation and tribe and people and language, standing before the throne and before the Lamb, dressed in white robes, and palm branches in their hands; <sup>10</sup>and they are shouting out with a loud voice, saying, "Salvation to our God who sits on the throne, and to the Lamb!"

<sup>11</sup>And all the angels had stood in a circle around the throne and around the elders and the four living beings, and they fell on their faces before the throne and worshiped God, <sup>12</sup>saying, "Amen. Blessing and glory and wisdom and thanks and honor and power and strength be to our God for ever and ever. Amen."

<sup>13</sup>And one of the elders responded saying to me, "These wearing the white robes, who are they, and where did they come from?"

And he said to me, "These are those coming out of the great tribulation, and they have washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb. <sup>15</sup>Because of this they are before the throne of God, and they serve him day and night in his temple, and the One sitting on the throne will spread his tent over them. <sup>16</sup>No longer will they hunger, neither will they thirst any more, nor will the sun attack them nor any scorching heat.

The 7th Seal: the Seven Trumpets

<sup>1</sup>And when he opened the seventh seal, there was silence in heaven for about half an hour. <sup>2</sup>And I saw the seven angels which stand before God, and seven trumpets were given to them. <sup>3</sup>And another angel came and stood at the altar, holding a golden censer, and many incenses were given to him so that he might present the prayers of all the saints at the golden altar which is before the throne. <sup>4</sup>And the smoke of the incenses went up before God from the hand of the angel mingled with the prayers of the saints. <sup>5</sup>And the angel took the censer and filled it with the burning incense, and he hurled it to the earth; and there came rumblings and noises and peals of thunder, and earthquakes. <sup>6</sup>And the seven angels who had the seven trumpets readied themselves to play.

<sup>7</sup>And the first one sounded his trumpet; and there came hail and fire mixed with blood, and it was rained on the earth. And one third of the earth was burned up, and one third of the trees were burned up, and all the green grass was burned up.

<sup>8</sup>And the second angel sounded his trumpet; and something like a huge mountain burning with fire<sup>1203</sup> was hurled into the sea. And one third of the sea was turned to blood, <sup>9</sup>and one third of the creatures that have lives<sup>1204</sup> in the sea died, and one third of the ships were destroyed.

<sup>10</sup>And the third angel sounded his trumpet; and a huge star fell from heaven, burning like a lamp, and it fell on a third of the rivers, and on the sources of the waters. <sup>11</sup>And the name of the star means "Wormwood." And a third of the waters were turned

<sup>1204</sup> 8:9 Greek: τὰ ἔχοντα ψυχάς, literally, "a third of the creatures in the sea died, those possessing souls." Bauer begins his lexicon entry for this word ψυχή, "soul," by saying, "It is often impossible to draw hard and fast lines between the meanings of this many-sided word." It would certainly be silly to render this instance of the word as "lives," as follows: "one third of the creatures in the sea died, those having lives." It is very unlikely that any author would feel the need to make clear that it was those creatures that had lives, that died. This seems to be a demonstrative phrase, specifying some particular subset of creatures. "Those that have breath" seems possible, as in conformance with the usage in Genesis. Compare LXX Genesis 1:30, those having the breath of life; and 2:7, where the man became a soul when he received the breath of life through his nostrils. Further, the LXX in Genesis 1:20-23 calls those sea creatures that breathe, such as whales and snakes, "souls." But then the question arises why the bloody sea would kill only air-breathers. The problematic phrase, τὰ ἔχοντα ψυχάς, with the nominative definite article, is commented on in the BDF grammar in § 136(1) as follows, "Revelation exhibits a quantity of striking solecisms which are based especially on inattention to agreement (a rough style), in contrast to the rest of the NT and to the other writings ascribed to John: (1) An appositional phrase (or circumstantial participle) is often found in the nominative instead of an oblique case (§ 137(3))." The only reasonable apposition or circumstance seems to be as worded above: "those that have lives in the sea."

<sup>12</sup>And the fourth angel sounded his trumpet; and a third of the sun was struck, and a third of the moon and a third of the stars, such that one third of their light was darkened<sup>1205</sup> and a third of the daylight would not be shined, and the same with the night.

<sup>13</sup>And I looked, and I heard an eagle<sup>1206</sup> flying at zenith saying with a very loud voice, "Woe, woe, woe to those dwelling on the earth, because of the remaining sounds of the trumpet from the three angels about to sound!"

Chapter 9

The Fifth Trumpet

<sup>1</sup>And the fifth angel sounded his trumpet; and I saw a fallen star,<sup>1207</sup> fallen out of heaven onto earth, and the key to the bottomless pit had been given to him. <sup>2</sup>And he opened the bottomless pit, and smoke ascended from the pit like smoke from a giant furnace. And the sun and the sky became dark from the smoke of the pit. <sup>3</sup>And from the smoke, locusts went out over the earth, and they were given a power like the power that the scorpions of Earth have.

<sup>4</sup>And it was commanded them that they not harm the grass of the earth or anything green or any tree,<sup>1208</sup> but only humans who do not have the seal of God on their foreheads. <sup>5</sup>And orders were given them that they not kill them, but that they be tormented for five months. And their torment will be like the pain of a scorpion when it strikes a person. <sup>6</sup>And during those days the people will seek death, and will not find it. Yes, they will long earnestly to die, and death will elude them.

<sup>7</sup>And the appearance of the locusts was like horses outfitted for war, and on their heads something like golden crowns, and their faces like human faces, <sup>8</sup>and they had hair like the hair of women, and their teeth were like lions' teeth, <sup>9</sup>and they had thoraxes like

<sup>1205</sup> 8:12 The verb 'was darkened' is singular. I don't think it is saying that one third of 'them were darkened,' but rather one third of something singular 'was darkened,' and the meaning is that one third of their strength, one third of the collective light was darkened. What it is NOT saying is that one third of the number of them were totally dark. And probably not that one third of the duration of the day or night was dark. It is saying that the day and the night were each only two thirds as light as normal. See Isaiah 13:10; Ezekiel 32:7; Joel 3:15

<sup>1207</sup> 9:1 That is, a fallen angel. Angels are called stars also in Judges 5:20; Job 38:7; Isaiah 14:13; Daniel 8:10 / Rev. 12:4; Rev. 1:20. In this verse in Revelation, it is a "fallen star," which is another way to refer to a demon; one of the 1/3 of the angels that Satan took with him when he was expelled from heaven.

<sup>1208</sup> 9:4 Compare ch. 6:6, "A quart of wheat for a day's wage, or three barley loaves for a day's wage. And don't you damage the oil or wine." An implication here about the green grass and trees, from the commandment to the locusts that they not damage anything green, could be that green things will be precious and rare in those days already, before all these plagues take place. On the other hand, locusts' natural inclination would be to eat such, and they are being commanded to do otherwise.

His name in Hebrew is Abaddōn, and in Greek he has the name Apollyōn.

<sup>13</sup>And the sixth angel sounded his trumpet. And I heard a voice from the horns <sup>1211</sup> of the golden altar before God, <sup>14</sup>saying to the sixth angel, "Release the four angels that are bound at the great river Euphrates." <sup>15</sup>And he released the four angels, held ready for that hour and day and month and year in order to kill one third of humanity. <sup>16</sup>And the number of their mounted troops was 200,000,000. I heard the number of them.

<sup>17</sup>And this is how I saw the horses in the vision, and those sitting on them: Having breastplates like fire, that is, dusky red and sulphur colored; and the heads of the horses like heads of lions, and from their mouths comes fire and smoke and sulphur. <sup>18</sup>By these three plagues, of the fire and smoke and sulphur coming from their mouths, one third of humanity was killed. <sup>19</sup>Now the power of the horses is in their mouths and in their tails; for their tails are like snakes, having heads, and with these they do injury.

<sup>1209</sup> 9:12 The Greek words I rendered "after all this" are "meta tauta." This phrase is usually found, in Revelation, at the beginning of a sentence, not the end as here. Therefore, there seems to be an emphasis put on this phrase by putting it last. And the word "behold" adds to the emphasis.

<sup>1210</sup> 9:12b txt {D} "two woes are coming" itar vg Tyc Erasmus editions 1, 2, 3 Aldus Colinaeus // ἔρχονται ἔτι δύο "two woes still (more) are coming" κ² P lat TR // "two other woes are coming" copsa // "a second woe is still coming" ϣ⁴⁷ κ* A RP NA27 {} // "it is coming" ϣ¹¹⁵ (only this one word is definite) // "a second woe is coming" it<sup>vid</sup> (et ecce secundum vae... then hiat.) cop<sup>bo</sup> // hiat C. This variant is interesting because of the lack of grammatical agreement (concord) as pertains to number, in the majority of Greek manuscripts. That is, most manuscripts say, "TWO woe still IT IS coming." The TR has grammatical concord: "TWO woes still ARE coming." But what is most interesting is the concord of the Bohairic Coptic (3rd Century): "a SECOND woe IS coming." The Buchanan Italic manuscript h (55) (5th century) has a hiatus for the verb, but it also says "the SECOND woe." Yet the form δύο can still be taken to mean "second," with the word οὐα being singular. In Semitic languages there is an ambiguity between "two" and "second," Cardinal and Ordinal. But in BDF §248(3), deBrunner says "Late Greek and Latin, however, concur in this ambiguity." Thus this might be properly translated, "still a second woe is coming." This variant is mentioned in BDF §136(5) as an example of the frequent solecisms to be found in Revelation. But, another possibility is a textual corruption. After all, 046* 1678 1778 2080 read "two woes are coming." Is it not possible that this is the original? Yet I can see the validity of the argument that this reading is an editorial correcting of a solecism. Thus my D rating. The word ἔτι "still / more" is a natural addition, and its addition is more easily explained than its omission.

All the altars mentioned in the Mosaic temples, and in the Ezekiel 43:15 temple, have four horns, see Ex 27:2; 29:12; 30:10; 43:20; Lev. 4:7, 18, 25, 30, 34; 8:15; 9:9; 16:18; I Kings 1:50; 2:28; Psalm 118:27, Jer. 17:1; Zech. 1:18 (Amos 3:14 says "horns of the altar" without the number four). Moreover, the altar of incense was also golden, Exodus 39:38; 40:5, 26; Numbers 4:11; I Kings 7:48; 2 Chronicles 4:19.

The other Greek words in the N.T. derived from the same root usually pertain to sorcery and magic. In much of the world today, there are still witch doctors and shamans, and they commonly in their craft employ drugs and the altered state caused by them. The UBS committee says they chose the reading φαρμάκων "partly on the basis of external support, and partly because copyists would have been more likely to alter it to the more specific φαρμακ(ε)ίων, which occurs in 18:23 and Gal. 5:20, than vice versa." Looking at this text with current events in view, I must conclude that this text refers both to narcotics and to pharmaceutical drugs. The dynastical families that constitute the invisible One World Government made their wealth from trading both in narcotics and in pharmaceutical drugs, on both of which they earn a huge retail mark-up. They also control most of the world's insurance companies and currencies. Note how many of the mainstream pharmaceutical drugs are now the target of tort lawyers for all the damage that they do to us.

<sup>4</sup>These are the two olive trees and the two lampstands which stand before the Lord of the earth.<sup>1224</sup> <sup>5</sup>And if anyone wants to harm them, fire comes from their mouth and consumes their enemies. And if anyone would want to harm them, this is how he ought to be killed. <sup>6</sup>These have the authority to shut up the sky so that no rain will fall during the days of their prophesying, and they have authority over the waters to turn them into blood, and to strike the earth with any kind of plague as often as they wish. <sup>7</sup>And when they complete their witness, the beast coming up out of the bottomless pit will make war with them, and will conquer them and kill them.

<sup>8</sup>And their corpses lie on the boulevard of the great city which is spiritually named Sodom<sup>1225</sup> and Egypt, where also their Lord was crucified. <sup>9</sup>And from peoples and tribes and languages and nations they see their corpses for three and a half days. And they are not allowing their corpses to be placed in a grave. <sup>10</sup>And those dwelling on the earth rejoice<sup>1226</sup> over them, and celebrate, and will send gifts to one another. For these two prophets had tormented those dwelling on the earth.

<sup>11</sup>And after three and a half days, the breath of life from God went into them, and they stood up on their feet. And great fear fell over those watching them. <sup>12</sup>And they<sup>1227</sup> heard a great voice from heaven saying to them, "Come up here." And they went up into heaven in a cloud, and their enemies watched them. <sup>13</sup>And in that hour<sup>1228</sup> a great earthquake took place, and one tenth of the city collapsed, and 7,000 people were killed. And the survivors were terrified, and they gave glory to the God of heaven.

The Woman, Her Seed, and the Dragon

<sup>1</sup>And a great sign was seen in heaven: a woman clothed with the sun, and the moon under her feet, and on her head a crown of twelve stars, <sup>2</sup>and being with child, and crying out with contractions and anguish to deliver.

<sup>3</sup>And another sign was seen in heaven, and behold, a great red dragon, having seven heads and ten horns, and on his heads seven crowns,<sup>1233</sup> <sup>4</sup>and his tail is pulling one third of the stars<sup>1234</sup> from heaven; and it threw them to the earth. And the dragon took his stand in front of the woman who was about to deliver, so that he might devour the child whenever it was born.

<sup>5</sup>And she bore a son, a male child, who was destined to<sup>1235</sup> shepherd all the nations with a rod of iron. And her child was snatched up to God and to his throne. <sup>6</sup>And the woman fled to the desert, to where she has a place prepared there by God, so that there they might take care of her for 1,260 days.

<sup>1234</sup> 12:4 That is, one third of the angels. We know of only three archangels: the being who is now Satan, and Michael, and Gabriel. Therefore it is reasonable to conclude that each archangel ruled one third of the angels. When Satan was cast out of heaven, he took the one third of the angels with him. See for example 12:7, where it says "Michael and HIS angels." Jesus said in Luke 10:18, "I was watching as Satan fell from heaven like lightning."

<sup>10</sup>And I heard a great voice in heaven, saying, "Now has come the salvation and power and kingdom of our God, and the authority of his Christ; for the accuser of our brethren has been thrown out, the one accusing them before our God day and night, <sup>11</sup>and these have overcome him by the blood of the Lamb and by the word of their testimony, and they did not love their lives even unto death.

<sup>12</sup>"Rejoice over this, O heaven,<sup>1237</sup> and you who dwell therein! Woe to the earth and to the sea! For the devil has come down to you with great fury, because he knows that he has but little time."

<sup>13</sup>And when the dragon saw that he was thrown to the earth, he went after the woman that bore the male child. <sup>14</sup>And she was given the two wings of a great eagle to fly to the desert to that place of hers where she gets taken care of for a time, times, and half a time,<sup>1238</sup> away from the face of the serpent.

<sup>15</sup>And the serpent poured water from his mouth like a river after the woman, to cause her to be swept away by a flood, <sup>16</sup>and the earth helped the woman, and the earth opened its mouth and swallowed the flood that the dragon had poured from his mouth.

<sup>17</sup>And the dragon was enraged over the woman, and went off to make war with the rest of her seed, those keeping the commandments of God and bearing the witness of Jesus. <sup>18</sup>And he<sup>1239</sup> stood at the shore of the sea.

Conversely it would be hard to explain why copyists would change the plural of "they were not strong enough" to the singular. This textual difference about who or what was standing at the shore of the sea, is what determines whether a Greek New Testament edition places this sentence here as verse 18 in this context, or places this sentence in Chapter 13:1. Thus, since the TR and RP editions follow the second reading, they place this sentence in 13:1, with John the one standing rather than the dragon. The UBS textual commentary says that the latter reading appears to have arisen when copyists accommodated the 3rd person 'he stood' to the first person of the following 'I saw.' It is attractive to make it John the one standing on the shore of the sea, since the next thing he does is observe a beast rising out of the sea. But it also makes perfect sense that the dragon

The First Beast, out of the Sea

<sup>1</sup>And I saw a beast coming up from the sea, with ten horns and seven heads, and on its horns ten crowns, and on its heads a name<sup>1240</sup> that is blasphemy. <sup>2</sup>And the beast which I saw was like a leopard, and the feet of it like a bear's, and his mouth like the mouth of a lion. And the dragon gave his power to him, and his throne, and great authority. <sup>3</sup>And one of his heads was as slain<sup>1241</sup> to death, and the fatal wound was healed. And the whole earth was filled with wonder and followed after the beast,<sup>1242</sup> <sup>4</sup>and they worshiped the dragon because he<sup>1243</sup> had given authority to the beast, and they worshiped the beast, saying, "Who is like the beast, and who is able to wage war with him?"

<sup>5</sup>And there was given to him a mouth speaking big things and blasphemies, and authority was given to him to act<sup>1244</sup> for forty-two months. <sup>6</sup>And he opened his mouth in blasphemies toward God, to blaspheme his name and his tabernacle, those tabernacling in heaven.<sup>1245</sup> <sup>7</sup>And it was given to him to make war with the saints and to conquer them,<sup>1246</sup> <sup>1247</sup>and authority was given to him over every tribe and people<sup>1248</sup> and language and

We have just read in the previous verse that the dragon went to make war with the woman's seed, and this is how he made war: he brought up the beast from the sea, which later in 13:7 of this chapter makes war on the saints and conquers them.

The following translations have "name" in English in the singular: TYND GEN KJV BISH SRV YLT GNB NIV NCV NKJV REB ALT. Some translations interpret this phrase, "on its heads were names" as saying "each" head had a [different] name, and others that each head had more than one name on each. The reason I went with the rendering I have is that the singular can be understood either way; that is, "on its heads a name that is blasphemy" can be interpreted as "each a different name," so thus "names" plural, or that they all had the same blasphemous name. Conversely, the plural "names" could be understood distributively. I chose to do this for the reason that I am not persuaded either way as to which is the correct manuscript reading. What is really different is interpreters that see this as meaning each head had more than one name on it, like the CEV & NLT: "On each of its heads were names..." Interesting that the Douay-Rheims has the plural when all its contemporaries had the singular. My thinking is like the NIV rendering: "and on each head a blasphemous name." It seems to me that "head" being plural might have assimilated "name" over to the plural.

These are the major variants, but there are many, many more, when you count the versions and Fathers. The RP reading of "if anyone has [the lot or destiny of] captivity, he must go," seems to be a clarification of the first clause of the Codex A reading. And it could be argued that the additional phrase "into captivity" he must go, in the second clause, was a clarification on the part of Codex A as well. And then the "HAS part of the RP reading, "has captivity" was then interpreted by the TR copyists as meaning, "if anyone has captives," rather than if anyone has that fate. Happily, the, RP, NA27 and UBS4 readings are the same in meaning. The TR reading has no Greek manuscript support as it is worded in the Greek, but agrees in meaning with the manuscripts listed with it, and even those three do not agree.

It is a principle of Textual Criticism that when there is a large set of variations on a reading, it is suspect. Such is the case here with the present indicative active reading. The UBS Textual Commentary says: "Among the dozen variant readings, the least unsatisfactory appears to be ἀποκτανθῆναι, αὐτόν, ["is to be killed, he,"] supported by Codex Alexandrinus. As in the first two lines of the verse, the third and fourth lines teach (as does also Jr 15:2, on which the saying rests) the duty of endurance and the fulfillment of the will of God. Perhaps under the influence of such sayings as Mt 26:52 (πάντες γὰρ οἱ λαβόντες μάχαιραν ἐν μαχαίρῃ ἀπολοῦνται), copyists modified in various ways the difficult Greek construction (which, as Charles points out, seems to be a literal rendering of a distinctively Hebrew idiom, "if anyone is to be slain with the sword, he is to be slain with the sword") and introduced the idea of retribution (persecutors will be requited in strict accord with the lex talionis)."

<sup>1254</sup> 13:16a The Greek word is ποιέω, which Bauer in I 1 b θ says here means "make to, cause someone to, bring it about that." With hina and a subjunctive verb in place of the infinitive. So in this case what people are caused to do would be to didōmi, in the 3rd person plural subjunctive, "they give." So therefore we have this phrase, "He causes everyone to give to them a mark." Everyone will be giving a mark to whom? To themselves. Yes, that is the primary meaning of the pronoun 'autos' here. Many translations have rendered didōmi as "receive." Tyndale did it, though there were a few manuscripts that had the Greek word for receive here. But "receive" is not lexically supported as a possible meaning of didōmi. Again, it is fashionable to render 3rd person plural actives as passives; see for example Mark 4:21, erchetai, "exist"; Luke 12:20, apaitousin "they are demanding"; Rev. 10:11, legousin, "they are saying"; Rev. 11:1, legōn, "as he is saying"; Rev. 12:6, trephōsin, "they might take care;" and other examples. I am saying that I rendered all these as actives, and they work fine that way. So there is no reason compelling enough to break the rules of grammar. The only reason I can come up with for this trend, is that it is their idea of an "impersonal" verb. Yes, a general "they" is impersonal, but that is still not a reason to make an active verb passive. It is perfectly colloquial and grammatical to say "they call him Jesus," etc. The only justification for making an active verb passive that I know of in the grammars, is the Aramaic 3rd person plural impersonal; see next footnote. But that is a rare and questionable occurrence, and the burden of proof is on the one asserting that it is happening.

The vast majority of Greek manuscripts, including all but one uncial, have the verb "give" in aorist active indicative 3rd person plural. The only difference between the NA28 text and the Robinson-Pierpont text is that the NA28 text, δώσιν, is 2nd aorist, and the RP text, δώσωσιν, is aorist. No difference in meaning.

The TR has the verb "give" in 3rd person singular, δώσῃ, and subjunctive aorist. The TR reading reflects an attempt I think to conform the clause to the standard Greek configuration for an "impersonal" verb, where there is no subject as a giver, and the verb is turned passive. Thus, "they might be given." This is a fact that the Greek grammars say that an "impersonal" verb in Greek grammar is in the 3rd person SINGULAR. I conclude that this is a deliberate change in the Greek text to correct grammar.

The TR reading is a small minority reading, in later manuscripts, and probably not the authorial text. Could it be conforming it to the Latin of Irenaeus and Victorinus? Or is it influenced by the late Syriac?

The majority reading, of the verb as 3rd person plural, and the object being αὐτοῖς, is unusual Greek, and there are really only two options as to how to make it intelligible as it is.

Option 1, the word αὐτοῖς is a contraction of ἑαυτοῖς, and means "they give themselves." This is the way the scribe of ms. 1828 saw it, which reads δώσιν ἑαυτοῖς, and this is certainly a real possibility. The ambiguity of αὐτοῖς with αὐτοῖς (ἑαυτοῖς) is a common textual variant in Revelation that I have seen. Remember, the uncials and papyri did not have breathing marks. So, αὐτοῖς, even with the smooth breathing mark, can easily and rightly be understood as reflexive, and mean "themselves." So the scribe of ms. 1828 was either correcting grammar, or merely understanding αὐτοῖς as a contraction of ἑαυτοῖς. And it is possible that his exemplar had the long form ἑαυτοῖς.

Option 2, is what M. Black, in An Aramaic Approach to the Gospels and Acts, pp. 126-128, would call an Aramaism, and be a "third person plural impersonal" and the meaning be similar to what the Philoxenian and Harklean Syriac read, "they be given" or "they receive." The TR reading with its 3rd singular verb would not qualify as the Aramaic impersonal remember.

An Aramaism is an unusual and rare occurrence, and I think the burden of proof that it is occurring, is on the one saying it is. That said, I have come to believe that Revelation does show an Aramaic mind in its author. For example, though even ancient Greek the words for foot πούς and hand χεῖρ originally meant the whole limb, not just the foot and hand, this is most definitely always true in Hebrew and Aramaic. The author of Revelation uses πούς, “foot” to mean the whole limb, where he says the feet of the angel were like “columns” of fire. Legs are like columns, and feet are not. Therefore similarly, we must conclude that in Revelation 13:16, with χεῖρ the author means anywhere on the entire upper right limb, not just the hand.

In The Morphology of Koine Greek As Used in the Apocalypse of St. John: A Study, G. Mussies states, “The 3rd person singular is the category which is used when the verb is impersonal,” p. 232. Regarding 3rd person plurals as passives in Revelation, Steven Thomson in his book, The Apocalypse and Semitic Syntax, Cambridge, he says on p. 21 that there are two instances: in 2:24 and 8:2. He says the ὡς λέγουσιν in 2:24 means “what is called” the deep things of Satan. ( I disagree with this. I translate it as follows: ‘ “the deep things of Satan,” as they say.’ In 8:2 the Greek text says ἐδόθησαν αὐτοῖς which is already passive. His example is from a Coptic text! Thomson does not mention this situation in 13:16. But I say, there were many, many opportunities for the proposed Aramaism to show up in Revelation, and it did not; so why must this here be such an example? I say this is not such, and I am saying here that the subject of this verb is the recipients, because αὐτοῖς in Revelation very often means “themselves,” even without the rough breathing mark. At any rate, if the beast “causes all to receive a mark,” the recipients are still getting it for themselves, unless the beast or his agent captures each individual, ties them down, and forces the mark onto them. But if that were the case, would God be able to hold them responsible for it? I don’t believe so. So I am saying that you will have to get it for yourself, and then God can hold you responsible for doing it.

This Greek word translated “mark,” χάραγμα - káragma, means a poke into the flesh. It also had the meaning of an etching, branding, carving, engraving or stamp. Slaves had a poke in the flesh of their ear to show ownership. So here also, the mark of the beast will show one’s voluntary allegiance to the beast and submission to the ownership of the beast. I get the impression from translating this passage that this mark will be self-arranged; that is, people will be told to do it, but nevertheless they ultimately do it voluntarily. They themselves are responsible for making sure they have it, if they want to buy or sell. In other words, it need not be mandatory by law, but life will be extremely hard without it. How could a government give the mark to 20 billion people by force in the remotest jungle? On the other hand, economic incentives have historically worked very well, without the need for something being mandatory by law. Most people serve Mammon anyway, so it will be a no-brainer for most people to get the mark. It will be a blessing on the other hand, for God’s people, in that those who are serving Mammon will repent of that, and truly be content with their daily bread from God, and truly live by faith. The exciting life. Exciting to see how God will feed them each day. But we see in this book that many or most of God’s people will die or be killed during those days.

<sup>1257</sup> 13:16d The Greek word is χεῖρ (hand), and meant the entire arm or limb, as so also the word for foot can mean the whole leg; compare Revelation 10:1, where the Greek word is (πούς) πόδες (feet), but can and does mean there, the entire leg or limb. This is true also in many of the languages where I was raised – the word for hand or foot can mean the entire extremity. Thus here, this mark could be anywhere from the hand on up.

Here is a link to the image of Papyrus 115: <http://www.bibletranslation.ws/gfx/pl15.jpg> The Greek letters are H X I c. The "H" letter is a whole Greek word that can mean "or." It can also be the feminine definite article. David Parker writes (in his NTS article): "There is too much space in the papyrus for what one would expect from other witnesses, suggesting that something extra has been written by mistake." He considers the "line written over letter" Eta as a correction sign. The UBS Textual Commentary on the Greek New Testament states on p. 49 that Irenaeus "says that 666 is found 'in all good and ancient copies,' and is 'attested by those who had themselves seen John face to face.' ...When Greek letters are used as numerals the difference between 666 and 616 is merely a change from ξ to ι (666 = χξς and 616 = χις). Perhaps the change was intentional, seeing that the Greek form Neron Caesar written in Hebrew characters (נרון קסר) is equivalent to 666, whereas the Latin form Nero Caesar (נרו קסר) is equivalent to 616." In addition, Peter M. Head, in Some Recently Published NT Papyri from Oxyrhynchus: An Overview and Preliminary Assessment, Published in Tyndale Bulletin 51 (2000), pp. 1-16, points out that others have noticed that "two possible transliterations of 'beast' into Hebrew could produce either 616 or 666. That is, θηριον (genitive) as in Rev. 13:18 is תריין; while θηριον (nominative) is תריין. The mathematics is: י=50, ו=6, י=10, ר=200, ת=400. For a full discussion see R. Bauckham, 'Nero and the Beast' in The Climax of the Covenant: Studies on the Book of Revelation (Edinburgh: T. & T. Clark, 1997), pp. 384-452, also D. Aune, Revelation 6-16 (Waco, Texas: Word, 1998), pp. 722, 769-73." There is a marginal note in MS 1854: "λατεῖνος." This reflects one of the early gematrial theories, held by, among others, Irenaeus, that 666 stood for the Roman Empire. (This is what λατεῖνος means, the Roman Empire.) Here is the math: λ = 30, α = 1, τ = 300, ε = 5, ι = 10, ν = 50, ο = 70, ς = 200, which add up to 666. Irenaeus favored Τεῖταν (Titus) as the most likely gematrial equivalent for 666, because it had six letters, and he favored λατεῖνος second most. If the final ν is removed from Τεῖταν, you get the number 616. Another, current, theory is that John originally wrote just the 3 letters χξς and that the Arabic writing that Islamic Jihadists wear on their foreheads or the right arms, which looks very much like these 3 Greek letters, will be the mark of the beast, and that the beast will be the Mahdi, or Islam's Messiah.

<sup>1271</sup> 14:15a Here the Greek verb pémpō has a military operations meaning, as in, "send orders that the earth be sickled." The one in white who resembles a human is the captain of the hosts, and the agents who do the actual sickling, are his angel-soldiers, according to Matt. 13:30, 38-41. In that passage Christ "sends out his angels," and the angels gather the zizania to be burned. He explains, "The zizania are the children of the evil one, and the enemy who sows them is the devil. The harvest is the end of the age, and the reapers are angels. And as the zizania are collected and consumed by fire, so it will be at the end of the age. The Son of Man will send out his angels, ..." Here again we even have the phrase Son of Man both in the Matthew passage and in Rev 14:14. Again, in Matt. 13:49-50 we read, "This is how it will be at the end of the age. The angels will go forth and will separate the evil ones from out of the midst of the righteous, <sup>50</sup>and throw them into the furnace of fire. There will be weeping there, and gnashing of teeth." Luke 17:35-37 hints that the angels take them all to one place, where the vultures feed on them. See also the correspondence of fire, in both Matt. 13:40 and Rev. 14:18. Rev. 14:20 tells us that the people are put "outside the city" and their blood will flow as high as the horse's bridle for a distance of 180 miles. There is fire in the form of the fire of the city dump outside the city, Jerusalem. When the disciples asked Jesus where the angels take them in Luke 17:37, Jesus answered that it would be where there would be vultures gathered, that's where. The number of bleeding bodies required to produce that kind of a river of blood, would indeed attract a very large amount of vultures, eagles, crows and any other birds that eat carrion.

<sup>1272</sup> 14:15b Grain is ready to harvest when it is dry and the seed is no longer green.

<sup>1273</sup> 14:20 One stadion was 607 feet or 185 meters, so 1,600 stadia would be 184 miles or 296 kilometers.

<sup>1274</sup> 15:1 This "for" explains why the last plagues are called the "last" plagues.

The evidence is fairly evenly split between the readings "nations" and "ages." Even family 052 is divided, though with the majority thereof supporting "nations." The UBS textual comentary says: "The reading of the Textus Receptus, which has only the slenderest support in Greek witnesses (296 2049, neither of which was available when the Textus Receptus was formed) appears to have arisen from confusion of the Latin compendia for sanctorum (sctorum) and saeculorum (sclorum [=αἰώνων]); "saint" is also read by several Latin writers, including Victorinus-Pettau, Tyconius, Apringius, and Cassidorus." H. C. Hoskier says that the only two Greek manuscripts in support of the Textus Receptus, 57 (296) and 141 (2049), ARE the Textus Receptus. He says in Text 1 on pp. 179-180 that ms. 57 (296) is a handwritten copy of Colinaeus' printed edition, that is, a copy of a printed Greek NT, published in 1534. And at the bottom of Text 1 p. 615, Hoskier says, "This MS 187 with 57 and 141 must not be accorded any weight whatsoever. They are brought into the record because of their very connection with the printed text." Thus they are both 16th century copies made from various editions of the Textus Receptus. The bottom line is that there is no Greek manuscript support for the TR reading of "saints."

The family of minuscules 104, 336, 459, 620, 1918, are diglots, Greek and Latin, and their Latin text reads lapide, "stone." The Greek witnesses reading λινον "linen" (only a small fraction of them cited here) do not agree as to its accent and spelling. They show a very wide variety thereof. Several minuscules show knowledge of the λιθον reading in their scholia (242, 250, 743, 2070, 2075, 2077, and by inference versus "txt"-2051, 2064, 2067). Hoskier points out Ezekiel 28:13-14, where that cherub is described to be dressed in stone. So perhaps A and C harmonized to Ezekiel. There are several instances of Apocalypse manuscripts harmonizing to Daniel or to Ezekiel. Ezekiel chapter 28: "13 You were in Eden, the garden of God; every precious stone was your covering, the sardius, the topaz, and the diamond, the beryl, the onyx, and the jasper, the sapphire, the emerald, and the carbuncle, and gold: the workmanship of your tabrets and of your pipes was in you; in the day that you were created they were prepared. 14 You were the anointed cherub that covers..." Oecumenius appears completely unaware of the "linen" variant, and knows only "stone", and comments at length about these angels' clean bright stone dress. He says angels were dressed in linen, or stone of various value, depending on their power and rank. See Arethas' and Andrew's scholii in 2070 and 250. They state that angels' native condition of ceremonial purity was to be dressed in a clean stone linen. Elsewhere Arethas says of the stone, that it was "golden, transparent stone." Some points to consider: 1. The wide variety of spelling and punctuation of the λινον variant makes it suspect. 2. The reading λιθον is certainly the more difficult reading, more likely to prompt revision, as the 046 stream is famous for. 3. Perhaps the reading "clean bright linen" is a harmonization to the gospels' description of angels on earth, and to the description of the armies of heaven elsewhere in Revelation, like 19:14. Or perhaps to 19:8, where the βύσσινον λαμπρὸν καθαρὸν represents the righteous acts of the saints. Interesting that in both other instances of Revelation of bright clean linen, it is not the word λινον but βύσσινον. See the endnote in my longer version of Revelation, for the Greek text of Oecumenius' commentary.

Chapter 16

<sup>1</sup>And I heard a great voice from the temple saying to the seven angels, "Go and pour out the seven bowls of the wrath of God onto the earth."

<sup>2</sup>And the first one went and poured out his bowl onto the earth. And there came a nasty and painful ulcer on the people who had the mark of the beast and on those worshiping his image.

<sup>3</sup>And the second angel poured out his bowl onto the sea. And it became blood like of the dead, and every living soul died, the ones in the sea.

<sup>4</sup>And the third angel poured out his bowl onto the rivers and the sources of the waters. And they became blood.

<sup>5</sup>And I heard the angel of the waters saying, "You are righteous, you who are and who was, O holy one,<sup>1277</sup> that you have judged these things, <sup>6</sup>for they poured out the blood of saints and of prophets, and you have given them blood to drink. They deserve it."

<sup>8</sup>And the fourth angel poured out his bowl on the sun. And it was given to the sun to scorch the people by fire. <sup>9</sup>And the people were burned a very bad burn, and they reviled the name of God, the one having authority over these plagues, yet they did not repent to give him glory.

<sup>10</sup>And the fifth angel poured out his bowl on the throne of the beast. And his kingdom became covered in darkness. And they were biting their tongues in pain, <sup>11</sup>and they reviled the name of the God of heaven, because of their pains<sup>1279</sup> and because of their ulcers, yet they did not repent of their works.

<sup>12</sup>And the sixth angel poured out his bowl on the great river Euphrates. And it caused its water to dry up,<sup>1280</sup> so that a route was prepared for the kings from the east.

The trouble with the English suffix "-ed" to show passive voice, is that it also is used to show past tense in a verb that is not passive. In other words, I could have said, "And the water of it was dried up," but in English that can sound like a past tense statement that says the water was already dried up. It is part of the meaning transfer to show that it was the 6th bowl that caused the Euphrates River to dry up. In American English the passive is disappearing, for some unjustifiable reason.

There are other spellings in the early versions, such as Hermagedon. The word Harmagedōn is probably to be understood like the reading of minuscule 1862, (H)ar Magedōn, from the Hebrew meaning Mountain of Megiddo, a frequent battleground throughout the ages because of a strategic pass, and the plain below it. The triumvirate 82, 627, 920 unites here against all uncials- a sign of a definitely wrong reading. This is a passage in Revelation that really separates the good manuscripts from the inferior. The ones reading the word "temple" alone here are the best manuscripts of the Apocalypse of John. (See next footnote.) The uncial C is also good in Revelation, but it has a hiatus here.

<sup>1284</sup> 16:17e Regarding the phrase "And a loud voice came out of the temple from the throne," this source given for the loud voice, is rather perplexing at first. It would seem to be indicating a new and previously unknown throne existing in the temple, that is, the "temple of the tabernacle of testimony" in 15:5 which sets the context for this passage. Perhaps it was for this reason that many manuscripts add the explanatory phrase "of heaven," that is, designating a different temple, heaven itself being the temple, thus: "the temple of heaven." That would be something along the lines of 13:6 where it says "And he opened his mouth in blasphemies toward God, to blaspheme his name and his tabernacle, those tabernacling in heaven." In that passage heaven itself is called a tabernacle. So with the added words, this perplexing problem is then solved, designating heaven itself as being the temple, (though here the Greek word "naos" is used but in 13:6 it is "skeenee"), and that way the throne in the temple is not a new, previously unmentioned one. Yet, this present temple in this passage is first introduced in 15:5, "the temple of the tabernacle of testimony," and keys the start of this whole context of the seven bowls. So in 15:6 and onward, we now see other voices and angels coming out of this temple besides the present one. And since this particular temple is opened for the first time in 15:5, it cannot be referring to heaven, as the Majority Text seems to say. So perhaps there is an unusual meaning of the preposition apó here, such as "by authority of" the throne. According to Bauer, it is an expression known in Classical Greek to use the preposition apó to indicate the originator or authorizer of the action. John does use that expression in John 5:19, 30; 7:17; 7:28; 8:28, 42; 10:18; 11:51; 14:10; 15:4; 16:13; 18:34. Thus: a loud voice came out of the temple, on behalf of the throne. It is interesting to see that up to this point, John has been totally consistent in using the preposition ek in every case when a voice is coming from somewhere, see 9:13; 10:4; 10:8; 11:12; 14:2; 14:13; 16:1. And this applies in all editions of the Greek New Testament. But starting here and then in 19:5, there are textual variants between ek and apó. The Majority Text in the later instances says apó instead of ek. We would expect the two to be confused at a later date, since according to Blass, BDF §209, apó has absorbed ek in modern Greek. Whereas he says in §209(1) that in a locative sense the two were still distinguished for the most part in New Testament times. Now moving further in Revelation, again in 18:4 ek is used for a voice from heaven, and in 19:5 where the voice is from the throne, apó is used. That would be quite a pattern up to that point, but then 21:3 would seem to ruin it – The NA27 text has a voice coming from the throne, using ek. There are two other instances in Revelation of the two prepositions ek and apó occurring together in one phrase, and they are both referring to the city called the New Jerusalem, coming down out of heaven from God, 3:12 and 21:2.

The Mysterious Prostitute

<sup>1</sup>Then one of the seven angels who had the seven bowls came and spoke with me, saying, "Come, I will show you the judgment of the great prostitute who sits on many waters, <sup>2</sup>with whom the kings of the earth have fornicated. And those dwelling on the earth have become intoxicated from the wine of her fornication."

<sup>3</sup>And he carried me away in the Spirit to a wilderness. And I saw a woman sitting on a scarlet beast that had seven heads and ten horns, which was full of blasphemous names. <sup>4</sup>And the woman was dressed in purple and scarlet, and covered with gold and precious stones and pearls, holding a gold cup in her hand, full of abominations and the uncleanness of her<sup>1286</sup> prostitution. <sup>5</sup>And on her forehead a title was written:

A Mystery
Babylon the Great,
the mother of prostitutes and of the abominations of the earth.

<sup>6</sup>And I saw the woman drunk from the blood of the saints and from the blood of Jesus' witnesses. And I was astonished when I saw her, with a great astonishment.

Perhaps some copyist left off his task near the end of v. 4, came back to resume copying, and his eye picked up where he thought he left off, but he was at the end of v. 5 instead. The Sahidic Coptic reads "of her sexual immorality with those of the earth," and the Bohairic Coptic reads "...with all the earth." <sup>1287</sup> 17:8a The phrase "in the future is to" is from the Greek word μέλλω, which often means, but does not always mean "about to." Often in the New Testament it means "is destined to," which is part of the meaning here. And often it makes a simple future infinitive, by being used with an infinitive following, as is the case here. Bauer says this phrase, a combination of μέλλω followed by a present infinitive, replaced the future infinitive verb of Classical Greek. See also BDF §338(3), which says the same thing, but see BDF §356 about the "imminence" meaning of the paraphrasis of μέλλω followed by a present infinitive.

H. C. Hoskier says there is only one Greek ms that reads as the TR, ms 141 (now known as 2049), which he says is merely a copy of the TR (probably of Erasmus' 3rd or 4th edition). Thus, the TR has no Greek manuscript support for this reading, and no versional or Patristic support either. And on page 1:615, Hoskier says, "This MS 187 with 57 and 141 must not be accorded any weight whatsoever. They are brought into the record because of their very connection with the printed text." Hoskier further states this plainly in Text Volume 2, p. 156, lines 26,27, where he says "...57 et 141 ex ed. typ. exscripti." This means 57 and 141 are "copied from printed edition."

<sup>1291</sup> 17:13a The Greek word is gnōmē, which means what you have in mind, what you intend, what your purpose is. But it is not necessarily talking here about what the kings have in mind, (or what a one-world government has in mind) but what Satan and the beast have in mind, which providentially is also what God has in mind. Ultimately, these kings serve the purpose of God, the king of the ages. For from Him, and through Him, and to Him are all things. To God be the glory, for ever. Amen. Others think this means "these have one mind," in other words, they are in agreement with each other.

Fallen Is Babylon the Great

<sup>1</sup>After these things I saw another angel coming down out of heaven, having great authority, and the earth was lit up from his glory. <sup>2</sup>And he cried out in a powerful voice, saying, "Fallen! Fallen is Babylon the Great, and has become the dwelling place of demons and the haunt of every unclean spirit and the haunt of every unclean bird, and the haunt of every unclean and detestable beast,<sup>1293</sup> <sup>3</sup>because every nation has drunk<sup>1294</sup> of the wine of the wrath of her prostitution, and the kings of the earth have fornicated with her, and the merchants of the earth by virtue of her luxury have become rich."

<sup>4</sup>And I heard another voice from heaven saying, "Get out, O my people, out of her, so that you not be parties to her sins, and not receive of her plagues. <sup>5</sup>For her sins are piled<sup>1295</sup> all the way up to heaven, and God has remembered her crimes. <sup>6</sup>Deal back to her even as she dealt out, and pay to her double, as befits her deeds. <sup>1292</sup> 17:13b The Greek for "give" is in the present indicative. But this is sort of an "inverse infinitive of result." A kind of Semitism. In other words, there is a formula in Hebraistic Greek called an "infinitive of result," where kai followed by an infinitive in the Greek means in English a result, ie, "and then he will do such and such." Here the formula is solved in reverse: The Greek "and then they will do such and such" means in English an exegetical "and that is to do such and such." What they do, is what their one purpose was. And they do do it.

So now she is condemned to experience bad things, since she earlier had experienced only good things, compare Luke 16:25, where Abraham said to the rich man, "Son, recall that in your lifetime, you received your good things, while Lazarus likewise received his bad; so now here, he is comforted, and you are suffering." And Luke 6:24, 25: "But woe to you who are rich, because you have received your share of comfort. Woe to you who are well fed now, for you will go hungry. <sup>1300</sup> 18:12b The Greek says "thuonic wood." There was a "thun tree" that grew in north Africa. The most important property of this tree is that its wood was burnt in offerings in ceremonies. Furniture made out of its wood was in popular demand. Its resin was valued not only for ceremonial incense, but may have been medicinally used, as an anti-biotic, anti-fungal and anti-wart. Some say this was the citron tree, also grown in north Africa, and valued for its resin and durable wood. They claim that for the Jewish feast of Booths, there developed a custom, based on the command in Leviticus 23:40 to "take the fruit of the goodliest tree" the custom to use the cedar cone in the ceremonies. But then that the custom changed to using citron fruit, with the Greek name for cedar, kedron, held over and applied to the citron. And that the Greek word for cedar, κέδρον - kedron, was latinized into citron. I don't know how valid that is, since there was a specific Greek word for citron, κίτρον - kitron. And this word was said by Pamphilus to be a word borrowed from Latin. The citron tree does have aromatic resin that was valued. This passage in Revelation does not mention how thuonic wood was used, but it reminds me of the Greek word for offering, thumos. I am not convinced that the thun tree was the same as the citron tree. On the other hand, the Latin name thuja plicata, a kind of cedar with overlapping scale-like leaves, is said to be borrowed from the Greek word thun. There is a tree in North America called thuja plicata, also known as red cedar. Obviously, this could hardly be the tree meant here in Revelation. But what all these trees have in common is aromatic properties- resins and hydrocarbons, that could be used for offerings as a pleasing aroma.

<sup>1306</sup> 18:19 This Greek word timiotētos actually was sometimes used as a title of respectful address to a rich person. "Your Priceyness," or, "Your Preciousness." In this passage, the logic is that the traders and merchants would miss her because of her high prices, for where would you rather take your wares, to where they are accustomed to high prices, or to where they have low prices? You could accurately render the word here as "high prices." But this brings up another illustration of how the rich oppress the poor. Many a poor person has had his home demolished because of how it would adversely affect the high prices of the homes of his rich neighbors. And thus, the rich get richer, and the poor get poorer. There is no greater freedom a country can have than that each citizen be allowed to build a house that each can afford, no matter what quality, and own that house debt-free from the start. ## Chapter 19

Hallelujah!

<sup>1</sup>After these things I heard something like the sound of a very large multitude in heaven, saying, "Hallelujah! The salvation and glory and power of our God! <sup>2</sup>How true and right are his judgments! For he has judged the great prostitute who was destroying the earth with her prostitution, and has avenged the blood of his servants spilled by her hand."<sup>1310</sup>

<sup>3</sup>And a second time they said,<sup>1311</sup> "Hallelujah! And the smoke from her ascends for ever and ever."

<sup>4</sup>And the twenty-four elders and the four living beings fell down and worshiped God, the one sitting on the throne, saying, "Amen. Hallelujah!"

<sup>5</sup>And there came a voice from the throne, saying, "Praise our God, all you his servants, and<sup>1312</sup> you who fear him, both small and great."

<sup>6</sup>And I heard like the sound of a great multitude, and like the sound of many waters and like the sound of powerful thunderclaps, saying, "Hallelujah! For the Lord our God<sup>1313</sup> the Almighty has begun to reign. <sup>7</sup>Let us rejoice and exult, and give glory to him, for the wedding of the Lamb has come, and his wife has made herself ready; <sup>8</sup>and it was given to her that she be dressed in fine linen bright and clean, for the fine linen is the righteous acts of the saints."

<sup>9</sup>And he says to me, "Write: 'Blessed are those who are invited to the wedding banquet of the Lamb.'" And he says to me, "These are true words from God."

<sup>10</sup>And I fell down before his feet to worship him. And he says to me, "Watch out! I am your fellow servant, and one of your brothers in having the testimony of Jesus. Worship God. For the testimony of Jesus is the spirit of prophecy."

Behold a White Horse

<sup>11</sup>And I saw heaven opened, and behold, a white horse, and the one sitting on it [called] faithful and true,<sup>1314</sup> and in righteousness he judges and makes war. <sup>12</sup>And his eyes are like<sup>1315</sup> flames of fire, and on his head many diadems, having a name written<sup>1316</sup> on them which no one knows but himself, <sup>13</sup>and he is clothed in a robe dipped in blood, and called by the name "the Word of God."

<sup>14</sup>And the armies that are in heaven are following him on white horses, dressed in bright, clean linen. <sup>15</sup>And from his mouth goes out a sharp<sup>1317</sup> sword, so that with it he might strike the nations, and then he himself will shepherd them with a rod of iron; and he himself will tread the press of the wine of the passion of<sup>1318</sup> the wrath of God the Almighty.<sup>1319</sup> <sup>16</sup>And he has a name written on his robe and on his thigh: King of Kings and Lord of Lords.

<sup>17</sup>And I saw an<sup>1320</sup> angel standing on the sun, and he cried out in a very great voice, saying, "To all the birds flying in mid-air, Come, gather toward the great feast of God, <sup>18</sup>that you may eat the flesh of kings, and the flesh of generals, and the flesh of the mighty, and the flesh of horses and of those riding on them; even the flesh of every sort, both free and slave, both the small and the great."

<sup>19</sup>And I saw the beast and the kings of the earth and their armies, gathered together to make war with the one sitting on the horse and with his army. <sup>20</sup>And the beast was arrested,<sup>1321</sup> and with him the false prophet who did the wonders before him by which he

The word καλούμενος, "called," is of doubtful authenticity because of the variety of its positions in the manuscripts. This is a principle of Textual Criticism, that a great variety of readings indicates dubiousness. If the word were not present in the Greek, the English copula would normally be supplied- "the one sitting on it was faithful and true." Yet to supply "was called" would not be out of the question.

<sup>1321</sup> 19:20c I believe it is important to use the word "arrested," because elsewhere the beast is called "the man of lawlessness." And also to remind us that the beast will be "Caesar." Yes, he will be the government, and we must remember that governments do break laws, and they will be held accountable for breaking laws. Sometimes we have a deceived those receiving the mark of the beast and worshiping his image. The two were thrown while living into the lake of fire burning with sulfur. <sup>21</sup>And the rest were killed by the sword which goes out from the mouth of the one sitting on the horse. And all the birds got fat off their flesh.

The One Thousand Years

<sup>1</sup>And I saw an angel coming down from heaven, holding the key to the abyss and a giant chain in his hand. <sup>2</sup>And he captured the dragon, the ancient serpent, which is the Devil and Satan, and bound him for a thousand years, <sup>3</sup>and cast him into the abyss, and closed and sealed it over him, so that he could no longer deceive the nations, until the end of the thousand years; after them he must be released for a short time.

<sup>4</sup>And I saw thrones, and they took their seat on them, and judgeship was given to them, that is, the souls of those beheaded because of the testimony of Jesus, and because of the word of God, and who did not worship the beast, neither the image of him, and did not take the mark on their forehead or on their limb. And they came to life, and reigned with Christ a thousand years. <sup>5</sup>(The rest<sup>1322</sup> of the dead did not come to life until the thousand years were finished.)<sup>1323</sup> This is the first resurrection. <sup>6</sup>Blessed and holy is he who takes part in the first resurrection; over such, the second death has no power, but instead they shall be priests of God and of Christ, and shall reign with him a thousand years.

The Last War

<sup>7</sup>And when the thousand years are finished, Satan shall be released from his prison, <sup>8</sup>and he shall go forth to deceive the nations which are in the four points of the earth, Gōg and Magōg,<sup>1324</sup> to gather them together for war, the number of them being as the sand of the seashore. <sup>9</sup>And they rose up over the breadth of the earth, and surrounded the company of the saints and the beloved city. And fire came down from heaven<sup>1325</sup> and consumed them. <sup>10</sup>And the Devil, the deceiver of them, was cast into the lake of fire and

The Great White Throne of Judgement

<sup>11</sup>And I saw a great white throne, and the one sitting on it, from whose face the earth and the heaven fled away, and their place was found no more. <sup>12</sup>And I saw the dead, the great and the small,<sup>1326</sup> standing before the throne, and books were opened. Another book was also opened, which is the book of life. And the dead were judged from what was written in the books, according to their works. <sup>13</sup>And the sea gave up the dead which were in it, and Death and Hades gave up the dead which were in them, and each was judged according to their works. <sup>14</sup>And Death and Hades were cast into the lake of fire. This is the second death, the lake of fire. <sup>15</sup>And if anyone was not found written in the book of life, he was cast into the lake of fire.

Chapter 21

The New Jerusalem

<sup>1</sup>And I saw a new heaven and a new earth; for the first heaven and first earth had vanished away, and the sea does not exist anymore. <sup>2</sup>And I saw the holy city, the new Jerusalem, coming down out of heaven from God, prepared as a bride made beautiful for her husband. <sup>3</sup>And I heard a great voice from the throne<sup>1327</sup> saying, "Behold, God's tent is with men. And he shall dwell with them, and they shall be his people, and he shall be their God;<sup>1328</sup> <sup>4</sup>and he shall wipe away every tear from their eyes. And death shall no longer exist, neither sadness, nor crying, nor pain, shall exist anymore. The<sup>1329</sup> former things have passed away."

It is difficult to decide whether εἰμι should be retained (as in 1:8) or omitted (as in 22:13, where only about ten minuscules read εἰμι). In order to represent the balance of probabilities it was decided to retain εἰμι in the text, but to enclose it within square brackets."

<sup>1333</sup> 21:8a Abhorrent, repugnant, extremely filthy and polluted, unclean ritually, all these are part of the history of the word.

<sup>1334</sup> 21:8b This Greek word phárma<sup>kos</sup> or pharmakeús (they mean pretty much the same) means in the Bible primarily a person who uses drugs and poisons to practice magic or sorcery. The druggist aspect can be clearly seen in the word itself, "pharmakos." The word in some classical literature also meant drug seller, though with the connotation of the medicinal v. pejorative meaning of drugs.

<sup>1335</sup> 21:9 This is significant that both the words wife and bride are used. Israel has been called the wife, and the church the bride, and here in the New Jerusalem we see both of them built into one. The twelve gates are the twelve tribes of Israel, and the twelve foundations are the twelve apostles of Jesus Christ. Is it a co-incidence that there are twenty-four elders?

Chapter 22

The River of Living Water

<sup>1</sup>And he showed me the river of the water of life, bright like crystal, flowing from the throne of God and of the Lamb <sup>2</sup>in the middle of its boulevard. And on either side of the river, the tree of life producing twelve fruits, according to the month each one yielding its fruit, and the leaves of the tree are for the healing of the nations.<sup>1346</sup> <sup>3</sup>And every accursed thing will no longer<sup>1347</sup> exist. And the throne of God and of the Lamb will be in it, and his servants will serve him, <sup>4</sup>and they will see his face,<sup>1348</sup> and his name will be on their foreheads. <sup>5</sup>And night will no longer<sup>1349</sup> exist, and they have no need for the light of a lamp or the light of a sun, because the Lord God will shine on<sup>1350</sup> them, and they will reign for ever and ever.

<sup>6</sup>And he said<sup>1351</sup> to me, "These words are trustworthy and true. Yes, the Lord, the God of the spirits of the prophets, he has sent his angel to show his servants what things must soon take place."

<sup>7</sup>"And behold, I am coming soon. Blessed is he who keeps the words of the prophecy of this book."

<sup>8</sup>And I, John, was the hearer and the seer of these things. And when I heard and I saw, I fell down to worship before the feet of the angel who had been showing them to me. <sup>9</sup>And he says to me, "Watch it! I am a fellow servant of yours and of your brothers the prophets, and of those keeping the words of this book. Worship God."

<sup>1346</sup> 22:2c Compare Ezekiel 47:12, where it says "all kinds of fruit." Some interpreters see the δώδεκα "twelve" with a δωδεκάκις meaning, that is, "twelve times," see BDF § 248(3). If δώδεκα here means "monthly," then κατὰ μῆνα "according to the month" would seem redundant. "Monthly" is what is said in Ezekiel and also in Shemot r. 15, acc. to Lohmeyer, Hdb. ad loc. But καρποὺς "fruits" here is plural, and it seems to be saying that there are 12 different kinds of fruit (but all are "the tree of life"), and each different kind of fruit is borne in a different month. You could still have "12 kinds of fruits, every month each one yielding its fruit." But I don't know how "month" or "monthly" either one, could be literal, since there will be no more night or day. How then would there still be "months" if there is no more night or day, and there is no need for a sun anymore?

<sup>1347</sup> 22:3 txt "exist no longer" Ⲡ<sup>2</sup> A P TR RP NA27 {} // "not exist there" syr<sup>ph</sup> // omit Ⲡ* // hiat C. Compare 22:5. Affecting this and other variants in Revelation is the scribes' and the interpreters' understanding of passages such as 22:15, "Outside are the dogs, etc." If one understands that passage to mean that there will still be wicked and accursed people on the earth at that time, only not allowed into the city, then you might want to specify here that no accursed thing will be "there" in the city itself. But if you understand that "outside" to not be spatially literal, but rather global, that they will not even be in the kingdom even outside the city, then the "no longer" variant is more acceptable. One wonders too, concerning the similar phrase in 22:5 a couple verses later, how or whether these two pulled on each other. English translations vary greatly as to which variant, "no longer" versus "there," that they follow (several even conflate the two). They also vary greatly as to whether the phrase πάν κατὰ θέμα means "any curse" or "any accursed thing." I went with the latter because Revelation shows a distinct concern with Jewish cleanness.

<sup>1348</sup> 22:4 Or possibly, with "see his face" as a Hebraism, meaning: "and they will have access to Him."

The UBS textual commentary points out that the two main variants were similar sounding words in Greek, and that "The latter reading appears to be a scribal emendation, for elsewhere the author uses the expression [to keep the commandments] (12:17; 14:12). [and not "doing" as here] 'Moreover, the prepossessions of the scribes would have favoured [doing the commandments] rather than [washing the robes]' (H. B. Swete, in loc.)." This idea of clean robes is consistent with Daniel 12:10 and Matthew 22:11-14. The combination of the uncials & A 052 (1678, 1778, 2080 are descended from 052) is overwhelming here, opposed by only one uncial, 046, which is famously revised in character.

manuscripts. A plausible theory as to the origin of the reading is that it is probably from the Latin, and maybe confusion of libro and ligno. Proof that Erasmus got this "book" reading from the Latin is the fact that his one Greek Revelation manuscript, 2814, formerly known as No. 1, had an exact sister manuscript not known to him at the time, and this manuscript, 2186 (208), did not lack the end verses. And here in 22:19, that sister manuscript reads "tree" not "book." And at the bottom of page 1:615, Hoskier says, "This MS 187 with 57 and 141 must not be accorded any weight whatsoever. They are brought into the record because of their very connection with the printed text." Moreover, there should remain no doubt that Erasmus himself admitted that his TR Greek text of Revelation 22:16-21 was from Latin sources and not Greek. Erasmus wrote: "There was no doubt that some things were missing, and it was not much. Therefore we completed the Greek from our Latin texts, so that there might be no gap. We did not want to hide this from the reader, however, and acknowledge in the Annotationes what we had done, in order that, if our words differed in some respect from those that the author of this work had provided, the reader who obtained a manuscript could restore them." See Jan Krans' book "Beyond What is Written, Erasmus and Beza as Conjectural Critics of the New Testament," pp. 55-57, Brill, (2006), in which he cites sources in Erasmus' writings. Both the words ἀμήν and ναί mean something like "yes," and so I think they were both liturgical additions to an original ἔρχου standing alone. The & reading is bolstered by another uncial, 052, in the form of its minuscule descendants 1678 1778, plus with the very good minuscules 2053 2062 2186 2329 added to them. This consortium is at least as good as A 046, and certainly better than 051<sup>supp</sup> as a lone uncial. The 922 reading is simply a mistaking of NAI for KAI. I think that the & reading is probably correct. At the same time, I am loathe to remove the word Amen, because it is so natural- my soul immediately exclaims it in response to the statement "Yes, I am coming soon." But that may be another explanation as to how and why it got added as text: perhaps an enthusiastic remark in the margin eventually made it into the text itself.

Revelation Endnote #1

"Angel" of each of the seven churches, or "messenger?"

The phrase "angel of" can mean the angel "in charge of" as in the following:

There was an "angel of the waters" in Rev. 16:5.

Angels of children in Matt. 18:10.

Angel of the fire, Rev. 14:18

Angel of the censer 8:3

Angel of the Abyss, 9:11

There is nothing unusual about God using an angel to deliver a message to humans. There are many, many such instances elsewhere in the Bible. Why not here? And according Hebrews 13:2, people have entertained angels without knowing it. Indeed, angels in the Old Testament often appeared as humans; see Gen. 16:7; 19:1; and many others.

The spies are called angels in James 2:25

The angel Gabriel, in Daniel 9:21, communicates between Daniel and God. In Daniel 10:12-14, Gabriel tells Daniel that in the process of delivering Daniel's prayers, an angel, or fallen angel to be exact, whom he called the "prince of the kingdom of Persia, hindered him in delivering those prayers, but Michael, whom he calls "one of the chief princes" and whom we know is an angel, helped Gabriel. The point I am making is that there was "an angel of Persia," that is, a fallen angel in charge of Persia. So also there was a "Prince of Greece," in Daniel 10:20. This is left over from when Satan used to be an archangel along with Michael and Gabriel. They set angels over certain territories in their military planning.

Angel acts as messenger in Rev. 1:1; 22:6, 16.

It does not make sense for the messengers of each church to be a man. Because the churches had more than one pastor in each church, they are always mentioned in the plural:

When they had ordained elders in every church, Acts 14:23.

Elders of the church in Ephesus, Acts 20:17

Ordain elders in every city, Titus 1:5

Let him call for the elders of the church, James 5:14.

I Peter 5:1,2, "The elders among you I exhort, overseers of the flock..." Here Peter equates elders, presbuteroi, with overseers, episkopoi "bishops."

Acts 20:28, (see 20:17, elders of the church of Ephesus, 20:28, Paul now calls them overseers, episkopoi, so Paul also equates presbuteroi with episkopoi.

Philippians 1:1, the church there has plural overseers.

Titus 1:5, 7 Paul says appoint elders...for an overseer is... Paul again equates an elder with an overseer.

We can say that the office of elder and the office of overseer are the same office. The overseers should naturally be somewhat elder, especially elder in the faith (I Timothy 3:6, he must not be a recent convert) and one of their main functions is to both oversee and to visit; both meanings of episkopew.

Why not an angel in charge of each church in Asia. It would not be unreasonable to assume that there is a fallen angel in charge of each church as well, representing Satan's interests.

Revelation Endnote #2

Revelation 7:6, 8

In this list of the sons of Israel, as pertaining to the 144,000, 12,000 called from each tribe of Israel, Joseph is represented twice, as his own name in verse 8, and also by way of his son Manasseh in verse 6. Israel had only 12 sons, so if Joseph is represented twice, that means that one of the other sons of Israel is missing here. Dan is missing.

Jacob's blessing of Dan:

Genesis:

49:16 Dan shall judge his people, as one of the tribes of Israel.

49:17 Dan shall be a serpent in the way, an adder in the path, that bites the horse's heels, so that his rider falls backward.

49:18 I have waited for your salvation, O Yahweh.

Recall similar language about the Serpent- Biting heels Attacking the rider on the horse Does Jacob seem to be wanting Deliverance from Dan? Jacob waits for Salvation from Dan is what I think it means. Recall also that Satan is called the Accuser of the Brethren. Dan could be a judge in this sense.

Jacob's blessing of Joseph:

Genesis:

49:22 Joseph is a fruitful bough, a fruitful bough by a fountain; his branches run over the wall.

49:23 The archers have sorely grieved him, and shot at him, and persecute him:

49:24 But his bow abode in strength, and the arms of his hands were made strong, by the hands of the Mighty One of Jacob, (From there is the shepherd, the stone of Israel), 49:25 Even by the God of your father, who shall help you, and by the Almighty, who shall bless you, with blessings of heaven above, blessings of the deep that crouches beneath, blessings of the breasts, and of the womb.

49:26 The blessings of your father have prevailed above the blessings of my progenitors to the utmost bound of the everlasting hills: They shall be on the head of Joseph, and on the crown of the head of him that was separate from his brothers.

Moses' blessing of Dan:

Deuteronomy 33:22 "And of Dan he said, Dan is a lion's whelp, That leaps forth from Bashan."

Recall Psalm 22 "bulls of Bashan surround me..."? The Bull is sometimes a symbol of Satan. Baal-zibbul. Jesus was mocked by bulls of Bashan as he suffered on the cross. Bashan was the territory of Dan.

Moses' blessing of Joseph:

33:13 And of Joseph he said, Blessed of Yahweh be his land, for the precious things of heaven, for the dew, and for the deep that crouches beneath,

33:14 And for the precious things of the fruits of the sun, and for the precious things of the growth of the moons,

33:15 And for the chief things of the ancient mountains, and for the precious things of the everlasting hills,

33:16 And for the precious things of the earth and the fulness thereof, and the good will of him that dwelt in the bush. Let the blessing come upon the head of Joseph, and upon the crown of the head of him that was separate from his brothers.

33:17 The firstling of his herd, majesty is his; and his horns are the horns of the wild-ox: with them he shall push the peoples all of them, even the ends of the earth: and they are the ten thousands of Ephraim, And they are the thousands of Manasseh.

God's curse on the serpent:

Genesis 3:14 And Yahweh God said to the serpent, because you have done this, cursed are you above all cattle, and above every beast of the field; upon your belly shall you go, and dust shall you eat all the days of your life:

3:15 and I will put enmity between you and the woman, and between your seed and her seed: he shall bruise your head, and you shall bruise his heel.

David:

109:8 Let his days be few; and let another take his office.

109:9 Let his children be fatherless, and his wife a widow.

109:10 Let his children be vagabonds, and beg; and let them seek their bread out of their desolate places.

109:11 Let the extortioner catch all that he has; and let strangers make spoil of his labor.

109:12 Let there be none to extend kindness unto him; neither let there be any to have pity on his fatherless children.

109:13 Let his posterity be cut off; in the generation following let their name be blotted out.

Ezekiel 47:13 "Thus saith the Lord Yahweh: This shall be the border, whereby ye shall divide the land for inheritance according to the twelve tribes of Israel: Joseph shall have two portions."

Genesis 49:22, of Joseph: "His branches run over the wall."

This means Joseph went over the wall and took Dan's inheritance. That is what the wall signifies; the stone boundary between lots.
